Kendrick said new intercounty import regulations have encouraged the executive to make one more effort to keep the Leafs operating. Earlier it was announced that the franchises would not be used next season.

It is expected that an attempt will be made to raise $6,000 to wipe out debts and provide funds for operations in the spring.

Kendrick also announced that George O'Addario, Leafs coach for the last two seasons, will not be back next year.

K-W Greenshirts Start Winning After 'Prodigal Sons' Return

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener -Waterloo Greenshirts didn't waste any time getting back into the swing of things in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Welcoming back several of their regulars who were tickeled for Quebec after the start of the season, Kitchener franchise to Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, the Shirts celebrated with a 7-4 victory over the Black Hawks in Galt Saturday.

The victory ended the four-game nightmare existence during the absence of most of their first-string players. In the four games the Greenshirts allowed 17 goals against them while scoring 10.

Now they're on the road to prolonging the hot streak they had before the sale of the team. In their last seven games before the purchase, the Shirts had five victories and one tie. The OHA said the four losses would be erased from the statistics.

CITS SCORE UPSET

The upset of the week-end, however, was the 2-0 shutout Quebec Citadels handed Toronto St. Michaels in Toronto Sunday. The victory lifted the Citadelles out of the league cellar.

An 8-4 decision by St. Michael's Collegiate Bluemen over the Dufferin Bluemores in the second half of the Toronto Knobblesoder rounded out Saturday's schedule. The win defeat dropped the Bilmores into last place.

Trailing 1-0 at the end of the first period, the Shirts took advantage of Galt penalties for four goals in the second stanza.

Glen Cressman scored two for Kitchener with Jackie Gregg going to Greg Hicks, Bud Hillman and Gary Collins, Bob Wilson, John Skinner, Neil McDonald and Hec Lalonde tallied for Galt. Lalonde scored on a penalty shot.

TOP NETMINDING

A new netminder made the difference for Quebec in Toronto Sunday. Goalminder Jacques Caignery wouldn't be beaten even though the Citadelles were outplayed most of the game.

Pat Prestley scored the winner for Quebec in the third period while Marlboros were shorthanded. Clermont Doyon added the final goal into an empty Toronto net 25 seconds before the end of the game.

In the second game St. Michael's took a 4-2 edge before the end of the second session and scored four more in the third before Guelph rounded out the total.

Jack Caffery and Ken Gribbons each scored two for St. Michael's. Dick Duff, Les Duff, Marc Reaume and Jim Logan also scored in the fourth consecutive Irish victory.

Bill McCreavy and Chick Chalmers scored for Guelph.

Barrie Flyers visit Kitchener Tuesday while Marlboros are at Quebec and Guelph is at St. Catharines TeePees.

Toronto Girl Badminton Victor

KITCHENER (CP) — Margaret Shedd of the Toronto Carlton Club won three events in the Kitchener-Waterloo Granite Club's fifth annual international invitation badminton tournament here during the week-end.

She defeated clubmate Joan Hennessy 11-7, 11-6 in the singles and combined with her singles opponent to win the doubles event 15-4, 15-10 over Joan Warren and Maureen Bray of Toronto.

She then teamed up with another clubmate, Bill Purcell, to win the mixed doubles over Don Smythe of Toronto and Joan Hennessy 31-3, 11-15, 15-7.

Smythe failed to defeat Bobby Williams of Niagara Falls 11-15, 17-14, 15-7 in the men's singles final. Smythe paired with Bud Porter of Toronto to win the men's doubles over Ron Brewer of Woodstock and George Thorpe of Hamilton 15-4, 15-12.

Ottawa Senators Top Team In Quebec League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Results of Quebec Hockey League games during the week-end did little to straighten out the scramble for top positions.

Ottawa Senators remained in first place by tying 1-1 with Springfield Indians at Ottawa Saturday while Quebec Aces licked the Indians 3-1 in Quebec Sunday to move into a second-spot tie with Sherbrooke Saints.

Chicoutimi Saguenceens licked the Saints 12-3 in Sherbrooke Sunday to come within one point of second-place.

In fourth spot are Montreal Royals, Valleyfield Braves and Springfield. The Braves blanked Chicoutimi 3-0 at home Saturday and defeated Royals 4-3 in Montreal Sunday.

At Ottawa Saturday, Sheldon Bloomer counted for Springfield and Bep Guidolin for Ottawa. Sunday, Ray Hamilton and Erwin Grosse scored for Quebec while Ron Ingram tallied for Ottawa.

Jacques Locas and Jimmy Moore both scored three goals in Chicoutimi's rout of the Saints. Pete Thuck scored two and Germain Lebrun, Normie Pinsonault, Lou Smrke and Georges Roy one each. Joe Malo, Ed Stankiewicz and Bob McLean were the Saints' scorers.

Harry Kwong's two first-period tallies were enough to earn the Braves a 2-0 shutout over Chicoutimi Saturday. Sunday, Kwong, Jean-Paul Bisaillon, Jack Irvine, and Dewey Stevenson netted a goal each for the Braves. Orval Tessier scored two and Paul Meger one for the Royals.

Goodyears Trim Truckers 4-2

Kingston Goodyears defeated the Oshawa Truckmen 6-2 on Saturday night on the latter's ice in Bowmanville.

The victory gives the Goodyears eighteen points ny nine victories. They now share the top hung of the senior "B" ladder with the slipping Truckmen who have lost their last five starts.

The Goodyears meet the Memos here on Tuesday night.

Bill Cook was playing for Saskatoon in the old Western Canada Hockey League 29 years ago tonight when he scored seven goals as Saskatoon beat Victoria 4-1. Bill turned professional two years later in 1926 to become one of the most rightwingers of all time on the formidable forward line of New York Rangers that had Frank Boucher at centre and brother Bun Cook at left wing.

♣A Q

South is the declarer at a contract of seven spades. He got up to the grand slam after learning the opponents held both black kings. So, if he runs into trouble he should not be surprised.

The opening lead from west is the heart queen. When dummy's hand is faced on the table what would a skilled player think of? Find both black kings in the east hand or expect trouble.

Simply finding both black kings in east is not enough. Plans to capture both kings must be made. To do this there must be plenty of entries to dummy, or plenty of entries must be made.

To pick up both such kings may need two finesses in each black suit. This calls for four entries to dummy. How is he going to get there four times?

South does not stuff in dummy and let the first lead run to his south top. Instead, he ruffs in dummy and kills his own king. A trump from dummy is promptly finessed by south's ten of spades.

The heart ace is led and ruffed in dummy; killing a beautiful card. The last dummy trump is returned and finessed with south's spade jack. When the spade ace is cashed east's trump king is picked up.

Two big south diamonds are cashed. Another big south diamond is overtaken with dummy's ace, a club is finessed. The small south diamond is taken with dummy's five. Another club is finessed. South takes the last two tricks with the club ace and a trump. How were all 13 tricks taken? Only with the help of trumping your own good aces or their equivalent.

Lay that pistol down, babe.

No Cellophane Combine Rules Delaware Judge

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — United States district court judge Paul Leahy ruled today that the cellophane operations of the Du Pont company was not a monopoly or conspiracy in restraint of trade as charged by the government.

Leahy dismissed the complaint, filed six years ago under the anti-trust laws by the U. S. justice department. He said that the E. I. Du Pont de Nemours and Co., Inc. —America's largest chemical-making firm—should not "be punished for its success."

Specifically the government accused Du Pont of:

Controlling manufacture and sale of cellophane, limiting production, excluding competition, fixing prices, retaining tight hold on patents.

Judge Leahy said "the facts destroy the charges."

Aviation Firm's Strike Settled

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Settlement of the strike at North American Aviation, Inc., which began nearly seven weeks ago, was announced today by a company spokesman.

The company made the final offer on a two increase offer of four per cent—eight to 20 cents an hour. The CIO-United Auto Workers Union originally asked 36 cents, then scaled down the demand to 20 cents for skilled workers, 19 cents for others. Hourly rate wages ranged from $1.42 to $2.32 an hour

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, DEC. 15, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Highly generous you are for you who work hard, think intelligently and forget self and personalities in working out tasks. Get to the crux of things; don't waste time, energy on non-essentials.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Though your aspects have improved somewhat, you will have to co-operate and be thoroughly honest in dealings to get ahead. Be enterprising in the heavy, irksome tasks, too.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Bend to your duties and don't yield to feelings of anxiety. Hypersensitivity should be avoided, too. Don't mind interruptions. Reasoners encouraged; conversation which gives them new ideas.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Prospects brighter than you suppose. Be ready to jump in and do your best without faltering or resting. Good nature and a kindly disposition are hard to resist.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — You are innately jovial, fun-loving, and like a joke. You get along with most but must watch a tendency to be overenthusiastic, too forceful. Incredible things can be accomplished through sincere, kindly effort.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Heart interests as well as business matters should progress satisfactorily, but you will have to co-operate. You are one who seldom kicks over the traces; don't be tempted unwisely now.

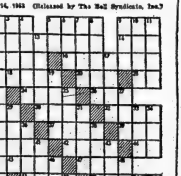
September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—To plans conservatively and follow through consistently; let there be no letdown in ambition. With proper management, sensible manipulation of affairs, returns should be favorable. Romance rates.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—You can go far if mindful of your weaknesses. If you listen well and profit by experiences—yours and others'. Tasks may not seem easy but they can be made more so through proper approach.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Because things aren't breaking "just so" does not mean that you can't master them. Don't crawl into a shell of defeatism, but step up your energy and will to achieve and you'll see a change for the better.

December 24 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Be realistic, consistent and not too forceful. No one likes to be pushed around or criticized needlessly. Make a good survey of problems first; let essentials precede personal feelings.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Be sagacious in business and personal dealings today. Vibrations run against those who may be insincere. Do nothing that may give a wrong impression of yourself.



February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Use as your keynote this day the admonition to "live-and-let-live." Another suggestion: don't say "I" too many times. Avoid hurrying and worrying; concentrate on vital matters.

YOU BORN TODAY are more serious than many. Your philosophical mind and usually calm temperament give you many advantages. You have a taste for research, natural science; make excellent salesmen, buyers, traders, managers. You can make and hold friends; are magnetic, can entertain and could handle a public position. Avoid bluntness; sidestep unquestionable company, schemes. If you are sensitive, remember that others are, too.

CZECHS REJECT DONATIONS

SCHIRNDING, Germany (AP)—Communist Czech authorities refused to accept a shipment of 40 washing machines and two tons of sugar flakes donated for America can firms for needy families in Czechoslovakia, German railway officials said Friday night. A German freight car containing the shipment left this Bavarian border station last Saturday but was refused by the Czechs without explanation.

END PORT WALKOUT

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters)—Port workers on strike here since Thursday to support demands for higher pay, work bonuses and provision of vacation periods, resumed work Friday night. Their action ended a strike which was called off for 15 days on assurance from a government conciliation officer that there would be no victimization and that their demands would be considered Tuesday.

Seaman Lost Overboard From Escorting Vessel

ABOARD S.S. GOTHIC (CP)—A note of sadness has touched this ship carrying the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh across the calm Pacific on their Commonwealth tour.

Friday night a seaman was lost overboard, reported the New Zealand naval escort vessel Black Prince which that day had relieved from escort duty the British cruiser Sheffield.

The Gothic turned about and joined the Black Prince in a fruitless search for the 20-year-old sailor. Searchlights failed to find any trace of him in the then choppy seas.

The Queen sent a message to the New Zealand naval board expressing concern at the mishap. The message said:

"I am greatly distressed to learn of the loss of Ordinary Seaman Marryatt from HMNZS Black Prince while transferring to the Gothic. Please convey to his relatives my heartfelt sympathy in their loss. Elizabeth R."

The Queen and the Duke watched Sunday as a New Zealand naval chaplain, Rev. G. F. Senior, was transferred from the Black Prince to the Gothic to conduct morning service.

Rev. Senior made the transfer standing on a "stirrup" pulled on board between the vessels 20 feet above the blue ocean.

Attlee Would Neutralize Both Formosa, Korea

NEW YORK (AP)—Clement Attlee says he believes both Korea and Formosa should be neutralized to allay Chinese and American fears they may be used as bases for attacks.

Writing in the American quarterly magazine Foreign Affairs, the British Labor party leader reiterates his previously declared view that Red China should be seated in the United Nations Security Council "as soon as support for aggression has ceased."

Attlee says he recognizes fully the American fear that Korea and Formosa, if they went to Communist hands, might become springboards for a Red attack on the United States. He adds he equally recognizes the Nationalist fears of China and says:

"My view is that the only solution is that they (Korea, and Formosa) should be neutralized."

Defiant Judge Presides Alone In German Court

FRANKFURT (AP)—Suspended Chief Justice William Clark presided defiantly—and alone—today in the U. S. appeals courtroom in Germany.

Continuing his opposition to state department orders suspending him for insubordination and dismissing him Jan. 8 as "surplus," the judge took his seat to photographers and reporters, while two cases argued briefly and said he will not hold court Monday.

"There wouldn't be any point in doing it all over again," he added.

He said also he had not yet decided whether to appear for duty Jan. 18 when Acting Chief Justice Carl W. Fulghum of Glenwood Springs, Colorado, named by the state department to succeed Clark, has scheduled the court's next session.

Clark contends he was ordered fired because of his frequent criticism of U. S. high commission policy in Germany. He asserts he can be ousted only for a legal reason.

Practised 50 Years

CORNWALL (CP)—Dr. A. J. LaLonde 73, a practising physician about 50 years, died Sunday. He suffered a stroke last Monday.

He was graduated from Queen's University in 1904. He first practised in New York City and later at Portneuf, Que., coming to Cornwall in 1910.

Little Benny's Note Book

I came back from the market with 13 cents change, 13 being famous for an unlucky number and giving me a idea, and I put the groceries on the kitchin table and stood there counting my 2 scaling potatoes, and after a while I said, Hey ma, do you believe in 13 being unlucky number?

Yes indeed, ma said. I'd think I was very unlucky if I was 13 years older, and if that telefone rings 13 more times with somebody asking for the wrong number, I cant think of anything unlucker, except perhaps having 13 children, all looking silly questions, she said, and I said, Well aw heck, no I mean about money? Do you think 13 would be unlucky amount of money to get suddinly? I said.

Well yes, I really do, ma said. Making money is the feel lucky, and I said G, do you?

Oh, yes, ma said. If somebody suddinly left me 13 million dollers, I'm sure I wouldn't know what to do with it all, and the very thought of all those taxes gives me the unlucky chills, she said, and I said, But jimr—

I wouldn't have to be 12 millions. There's a lot ....

Well, that's true, there's 13 cents, to go from the sub..ject to ...pertical, ma said. So just suppose you keep one cent and hand over the other 12, and then I would have anything to worry about, she said.

Proving she was as smart as I was and maybe smarter, and after a big argument she let me keep 2.

Making me fell a little less unlucky, but nothing to brag about.

HAD STORY REJECTED

CAIRO (Reuters) — A former Egyptian interior minister, on trial here for corruption and abuse of power, Sunday told a revolutionary court how he planned to blow up a British army with a mine in 1952. His story was rejected by the court which said he had said that he himself had taken part in the mine plot and claimed the accused politicians had done nothing to but hinder it.

Says Russians Made Attempt To Climb Everest

TOCKHOLM (AP) — A noted Swedish explorer said Sunday a Russian expedition tried a year ago to scale 29,002-foot Mount Everest, world's highest peak, but failed and lost six dead climbers behind.

Andreas Feldberg, 39, Swedish alpinist and leader of a Swedish-Italian expedition to the South American Andes in 1952, told the Stockholm newspaper Svenska Dagbladet the Russians made a well-planned attempt in the fall of 1952 to beat the British climbers to the peak, situated on the Tibet-Nepal border.

Last May a British party headed by Col. John Hunt made the first successful ascent to the top of Everest. Two members of Hunt's party who actually reached the peak were Edmund Hillary, New Zealand beekeeper, and Tenzing Nepalese guide.

Feldberg said the story of the unsuccessful Russian climb leaked through the Iron Curtain when two of the party's Tibetan guides, Ontain and Bathong, flew over the Himalaya mountains and reported to authorities in Katmandu, Nepal's capital.

Deaths of Queen Mary, Stalin Ended Eras in Both Countries

By LLOYD McDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The death of Joseph Stalin in 1953 brought a dramatic end to the Stalinist era of Soviet Russia. The year was young and the snows of the Russian winter sparkled under the lights of the Kremlin when the world heard on the night of March 5 that the enigmatic figure who had ruled for three decades was dead.

Another death, that of Queen Mary in London, ended an era. As the stately old lady passed from the scene, Britain, long harried by war and economic difficulties, stood on the threshold of the new Elizabethan age, with the pomp and color of the Coronation greeted as a symbol of brighter days ahead.

But the 86-year-old Queen did not live to see her grand - daughter crowned. A link between the golden age of Victoria and the new age of Elizabeth, she died March 24, with her last wish that the the June 2 Coronation go ahead as planned.

The year also brought death to other royalty and former royalty — Ex-King Carol of Romania, scapegrace Balkan monarch of the '20s, died in Estoril, Portugal, April 4, at the age of 59. King Ibn Saud, 77, Arab ruler of Arabia; prince Chichibu, 50, brother of Emperor Hirohito of Japan, died in Tokyo Jan. 4; Princess Irene of Prussia, sister of Germany's deposed Kaiser Wilhelm, died Nov. 15—by coincidence on the anniversary of the end of the war that ended the rule of both her brother and sister.

Bill Tilden, 60, who dominated tennis in the golden sports era of the '20s, died June 5. He was winner of the Davis Cup in seven of the half-century. Mrs. Constance Wilson Stakin, 42, five-time winner of the Canadian women's figure-skating title, died March 1 in Kansas City. Rocky Marciano, "Man Mountain Dean" who was a colorful figure in wrestling with his 319-pound frame and long flowing beard, died May 29 at 62. William Woodward, 72-year-old New York banker whose horses had won three Kentucky Derbies, died Sept. 26.

GREAT PLAYWRIGHT GONE

In the world of the arts, the American stage lost one of its greatest playwrights in Eugene O'Neill, who died Nov. 27 at age 65. He left behind two unpublished plays—with the stipulation that it not be produced until 25 years after his death. Lewis Stone, 73, long-time Hollywood character actor best known as the "Judge Hardy" of the family movie series, died Sept. 12.

Others who passed in the world of the arts who died in 1953 included Dylan Thomas, 39, Welsh poet; Nigel Bruce, 58, whose best-known role on stage and screen was Sherlock Holmes's friend Dr. Munn, 58, radio tenor who broadcast weekly for almost 20 years; author Jan Struther, 52, best known for "Mrs. Miniver"; Hilaire Belloc, 82, British author; Albert Spalding, 54, violinist; Raoul Dufy, 75, French modernist painter; Serge Prokoviefi, 61, Russian composer; Ben Ames Williams, 63, American novelist and magazine writer; Can Johnson, 58, American explorer and author.

Another link with Europe's vanished monarchies was the Duke of Alba, one of the Continent's wealthiest and most titled nobles. He died Sept. 24 at age 74.

MANY PEERS DIE

One of Britain's wealthiest peers, the Duke of Westminster, died July 19 at age 74. Only a few months before his death he had planned a huge development in British Columbia. Other prominent British peers who died in 1953 included the Duke of Abercorn, 83, long - time governor of Northern Ireland; the Duke of Bedford, 64, eccentric land-owner who died in a hunting accident Oct. 11; Lord Strabolgi, long prominent in the Labor party; Lord Kenilworth, 57, airplane and automobile manufacturer; and Lord Aberconway, head of the John Brown shipping firm that built the Cunard "Queen" liners. The leading designer of the "Queens," George McLeod Paterson, died Nov. 20 at the age of 62.

The world of sport lost several prominent figures. Jim Thorpe, named in the Associated Press poll as the greatest American athlete of the half-century, died March 28 at age 64. Mike Jacobs, 72, who ruled the boxing world for many years and promoted the great Joe Louis, died Jan. 24. James J. Jeffries, heavyweight champion many years ago, died March 3 at 77.

Robert A. Taft died July 31 at age 63. The Ohio senator, son of President William Howard Taft, was a powerful figure in the Republican party. A political boss in the New York Democratic party for many years, Edward J. Flynn, 61, died Aug. 17.

Charles A. Eaton, a native of Pugwash, N.S., who was the dean of the U.S. House of Representatives, died Jan. 24. Other American political figures who died in 1953 included Robert La Follette, Jr., former Wisconsin senator; Robert F. Wagner, 75, New Deal senator under Franklin D. Roosevelt and author of the Wagner labor act; Maurice Tobin, 52, secretary of labor under President Truman; Senator Charles W. Tobey, New Hampshire Republican senator, and Kim Sigler, 39, former Republican governor of Michigan, killed Nov. 30 in a plane crash.

MILITARY LEADERS DIE

Among the military deaths of 1953 was that of Field Marshal Gerd Von Runstedt, 77, whose "battle of the bulge" offensive in December, 1944, was Germany's last big attack of the Second World War. He died Feb. 24. Gen. Nicholas Plastiras, 69, Greek war hero and post-war premier, died July 26. Other military leaders who died in various countries included: Gen. Andre Corap 75, French infantry leader whose forces collapsed in 1940 when the Germans broke through; Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, 70, American hero of the Japanese capture of Bataan; Vice-Admiral Gordon Campbell, 67, VC-winning submarine hero of the First World War; Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, 75, Far East commander at the fall of Singapore who once was British air attache in Ottawa; Vice-Admiral Earl Granville, 72, uncle of the Queen; Lt. - Col. Michael Claude Hamilton Bowes-Lyon, 59, brother of Queen Mother Elizabeth.

PRESS LOSES LEADERS

Prominent newspaper men who died in 1953 included: Bert Andrews, 58, Pulitzer prize-winning New York Herald Tribune Washington correspondent; Clark Lee, 49, Far East correspondent; Don Ezequiel Paz, 81, former editor of the Buenos Aires La Prensa; Malcolm Bingay, 68, widely-read columnist for the Detroit Free Press; Athur George Waters, 65, editor of London's News of the World; Milt Gross, 56, cartoonist. Stefan Hannagen, one of the most published U.S. publicists, died Feb. 5 at 53.

Among other deaths of the year were: Mrs. Grace Wilson Vanderbilt, 82, American social leader of the early years of the century; Dr. Cyril Joad, British philosopher, 61; Hans Isbrantsen, 61, shipping magnate who was in the news during the Chinese Nationalist attack on his Flying Arrow and Capt.

MARMORA

Trent Valley Hockey Results

MARMORA—Two fast games of hockey were witnessed on the Marmora rink on Friday evening in pre-season Trent Valley fixtures. Campbellford and Frankford first battled it out in a game that was evenly-fought until Campbellford squeezed out a 4-3 win.

Campbellford had the breaks in the first when they led by 3-1. Payne getting two goals and Free one to which Seymark replied on Foster's assist. Wilson took the puck from Simpson early in the second to end Campbellford's scoring for the night.

Frankford lowered their margin as Cooke netted from Locke and Foster beat Nelson the Campbellford goalie on assists from Seymark and Courtney. The score was unchanged in the third when Frankford on a few occasions came within an ace of equalizing.

In the second game Wellington extended themselves as they overran Point Anne by the score of 8-1. Carley, Garrison and Cousins topped the scoring for Wellington the former having three goals and assist and Cousins two goals and one assist. Garrison also found the net twice. Day got the other counter. Strachan got Point Anne's lone counter two minutes before the second period closed.

Just before the end of the game Bryant of Wellington and Stewart of Point Anne were penalized for fighting. Otherwise although play was fast, only a few minor penalties were occasioned. Bob Scriver of Hastings and Roy Moss of Marmora were referees and kept games under good control.

The attendance was the best for a double header in which no Marmorans were involved and was over four hundred.

Indians Will End Custody Of PoW Jan. 22--Thimayya

Says Nehru Has Clarified His Stand on Status of PoW

Europe Is Warm, Fog Grounds British Planes

LONDON (AP) — A thick fog gripped most of southern England today, grounding planes, disrupting shipping and slowing road and rail traffic.

Unseasonal temperatures warmed much of western Europe.

In Switzerland, tourist officials and hotel keepers saw their winter sports hopes go up in smoky belief a continuing warm southerly breeze. Every Swiss ski resort is completely snowless for the first time since December, 1932.

Berlin and Austria, however, today had freezing temperatures and prospects of a white Christmas.

Nor-egians either basked or shivered. Oslo temperatures were the highest for December in 75 years but farther inland and along the Russian border it was below freezing.

In Britain, France, Denmark, Sweden, the Netherlands and Italy, temperatures were above the pre-Christmas normal.

By STAN CARTER

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya today said Indian troops will not retain custody of war prisoners who have refused to go home after Jan. 22—clearing the way for their release as civilians.

The Korean armistice provides that unrepatriated prisoners shall be released 120 days after they were turned over to Indian custody —or Jan. 22. The Communists, however, have argued that the prisoners should be held in Korea's neutral zone until a peace conference decides their fate.

Thimayya said in an interview that Indian troops will have to have approval of both the Communists and the Allies to keep custody of the prisoners after Jan. 22 deadline.

Thimayya is chairman of the neutral nations repatriation commission which supervises the almost 23,000 Chinese, Korean, American and British PoWs who have refused repatriation.

CUSTODY ENDS

"As the agreement stands, my legal responsibility ends on Jan. 22[1]," Thimayya said. "Either both sides must authorize us to continue or our legal custody ceases."

Prime Minister Nehru of India has been quoted as saying that if the political conference is not held, the Allies and United Nations command must agree on what should be done with the prisoners. It was understood here yesterday that Nehru meant the Indians would keep custody of the prisoners even if the two sides reach an agreement.

But Thimayya told reporters today:

"The prime minister clarified it to us."

U.S. SUGGESTION

The U.S. suggested the 23,000,000 bushel limitation and noted that Canada supplies nearly half the U.S. oats imports.

Canada agreed to the quota, though it "attaches the greatest importance to the extension of mutually profitable trade between the two countries and to avoidance of restrictions which would interfere with such trade."

The Canadian note added: "The Canadian government wishes to make clear that it will reconsider the decision . . . in the event that substantial quantities of oats are imported into the U.S. from other countries during the period in question."

Mr. Howe said "it is not a limitation which should cause significant concern to the producers of oats during the short period it is in effect. Only we got no comparable past supply in Canada."

Canada reaped a 466,000,000 bushel oat crop in 1952, of which about 373,000,000 bushels were used in Canada. In 1951, the crop was 405,500,000 bushels.

CANADA CUTTING OATS EXPORTS TO UNITED STATES

Will Limit Shipments To 23 Million Bushels

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has agreed, reluctantly, to cut oats exports to the United States by about half next year.

The decision, announced Monday in the Commons by Trade Minister Howe, will limit shipments of Canadian oats to the U.S. to 23,000,000 bushels between Dec. 11, 1953, and Oct. 1, 1954. In the corresponding 1952-53 period, Canada exported about 200,000,000 bushels.

Mr. Howe said the government had been forced to make this decision "as the lesser of evils," it followed a recommendation to President Eisenhower by the U.S. tariff commission that because of domestic surpluses and U.S. price support programs, imports should be restricted.

Mr. Howe tabled an exchange of correspondence with the provinces and noted that the matter had been discussed at a preliminary meeting in Paris of the newly-formed Canada-U.S. joint economic and trade committee.

Hollinger Rejects Provincial Plan to End Mine Strike

TIMMINS (CP)—Hollinger Con-cused the operators of Hollinger solidated Gold Mines has rejected a government-backed plan to end a strike by 1,300 of its workers.

An official of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), which called the strike 13 weeks ago to enforce demands for a "substantial" wage increase and the checkoff of union dues, said Monday night the union is prepared to continue the walkout until next summer if necessary.

The Settlement proposal, accepted last week by the union and turned down Monday by Hollinger president Jules Timmins, called for a general wage increase of five cents an hour and the setting up of a provincially-appointed committee to probe into the economics of the gold mining industry.

Mr. Timmins said the company wants a two-year contract rather than the one-year term proposed by the union and is not prepared to agree to a proposal that workable conditions "remain in status quo."

MINISTER DISAPPOINTED

Labor Minister Daley said Monday night the company's past practice of depositing cheques in banks for check-off of union dues of employees was one of the things he hoped to see changed in the bargaining for the "status quo." The union had requested it should arrange for the banks to switch dues from the workers' to the union's account.

Mr. Daley said he was disappointed by the company's rejection, which, he said, the union official, Monday night described as an act of nose-thumbing at Premier Frost and the provincial government.

"I'm going to see some more people," said Mr. Daley. "I'm going to see if I can't change their thinking."

Mr. Park, addressing the Toronto Labor Council (CIO-CCL), assured the delegates that the union's executive and negotiating committee would not retain custody of war prisoners who have refused to go home after Jan. 22—clearing the way for their release as civilians.

It was 35-degree weather in many southern Ontario cities, but Halifax recorded 57. This topped the previous high of 52 degrees Dec. 15, 1897.

Moncton recorded 46 degrees, two better than the 1916 record, and Fredericton, 44, reported 35 degrees, compared to the previous 30 degrees in 1918.

Weather officials said the Maritimes' warm weather won't last. The warm air there will be replaced by cooler air from the east by Wednesday.

Meanwhile, clear skies with scattered snow are predicted for Ontario today, after a snow and sleet storm which snarled traffic and contributed to at least three deaths Monday.

Alexander Muir, 49, died after his automobile skidded on wet pavement in Hamilton and crashed into a tree. Another driver, 20, was fatally injured near Bathurst, N.B., while trying to free a logging truck that rolled in the snow. At the height of a snowstorm at Barrie, 55 miles north of Toronto, Mrs. Maude Gibbons, 50, was killed in a collision.

The storm swept northward from the Mississippi valley and brought rain and wet snow. The wintry weather extended from the Great Lakes region, which had a snowfall of up to 12 inches, to the East Coast where Monday afternoon snow turned to heavy rain and where continuing snowy and windy weather was forecast.

In Toronto, which previously had had only one snowstorm this season, travel difficulties were compounded by power failures which paralyzed streetcar service in parts of the east end of the city during the Monday evening rush hour.

COMMUNICATIONS DISRUPTED

The snowfall was continuous throughout southern Ontario Monday, except in the St. Lawrence valley where it had made little and wet. The fall was lighter in Northern Ontario.

Telephone lines toppled in some sections near Toronto and Windsor. Hydro lines in the Toronto district of southwestern Ontario were down in places with tension wires at Leamington and Kingsville.

A Trans-Canada Air Lines plane landed at London after running into heavy snow on its Monday flight onto-to-Cleveland flight.

Sanding cars and road patrols helped keep traffic moving but Ontario motorists reported driving conditions were poor. There were countless minor accidents.

Heavier snowfalls reported in Ontario was in the Woodstock area and the Wyoming district east of Sarnia. Reports from there said the snow measured 12 inches.

NATO Powers Will Adopt Belgian Rifle as Standard

PARIS (Reuters) — The main Atlantic pact powers today agreed to adopt a .300-calibre rifle as their standard weapon for infantry.

The rifle is believed to be a Belgian model which underwent extensive tests have recently been made.

The Atlantic pact defence ministers meeting here today formally accepted the rifle. Countries concerned are the United States, Canada, Britain, France and Belgium.

The agreement ends a three-year controversy over the standard rifle for NATO countries. When it started, Britain and the U. S. pressed for adoption of their own rifles, but the Belgian weapon appeared later and gained much favor.

EASIER TO CLEAN

The Belgian F.N. rifle has already been adopted by the Belgian States and was found to be lighter and easier to clean than the American rifles. Britain's rifle, which it supereded in the Korean fighting.

Designed and developed by Fabrique Nationale in Belgium, it is of the same calibre as the American rifle.

Among the advantages claimed for it are that it can be used in five single rounds, semi-automatically, or as a machine-gun, and that its ammunition can be used in light machine-guns.

LIGHTER THAN GARAND

It is smaller and lighter than the Garand, and is said to have considerably less stopping power. It ranges up to two-thirds of a mile.

Production has already begun.

The U.S. said the proposed .280-calibre bullet lacked "stopping power" for long-range shots.

Turnover to the new rifle from present weapons is expected to take years.

U.N. Commander States Reds Not Preparing to Resume War

SEOUL (AP)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor today said the Communist high command apparently is not preparing for resumption of the Korean war.

The American commander of the 8th army made the remark in an United Nations forces in Korea, told a press conference that Red forces evidently are digging in and preparing defensive positions on their side of the demilitarized zone.

"They are doing the same thing we do," he said.

Taylor said of his own plans in the event war does break out:

"You can never say you have plans to go north, south, east, west and up and down."

MUST CARE FOR POWS

Taylor, in a review of the problems he has faced in the army since the armistice, said one involved difficulty is the fate of 22,-000 Chinese and North Korean prisoners who have renounced communism. These PoWs, along with 335 South Koreans, 22 American and one British pro-Communist prisoner, are held in India in custody in the neutral zone near Panmunjom.

Taylor said he assumes the North Korean anti-Reds will be cared for by the South Korean government after Jan. 22. The Chinese PoWs, he said, probably will be asked to go to Formosa, and the problem will be a matter of transportation.

Taylor conceded that prisoners returning to go to a neutral nation "would be a problem." No plans had yet been made to settle it.

Taylor said the 22 American soldiers among the anti-Red prisoners are probably "misguided individuals." The main emphasis in the army, he said, should be "Buddy, you should never be taken prisoner by these birds."

Moscow Declares U.S. Aimed to Wreck Talks

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio today claimed the American suspension of the Panmunjom talks on a Korean peace conference as part of "the long-term manoeuvres of the United States for wrecking the armistice in Korea."

The U. S. delegation tried all the time deliberately to wreck the talks and lead them into endless pettifogging and discussion.

First Public Potlatch Since 1880 Held by 200 Indian Chiefs in B.C.

VICTORIA (CP) — Songs and chants by the tribal elders filled the downtown Victoria Monday as 200 Indian chiefs of the Kwakiutl Indian tribes gathered for the opening of Chief Nanapeshkin's tribal house.

It is the first public potlatch held among B.C. Indians since 1880. They were banned because the lavish gift-giving, an integral part of Indian ceremonial, was impoverishing the tribes.

The tribal house, built by the Kwakiutl chief Mungo Martin in everyday life—was open only to Indians and selected guests. Outside the public listened to the chants.

Four songs were sung to the memory of each tribesman who had died since 1951, when the last private potlatch was held.

Tribal chiefs—all with eyes smarting from the smoke of the council fire.

Cabinet ministers, government officials and a wide range of selected guests will be admitted today. The public will be invited tomorrow.

After the mourning songs, the Indians put on cedar - bark headdresses, signalling that the "winter dance" season had begun. With the dance season opens next year.

After the mourning and "winter dance" ceremony, came the chief ceremony, performed by a granddaughter of the chief. A huge, brightly-painted cradle hung over the heads of the singers, rocked back and forth by men pulling on ropes.

Then men and women, red-eyed from the chiefs' sad dirge, came streaming from the smoke of the council fire.

"Poor Charlie Mercy," 39, only had to make 1,000 hops or stay aboard the pogo stick for a half-hour to win his bet, but he was "feeling fine, fit and dizzy" and continued for 12,000 hops in an hour and 35 minutes.

Board Chairman Thanked For Work of Past Two Years

Appreciation of board members, by chairman Fred T. Symons for his untiring efforts and splendid leadership during his two-year term as chairman of the public school board, was voted Monday evening at the final meeting of the year.

Members unanimously adopted a resolution tabled by Chas. Hewson and T. Trill expressing thanks to Chairman Symons on the conclusion of a two-year term of office and a very successful past twelve months.

In return Mr. Symons thanked board members for their support and co-operation and also expressed his appreciation to school principals for their co-operation.

BRIEF MEETING.

Very little business was conducted at the meeting which proved to be one of the briefest of the entire year.

The school superintendent was authorized to write to the St. Catharines school board to ascertain the reason for that board's request of the Ontario Department of Education to restore Remembrance Day as a regular school day.

An attendance percentage of 94.35 for all city public schools was reported by Dr. House. This was said to be satisfactory although a number of children poor had cut attendance in several schools.

Board approval for pre-fabricated floor slabs to be specified for the new Sir Winston Churchill School on MacDonald Ave. was given.

Mrs. R. B. Morden was re-appointed as public school representative on the Bay of Quinte District High School Board. The appointment of Mrs. Irene Raney was re-appointed as school attendance officer for 1954.

Members of Two Clubs Warned Of Danger of Third World War

Frank B. Creary, senior staff inspector of the Ontario Provincial Police at General Headquarters addressed a mixed audience of business and Professional women and members of the Sales and Advertising club, of the impending danger of a third world war, Inspector Creary, speaking in the Hotel Quinte last night on the necessities of the R.C.M.P. and civil defence said "The entire Russian military is exploiting to a man almost sitting on a keg of gunpowder."

He described Russia as being the only potential threat to World Peace. "I know of no other country in the world today who is looking for trouble as much as she is," he declared: In qualifying his remarks the speaker stated that Soviet Russia must be preparing for a conflict, otherwise she would not have the huge army from a few scattered divisions to 247, at which he said were paratroop divisions. Why else would she have gone to the Arctic and built some of the most modern airfields there are in the world today? Mr. Creary asked.

EMPHASIZES VALUE.

Emphasizing the value of civil defence, Mr. Creary said people have gone down on her knees during the London Blitz due to civil defence organization had not been developed to the extent it was. The speaker stated the present need for trained civil defence workers in this country and he cautioned "After the balloon goes up, it will be too late." There is nothing more dangerous in a state of emergency than untrained and unorganized people.

Like England, the inspector stated, not only way we will survive will be through our own properly training and developed civil defence organization. The speaker Creary showed slides on atomic bomb explosions. He spoke at some length on the subject of uranium, "golden rain" and "fall ering" in the case of a bombing and he described his department's plans for the years to come.

Four years ago the inspector was appointed by the department to formulate emergency and prior to the late janes across Province of Ontario. He impressed upon the audience the need for trained auxiliary police officers to keep the designated thoroughfares free of all traffic other than priority cars or ambulances.

"We're going to need a great many police," Inspector Creary said, he stated, "otherwise we are not going to be able to operate this plan successfully." Inspector Creary said there are not nearly enough regular police officers on municipal or Provincial forces to handle emergency traffic problems.

He concluded his address by urging his audience to support the civil defence co-ordinator in this city.

Fred Mound, president of the Sales and Advertising club presented an engraved lectern to the women's organization.

Five new member's were inducted into the Sales and Advertising club during a brief business period. They were: Jack MacArthur, Ed Wallins, Ron Moorman, Norman Brown and Bill Lowen.

Hastings County Farm Forum

The topic "Citizens of Tomorrow" proved most interesting to the forums in Hastings County. Four forums reported, Brookdale, Foxboro, Hazzard's and Rivers Valley. Where Is Melrose?

They were of one mind on the splendid work 4-H Club work. Hazzard's said their community in the past 22 years produced at least a dozen prominent leaders. Young people are taught leadership and responsibility.

TWO POOR FARMERS

Even a good farmer can learn a little more by attending such meetings at Junior Farmers, Federation of Agriculture, Crop Improvement, Woodlot Improvement. Unless he attends at least some of these meetings his outlook becomes narrow and he doesn't make any contribution to his community. One report says: "There are two poor farmers — one never stays home, the other never goes away."

In answer to the third question River Valley suggests there should be more attractive and substantial awards to work for: a wider exchange of delegates from other countries, also an exchange of foreign films and projects. Brookdale farm forum would be a good place for young people to help in discussion if topics were more interesting to them.

Hazzard's believe school programs should include more on household skills and public affairs.

Brookdale thinks that if young people are given a chance they are interested in all matters which affect their lives, whether rural or international. Above all, the young people must be encouraged to take part.

Christmas Parts Enjoyed By Coco-Cola Staff
A jolly, rotund Santa Claus, carrying much more resemblance than usual, literally "crashed" the colorful Christmas party tendered the staff and families of the Coca Cola Company plant by the management on Saturday afternoon.
Happy faces of children reflected the glow of three brilliantly illuminated Christmas trees as they stood admiring the prettily wrapped gifts.
Suddenly with a booming "Ho-Ho" old St. Nick himself crashed through the paper brick chimney to a chorus of welcome from young and old alike and the party was on.
It was the second annual Christmas entertainment held in the company's new Sidney Street plant and upwards of 90 staff members and families agreed it was a good bit better than the inaugural of 1953.
Plant manager Aubrey Coe ex-tended the official welcome, to the staff and children. Then the party enjoyed motion picture films until the "big moment" arrived.
The kiddies thronged around St. Nick as he handed out the gifts to the children and their parents. Later the kiddies were presented with "pokes", candies, fruit and other Yuletide delicacies.
And Santa Claus came to Manager and Mrs. Coe through the medium of the staff. Represented by Ralph Downey, they presented Mr. Coe with a handsome travel kit, and Mrs. Coe with a three-piece tea service. Both expressed their appreciation of the presents.
Members of the staff will eat turkey for Christmas. Mr. Coe announced that each member will receive a traditional bird, the gift of the Coca Cola Company.
The committee in charge which did such an outstanding job in arranging the party consisted of Messrs. Downey, Lloyd Wallace and Howard Rainbird.

The first series of ten prenatal classes conducted by the board of health under the auspices of the Belleville YM-YWCA ended, was concluded today with the presentation of diplomas for satisfactory attendance.

The discussions on parent preparation and education in family living were based on lectures given expectant parents by the Maternity Centre of New York. Interpretation of the services of the local hospital, visiting homemakers, Victorian Order and public health nurses was presented by a member of each organization.

Appreciation has been extended to the Y's Menettes' Club for their assistance in securing accommodation, equipment, refreshments and continued support; also to Miss Ellen Cockburn of the Local Film Board for the presentation of suitable films.

Since this course has been well received and has the approval of the medical staff of the Belleville General Hospital, it is expected to commence a second series early in the new year.

Agricultural Representatives Are Busy Men

Agricultural representatives, the men who among other duties direct the educational progress for junior farmers, are busy men with little time for themselves and few evenings free.

At least this is indicated by the annual report of Agricultural Representative A. O. Dalrymple of Stirling in his report to the Hastings county agricultural committee.

During the past year the agricultural representative and his assistant J. Allen Francis drove a total of 38,500 miles and addressed 319 meetings, a big percentage of them in the evening, as well as looking after field and extension work in connection with the many 4-H clubs in the county.

Also during the year 2,201 visitors were received at the Stirling office, 9,000 letters and 9,500 organizations were held in the office and over 3,300 incoming telephone calls were handled. Other duties of work included mailing out 28,652 circulars out by the 2,542 letters and receiving 3,560 letters.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Price groups were mixed and showed little change in stock market trading today.

Industrials made a gain, base metals a small loss and western oils and golds were almost Monday's level. Uranium and Bathurst-area base metals were a little lower.

Steels, refining oils and banks were strong in the industrials but few others were traded actively. Utilities had small price changes and papers were mixed with Price's 75-cent drop the biggest change.

Base metal sectors slipped with Noranda, down 75 cents. Junkers were quiet and the only noteworthy change was Coleo's 4½-cent drop to 18 cents.

Most uranium issues were quiet and price changes were small. New Larder U dropped 13 cents.

McIntyre, in its few traded senior golds, was down 75 cents. East Malartic and D'Eldona were down a little in light trading.

Western oils were a little higher as the few transactions generally ranged to Calvan's 25 cents. Losses were mostly in the five-cent bracket.

No Word in Year Received From Oblate Father

WINNIPEG (CP) — Somewhere in the Arctic vastness, among the Eskimos whose tongue he speaks, is Oblate Father Joseph Bullard, if he lives.

More than a year has passed since supplies have reached the French missionary of the Roman Catholic Oblate Order, a message received here from his superiors says.

A note was sent from Churchill, Man., for broadcast to Father Bullard on the CBC's "Northern Messenger" program Friday night.

Since that time nothing more has been heard here, although it's possible the missionary has since been found alive and well in his vast Northwest Territories domain.

FOOLED FOXES BEFORE

Once before Father Bullard, who is about 39, fooled those who believed he had perished in the north.

For seven months in 1949 he was unreported as he trekked over thousands of miles with an Eskimo tribe.

Father Bullard was located by a bush pilot and flown to Churchill for medical treatment. His arms and legs were frozen. After recovering he returned to the North.

Senator Horner Will Help Girl

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator R. B. Horner said Monday night he will stand behind his offer to pay the passage of a young Belgian girl who came to Canada disguised as a seaman and was shipped back home by immigration officials.

Senator Horner said in an interview that he also will be happy to get a job for Liliane Soudemonte, 23, on a farm. However, if she wants to "go to the sea in her career," Senator Horner said he'll see what he can do in that field. A news report of the girl's expulsion first prompted Senator Horner to make his offer in the Senate last week. The report said she was handy with her fists and her captain said she was the best seamsman he has had aboard his ship.

A senior immigration official said there is nothing in Canadian immigration regulations to prevent Senator Horner paying the girl's passage to Canada. However, she must meet requirements of good health and no criminal record.

Soviet Develops Fighter Plane To Defend Targets

LONDON (AP)—Jane's "All The World's Aircraft," unofficial but authoritative annual publication, said Monday Russia has developed a rocket-driven fighter plane to defend vital targets from fast, high altitude bombers.

Jane's also said the Soviet aircraft industry now has about 340 factories at its command, plus factories in some of its satellite countries.

The publication said the new Soviet fighter is a single-seat monoplane powered by an improved version of the Walther rocket motor produced in Germany during the Second World War. It is obviously aimed as a chief defence against strategic bombers which could attack key Russian centres with atomic bombs, such as the U.S. air force's B-47s and the new B-52s.

It is believed to have been in use by the Soviet air force since it got hold of this plane when they took over the area of Eastern Germany where it was being produced.

Jane's substantiated previous reports that the Russians are producing a long-range bomber big enough to carry atomic bombs. The publication said the plane has a range of 7,650 miles and a speed of 415 miles an hour.

Central Africa Election Issue Is Segregation

By ASTLEY HAWKINS

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (Reuters)—Central Africa decides today whether its black and white races will be segregated or will go forward in partnership.

That is the choice offered by the two rival parties contesting the election for the first legislative assembly of the new central African federation of Southern Rhodesia, Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland. About half the results may be known late tonight.

The 59,000 voters—mostly whites —will choose between Sir Godfrey Huggins' Federal party, which pledges partnership, and the Confederate party, led by lawyer J. R. Dendy Young, who campaigned against federation in the Southern Rhodesian referendum last April.

Election forecasts strongly favored the success of 54-year-old Huggins, who was openly confident of a substantial majority.

Eighty Farmers Rotary Guests At Luncheon

Members of the Rotary club were host to a group of leading farmers of surrounding townships at the meeting in the Hotel Quinte on Monday. Approximately 80 farmers were present for the noon luncheon. W. F. Watson, livestock commissioner of the Ontario Department of Agriculture was guest speaker.

Mr. Watson in his address described the living business as "a fair barometer for all business in general. He said that if the farmer is prosperous so are urban developments. He also reviewed the past year's activities on the farm front and said for the third year in succession, Canada has had a good wheat crop.

The speaker pointed out the farm population it on the decrease while the urban population is increasing. He said the urban population is still unable to consume all the farm production it is able to produce," he stated.

Despite margarine sales in Canada, butter consumption was up in 1953, the speaker revealed. This was in direct contract to the United States, where, according to Mr. Watson, Americans in 1952 consumed more margarine than butter.

ACQUIRING CHEESE TASTE.

Also on the rise in this country is cheese. Mr. Watson said Canadians are not normally big cheese eaters, but he believes they are acquiring a taste for the product which is causing cheese consumption to rise appreciably. "We are consuming a higher percentage of our cheese production than ever before," Mr. Watson declared.

He touched on the two-price system on the cheese marketing boards, describing it as "a daring plan". This is the plan whereby cheese is sold to consumers domestically at a cheaper price than to Canadian buyers. The problem was to decide whose cheese was sold for the high price and whose for the low price. Mr. Watson said the marketing board plan was a deduct two cents from each pound of cheese sold to the high bidder and give it back on the pound sold to the low bidder. Although he described the plan as daring he said he was hopeful it was the answer to the problem.

The speaker was introduced by Stan Barber, chairman of the urban and rural committee and the expression of thanks was tendered by Mack Robertson.

Could Not Afford To Feed Geese That Came In

AMHERSTBURG, Ont. (CP)—Farmers in this southwestern Ontario district think the "Canada goose is a beautiful and graceful bird but it eats too much.

Ten years ago, migratory geese began landing on the farm of Henry Rebidoux. He fed them and the area around his pond quickly became an unofficial sanctuary with more birds each year.

People came to visit the farm, just to see the geese and Mr. Rebidoux and his sons increased the size of their pond.

This year the situation was out of hand. About 5,000 geese a day were landing on the pond and the Rebidoux family could not longer afford to feed them.

Farmers of the district suddenly saw danger. If food is not found at the Rebidoux farm, the geese will forage for themselves. Crops will suffer and the alkali content of the droppings lowers the value of the land.

Darwin Wismer, a real estate broker and farmer, said the same thing happened in the Kingsville area after the famous Jack Miner established his sanctuary.

About 40 farmers in this area protested the unofficial sanctuary in a letter to William Murdoch, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario Legislature for Essex South. The member said the government is anxious to forestall a situation similar to the one at Kingsville.

Asks Japs to Change From Rice to Wheat

TOKYO (Reuters) — Parliament today approved a motion calling on the Japanese people to change their national food habits by reducing rice consumption in favor of wheat as the staple food.

The proposed change in the diet is the result of this year's poor rice crop. The motion also called for encouragement of increased dairy production.

WANT A PIER?

LONDON (CP)—The government-operated British Railways has a pier for sale. The structure which juts into the Thames here will be given improvements to the ferry service are completed.

Member Protests Use of Pulpwood For Big Papers

OTTAWA (CP) — A. J. Brooks (PC—Royal) protested in the Commons Monday night against what he described as the huge quantity of Canadian pulpwood used by publishers of week-end newspapers in Canada and the United States.

He said:

"I am not referring to the Canadian daily newspapers, but rather to the Sunday issues, some of which weigh three or four pounds.

"I am told that it requires the pulp from 100 to 200 acres of Canadian forest land to produce one of these issues.

"Surely this is a great waste and I believe the time will come when we will realize that this production has been used wastefully.

Perhaps boys learning to put up building for a house that will last for many years. On the other hand the principle of the production of these weekly newspapers is a complete waste, since the newspaper has been read.

"It is, to use a common expression, 'gone with the wind,' and there is nothing left to show for it."

Elmore Philpott (I—Vancouver South) said it would be poor conservation policy to decrease newsprint supplies merely to save pulpwood.

There was no greater need in the world than education and newspapers were the "poor man's university." Mr. Philpott is a columnist for the Vancouver Sun.

Canadian pulp and paper companies would take a "very dim view" of any orders concerning how much pulp they could cut.

Increase Objective

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Red Cross Society announced today the national objective of its 1954 fund appeal will be $5,442,850, an increase of $112,250 over last year.

Harold H. Leather, chairman of the central council, said the increased amount will be sought to cover normal expansion of projects and the cost of supplying the federal government with 150,000 bolics of blood for gamma globulin to fight polio.

The Ontario objective is $2,144,690.

Bantam Line Shows Promise

One of the finest young lines to show in the senior hockey leagues of this city are currently setting the bantam section on fire with their slick handling, skating ability, and scoring records.

They are centre Earle MacDonald, and wings John Brennan and Bernard Boulier of the Maple Leafs. Unbeaten and untied in the first five games of this season, this combination has come up with 13 goals and 12 assists for a grand total of 25 scoring points.

The crafty little centre has 8 goals and four helpers, Brennan 5 and 5, while Boulier, who missed one game due to illness, has a pair of goals and three assists.

This is the first year of bantam for each, having played together in pee wee during the 52-53 campaign. Brennan and MacDonald are among the smallest participating in the league while Boulier is only of average size.

The three, working together are rounding into an effective line com-

SELF DECEPTION AND SUBSIDY

You cannot get something for nothing.

This is one of the basic laws of physics. It is also an economic fact that governments, for various reasons of expediency, seem to forget.

The taxpayers seem also to forget, or if they remember, it is only too briefly on the Ides of March when thoughts of violence steal over them.

One of the most persistent forms of this self-deception and the theory and practice of subsidization. On one hand a producer is presented with the gift or guaranteed price as a stimulant to production of an article that is deemed necessary, but which normal business finds unprofitable. On the other hand a subsidy is often used to purchase items in short supply at their real value so that they can be distributed to consumers below their real prices. In both cases the person supplying the subsidy loses money. When both practices are indulged in by governments, it is the government, and ultimately the taxpayer who loses money.

The Conservative government of Great Britain is learning this hard lesson first hand. Chancellor of the Exchequer, R. A. Butler, has done a heroic job in reorganizing the financial structure of the United Kingdom. But in an effort to bring some measure of direct relief to the British people he enmeshed the government in the maze of subsidy by trying to subsidize the producers and consumers of food.

The government subsidized the production of cheap food and allowances were made to bring this food within the means of the underfed British people. However, the experts failed to estimate the vastly increasing demand for cheap bread and the digest took a beating.

Millions of dollars was used to build up the sugar supply to the point where sugar could be taken off the ration list. To encourage egg production the government paid pensions of a million shower the cost price to the consumer. The government promised a floor price for cereal grains. When the world market price of cereal grains fell the government found itself with a $150 million porridge bill. Hog raisers, with the incentive of floor price, doubled the production of pork. When the government found that there was a surplus of the meat, the government was forced to sell at a loss of $75 million.

All told mistakes in the budget for food exceeded $660 million. Conservative leaders of the government see the system, the budget, and ultimately the tax structure.

It is undeniable that the British people are eating better now than they were two years ago, but the public has permitted them to do so has been short-sighted, that it has allowed agriculture and a program of subsidy to take precedence over the entire economic policy. The government, in its subsidizing of food in a program of economic recovery, has learned that it cannot be done. Somebody must pay, and in this case the immediate burden of the cost of food will have to be borne by the taxpayer as any government cost always is. The people did not eat their subsidized bread and pork and have to now.

The experience of the Conservative party in Britain, coming on the heels of the even more disastrous experience of the Labour party, should serve as an object lesson to them, and to government and taxpayers everywhere, that economics, as in physics, you cannot get something for nothing.

NO EASY SOLUTION

Where do some people live, anyway?

That question is provoked by the perusal in a Canadian magazine of a letter from a Sudbury woman.

She is right in her complaint about the increasingly large number of lives lost in fires and the recurrence, in newspaper reports of these tragedies, of such phrases as "tar-paper shack," "defective wiring" and "low paperboard fire ceilings."

The writer, a woman, urges "a rigorous inspection of homes and buildings." She suggests that members of fire departments, a program much more in keeping with their training than the repair of old toys which seems to be popular occupation of the staffs of fire halls."

It would not take firemen very long to discover fire hazards in any Canadian city. But how does the writer propose that they be condemned? To people live in "tar-paper shacks" from preference. There is little matter of money involved.

"Survey," says the letter-writer, "when every piece of construction is hedged about with restrictions, a kind of jerry-built trap can be eliminated."

Hogwash. Has any idea of the almost insurmountable objects which always appear whenever any slum clearance plan is suggested?

That the elimination of these fire traps is desirable nobody will deny. That it can be effected by the simple process of having firemen inspect old homes is a convincing whose optimism is not founded in fact, a suggestion carefully out of touch with reality.

The strange, bright light that appeared over Belleville and many centres in southern Ontario last Friday night was reported to have been seen in Ottawa. It is heartening to know that someone in Ottawa has seen the light last, if only for a few brief moments.

GROWING OLD

We call it growing older.
We called it wiser growing:
A blood a little colder,
We stop a trifle slowing.

We belittle declining;
We fare enough for hunger.
We bring and the dining,
We fight for those much longer.

Temper less often flaring.
To faults a little blinder.
Quicker with generous sharing.
To everybody kinder.

More thought for others showing.
More patience, less of fretting.
Some call it older growing.
We called it wiser getting.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

December 15, 1933

Clothing of all kinds, mitts and gloves, overcoats and underwear, overshoes and other warm clothing are urgently required by the Belleville office of the Central Relief Bureau here in order to equip the scores of needy people in the city for the winter months which has brought suffering and distress in its wake. The sufferers this year are not only those who are actually registered on the relief lists; there are many others who have not applied for relief who are facing a bleak winter. In many cases their small earnings, in the past, have been just enough to get by on, before the added demands of winter, but now the acute demand for many things for themselves and their children, and it is to this latter class that consideration will be given if possible.

Chairman Secretary - P. Duff, Commissioner Geo. A. Reid, Manager O. H. Scott and Mayor Ellis, of the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission were in Belleville this week to interview the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission on matters pertaining to the local commission.

Dead Sea Rich In Minerals

(From National Geographic Bulletin)

Bitter waters of Israel's Dead Sea are too salty to sustain any form of life, but their fabulous mineral resources are commercially valued at more than a trillion dollars.

The earths lowest spot and one of the hottest, the Dead Sea contains probably two billion tons of potash vital to fertilizer. The basin also holds some 22 billion tons of magnesium salts used in textile and cement manufacture; 980 million tons of bromine, essential to medicine and photography; and 11 billion tons of sodium chloride, or common salt.

Although only one-fifth the size of Utah's Great Salt Lake, the Dead Sea has nearly double the salt content—25 per cent. Ocean water has a mere five per cent salt content.

The "chemical gold mine" is as simple as logic: water is pumped onto ladder to evaporate under a fiery sun, and the various dehydrated products are later separated, and purified. Commercial extraction was begun in 1930 by British and American interests.

Evaporation rates vary from 5½ to 17 feet at the surface of the Dead Sea annually. The salt men outlet for six million tons of water daily flowing into the basin from the Jordan River and from brine tributaries. During the hot, dry season (May through October) the Dead Sea mists hover over the water because of the high moisture evaporation. Temperatures average 100 degrees Fahrenheit in July months.

Salts in the sea originate in the area's sedimentary soil, and the phosphorus springs which feed its tributary streams. Asphalt lumps that occasionally rise from the depths and wash ashore suggest the possibility of oil in the bottom. Several petroleum companies have been granted concessions by the Israeli Government.

Dead Sea water is bitter to the taste as well as salty, and few creatures are left covered with a dried crust of salt. The Jordanian shrub stibe to swim in it; arms and legs protrude out of the buoyant water. The sea's surface is 1,286 feet below sea level, and its deepest point exceeds 1,300 feet.

Cradled between the sandstone Moab Mountains on the east and the limestone Judea hills on the west, the Dead Sea is 47 miles long and 10 miles wide. The southwestern shore is covered with salt formations, but three-fourths of the shore line is flat.

The Dead Sea area is the site of the Bible's wicked cities of Sodom and Gomorrah, which were destroyed by brimstone and fire."

Many have been and volcanic slag have been found on the south shore, but archeological expeditions have failed so far to uncover any ruins of the towns.

When Lobsters Were Giants

(Saint John Telegraph Journal)

History has told us a lot of tall tales about big men, big pumpkins and big monsters of the sea. Mervin Evans of the New York Herald-Tribune has found a fish story in the records of New York's first Thanksgiving Day back in 1621 when the governor of Plymouth among the lobster fishermen of Cape Cod.

It seems that the early New Englander was as fond of superlatives as the modern fish story fan. Mervin Evans found of that first harvest celebration a great detail and refers to 60 pound turkeys which were brought to the feast. Of course, turkeys ran wild in those days and perhaps some of them did grow to that size. But we are dubious about the six-foot nat-

Middle-Age Recognized

(Hamilton Spectator)

There comes a morning in every man's life when he looks in his shaving mirror and for the first time realizes that he is approaching middle-age. The revelation is startling, though the process has been slow. It has crept up on him stealthily—here a "laughter line" or two around the eyes, the novelty of a single silver hair glistening on the temple. And trebling into his mind come memories of little incidents—the stairs he climbed two steps gleefully for the easy chair and the disinclination to leave it until the luxury of little ripples of fat that he had observed himself into believing were muscle.

Whereas before that morning he had always believed his step was lithe, now he suddenly feels that he is carrying an invisible pack on his shoulders and he has a suspicion that if he doesn't do something about it the pack will grow heavier as time goes on.

Most men can now recommend good gymnasium for middleaged man!" asked an advertiser in a recent issue of The Times of London. There is something heroic in this assertion—or, if you prefer, brazen. A defiant, last ditch stand against the encroachments of time. A declaration not to part with youth's keen vigorance without a battle.

The gymnasium, however, is inclined to caution. "For middle-aged man" it warns, the gymnasium sought should be gentler than one where younger men and younger men pull chest expanders apart as though they were elastic bands. It is also suggested that the vaulting horse with triumphant leaps should be avoided. The best gymnasium for the middleaged should provide sufficient exercise to bring about a healthy perspirations for a trim waistline and at the same time be gentle enough to victory over time which is part of the secret of successfully growing older.

It may be that the advertiser, recognizing the fact that middle-age, for in the character of a middle-aged man, is a state of mind, suggested himself into taking this dramatic action. Others of calmer frame of mind prefer to take their daily exercise by walking to the corner for their newspaper instead of the car.

Bernard Shaw recalled that in his younger days, Eugene Sandow, then the world's strongest man, had given him a book on the value of exercises that would enable the wiry Shaw to balance a grand piano on his chest. The sage, having strenuous exercise, declined. Instead, Shaw observed that Sandow died at a comparatively early age. Shaw concluded that his violent exercise designed to create a set of rippling muscles was a form of vanity; mere vanity-cise was best.

Shaw lived a healthy and industrious life for ninety-two years and it is doubtful whether, in all that life, he saw the inside of a gymnasium.

ive lobsters that appeared on the menu. The Pilgrims were really thankful for their bounty.

If a six-foot granddaddy lobster turned up in Passamaquoddy bay these days he'd be inclined to take to the hills rather than risk a net. However, times have changed and lobsters may have been bigger 300 years ago. It is known that heat is considered a big one these days, but Atlantic Coast lobsters weighing up to 25 pounds and measuring five feet in length, the claw being as much as 15 inches by 20 inches, have been found as far as they used to be, though, and the Fisheries Department claims that the great size and the big sea delicacy and the persistence of the trade from Labrador to Cape Cod would long ago have give the lobster much time to grow. Lobsters? Well, we just can't swallow that one.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

You will notice, as you go about shopping these last days, that while you are flustered, and nineteen out of every twenty store clerks are flustered, there is always one character among the hired help, usually a middle-aged woman, who never goes serenely about his business, cool, serene, unflustered. She keeps the hectic the scene, he or she seems capable of rising free of it, above it. They are like marble fountains on a hot day. They are like a fresh breeze in the wintry gale. They are a rock in a weary land.

Actually, they are a special breed of cat. They have something the vast majority of us haven't got. And I think they deserve some special distinction, and some extra reward. It is a wonderful experience to get hold of one of them to wait on you, in this Christmas shambles. Unhurried, wise, ready with the most sensible suggestions, they revive you like a pill or a drink, (you may have your choice.) As far as rewarding them, I experience to get hold of one of them to wait on you, in this Christmas shambles. Unhurried, wise, ready with the most sensible suggestions, they revive you like a pill or a drink, (you may have your choice.) As far as rewarding them, I imagine the store management looks with suspicion on these calm and collected members of their staff. Probably the best clerk, in the management's eyes, is the one who appears to be going nuts about your p.m. each day. They give the impression of working like fury, whereas the truth may be that they are loafing on the job. But as distinction is concerned, the cool characters might be given a special badge, perhaps a large white celluloid about the size of a dinner plate, to be worn on the lapel or blouse, and inscribed with the words "I Am Not Busy."

Of course, they would be busy. In the confusion, these cool and collected characters are far busier than their tizzeque colleagues. But nobody ought to be some badge or sign by which we shoppers could pick out, quickly, the person in each department of a store who is really ready and willing to attend our wants.

From now until Christmas Eve, it might be a good idea for staying of the store people who will be waiting on us will always appear to be thinking of something else.

HAVE ONE FOR THE ROAD, YOU UNFRINTABLE SO-AND-SO.

Last Christmas-New Year's season American motorists chalked up 962 deaths and uncounted injuries, many of which maimed or mutilated the victims irrepairably.

Some traffic accidents are bound to happen despite safety precautions and even the utmost care of drivers. But a large number of these yuletide wrecks were due to the fact that many motorists just don't give a damn. They maintain—and the law of the land upholds them—that this is a free country and so a person has the right to indulge in a drink or two more than he or she can handle, particularly in the festive Christmas-New Year's season.

Although I'm a teetotaler—and as rabid a teetotaler as you can find—and every day of my life I thank God, my mother and the W.C.T.U. for it — I have been caught more than once in circumstances where I was unable to escape attending parties at which the generated into drinking parties. It actually nauseates me just to think of the drunken guests at such parties—the recollection is more distasteful to me than the condition of one or two such persons when I had to take home for safety's sake.

The disgusting behavior which I refer is childish, amoral behavior. Not immoral, not amusing and not funny. It is the uninhibited behavior of the individual whose higher senses are dulled or benumbed by a narcotic, in without judgment, conscience or common sense.

Medical authorities and legal authorities generally agree, whether they happen to be teetotalers, moderate drinkers, social drinkers or habitual drinkers, that at a certain point or stage of drinking the person who drinks becomes incapable of driving safely. It is, and I'm afraid will remain, arbitrary just where this incapability begins. Is it after one drink, two or more?

Scientifically reaction time slows down after a single drink, though the delay in responding to a stimulus may not be apparent to the ordinary observer. It is slowed more by a second drink, still more by successive drinks. No one can say definitely at what times to danger signals, say, begins only in this or that point. It occurs inevitably if or when the driver feels any effect whatever from alcohol.

Whatever you may think of my contention of the drunken driving habits, now while we're all happy, I want to advise that this season you make that "one for the road" coffee. Not that coffee will sober up an intoxicated person, but it does tend to counteract the ill effects of alcoholic ence.

A good host or hostess feels responsible for the safety of his or her guests and for this reason invites the servings of coffee to a goal who is already high wants "one for the road."

It is a tribute to the beloved carols that they retain so much of their devotional appeal in an age so strongly through this commercial abuse of them. But we believe those who perpetrate the abuse are underestimating the public taste. In an age of radio, television, canned music and public-address systems there must still be millions of people who would give much to hear these sacred songs float again unadorned in all their age old lively fresh and genuine as when they were first sung by carols carolers through the air to the eager ears of Judean shepherds.

Why Apes Don't Talk

(Indianapolis Star)

During convention of the French Geographical Society, an expert on South Asian jungles told the story that Malays consider apes to be a kind of ecclesiastical clever human beings. According to the natives, apes are perfectly capable of talking, but won't do it in the presence of people, for fear of being recognized as people and having to pay taxes.

ON YOUR TOES

The swift runner takes to his toes. They give him balance and agility. The clever boxer also pays attention to his toes. He can duck more quickly, and has a better control of his movements, which have to be made with precision.

This expression "on your toes" has become a popular one, and is interpreted as being alert, watchful, and awake. He who is determined to get ahead in life does not bridge defeat, nor accept any substitute for success as he goes along, is sure of an honorable place among his fellowmen. He will thrive on an inward satisfaction that nothing else can give.

The successful person keeps on his toes in the gathering of news, which must be timely, crisply and interestingly written. Such a one is an inspiration to himself and to those who depend on his services. The dancer gets what I mean. His feet, toes are what furnish the smoothness of movement and rhythmic ease. Toes are often one's fortune!

We can't very well—to our credit be—check our way through life. We have to keep on our toes and give attention to the matter involved us. It's more than a physical process. It gives to us a spiritual quality that is indefinable. The race is to the one with a will and a way. It's a matter of imagination, vision, and forwardness.

The first command to the runner in a race is this: On your toes! That is the beginning. And it is often the thing that suggests the finish. This should be remembered by all of us in our mind is set upon our objective.

The Greatest Faith Ever Known

By Fulton Oursler and April Oursler Armstrong Of Devils and Silversmiths

CHAPTER 12.

The Bustling city was suddenly torn with newly-developed religious faith healers, men who filled to bust as Paul healed, offering their services to the families of unfortunate men and women who were possessed. They insisted that usual mumbo jumbo of conjuration, and then added a new form of exercise, plagiarized from the apostles.

"I conjure you by Jesus, who is preached about by Paul."

Seven eminently respectable brothers now came forth pretending to possess healing powers in the holy Name of Jesus. They were the seven sons of Sceva, a chief priest of the Ephesian synagogue, and they were about to receive a stunning surprise.

All seven sons of Sceva stood in a ring in the Ephesian market place around a poor, raddled young man writhing on the rough cobblestones of the street.

The curious crowd stood tense waiting to see if the rabbit's sons could pull the demon from his body. In solemn cadence the seven beautiful voices changed:

"I conjure you by Jesus, whom Paul preacheth!"

To their shock and astonishment a demoniac voice seemed to leap from the mouth of the writhing lad; an evil, mocking cry with a contemptuous challenge:

"Jesus I know. And Paul I know. But who are you?"

The watching crowd burst with laughter. Here, indeed, was sport with another twist.

But their laughter was clipped when the lad, as if with one motion, his devil still strong within him, rise swiftly from the stones of the street, and leaped on the seven blasphemous brothers, and attack them.

In superhuman rage he seized two of them, and forced them into a school, tore the clothes from their bodies, pummeled and gradually drove the seven out. They fell out of the house, naked and humiliated.

Ask Luke concludes:

"And this became known to all the Jews and Gentiles that dwelt at Ephesus; and fear fell on them all, and the name of the Lord Jesus was magnified."

The results were far-reaching. More and more men and women, both Jews and Gentiles, gave their lives to Christ.

But it also had an immediate effect on many of the people in the province of Asia who, in secret, practiced magic and witchcraft. Out of dark cellars and from the murky recesses of caves, the sorcerers came into the light, lugging with them their books of spells and incantations, and their odious apparatus of the practices of the damned.

To see the bonfire they built in the market place was to believe that hell itself had come to an end in the world. These prayers to the Lord, Jesus, too, with spirit guides, readers of dreams, astrologers, magicians of every kind, now stood by their burning books for all the populace to witness that the power of the Christian evil secrets forever.

The business of the magicians was a light shining upon Paul, calling the world's attention to the power that worked in him and through him. He was at the peak of his remarkable ministry in Ephesus, where the word of God had grown mightily, and was confirmed for all men to see.

And within the mystic attunements of his soul, Paul knew it would soon be time for him to move on.

First, he promised himself, he would clean up on conditions in the troubled cities of Corinth and Thessalonica, and somehow help in the raising of the collection for the Church unrived. Then he would go on to Jerusalem, this time for Pentecost, to deliver the funds.

But Paul did not leave Ephesus at once.

He was waiting for Timothy, who had gone to Corinth to deliver Paul's epistle.

He had expected Timothy to return inside a month. As months waxed and waned, the apostle grew restless with concern for his young friend's welfare. Travel, even on Roman highways, was hazardous. Beyond the ordinary perils of the road, Christian messengers had reason to fear attack from synagogue leaders and congregations inside the Church.

Paul relied heavily on Timothy. That gentle young spirit had proven himself the perfect foil for the older apostle. Timothy had become in every Church executive sense, relieving him of many chores. And Timothy had also become the fiery little minister, my's closest friend. The love of father and son was in him there. Two men until Paul's death.

When Timothy did not return and no word came, Paul persuaded two of his most valued assistants to journey after him. One was Silas, ever dear friend and companion. The other was Titus, the Gentile convert whom Paul had taken to the Jerusalem council as the prize exhibit in the great debate.

The two younger men were reluctant to leave Paul. But the apostle proposed that they go to Corinth, then return through Macedonia, and he would meet them in Troas. To that they agreed.

They parted. And Paul set about taking up the big collection from the churches in Asia to be brought to Jerusalem. And that was why, early for a pair of new-made Macedonian friends named Gaius and Aristarchus, Paul was alone during the turmoil of the Ephesian silversmiths.

A man named Demetrius, who made silver temples for the goddess Diana, caused the trouble. He called together the other silversmiths and denounced Paul:

"Sirs, you know that our gain is by this trade. And you see and hear, that this Paul by persuasion hath drawn away a great multitude, not only of Ephesus, but almost all of all Asia, saying: They are not gods which are made with hands. So that not only this our craft is in danger to be set at nought, but also the temple of the great Diana shall be reputed for nothing!"

At that, the silversmiths started a riot. They mobbed Paul, and dragged off two of his female girl, have killed them. The whole city was thrown into confusion. Some cried for a lynching, others more urged that Paul be set free. Only the deafening voice of a town crier named Alexander quelled the crowd. Alexander was a convert. Demetrius could either take Paul to court and press charges—or the Christian could produce his case. And Paul, shaken but with undaunted faith, did so.

That casting down of the silversmith Demetrius was typical of Paul's way of building his work in the provinces of Asia.

Early in the morning of the following day, Paul left Ephesus by ship for Troas. He had intended to go to Troas and on into Macedonia. His stay in Ephesus had been long and profound. But a new year mission there, a success.

Paul, however, was restless he hurried off to Troas, to meet Silas and Titus, and learn, more than anything else, the news of Corinth.

At the grizzled, graying apostle led his friends into the synagogue streets of Troas, and proclaimed on the vision he had been given in this city — the vision of the pleading man calling him to Macedonia and the first mission into Europe.

He hunted his friends down the streets to the house of the Christians with whom he had lodged on that restless visit. When

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

As is customary during the Christmas holiday season many visitors from out-of-town will be coming to the city, and many residents are leaving to spend the Yuletide holiday with relatives, and friends in other places. The social editor would appreciate receiving personals either by telephone (4686) or by mail of these events. There is no charge for these; only such personals as relate to weddings, "at homes," engagements and marriage announcements necessitate a fee of $1.

Queen Victoria H-S Association Hears Christmas Story

Queen Victoria Home and School Association held its Christmas meeting on Monday evening.

The president, Mrs. N. O'Neill welcomed the parents and visitors and announced that upon the completion of a short business meeting, Mrs. Punchard would conduct the rest of the program.

It was decided that the association donate two electric bells to the school. A motion was also passed that the Queen Victoria Association donation $15 to the Central Committee to sponsor a team in the Junior Hockey League.

Mrs. O'Neill then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Punchard, who introduced the children's choir under the direction of Mr. Lloyd. The choir offered two selections: "Ring the Bell Ringing" and "Deck the Halls", which were enjoyed by the assembled parents and friends.

The children from Miss Burley's class presented a lively Virginia Reel. The little girls were sweet in their red and green crepe paper, old-fashioned dresses and tiny hats, and the boys sported ribbons around their knees and large flowing red and green ties.

From Miss Gilmore's room, one of the new Canadians sang "Silent Night" in Dutch.

Following this, Miss MacPherson's class presented a play, "Mother Goose Land," complete with all the characters from the famous stories in bright and vivid costumes.

Mrs. Punchard introduced the Rev. Miriam Collins, assistant minister of Bridge Street United Church, who told a Christmas story to the audience.

Mr. Murray expressed the thanks of the parents and children to Miss Collins for sharing with the H-S Association the beauty of the story of Christmas and the lesson contained in the story she told so well.

Miss Burley's class danced a quadrille and looked as though they were enjoying is as much as the spectators.

Three choral readings, "Did Jesus Have a Little Lamb?" "The Friend," and "The Christmas Tree" were presented by Miss Burley's class.

Every child taking part in the program did a wonderful job and they and their teachers are to be congratulated for a difficult job well done.

Refreshments were served to the parents and children by Mrs. Tremeine and her committee bringing a most enjoyable evening to a close.

University W.C. Approves Resolutions

The University Women's Club held its December meeting on Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Mary Doyle, 181 Bridge St. East, with 33 members in attendance.

Among the new members welcomed were Mrs. W. C. Benger, the Rev. Miriam Collins, Mrs. H. Floyd, Mrs. A. P. Holme, Mrs. L. S. Monteith, Miss Jane Freeman, all of Belleville; Mrs. Donald Rorz and Miss Mary McMahon both of Wellington; Mrs. W. C. Pryce of Stirling; Miss Revelling, of Picton; and P. O. Joan Seeley, of Trenton.

During the business meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. D. L. MacGillivray, the sum of $100 was voted for the Hospital Building Fund. In addition, this gift to be in the form of a wheel chair.

As a Christmas gesture, a collection was taken to send a food parcel to a needy member of the I.F.U.W. who, though paralyzed in the legs, is studying for her doctorate in Munich. Mrs. A. C. Locke is in charge of the buying and the shipping of the parcel.

RESOLUTIONS READ

Miss Josephine Tickell read a resolution from the Eastern Ontario S.P.C.A. regarding cruelty to the horses used in bush camps in Northern Ontario. Members approved that this resolution be sent to the Attorney-General.

Another resolution sent to the club by the joint committee for Penal Reform for Women was also approved to put pressure on the government to see that reform steps are taken. Among the points involved were the advisability of segregating new female offenders from the hardened female criminals, and the great need for a larger number of female penal officers.

After the business meeting, a number of entertaining games were enjoyed under the direction of Mrs. J. E. McArthur and Miss Jane Freeman. Of special interest was the recognition contest involving 32 composite pictures of famous people of the past and present. Amazing how difficult it is to recognize even Churchill's face when it appears on the body of a three year old! King George V's head, on the other hand, was easily recognizable, though topping the body of a skier.

Saskatchewan Sodbusters Had Chronicler, Name Sarah Binks

By DAVE STOCKAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Saskatchewan sodbusters had their chronicler and her name was Sarah Binks.

And while we are told death has claimed the "sweet songstress of Saskatchewan," her poems live on, thanks to one man. Otherwise Sarah's name, which belongs to the soil, would have been furrowed under and forgotten.

The poems were collected a few years back by Dr. Paul G. Hiebert, associate professor of chemistry at the University of Manitoba.

First, though, he had to write them. Because, as anyone who has read the book knows, Sarah Binks never lived—although the reader might not have caught on to the fact for quite a few pages.

SPINSTER LADY

The book "Sarah Binks," which won for Dr. Hiebert the 1947 Leacock Medal for humor, is deadpan all the way. It pokes fun at the Prairies and at critical biographies of poets and their long footnotes and foreword, a list of literary journals and all the trimmings as well as the weird and wonderful poetry attributed to the Prairie miss who made beauty in the barnyard.

Sarah sings of an Ojibway maiden thus:

Patrick O'Neil O'Connell
Late of the Mounted Police
And moon-in-the-eyes Macdonald
Was blessed, but not by the priest."

What brings all this up is that Dr. Hiebert paid a visit to the Winnipeg Free Press the other day to become one who

"Trots trifling Dec. 30," he said, "for the Christmas holidays the students I've taught in the last 30 years might be interested."

ODE OF SARAH

Which brought the conversation to literature and word that it's unlikely Sarah will be back from the dead.

There will be no more of her literal transactions of German verse such as Heine's "Du Bist Wei Eine Blumer!"

"You are like one flower,
So well, so fair and clean
I look you on and long.
Slinks me the heart between;
Me is as if you pain
On head your pot them should.
Forgo! So I afford you preserve
So well, so clean and good."

Dr. Hiebert's retirement plans: To move to Carman, 32 miles southwest of Winnipeg, and write books. What else? "I enjoy writing," he says.

"But you don't want to know all that stuff," he added. "Just say I'm going out to count the stars."

After studying at St. Valley (now United) College here and doing newspaper work for a while, Dr. Hiebert took post-graduate work in philosophy and then chemistry at the University of Toronto and McGill.

Thirty years ago he returned here to teach. And now, like his Sarah, he is content to bide the county, where he and his wife have had a summer home for many years.

were Mrs. R. A. Pringle, Miss Ann Young, and Mrs. W. L. Langlois.

Christmas carols and refreshments concluded another successful Christmas party.

On the 28th Thursday of January, Miss Bunting of Toronto, formerly of Belleville, will give one of her much-appreciated book reviews. Notices will be sent only to paid-up members.

AUTHOR

Dr. Paul G. Hiebert, associate professor of chemistry at the University of Manitoba, is the author of the book "Sarah Binks" which won the Leacock medal for humor in 1947. The book pokes fun at the Prairies and at critical biographies of real authors in the story of the "sweet songstress of Saskatchewan". Dr. Hiebert plans to retire December 30 to move to Carman, 32 miles southwest of Winnipeg and write "important" books. (CP Photo.)

MADOC W.I.

MADOC — Madoc W.I. members met at the home of Mrs. B. Tanner on Friday for their Christmas meeting. Mrs. Kersahaw was in charge and opened the meeting.

The roll call was answered by each member giving a donation for the Blind. Gifts will also be sent to the older members and shut-ins of the Madoc W.I.

Mrs. Zenpey gave briefly, "Current Events" and read the story of the Legend of Sweden, describing St. Luiss Day, held on December 13. Mrs. Johnson spoke on the motto, "It is more blessed to give than to receive". Mrs. Beatty read a poem on "Giving."

Mrs. A. Herrington had charge of the program which consisted of contests and demonstrations on how to make Christmas gifts. A duet by Mrs. Ken Nicol and Mrs. Allan Franks, Miss sang "Song of Christmas" and "Christmas," added to the program, which was mostly in the form of a party, providing a most pleasant afternoon.

Thanks were voiced by Mrs. Beatty to Mrs. Herrington, the secretary, and to Mrs. Tanner, the hostess, and to all who helped to make the meeting so pleasant.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE LOVES HIM—HE DOESN'T LOVE HER

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For a long time now I've been in love with a very wonderful person. When we meet off and on, I try to act like a friend, but he does not want even that.

Recently, I was in desperate trouble, and I think I would have given almost anything for a word of encouragement from him, but he didn't send it, and though my mind tells me he was unkind, my heart tells me it doesn't matter when I love him so.

J.S.

Dear J.S.:

Let's take up first this matter of the young man's failure to send you "a word of encouragement" when you needed it.

You say your mind tells you that he was unkind, but obviously your mind is looking at it purely from your own viewpoint. Evidently he hasn't corrected you that, since it seems quite clear this chap isn't interested in you, he might have felt it would "encourage" you in the wrong way if he attempted to console you. In other words, he might have thought you would get the idea that he really was interested in you, and he didn't want to run the risk of giving you any such false impression. From what you say, I would think that you are in a mood to interpret even the slightest sign, of conventional politeness as an indication of something much than it was, and it's quite likely that he would see it this way, too.

As for wasting time yearning for someone who isn't yearning for you, sometimes it's hard to stop doing it, it's true, but it's worth the effort, because by keeping on that way, you're cheating yourself of possible opportunities to interest someone else. Moreover, the very best chance of getting attention from the man who interests you, is to be a girl, or a woman, who has so many friends, and is so busy with activities she enjoys, that she fairly sparkles with vitality and enthusiasm. That's the kind of person everybody wants to know, and I advise you to start being one right away!

SHE MOTHER WON'T LET HER GO OUT

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I will soon be 16 years old, and my parents will not allow me to go anywhere after dark with either another girl or a boy. I have tried to reason with them, and I have tried to help my mother around the house so she will see I think of her. She has met my girl friends, but she won't even let me go to the show with them. I go around with kids who behave themselves, and we would never get into any trouble.

What is specially worrying me now is that I am about to lose my best girl friends, and we have always had a lot of fun together. I don't blame anybody for not wanting to go around with me when I can't ever go any place.

A.S.

Dear A.S.:

I am sure you know that this problem of yours is one a great many other girls have, and it's one that no girl can help feeling very unhappy about.

At the same time, there is one thing that sometimes helps in a situation like this, and that is for the girl to get one of her friends to ask her mother if she may go somewhere, instead of the girl asking herself. It's much harder for a parent to refuse someone outside the family, who makes the request as the girl's friend.

If I were you, I would be very frank with my girl friends about the whole thing and ask them to help you with it. Every mother's heart is kindly toward young people who are courteous enough, and thoughtful enough, to pay some attention and to show that they understand that any mother is concerned about her daughter's welfare.

So next time you want to go out with your friends, get them to come to the house and ask if you may go with them I have an idea it might work, particularly if you don't ask too many times all at once but get your mother gradually used to the idea.

Answered by Mary Moore

NOTE:

I am not clairvoyant. A few of you have written to me signing with initials and giving no address. That's fine but you'll wait 3 weeks for an answer in this column—maybe longer. Do yourself a favor and enclose addressed stamped envelop.

QUESTION:

For the past four years I have been baking Christmas cake and after my cake is a couple of weeks old mold forms around the fruit. ..as I can't figure out what causes this I would appreciate your help.—Teresa G.

ANSWER:

There are several reasons for mold but it is usually milk or cream in the cake. You will notice that none of my recipes contains either milk or cream. At the risk of sounding cocky I recommend that you use the fruit cake recipes I give you here. If you have missed them send me your name and address and I will send you recipes, but be sure to repeat your question.

QUESTION:

Some members of my family are allergic to the added vitamins "A" and "D" in evaporated milk and margarine ... is it possible to obtain margarine and evaporated milk without this vitamin ... milk with only the natural vitamins? If so would you tell me where it may be bought or what milk companies pack it?—Mrs. Mary P.

ANSWER:

I am not absolutely sure, but I think the answer is "no". All of the margarine sold in Canada contains Vitamin "A" and all but four contain "D". The evaporated milk all contains "D", in the area in which you live the Central Alberta Dairy Pool operates at Red Deer. Write to them. They might give you more satisfactory information.

QUESTION:

. . .one of your readers asked for Scotch Oat Cakes ... my husband is Scottish and loves Oat Cakes (from following recipe).

SCOTCH OAT CAKES

(Courtesy Hope Y.)

Measure 1 cup each whole wheat flour and sifted all-purpose flour, and add 1 teaspoon each salt and soda. Cut into this 1 cup shortening (I use 1-4 cup bacon fat and 3-4 cup commercial shortening). Blend into this 3 cups rolled oats, 1 cup oatmeal, 1 cup cooking bran. You may use all rolled oats if you prefer. Mix with enough water to make a soft dough, to roll out, to thickness of thin cookie in 6 or 7-inch rounds using canister lid as a marked, then mark these into quarters, lift onto cookie sheet and bake at 325 deg. for 15 minutes. . . delicious with cheese or fruit and keep well in tin.

I have 3 little questions: when you have not specified what type of flour do we assume it to be all-purpose? . . . and baking powder double acting Are- . . . and . . . super shortenings you sometimes specify? Many of your fans I feel I know you and your Pets and Marianne and know you must be a very happy family.—Hope Y.

ANSWER:

Your recipe helps answer letter below too. Thank you. Answers to your questions are in order in which you asked them: Yes, No, Yes.

QUESTION:

Herewith some recipes you asked for. . . isn't Florence M. T. wonderful! I thought I was good but I am not in that class I do think that long-term planning gives better meals and greater economy, and what most women will not believe it saves time and effort . . . I plan my meals for the most except in summer. I would like help with two meals built around pies: first Tourtiere, second Hungarian Cheese Tart . . . I would like somethin' light, free of fat . . . I shall send the recipe for Cheese Tart when I have worked it out better. . . I wish someone would come up with the recipe for real Scotch Oat Cakes.—B. B. D.

ANSWER:

They did, B.B.D. See above. Yes, please do send the Cheese Tart. This is my idea for that meal: Have your hors d'oeuvres, then real French Onion Soup with toasted croutons and Parmesan sprinkled on; then one role (filet) baked for each serve with Sauce Supreme (1 cup white sauce made with white wine. To 1 cup add 1-4 cup each cream, 1 tablespoon pounded mushrooms, 1-2 tablespoon lemon juice); a tossed Green salad with French Dressing. If it is a savory Tourtiere like ham or chicken or cheese, preface it with genuine tomato bisque, after the tourtiere serve stuffed tomato or Avocado salad with Roquefort dressing, and finish with an assortment of gorgeous French pastries and cafe noir. Thanks ever so much for the generous sheaf of recipes.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

HAIRDOS FOR LITTLE GIRLS

At conventions of hairdressers where lovelies strut their coiffure models nowadays there are nearly always several little girl models included. Children receive careful attention in beauty shops, too; they aren't just shampooed and pigtailed as in the past. There are given trims and, if the hair is inclined to curl, they may be sent to encourage a lovely pattern to form, to make the wave more defined.

The wise mother understands that keeping a child looking sweet and pretty is not likely to make her vain; instead it will develop self-respect, a certain amount of childish poise and dignity. Any healthy lassie can be groomed in to an attractive personality, no matter how plain her features. A fastidious mother will, therefore, take her little daughter by the hand and lead her along the right beauty course. In return the child will take pride in looking scrupulously clean, tidy and well-groomed.

With home permanents simplified so that they are given quickly and with no discomfort to the juvenile subject, it is possible for a mother to give her child-a curl that will last for some time. If the ends are not trimmed afterwards the wave will survive for at least six months. Directions must be followed carefully to avoid frizziness and to insure fluid wave lines. The extra is trifling.

Hair stylists are now including the members of the "baby fry" in their designs. An arrangement that is lovely on a child of six or seven shows a soft short bang, the locks brushed straight back, front and back, and tied with an Alice-in-Wonderland band of ribbon. This style is particularly becoming to a little girl with heart-shaped face and forehead, narrow, pointed chin.

The child with the round face will look pretty with a side parting, hair brushed upward in front to give the face more of an oval contour.

If the child's face is narrow, the neck-thin, the shoulder length is the best bet, with tresses allowed to fall slightly forward at the sides.

SYNTHETIC DRUG

Eucaine is sometimes used as a local anaesthetic instead of cocaine, being less poisonous.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

HER ONLY SON KILLED . . .

SHOULD SHE SEND CHRISTMAS CARDS THIS YEAR?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Just after Christmas last year my only son, was killed in action in Korea. (What devastating words, "killed in action"!) Just before he wrote me as happily about his plans to be home with me "next Christmas" and what a wonderful reunion we would have. (I am a widow, and he was my only child.) I have been so desperately sad and lonely that it just never occurred to me to plan to send Christmas cards this year. But yesterday I was thinking how wonderfully good and kind my friends have been to me, since my boy went away, and I thought I would write you (you have, Mrs. Beeckman, helped me several times before) to ask you if you think I should make the effort to send cards to my friends. Please help me by giving me your kindly advice. And I thank you.

Mary C.

I wish I had just the right and comforting words, dear lady, to answer your heartbreaking question. If your spirit is too heavy, I would be the last one to advise you to send Christmas cards this year. Your friends, no good and kind as they are, would understand and, undoubtedly your own unhappiness in wishing happiness to them. Your friends will be deeply touched to have you write to them the devoted message, "I am thinking of you with love and deep gratitude."

HOW TO ANSWER GOOD WISHES FROM GOOD FRIENDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a question which, for a very special reason, I am particularly anxious to have you answer for me. I was a bride-elect and recently married for the second time. I received some beautiful wedding congratulation cards. Will it be correct for me to send thank-you cards with a few words written on them to thank these good loyal friends of mine?

R.

Please do send notes of thanks to these kind and thoughtful friends for their good wishes. But please don't send thank-you cards . . . these ready - made cards are never correct. Gracious! Write these notes of yours on regular letter-paper, or on that semi-note paper . . . this (and your own dainty handwriting!) will give the proper background to your sincere words of appreciation. For example, you

Junior Farmers Institute Discuss Christmas Party

The Junior Farmers and Institute held their meeting recently in Canniffon hall.

A discussion took place regarding the advisability of holding a Christmas party and the exchange of gifts. Since Mr. Workman had been so kind as to assist in helping the square dancing classes, it was decided to give him a gift, and also since Joyce Lott is still confined to hospital, it was thought a nice gesture would be to send her a gift from each Junior.

A sing-song was led by Marilyn Wicks, after which a paper was read by Doug. Rollins. The Christmas song leader will be Bruce MacPherson. Those taking part at the next meeting will be Mrs. George Clare, Beryl Swan and Milton Treverton. The hostess will be Jean Hall.

Mr. Al Pirocki gave a most interesting talk on "puppets" in the community. The recreation period was in charge of Alvin Tait.

Refreshments were served.

Dear Katherine,

How good and kind and thoughtful you were to write me such friendly words of good wishes for our marriage! Thank you and bless you for the happiness your words brought me.

Women's Institute

IVANHOE W.I.

The Ivanhoe Women's Institute was held at the home of Miss Helen Terry which was decorated with beautiful streamers, wreaths and candles, the atmosphere reviving the spirit of Christmas.

There were 24 ladies of the community present. The president opened the meeting with a poem "Too Bad Christmas Comes but Once a Year." A sing-song of Christmas carols was directed by Mrs. R. Haggerty and Mrs. G. Wood.

In the business part of the meeting, plans were discussed for the "At Home" supper and banquet to be held on the 20th of January.

The story of Santa Claus or "St. Nicholas", was given by Mrs. J. McFarey.

A splendid report was given by the secretary, Mrs. J. Wright, on the Institute convention held in Belleville.

Miss Edna Tanner gave a paper "What Christmas Means to Me," which was prepared by Mrs. Sager, who took for her theme "Christ or Christmas", taking one back to the prophecy of the Old Testament, following on down through the ages to the present day, asking "what does Christmas mean to the average children of today," and ending this most important message with a poem to the older folk and children. The Institute feels indebted to Mrs. Sager for this splendid paper.

A contest of the best wrapped gift was conducted by the president, Mrs. E. McMaster, the taking part were, Mrs. J. Gay, Mrs. C. Douglas, Mrs. P. Cooney, Mrs. H. Cook and the judges were, Mrs. M. Sarles, Mrs. A. Wood, Mrs. J. McFarey. The prize went to Mrs. P. Cooney.

An exchange of gifts came next. These were piled underneath a beautifully decorated tree. As the secretary called the names each received her gift with a burst of surprise and happiness.

A social half hour was spent enjoying sandwiches and Christmas cookies thus bringing to a conclusion the Christmas meeting.

MARMORA W.I.

The December meeting of the Marmora Women's Institute was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. P. R. Wells, 111 the president, Mrs. M. Kourie in the chair, and a good number of members in attendance.

Mrs. P. Gordon presented the monthly financial statement showing funds to be in good condition. In response to a communication from the Mental Health Association, it was decided to make a donation to that body. J. was reported that more information had been received from Mrs. Wise concerning her play, which it is hoped the branch will be able to put on at a future date.

It was also decided to give the Marmora Branch of the Canadian Legion $10 towards the latter's Christmas Cheer project.

Mrs. E. Neal gave a reading "Another Kind of Santa Claus".

The members sang two Christmas carols with Mrs. E. C. Prentice at the piano.

Miss Grace Warren followed with a humorous reading, "Limberger Cheese."

A guessing contest was won by Mrs. H. F. Naylor.

The annual exchange of Christmas gifts was then enacted, and after the meeting closing the committee for the month served refreshments.

The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. Hewitt.

RETURN TO WORK

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—A total of 7,500 men returned to work Tuesday at two American-owned copper mines, ending a 45-day strike for more pay and security benefits. The Anaconda Copper Co. did n.t meet the workers' demands, but promised to study them during a 30-day cooling-off period.

ELDORADO — UNION W.M.S.

The Christmas meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Clayton Blackburn. The tree and decorations were a fine setting for this occasion.

The president opened with a call to worship and the hymn "Come to My Heart, Lord Jesus."

In the business period, plans were made for the January meeting to be a potluck dinner in the basement of Union church, also the completion of the slate of officers for 1954.

Mrs. Cecil Blackburn, reporting for Temperance, told an interesting story of how Mrs. Gubbins learned the food value or lack of it in beer while doing her grocery shopping.

Mrs. C. Blakelly, speaking for Stewardship, asked the members to consider ways of sharing and spreading joy to those less fortunate at the Christmas season.

Mrs. Lane had planned a story for Yuletide program, and Mrs. Gerald Blackburn read the Christmas beatitudes. Mrs. Allison Shupert gave a piano solo, "Star of the East"; Mrs. Frank Palmer read a poem, "The Touch of Christmas Magic"; and Mrs. Chambers gave a Christmas meditation, "What Does Christmas Mean to You?" Mrs. Mel Johnson delighted everyone with a solo, "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night." Prospects for Peace Brightens, World Tensions Eased in '53

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prospects for peace brightened and world tensions generally eased during 1953. Not since the end of the Second World War had a year brought as many encouraging developments toward settling world conflicts.

The cold war was still far from over. But the hot war in Korea ended after more than three years of inconclusive fighting. A new approach had been made to the problem of controlling atomic energy. And a new regime in the Kremlin was compelled to devote at least part of its energy to domestic problems.

The Commonwealth crowned a new Queen and hoped for a new Elizabethan age. Four days before her Coronation, New Zealander Edmund Hillary and Sherpa guide Tenzing scaled the hitherto unconquerable Mount Everest. Hillary won a knighthood for his feat.

Also knighted was Prime Minister Churchill, who strove in his 80th year to join leaders of the western world in building a lasting peace to follow his achievements in war.

Dwight D. Eisenhower assumed the presidency of the United States and closed the year with a dramatic appeal to the United Nations General Assembly for the pooling of world atomic resources for peaceful ends.

MALENKOV SUCCEEDS STALIN

While Eisenhower's Republican administration was taking root in Washington, the death of Joseph Stalin brought Georgi Malenkov to the helm in Moscow and the watchers world tried to assess the effects of the change.

Within four months after his accession, Malenkov had put down bloody riots in East Germany and Czechoslovakia and purged his most powerful vice - premier, former police chief Lavrenty Beria, for "criminal anti-state activities."

A year of cautious sparring on global issues between the East and West ended as Russia, the U.S., Britain and France agreed to a conference of their foreign ministers in Berlin to take up again such long-standing questions as the German and Austrian peace treaties.

Signing of a Korean armistice July 27 followed three years and 2 days of war. The truce talks themselves had lasted two years and 17 days and there were indications that the wrangle over peace terms would continue.

The armistice itself nearly foundered when President Syngman Rhee of South Korea released 27,000 anti-Communist North Korean prisoners in June. The truce terms called for all prisoners unwilling to return to their own side to remain in neutral custody and to submit to "explanations" inducing them to change their minds.

Only a small percentage of the unwilling prisoners consented to turn after the "explanations." And there was further disagreement as to the fate of those who still resisted repatriation.

WARFARE OVER RUSSIA

The peace conference also was seized in preliminary disagreement. The Reds demanded that India, Burma, Indonesia or Pakistan participate as "neutrals." The United States originally objected to neutral participation but later consented on condition that Russia take part as a fighting participant rather than a non-voting "neutral."

While the Reds insisted on Russia's "neutral" status, Rhee objected to India's inclusion, insisting that the Nehru government is pro-Communist."

Relations improved between the East and Middle Eastern countries.

Iran's Shah ousted Mohammed Mossadegh, the fiery, 70-year-old premier who had expropriated the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company and vehemently denounced the western powers. Mossadegh was jailed and charged with treason against the royal family.

Britain's dispute with Egypt over the fate of the Sudan and British occupation of the Suez canal zone also appeared headed for peaceful settlement.

There was trouble in other British colonies, chiefly the South American state of British Guiana, where the colonial office ousted Premier Cheddi Jagan's government on charges of Communist domination, and the East African colony of Kenya, where warfare continued against the anti-white Mau Mau society.

TRIESTE TROUBLE SPOT

A joint British - American announcement that troops were to be withdrawn from Trieste, of which the two powers are joint trustees, caused friction between Italy and Yugoslavia.

The Italians promised eventual ownership of the Adriatic port itself, claimed the entire territory. Yugoslavia, claiming rights to the area surrounding the city, protested and troops lined both sides of the border. The tension subsided when the UN trustees postponed their withdrawal.

The slow build-up of European defence forces continued. West Germany voiced its approval by re-electing Chancellor Konrad Adenauer over his Socialist opponents who attacked German participation in a European army.

Formation of the army itself still was delayed, pending ratification by the governments of the powers concerned. A strong section of French opinion remained hesitant, fearing the power of a rearmed West Germany.

French Furious Over Dulles' Pressure for Approval Of Combined European Army

By TOM MASTERSON

PARIS (AP)—The North Atlantic Treaty Organization's Council of Ministers heard more discussion of Europe's political situation—amid a storm of protest aroused by John Foster Dulles' warning that France must ratify the European army pact soon or face a United States "reappraisal" of its European policies.

French officials were reported furious over the U. S. state secretary's blunt remarks, which implied that any reappraisal might involve a shift of U. S. troops and aid from Europe. Paris newspapers termed his statement a "brutal ultimatum."

In London, British newspapers of varying political shades also sharply criticized the remarks as "clumsy" and "best left unsaid." But officials were guarded or refused comment on Dulles' declaration, though Italian Premier Giuseppe Pella termed it "a very courageous statement." A. W. Bejen, Dutch foreign minister, called it "very important."

"I have nothing at all to say," snapped Foreign Minister Bidault of France. British Foreign Minister refused comment.

Dulles' press conference after addressing the opening meeting of the NATO council gathered documents as he made the same points to the council.

U. S. WARNING

In the strongest language yet heard at a NATO meeting, Dulles warned:

1. Unless the European Defence Community treaty is ratified quickly, the U. S. will have to "radically" look at its basic obligations to NATO, and the disposition of U. S. forces "would, of course, be a factor in the agonizing reappraisal."

2. If the Western countries, "especially France and Germany" decide to continue their present failing to unite, "they may have to commit it a failure."

Dulles' threats were aimed mainly at the French, who first proposed rearming Germany as a counter on the ides. They fear that the pact, which would put West German divisions into a six-power European army, would give German troops a springboard to invade France.

Yet most French leaders agree that a European army including West German troops is necessary to defend western Europe against possible Soviet attack.

Dulles' blast also appeared aimed at Italy and Britain. The Italian government has threatened to hold up action on EDC until settlement of its dispute with Yugoslavia over Trieste. Britain has turned down French pleas that she ally herself unreservedly with the pact to prevent German domination of the organization.

The Paris newspaper L'Aurore, normally pro-American, described Dulles' statement as "scarifications" and accused him of "a complete lack of diplomacy."

In Britain, The Manchester Guardian, a liberal paper with independent views, said Dulles' words would be folly, simply because of failure to get agreement quickly on arming Germany, to tear down the structures which have been built in Europe since 1950. The suicide would be America's as much as Europe's."

The pro - Conservative London Daily Telegraph said Dulles' "outburst" would have been "better left unsaid."

Wielding a "big stick Mr. Dulles has given a boost to Russia's ambition" — reading West Europe from the U. S.

To Get $146,500 For Loss of Legs

NEW YORK (AP)—The largest accident settlement in the history of Bronx Supreme Court—$146,500—was awarded today to a Dutch coastie worker who lost both legs as the result of an automobile accident.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. will pay $96,500 and the Dutch government Co. $50,000 to Harry Bergen, 25, of Rotterdam. The award made on the second day of Levine's negligence suit for $750,000 brought against the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. by employees, Harry Berman, whose arm was amputated in a accident involving Levine's car in 1951.

The Ind-multi-company was responsible for the accident insurance on Berman's car.

Britain Relaxes Ban on Spain Purchasing Arms

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain has withdrawn a ban on the export to Spain of some modern military equipment. The foreign office announced today.

This will allow Spain to buy older British jet fighters but not the latest supersonic models, the spokesman said.

Since July last year the British government has allowed Spain to buy from Britain only obsolescent "common use" military materials.

Selwyn Lloyd, minister of state for foreign affairs, told the House of Commons Monday in a written reply that the government had decided "to relax to some extent the restrictions on the export of arms to Spain," but gave no other details.

The foreign office today said the ban has been withdrawn "for commercial reasons."

Member Requests Law Against Discrimination

TORONTO (CP) — Donald C. MacDonald, Ontario CCF leader, urged the provincial government Monday to announce legislation which would outlaw racial discrimination in Ontario, with the abolition north of Suchiana.

Following a provincial party executive meeting Saturday, Mr. MacDonald said the broadening of existing anti-discrimination legislation should be carried out at the February session of the Legislature.

Toronto Labor Council (CIO-CCL) Monday night protested what it called "outrageous" treatment of Negroes at Dresden.

Dennis McCarthy, a member of the joint labor committee for human rights, said Dresden is "a blot on Canada's conscience."

He said there is no provincial legislation to stop public places from discrimination against Negroes. He said education is needed as well as regulations.

John Pallett PC Candidate For Peel Seat

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — John Pallett, 33-year-old Port Credit lawyer, Monday was chosen Progressive Conservative candidate for the Peel federal seat left vacant last September by the death of Gordon Graydon.

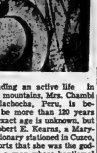
More than 300 delegates attended the Peel County Progressive Conservative Association convention at which Mr. Pallett was nominated. The only other nominee was Mrs. Mary Port Credit publisher, withdrew.

Thomas L. Kennedy, member of the Ontario legislature for Peel and former Ontario Agricultural Minister, predicted that Mr. Pallett will be elected by the biggest majority in any first-run candidate in the province.

Carver Finishes Reproduction Of Tribal Home for Indians

VICTORIA (CP)—Future generations will be given an insight into the way North American Indians lived before the white-man came through the genius of an old Indian carver, employed by the British Columbia government for the last year.

Mungo Martin, a member of the Kwakiutl tribe and one of the few totem pole carvers left in B.C., has all but finished a reproduction of a tribal home at Thunderbird Park here.



A modern machine was employed to hoist into place in front of the house an imposing, 38-foot totem pole, carved with the assistance of his son, David.

TO HOLD POTLACH

Martin, in the tradition of his tribe, climbed to the top of the pole to announce a potlach and housewarming for which he will be host held soon.

More than 200 Indians from many parts of the province will gather at the potlach to pow-row, dance and watch what anthropologists have described as the weirdest tricks in the world.

Medicine men will cause members of their tribe to "disappear" into a huge bonfire which will blaze in the centre of the 40- by 40-foot floor and a dance wedge apparently will be driven into a man's head. These tricks are done by the means of optical illusion.

The totem pole which Chief Mungo Martin will start planning another reproduction for when the carving house of the Haida tribe, from the Queen Charlotte coast.

The 74-year-old Indian was commissioned about a year ago by the B.C. government to restore and copy old totem poles before decay, vandalism and souvenir hunters prevent specimens of Indian craft.

Martin has made several smaller totem poles that rise to a height of 40 feet.

The last totem pole turned out by Martin was carved to represent all Kwakiutl tribes. It is called the Walls, Nakoak took, Nimpkish and Kwakiutl Thunderbird.

Surmounting the pole is Tsoona, the Thunderbird, and underneath the Wa'ibul, representing a bear after it had been transformed into human form. Next is the beaver, Tsa'wae, while at the bottom are the mythical giantess, Dzonoqua, and her son.

Martin has named his new house "Wa'waditla," which literally translated means: "He orders them to make a bundle." It indicates the chief is so powerful that other people's wishes in his house are to be his servant.

Seguin Loses Appeal for New Trial on Charge of Murder

TORONTO (CP)—Henri Seguin, 28-year-old Cornwall laborer, has lost his appeal for a new trial on a charge of murder in the shooting of a Cornwall district taxicab operator.

The Ontario Court of Appeal ruled unanimously Monday that evidence against him was so overwhelming that any interference with the verdict "would be tantamount to legalizing the cause of justice."

Seguin was sentenced to be hanged Jan. 19. If he dies on the scaffold his execution will be Cornwall's first in 23 years.

His counsel, E. J. Houston of Cornwall, said after the appeal was handed down its verdict that he will seek permission to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Seguin was convicted Oct. 29 of the shooting Aug. 20, 1953, of taxi driver Leonard Hurd, 41, of Maxville, who was found riddled with bullets in one of his taxis on a sideroad near Cornwall. Hurd had been robbed of $1,700.

LINKED BY FINGERPRINTS

Four months after the slaying, Seguin was shot and wounded by the RCMP near Williams Lake in the Cariboo country of British Columbia following an attempt to hold up the Williams Lake Branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. He was later sentenced to 20 years in penitentiary for attempted murder of the bank manager.

Police said fingerprints linked him with the Ontario killing and he was brought east for trial.

Two vital bits of evidence at the trial were presented as coming-at Seguin with the crime. One was a pouch containing his army discharge papers and the other was a gun with the name "Jean Beaudry" marked on the inside. Beaudry was the name of Seguin's step-father and Seguin had used that name.

Chief Justice J. W. Pickup said the appeal court of five judges she was unanimous in the opinion that Mr. Justice D. H. Barlow, the trial judge, correctly charged the jury. He also said the evidence adduced was presented at the trial "in the most impartial manner."

MAIN POINT

One of the main points of appeal concerned testimony of Constable McKibbon, a bookkeeper employed by Hurd at the Maxville garage and taxi stand. McKibbon testified Seguin told him "it would be a good thing if Hurd was dead" on the head and take his money."

The defence said the trial judge did not clearly tell the jury that McKibbon, who had a criminal record, was "an unsavory character and his evidence should have been accepted with reservation."

Chief Justice Pickup said the appeal court found that the trial judge's actions were adequate in the case.

"Even though the judge's attitude may have seemed partial, there was evidence of overwhelming guilt."

Queen and Duke On Most Confusing Part of Tour

ABOARD S.S. GOTHIC (CP)—The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh are on the most confusing part of their six-month Commonwealth tour with the crossing of the international date line scheduled for tonight—or was it Tuesday night or will it be Wednesday night?

For the last few days this royal liner has been steaming closer to the 180th meridian, where the 12-hour difference from Greenwich means time snarls in different days on each side of the imaginary north-south line.

As of this morning, from the point of view of eastern standard time, the Gothic was six hours behind. But Wednesday morning, again from the point of view of EST, the Gothic will be 18 hours ahead.

As the liner crosses the date line from east to west those on board are precipitated, as far as their calendar is concerned, from Tuesday into Wednesday.

CROSS NEAR SAMOA

The Gothic's crossing is set for some time before midnight, in the region of the Samoa group of islands where the British author Robert Louis Stevenson lies buried.

Monday, from their private deck, the royal couple watched a Royal New Zealand Air Force flying boat and the cruiser Black Prince, New Zealand's naval escort for the Gothic.

The white hull of the flying boat, gleaming in the sunshine, was sighted for more than half an hour as it flew near the Gothic and the Black Prince in wide circles.

The Queen Mother asked for news of the Black Watch, which is the Royal Highland Regiment of Canada, and received a succinct of its loyalty to the crown.

Col. Seamark, with his wife and two children, sails from Liverpool Saturday aboard the liner Franconia.

Six Killed In Plane Crash

CAIRO (Reuters)—Six persons were killed when an Egyptian airliner on a flight from Cairo to Luxor, Egypt, crashed five miles East of Abnaas airport today. The victims were the pilot and four other crew members, and one passenger.

Sandwich East Asking Review of Assessments

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Suburban Sandwich East council Monday night decided to ask the assessment department of the Ontario department of municipal affairs to investigate the system of assessments in the township.

A flood of complaints followed the mailing of this year's assessment notices in which values were increased on many properties. Court of revision heard 279 appeals and granted reductions in many.

American TV Is Defended In Parliament

LONDON (Reuters) — American television was defended in the House of Commons Monday night as the government's plan for commercial television came under opposition fire.

David Gammans, assistant postmaster-general, said the government plan did not follow the American idea of sponsored TV.

But, he asked, how many of those who criticized American TV had "the slightest idea of the vast variety of good programs it produced."

With all its "shortcomings," American TV has produced "an enormous vitality and range of programs far beyond anything acquired in Britain," he added.

VIRILITY NEEDED

Gammans warned that unless British producers showed virility in industry, the United States will capture the world's TV markets. "Even in Commonwealth countries like Canada, which do not want to be entirely dependent on American influence."

Under the government program, an independent television authority will compete with the state-owned BBC, now the sole telecasting body.

Father Given Ten Years On Serious Charge

L'ORIGNAL, Ont. (CP)—Emile Beaulne, 43, was convicted Monday on charges of keeping a common bawdy house, compelling the prostitution of his wife and encouraging the seduction of two girls. His wife was convicted on two similar charges.

Beaulne was sentenced to 10 years on the first charge, three on the second and one on the third. The terms are to be served consecutively.

His wife Gabrielle was sentenced to an indefinite term of two years less one day to Mercer Reformatory, Toronto, on both charges against her of being an inmate of a common house and of encouraging the morals of her child.

The Beaulnes lived on their farm in the care of the L'Orignal Children's Welfare Society.

Passing sentence, Magistrate Leopold Lalonde said, "I have searched in vain for words to describe your conduct."

Wintry Weather Hits Big Section Of Eastern U.S.

CHICAGO (AP)—Wintry weather hit wide areas of the eastern third of the United States today. Snow or rain fell from Lake Michigan to the east coast, with heavy falls of snow over the Ohio valley.

The coldest weather of the season chilled the central part of the country. It was five below zero in International Falls, Minn., on the Canadian border. Temperatures were in the 20s in parts of Kentucky and Tennessee. Colder weather appeared in prospect for the mid-continent tonight.

Rain ended along the eastern seaboard after heavy falls that day from North Carolina to south New England. New York City's rainfall measured nearly two inches.

SLUSHY ACROSS BORDER

In most areas, air, rail and road traffic was back to normal this morning, although airline flights in and out of Buffalo had been grounded.

Light snow was expected in western and central New York today.

Six inches of snow fell in the western part of the state Monday.

RESERVES JUDGMENT

TORONTO (CP)—Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court reserved judgment Monday on a $15,400 damage action brought by Norman Bradshaw 42, against a surgeon he claims left part of a surgical instrument in his abdomen after an operation.

Bradshaw said a three-inch piece of an instrument was left in him during a kidney stone operation performed by Dr. Charles Robson last June 25.

Italian Workers Walk Out On Another One-Day Strike

ROME (AP)—Italian labor threw another sharp strike punch today in its efforts to win jobs for idle people.

Millions of industrial, construction and utilities workers walked off their jobs for 24 hours.

It was the second general strike in the nation in less than a week and the fall. The walkouts are held to 24 hours because neither the workers nor employers can afford longer and anti-Red, have the money for a long strike.

Industry and building projects were the first to feel the effects of todays walkouts. Those workers were ordered to stay out from 8 a.m. until the same hour Wednesday.

Construction projects in Rome were idle but some factory workers in the capital and in the industrial North reported for work.

Pearson Says NATO Cannot Afford to Stop

PARIS (CP)—L. B. Pearson, Canada's external affairs minister, told the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is at present engaged in a long-distance race with time and that it is up to congress and come to a point of issue.

Speaking during a session on international co-operation at the three-day NATO conference here, Pearson said this meant settling down to the "real" task of developing with the non-military co-operation of NATO members.

He recalled the declaration made by President Eisenhower on his recent visit to Ottawa, when the U. S. president said Canada and the United States must march together for the defence of the North Atlantic community without reducing their pledges to their European allies.

U.S. Envoy Dean Says Reds 'Are Deliberately Stalling' In Having Position Aired

NEW PHONE LEAVES BOTH HANDS FREE

Margaret Dcoovoh tries out a new type of telephone booth in Boston which enables her to carry on a conversation and still have both hands free to make notes or hold parcels. The test booth, only one of its kind in public service, consists of a recessed speaker and microphone with a switch and knob for sound volume control. An attendant is necessary since there is no dial or coin box in the booth.—Central Press Canadian.

TOKYO (AP)—United States envoy Arthur H. Dean arrived today en route to Washington after rejecting a Communist proposal for immediate resumption of negotiations to set up a Korean peace conference.

The state department envoy, who for seven weeks wrangled with Red diplomats at Panmunjon for the United Nations countries which fought in Korea, said he won't return to the conference table unless the Communists retract charges that the U.S. connived with South Korea to release 27,000 anti-Red war prisoners last June.

Dean broke off the talks Saturday. A Communist note delivered early Tuesday suggested immediate resumption of the talks. But an Allied spokesman said the note also repeated "the Red charges of perfidy"

It drew a prompt rejection.

"I shall not be with you . . . at any time until you make an appropriate retraction or correction of this insult in a manner satisfactory to my government," Dean wrote in his reply.

He will leave Wednesday for Washington to report to state department and officials of the 15 other UN belligerents, including Canada.

He was returning to the 22,000 anti-Communist North Korean and Chinese prisoners who overwhelmingly have rejected repatriation to return home during explanations.

The Reds, he said, "knowingly and intentionally wrecked" the UN-Red explanation meetings "on non-repatriates because "so few of their soldiers want to come home."

The U.S. state department Monday called its ambassadors representing its Korean war allies for a briefing on why the talks were broken off.

U.S. officials told the envoys Dean suspended the talks but did not break them off entirely, until the Reds withdraw their perfidy charges and show a willingness to negotiate in good faith.

ROBINSON DELIGHTED

Dean received a rousing send-off at Seoul airport from South Korean.

President Syngman Rhee in a statement expressed his approval, "a signal victory" that will "tremendously boost the morale and unity of the free Asian-Pacific peoples throughout the world."

Wintry Weather Hits Big Section Of Eastern U.S.

CHICAGO (AP)—Wintry weather hit wide areas of the eastern third of the United States today. Snow or rain fell from Lake Michigan to the east coast, with heavy falls of snow over the Ohio valley.

The coldest weather of the season chilled the central part of the country. It was five below zero in International Falls, Minn., on the Canadian border. Temperatures were in the 20s in parts of Kentucky and Tennessee. Colder weather appeared in prospect for the mid-continent tonight.

Rain ended along the eastern seaboard after heavy falls that day from North Carolina to south New England. New York City's rainfall measured nearly two inches.

SLUSHY ACROSS BORDER

In most areas, air, rail and road traffic was back to normal this morning, although airline flights in and out of Buffalo had been grounded.

Light snow was expected in western and central New York today.

Six inches of snow fell in the western part of the state Monday.

RESERVES JUDGMENT

TORONTO (CP)—Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court reserved judgment Monday on a $15,400 damage action brought by Norman Bradshaw 42, against a surgeon he claims left part of a surgical instrument in his abdomen after an operation.

Bradshaw said a three-inch piece of an instrument was left in him during a kidney stone operation performed by Dr. Charles Robson last June 25.

Laniel Plans To Seek French Presidency

PARIS (Reuters) — Premier Joseph Laniel announced today he will enter the race for the French presidency.

He is the fourth candidate named in the election, to be conducted in the National Assembly, on Dec. 23.

The presidency in France exists mainly to provide a figurehead chief of state, though it entails some political power in moments of government crisis. The president is elected by both houses of parliament instead of by popular vote.

Thursday's poll will choose a successor to Vincent Auriol whose term is expiring.

Besides Laniel three candidates are Marcel Naegelen, a Socialist, Senator Andre Cornu, who is nominated by his Radical party, and another Moderate Conservative Senator, Jacques Fourcade. He is also without the endorsement of his party.

CRITICIZE BEAVER SYMBOL

TORONTO (CP) — Mazo de la Roche, author of the Jalna stories, said Monday the beaver should never have been chosen as a symbol of Canada. "Who wants to work like a beaver, they like a beaver, delve continually into the past," she asked during an address to the Canadian Club. "The deer, graceful, symmetrical, would be a much better symbol."

MARMORA

MARMORA — Sponsored by Marmora District Chamber of Commerce, with the assistance of Marmora Branch No. 227, Canadian Legion, and other public spirited citizens, a Christmas Party assuming greater proportions than ever, delighted the children of Marmora village and township and Deloro, on Saturday afternoon.

Free treats for an additional 100 children had to be requisitioned after it had been thought all had been provided for.

Madoc Citizens' band was on good time for the arrangements made for children under school age at the Town Hall and played a fine program of exhilarating selections.

A large illuminated Christmas Tree surmounted by a big gleaming star had been erected on the lot near by of C. Row by the Bethlehem Steel management. As the children left the hall, Santa Claus and an attractive clown addicted to whistling injunctions, which had kept them animated within the building, handed them their gifts as they descended the story upstairs.

These two individuals then proceeded with the band to the Plaza theatre where school age juveniles were enjoying a free picture show to their hearts' content.

At its conclusion, they again carried on with the distribution of treats.

Mrs. Harry Walker, of Eldorado spent a couple of hours with Mrs. T. E. Potts, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Bedore and family, of Havelock, called on Mrs. W. Bedore, on Sunday.

Queen Approves As Sailors Find One Cockroach

ABOARD H. M. S. GOTHIC (Reuter)—Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh Monday watched the crew of the New Zealand escort cruiser Black Prince search their ship from stem to stern for a female cockroach.

The all-out scavenger hunt is one of the Royal Navy's time-honored methods of testing a ship's efficiency.

The men won a "welcome" from the Queen despite the fact they found only one and not two female cockroaches as ordered.

Cranberries

This Christmas when you are buying cranberries for Christmas dinner, turn the carton over and read the printing on the back, you may find that these berries were grown in Canada. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture tell us that cranberries are now being cultivated in the Maritime Provinces, Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia. Although the production of these berries is, as yet, not large enough for them to reach all the retail markets, it is growing every year. Let us hope that soon there will be Canadian cranberries in stores all across Canada.

The Lingenberry is a member of the cranberry family and both are of the same botanical family as blueberries. Cranberries were originally called "crane-berries" because the stalk resembled the neck of a crane, and these "crane-berries" were originally found growing wild in marshy low lands in North America. From the Indians, the pilgrim women learned how to use them. When farmers decided to cultivate the cranberry, the first thing they did was to study how and where the berry grew in the wild state. As a result, we now find cranberries being cultivated on low-lying lands in man-made bogs. The boys are so built that they can be flooded or drained with ease. If there is too much water in the bogs in the spring, they are drained but when they need water, they are flooded from a reserve dam.

PROTECTED FROM FROST

Cranberries are harvested before the heavy frosts can damage them. If the frosts happen to come too early and the berries are not ripe, the bogs are flooded with a small amount of water which protects the berries and keeps them from freezing. When the berries are ripe, men with large scoops that have combs like teeth harvest the berries. The pickers go along the bushes and more or less comb them with a scooping motion. These berries are then taken to the packing house where they are sorted, weighed and packed in consumer packages.

Cranberry sauce is the natural partner of roast turkey at the Christmas dinner, but after the turkey is finished sometimes some of the sauce is left over and so many housemakers do not know what to do with it. Of course many people enjoy cranberry sauce with other meats and some like it on their morning toast, but home economists have some good ideas for using left-over cranberry sauce. They are interesting ideas because they seem to have taste appeal as well as eye appeal. Take for instance this idea—ice cream with cranberry sauce topping. It sounds good and we can just imagine how colorful it is! The home economists mention that for a dessert with a festive air, the ice cream can be served in a meringue pie shell, vanilla ice cream of course, topped liberally with cranberry sauce. Just thinking of this dessert brings to mind the line of poetry about "a thing of beauty is a joy forever." Another new idea from the home economists has to do with pancakes or waffles served at breakfast, luncheon or supper. Instead of serving the pancakes or waffles with maple syrup and butter, the home economists suggest using cream cheese and cranberry sauce or jelly.

Cranberry glazed ham is another suggestion from the home economists. It is an easy procedure for it is a simple matter to glaze the ham with one cup of cranberry jelly and about one-quarter cup of prepared mustard. Incidentally, this fine glaze is very tasty for boiled tongue as well as for ham. And the last idea is cranberry muffins. Instead of making plain muffins, place a spoonful of cranberry sauce and about one tablespoon of brown sugar in the bottom of the muffin tin. Pour in the muffin batter and bake. When they are baked, these attractive muffins have a delightful red glaze on the bottom.

LONE ONE!

The Memos, fresh from shaking the feathers from the war bonnets of the Orillia Pontiacs Saturday night, battled gamely in a losing cause up in Fergie's Pueblo last evening and after leading the pestiferous Petes 3-1 at the end of the first bout, bowed to the fourth-placers by a 6-4 count.

The Memos, in all fairness to them, were minus the services of four of their regular players. Playing Coach "Red" Dornn, who injured a leg last week in a Kingston Goodyears clash and aggravated the injury Saturday night in the first few minutes of play, was sidelined, as was "Duke" Doran, who suffered a leg injury.

The rest of the crew with Peter Jones in a starring role, came up with a fine display but lacked the reserve strength to cope with the sub-brawny Petes in the third stanza. At that the issue was not decided until late in the bout after the Memos had come from behind to even the count. It could have been anybody's tainted wreath. Stomach was hurt and lacked a lot of fire after returning to the ice.

Peter Jones got himself a pair of goals for the second night in succession and Keith MacDonald hopped into the scoring column, too, for the second night in a row. Chum Fryia was the Petes' hero with a trio of markers.

... AND DON'T CHOKE—

Fill up your moorchasens with this, you football fans, professional and those who get paid for it. It comes from Paul Brown, mentor of the Cleveland Browns, whose hale shines with brilliance always and who should be voted the man who is most likely to succeed in football without getting paid for it."

Mr. Brown, in an article in the Stavesport, at long last gives a curious football public the secret of his superhuman success as mentor of a professional football team. It seems that Paul insists on at "Ah'd die fo dead ole Rutgahs" spirit rather than the morbid curiosity of how many feats of lettuce are in the weekly bundle. Good men, the very idea that his Browns would go out there, risking life and limb against the National Football League gargantuans, for the sake of getting mere money.

But here is what he wrote:

"This year we've been back on the old basis. One reason is that we can't afford to match men who were no longer willing to pay the price it takes to get to the top in football. I think this is best typified by two of our men who jumped to the Canadian League this year—Mac Speedie and John Kissell. They were getting a little more money, and they think they could last a couple of extra years up there. If I'd known they could be swayed on this basis (more money), I'd never have felt they belonged in our organization. I don't want any man to whom the game is just a job—a thing he gets paid for. I want men who play for the sheer joy of taking somebody."

All we can say is to warn Mr. Brown from attempting to recruit future Brownies from this neck of the woods. He'd have a helluva time getting pigskin punters from the ranks of college players up thisaway if he operates on the basis that his players should play "for the sheer joy of tickling somebody."

How gullible does the self-infuriated Com Paul think the public can get?

* * *

RINK IT OVER!

Chief Coach "Red" Doran, of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association, has reminded all players under the aegis of the association that they must come to a decision by December 19, regarding the Ontario Minor Hockey Association's insurance plan.

Players must hand in their insurance fee ($1.00) or a note to the effect they do not want the plan, along with their completed playing certificates.

Players and especially parents should consider the plan well before deciding against it. The cost is negligible, one dollar per year per player, while the benefits are away above the proportion of the premium.

While a lot of accidents can be avoided through care and caution, a percentage is "bound to happen". In hockey, like any other sport, where physical contact is part of the game, injuries are bound to occur. - Thank heavens, the percentage is negligible, especially in minor hockey.

Last year the OMHA paid some forty claims. When you consider some 18,000 young pucksters were engaged in hockey the scarcity of accidents is apparent. And only two or three of these accidents were of the "insurance" nature.

However, "King Accident" is no respecter of persons. Your son or my son may play through a dozen seasons without getting his shins "barked." The next year could be the year.

This department urges all parents of minor hockey players to take advantage of the generous proposition of the OMHA. A dollar spent now, may save them up to $250 before spring rolls around. And it is a nice thing for the peace of mind. Think it over.

* * *

And just to clear the air, the Belleville Minor Hockey Association does not get one cent from the dollar premiums. Nor does the OMHA. The OMHA merely acts as an agent for the provincial body, while it, in turn, forwards the premiums to the insurance company, and takes care of administration.

INVESTIGATE RUNNERS	SCORING SPREE
NEW YORK (AP)—Mal Whitfield and Wes Santee, two of the United States most brilliant runners, are under investigation for alleged violation of the amateur rules, Dan Ferris, secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union, said Monday night.	WOODSTOCK (CP) — Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League trounced Woodstock Athletics 20-2 in an exhibition game Monday night.
If the charges are proved the boosters could be barred for life, Ferris said.	Goal getters for the Canadiens included Spider Manor with three, and Doug Harvey, Boom Boom Geoffrion, Maurice Richard, Floyd Curry, Calum McKay and Dollard St. Laurent with two apiece.
The reports originated from Europe where Santee, the fastest U.S. miler and Whitfield, world half-mile champion, toured this summer.	Weiner Thrower, Bob Bowman and Buddy Evans scored for the Athletics, leaders in their Ontario Hockey Association Senior B group.

Team Disbanded in Cash Deal But Players Go To New Owners; OHA Clubs To Be Paid $17,000

TORONTO (CP)—Quebec Citadelles, who pleaded to get into Ontario's junior hockey circuit this season after they were disowned by the Quebec league, were disbanded Monday in a $26,500 deal.

The Ontario Hockey Association Junior A council announced late day night that Quebec Frontenacs of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association had bought the Citadelle franchise. The sale left eight teams in the Ontario loop.

The Citadelles, who have been losing money all season, would used to strengthen the Frontenac roster. All games involving Citadelles will be washed out and OHA teams now will play an interlocking schedule with Quebec clubs to fill in the gap.

Citadelles played only 26 games in the OHA and were in eighth place with eight victories, 17 defeats and one tie.

The OHA decided that Frank Byrne, owner of the Citadelles, would not lose his $25,000 bond, posting bond

Petes Strengthen Fourth-Place Position With 6-5 Verdict Over Memos

Minus Four Regular Players, Doran Crew Drops Decision After Blowing Two-Goal Lead

PETERBOROUGH — Chum Fryia's goal at 14.58 with the aid of a man short in the third period gave the Petes a 6-5 OHA Senior "B" triumph over Belleville Memos here last night before a small crowd. It was Fryia's first marker of the night. The win pulled the Petes up into a tie with Orillia in the standing and left Belleville in the cellar.

Red Doran's bunch rolled to a 3-1 lead in the first period but the Redmond men came back to outscore them 4-2 in the second for a 5-4 margin going into the third. Memos had it early for the last chukker but Petes got the odd counter for the game. Goalie Rollie Barratt was pulled in the last 12 seconds of play as Belleville fought fiercely but vainly for a draw. Petes checking desperately to maintain their margin.

Play was speedy over the route and generally clean, though 18 minor penalties were passed out, eight to a side. Young Davey Jones of Belleville set later Jud Bemark's mark when he'd returned to play again. Both goalies made some fine saves in the contest, with Jack Donlevy very tough to beat after the first period.

Fryia's three goals was a stellar performance for the home team, but Tookie Greenlaw was high on points with four assists. Denny Paterson was another star with two timely markers, and Bill McMeekan added on a pair. Coach Ed. Redmond scored a goal, while an assist each went to Rod Bemark, Garvey, Gus Leonard and Jim Munroe.

Peter Jones led for the Belleville attack with two goals and an assist. Jackie Wardhaugh and Erwin Duncan each notched one and helped on one, as Keith McDonald lit the lamp once. An assist apiece was chalked up to Jake Wade, Ed. Duncan, Jim Hull, Ted DeGray and Ed. Schreider.

Third Period

Penalties—Peterson, Schreider, McMaster.

SCORE FIRST

Erwin Duncan was serving an early booking penalty when Redmond scored on a hot angle shot from McMaster and Greenlaw, Collins went over for hooking and Prentice followed for playing with a broken stick. One was back when Erwin Duncan sided it up on goalie Barratt with Wade and Peter Jones. McMaster got it over for interference as Dave Jones hurt his knee. Memos cashed in the penalty and Peter Jones rapped in one nearly on passes from the Duncan brothers. Semark drew the nod for interference and was back when Dale got his foot away on the ice. Ed Duncan followed, to leave them shy two, but all were even when Wardhaugh checked, covered and waltzed in to score. Barletta was penalized later for holding and McMaster for interference.

Fryia got two quick ones in the next heat for Petes, Greenlaw and Munroe aiding on one, and Greenlaw and Leonard setting the next up. Semark was back for an interference sentence when Peterson, Belisle and Schreider on a play with Garvey and McMaster. Munroe went over for holding and Schreider got a similar penalty. All were back and Semark limped off injured. McDonald slapped one home for Memos with Hull and Wardhaugh, but Peterson's goal from Belisle put the Petes up again. Fryia was gated at the last for interference.

JONES TIES IT

Early in the third Peterson set one out for interference. He returned and the Petes were pressing for a spell, but Peter Jones tied it up on play in close with DeGray and Schreider. The latter then climbed the wall for blashing, and McMaster followed for holding. Memos were at full strength and Petes short a man when Fryia banged a long hard one from Greenlaw. It was partly screened and went in off Barratt's glove for the winning tally.

Belleville tried hard toward the end but were unable to sew it up.

The teams:

Belleville—Goal, Sarrault; defence, Wade and Schreider, Ed. Duncan; wings, Erwin Duncan and Dale Stargess, P. Jones, D. Jones, DeGray, Wardhaugh, McDonald, Hull, Bastedo and Semark.

Peterborough — Goal, Donlevy; defence, Redmond and McMaster; centre, Leonard; wings, Fryia and Greenlaw; alternates, Hill, Crowley, Collins, Prentice, Belisle, Peterson, Munroe, Garvey and Montgomery.

Canuck Player Returns to Team

VANCOUVER (CP)—Willie Wylie, a centre who left Vancouver Canuck; last week and returned to his home at Galt, will return to the Vancouver line-up this week. Canucks owner Coley Hall said Monday.

"I have talked to Wylie," said Hall. "He will in all probability be back here Wednesday."

Hall said Wylie left the team at Edmonton last Friday after Canucks had suffered a 8-4 defeat because he was brooding over the team's slump that has seen Vancouver drop seven straight games and tumble out of first place in the Western Hockey League.

In Galt Sunday night, Wylie said he left Canucks for "business reasons" and said he didn't know if he would return to Vancouver.

British Sports Record of '53 Encouraging Despite Reverses

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The 1953 British sports record—bound smudged by soccer and boxing reverses—was still the most encouraging of the post-war era.

England won the Ashes, coveted symbol of cricket supremacy. Horse racing more than held its own, and track produced high hopes for the British Empire games at Vancouver next summer and the European games immediately following.

Among the names to remember in 1953 were these: Len Hutton and Alec Bedser (cricket); Sir Gordon Richards (racing), Stanley Matthews (soccer), Roger Bannister, Gordon Pirie and Chris Brasher (track); Joe Carr and Canada's Marlene Stewart (golf).

CRICKET TRIUMPH

The year's most were key men in wresting the Ashes from Australia for the first time in 20 years. It was a typical English campaign. The first four matches were drawn, largely because of desperation batting stands by England.

The break came in the fifth match at London's Oval, where England's new batting finally blunted and subdued the heavy-hitting Australian attack. Hutton was the pay-off batsman. Bedser took 30 wickets, a series record.

The league-supreme state of soccer was brutally revealed at Wembley Stadium last May when a star-studded trained team from Hungary outscored the best English squad since the war, winning 6-3 with a dazzling display of passing, speed and teamwork.

Randolph Turpin, big gun in British ranks against Sugar Ray Robinson, fumed away his chance to regain the world middleweight crown. The temperamental Turpin lost on points to Carl (Bobo) Olson from San Francisco.

The highlight of the horse-racing season was provided by the burly colt Pinza, owned by Sir Victor Sassoon and an easy winner in the Derby over the Queen's Aureole. Pinza gave champion jockey Sir Gordon Richards his first victory in the classic he had been trying for in vain for nearly three decades.

A few weeks later, the 48-year-old jockey knelt before the Queen to receive the Knight of knighthood, first ever awarded to a jockey.

French owner Marcel Boussac, who dominated British racing nearly every year since 1946, had little luck in 1953. A new challenger emerged from Ireland. Vincent (Paddy) Prendergast was leading British flat trainer for the second straight year and won 10 races in England, valued at £13,700.

His horses were The Pie King and Sixpence, respectively the leading two-year-old colt and filly of the year. Both were sold for export. The Pie King to the United States and Sixpence to Alberta Ranches.

Prendergast was suspended by the English Jockey Club in October to receive the recording over the performance of his horse Blue Sail, but the jockey club gave him a clean slate.

Aside from losing its 90-year record of home invincibility to Hungary and showing its age, British soccer prospered. Arsenal squeezed to the league championship ahead of West Bromwich Albion. Blackpool, equipped with ageless Stanley Matthews, beat Bolton 4-3 in the Football Cup final.

At 39, Matthews won his first winners' medal. His performance resulted in his recall to the English international team later in the year.

A freckled, five-foot Canadian girl was the scintillating figure in the women's rank. Marlene Stewart, 19-year-old school lass from Foothill, Ont., became the first Canadian ever to win the British women's amateur golf crown.

Her victory left British sports writers breathless. In defeating Irish champion Philomena Garvey 7 and 6 over the 36-hole final at Porthcawl, Wales, she was described as "one of the world's finest golfers."

Joe Carr of Ireland wrested the British amateur golf crown from a long American possession. And the Ryder Cup produced the most tingling finish in its history when victory for the British Isles and Europe fell on two one-yard putts by Peter Alliss and T. J. Hunt. Both missed.

ATHLETES SHINE

In track, marathoner Jim Peters established a world record. Spindle-legged Gordon Pirie crept close to it. Dundee won the 1,000-metre, three-mile marks and set a short-lived world six-mile record. Roger Bannister got within two seconds of the four-minute mile.

Emile Zatopek, Czechoslovakia was an American - Australian show. The Yanks Wes Santee and Don Gehrmann and Lew Head faltered in the singles—American Vic Ziegler came out kept the doubles. Maureen Connolly from California blasted her way to another singles win.

Hockey suffered reverses from high talent and ice show competition. Fewer Canadians played and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association dropped to five in the English League, an all-time low. There were signs that the ultra-professional Scottish League might hook up with the southern division next year, but clubs would be redistributed in the south to provide more of them and keener competition.

Amazing how many bridge players have cards fools at their selves. They have become mental gestures by adopting complex methods. Doings which they are unable to explain or prove or clearly declare.

It is all so unnecessary, so inconsistent with their normal desires for simplicity. They could play the game much better and with better understanding by doing what comes naturally.

It is the matter of counting the number of tricks they expect to take. The easiest method is by far the best. It is what they and their partners could understand without any doubts.

There is absolutely no need for artificial counts like points, honor tricks, and such. Simply say to yourself: How big cards of mine can take tricks; I can trump this many in my own suit.

Your partner in the south has opened with a bid of one heart when you have the north hand shown here:

♠A J 7 4 2
♥K 7 5 4
♣8 *

You would like to decide how many tricks your hand may produce. Go at it naturally. Your ace and two kings are three high cards that expect to take tricks. With only one club you expect to trump two rounds (the second and third) of that suit.

Then, you decide, you expect to take three tricks with high cards and two tricks by ruffing short clubs: total, five tricks in your hand. Plain and homely. But understandable and sound.

The tricks you count may not all come in the way you expect. But if one of your kings does not take a trick, the loss will help your partner take a trick with some smaller card.

Others may learn and prefer a count that makes no sense to them. Their counts may reach the same conclusion as yours. But not with so much understanding, nor with as much accuracy.

There is no accounting for some tastes.

Money Being Well Spent Says Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's cold-war cash aid to Asia under the Colombo Plan is "money well spent," Fisheries Minister Sinclair said Monday in an interview. He had just completed a 78-day tour of Asian countries.

Though Mr. Sinclair did not say so directly, he indicated that Canadian Colombo Plan aid won't be increased next year.

Other officials have said the government would like to increase its contribution but the money isn't available.

To date, Canada has put $75,000,000 into the Colombo Plan. Parliament voted $25,000,000 a year for the last three years. It is the biggest cash contributor to the scheme. One of the chief aims of the plan, financed mostly by Western Commonwealth countries, is to thwart communism by helping democratic Asia to improve living standards.

Mr. Sinclair headed Canada's delegation to the Colombo Plan conference at New Delhi, India, which ended Oct. 17.

Ma sighed a big sigh to herself, saying to pop, O dear, stuch a day, Really, William, I meen actually, I didn't have one single breething spell to sit down and stretch a quiet mussel. Running your own house is very like, William, that's all it is. I wonder if the time will ever come again when everybody except a millionair can afford to keep a maid? she said.

Whoo-ee! said the carefree days, that's a fact, pop said. I remember the ferst maid we ever had, he said, and ma said, So do I, it was Lizzie.

I even remember her last name, terrandable and sound.

The tricks you count may not all come in the way you expect. But if one of your kings does not take a trick, the loss will help your partner take a trick with some smaller card.

Others may learn and prefer a count that makes no sense to them. Their counts may reach the same conclusion as yours. But not with so much understanding, nor with as much accuracy.

pop said. It was Eckles. I remember he'd become all rimed with her freckels. Lizzie Eckles, bixxy freckels. She didn't know a frying pan from a soop pot, or which end of a broom to hold. My my, I remember how proud you were the day your finally announced that you had managed to fetch her the rudiments of cooking and cleening. That was the same day Lizzie Eckles announced that she was quitting to get married, be said, and ma said, Please don't remind me of Lizzie Eckles, that was a long time ago.

Yes, that was just before Maggie, pop said. Maggie was the fat one who fell in love with the 6th plumber. He was a high price plumber, but Maggie made us call him in every time we had trubble with the pipes, and the pipes went on the blink about 3 times a week because Maggie delibertly put them out of commission to get more bizness for the plummer. She married him just as soon as he had saved up enough money at our expense to set up housekeeping. And do you remember Minnie? pop said.

Yes, but I dont care to think of her, ma said. Oh well, I suppose there are worse things in life than doing your own work, she said.

Which there probably are.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, DEC. 16, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A confidential sort of day with practical and useful interests and activities promoted by Sun's rays. Yet Saturn's aspect advises caution in hazardous matters, handling sharp tools, etc.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Your Venus and Moon aspects stress extra care in personal matters; Conclenious attention to duties, home interests, children urged.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Be guarded in word and action so as not to make needless errors or cause delays. Be careful signing contracts, making promises. You can achieve if conficentious.

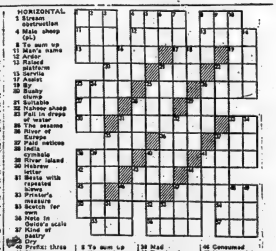
June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — No day to pamper emotions or indulge in self-pity. Tackle tasks with enthusiasm, no matter how tedious or burdensome they may be; and you will gain ground and great benefits.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Encouraging Sun rays. Seek to better yourself and your efforts—but without unfairness to others, overstraining. Uselessness now could thwart plans, goals.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—This period may not bring you all you'd like but conservativeness and reasonableness will aid efforts. Don't reach for the Moon. Be satisfied with moderate gain.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Same as Taurus today. Commonsense, patience and satisfaction with a reasonable advancement or gain is all you need—plus, of course, honest and consistent effort. Fine day for quiet planning.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—With Mars negative in tendency, the positions of other planets stress a need for gentle rather than forceful action, reasonable patience rather than irritation to insure good returns.

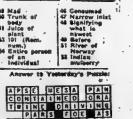


November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Today's influences may be somewhat dull, but your Jupiter will be in a very benefic aspect tomorrow so make plans with increased advantages in mind. Be careful, thoughtful now and both efforts later.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Saturn's aspect urges you not let your words or feelings be brittle. Let softness of manner but not softness of principles be your rule. Today all yield according to the amount of faith and effort put into it.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Not too difficult a time, especially if you are sufficiently consistent in your endeavors. Some progress to be had in your especial field, in laborious work, mechanical and other trades.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Day may start slowly but, as in advance, rays grow better and better until tomorrow's full, glorious aspects are divulged. Plan early and save time, energy. Be up and doing.



YOU BORN TODAY are a big-hearted, warm-hearted, gay, sincere, very canable and not, as a rule, egotistical or smug. You make excellent financiers, business managers, promoters of large or small enterprises; have tremendous capacity for work and will usually stick at a project until you have it well on way to success. You are prompt and expect others to be so; ambitious, conscientious; often resent interference. Do not permit "moods" or disappointments to take hold—brush them off as you would dandruff, which they are. "Pray when troubled; maintain inner calm. Birthdate: Jane Austen, novelist.

Margaretha Pfeiffer, a six-foot barmaid and model who became a Mata Hari for Communists in Czechoslovakia, talks with her lawyer after being sentenced to four years for espionage. The blonde spy was found guilty of attempting to pry military secrets from U.S. soldiers.—Central Press Canadian

Objects to Name

OTTAWA (CP)—A social Credit member of Parliament Monday night objected to his party being called "Socred."

John Blackmore (SC —Lethbridge) raised the objection during debate on a private member's resolution urging a federal-provincial conference on conservation.

Jean Francois Pouliot (L—Temiscouata) said such a conference would be a violation of provincial rights because natural resources came within the jurisdiction of the provinces. He suggested that the "Socred" premier of Alberta would object.

"Social Credit," interjected Mr. Blackmore. "It is 'Social Credit' not 'Socred.'"

22 Americans And Briton Balk At PoW Talks

By GEORGE McARTHUR

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Allied efforts to win back United States war prisoners who stayed with the Communists remained stalled today as the Reds pow'ed a personal appeal from the chairman of the Korean repatriation commission to attend interviews.

There is a mounting belief that none of the 22 Americans and one Briton will appear for explanations before the 90-day period for their views expires in eight days—Dec. 23.

Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya talked for 90 minutes today with two prisoners identified as leaders in the compound, Sgt. R. G. Gordon of the United States Army, and the British prisoner, Andrew Condron of the Royal Marines.

An Indian spokesman said both were unmoved after the 2½ hour conference with Thimayya in a Korean hut outside the barbed-wire compound where they are held by the repatriation commission.

The PoW appeals said the Americans and Briton will not come out for face-to-face talks with Indian Nations explainers until the neutral nations repatriation commission settles a dispute over the Communist South Korean prisoners who also refuse to attend explanations.

SAID REASONS ABSURD

Thimayya earlier said he per sonally felt the American stand did not want to attend the explanations. He called some of their reasons for stalling the interviews absurd.

The UN command said it i ready to interview any prisoner o any nationality who comes on Wednesday.

This latter move leaves i squarely up to the prisoners. Al though it is officially a request b the Indian command, the Indian normally defer to the wishes o the prisoners.

The UN command has indicate that it will renew its request ever day.

There was no meeting today o the repatriation commission, whic is considering the lengthy protes filed by the Red Koreans wh refused repatriation.

CAMPBELLFORD

Largest Crowd In Years Sees Santa Parade

CAMPBELLFORD—Santa Claus officially arrived in Campbellford on Saturday afternoon, when he and his helpers appeared in the annual Santa Claus parade through the town.

Nursery and story book characters, together with clowns and animals all decorated floats, made up the parade, led by the Campbellford Citizens' Band. Music was also supplied not only by the band, but also by Hawaiian music and the duo of No. 4 R.D. Band from R.C.A.F. station, Trenton.

Service clubs and other organizations, as well as merchants of the town, support the parade each year, working with the Santa Claus parade committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

One of the largest crowds in years saw the parade on Saturday and the streets of the town were jammed with visitors. Santa gave bags of candy to the children in the and of the parade, and during the parade the Campbellford firemen distributed bags of candy to the children along the route.

Crosses Ocean Alone

Four-year-old Frazer McGinnis of Brockville, Ont., is greeted by his mother in Montreal after he crossed the ocean alone by plane. He had been visiting his grandmother in Swansea, Wales. His return was delayed until his fourth birthday because of bad weather, setting that as the minimum age for children travelling unaccompanied. — (CP Photo.)

With German Wife

Sapper Harley Hegardoren of Peterborough, Ont., with his German wife and infant daughter, arrive at Halifax in time to spend Christmas at home. Sapper Hegardoren met his wife Renate in Hamelin where he was serving with the 27th Infantry Brigade. About 250 soldiers and 80 of their wives and children returned on the draft. — (CP from National Defence).

Senator Duffus Wants Defence Forces Built Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator J. J. Duffus (Ontario) said Monday night in the Senate that the Western nations should have no faith or confidence in Russia or Premier Malenkov and should continue to build their defence forces.

He said divine the threat among debate that communism since Stalin's death continues to be ... ruthless and evil, destroying morals and placing a premium on cunning and savagery.

Senator Cairine Wilson (L—Ontario) urged that the government open equal women to the unemployment insurance commission and the civil service commission. She hoped women's bureaus of the labor department was welcome but appointment of women to the two commissions had been sought for many years.

She said she is disappointed that first-class postal rates are being increased. In sending all first-class mail by air wherever air service is available, she said she hopes this does not result in delays. In some cases second-class mail was delivered in 24 hours while first-class mail sent by air took 48 and even 72 hours.

FAMILIAR GREETINGS

BROKENHAM, England (CP)—Rev. Cyril Smith's 600 parishioners in this Kent town are going to receive the same Christmas cards this year as last. "I'm a little absent-minded and I chose the same cards," explained the vicar.

McCarran Ends Effort to Hear Gouzenko Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Pat McCarran (Dem., Nev.) has withdrawn his request to sit in on the questioning by United States Senate investigators of Igor Gouzenko, former Soviet code clerk who tipped authorities off to the Red spy ring in Canada in 1945.

McCarran, senior Democratic on the Senate Internal security subcommittee, today said he had discussed with chairman William E. Jenner (Rep., Ind.) the feasibility of his accompanying Jenner to Canada.

"Senator Jenner said they had had a great deal of difficulty in arranging for the interview through the state department and I didn't want to add to the difficulties by insisting that I accompany them," McCarran said.

McCarran said he hopes that limitations are not placed by Canada on Gouzenko's testimony that will make it valueless. He said that such limitations took all the value out of information given in 1949 by Gouzenko to a Senate immigration sub-committee of which McCarran was chairman.

The Canadian government has specified, as a condition for allowing the new interview, that any information obtained from Gouzenko is not to be made public without Canada's approval.

FATE RANSOM

MANILA (AP)—Philippine army headquarters said today James Porter, British-born manager of a sawmill 45 miles east of Manila, was released Saturday after a month's captivity upon payment of $10,000 ransom to his armed captors. Porter told army investigators he was kidnapped Nov. 17 by 12 armed men.

73 Per Cent Have Faith In United Nations

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — A poll by Elmo Roper showed Monday 73 of 100 Americans queried consider the best way to drive for peace is to work along with the United Nations or strengthen it.

The Roper poll said nine per cent believe the United States should pursue an isolationist course to avoid war and seven per cent feel there is little left in struggling for peace. Eleven per cent gave no opinion.

Roper listed these figures as the major findings in a national survey on "American attitudes on world organization."

Among other findings: 33 per cent are almost certain of another war occurring within the next 25 to 30 years; 33 per cent think it might be possible to avoid it, and 12 per cent are uncertain.

Six per cent want to see the U.S. go to war with Russia now; four per cent want the U.S. to stop defence preparations and come to a settlement with Russia. The other 90 per cent feel there must be a better solution than either appeasement or preventive war.

Sixty per cent believe the U.S. is doing the best it can to prevent war; and 26 per cent feel it can do more. Still made no mention of the attitudes of the other 14 per cent.

Roper's findings are based on 3,302 personal interviews conducted among a U.S. cross-section of the adult American population during the early part of last September.

Merry-Eyed Knight of 65 Calls Himself 'Last of Mohicans'

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Sir Brian Edward Spencer Dunfield, a merry-eyed knight of 65, refers to himself as the "last of the Mohicans."

He means by this that he was the last Newfoundlander to be knighted before Newfoundland became a Canadian province in 1949—five days before, March 26, Confederation made Sir Brian a Canadian. Since Canada does not confer such honors, at her own wish, he is the last Canadian knight.

As president of the Community Planning Association of Canada, Sir Brian was in the capital recently for a round of conferences. He has been mixed up in such affairs for so long people find it hard to believe that he also carries on a full-time job—a justice of the Newfoundland Supreme Court.

CONFEDERATION BENEFITS

Newfoundland-born Sir Brian has never made any bones about his belief that Confederation is good for Newfoundland. He thought that before Confederation, he says and he still thinks so.

When upholders of the responsible government cause sought an injunction from him to prevent the Confederation referendum, Sir Brian wrote a decision which probably stands, in the legal world, as a prime example of unequivocation. Sir Brian ended his rejection of the injunction application by saying: "Legally, practically and logically, this is nonsense."

Sir Brian says Confederation has worked a "social revolution". In Newfoundland, particularly among old people. The old-age pension has cancelled their complete dependence on young members of the family once they are too old to work.

Sir Brian probably has unequalled qualifications for presidency of the community planning association, to which post he was elected in October for one year.

He was graduated from London University in 1908 and was called to the Newfoundland bar in 1911. He was made a King's Counsel in 1932 and from that year until 1939 he served as secretary of justice. He was appointed a Supreme Court justice in 1939.

PLANNING EXPERT

He was chairman of the commission on housing and town planning for St. John's until 1944 and chairman of the St. John's Housing Corporation from 1944 until 1949. He has been a member of the St. John's town planning commission since 1945. He was also secretary of the rural reconstruction commission from 1935 to 1942.

As president of the community planning association, he says his work concerns mostly "propaganda"—getting people to think about planning of serviced land, housing and traffic.

Sir Brian says the housing problem in St. John's is "three-quarters licked." The Newfoundland capital has increased housing 35 per cent in the last 5 years. If all United States servicemen and their families in St. John's were to leave, the city's housing problem would be all but mastered.

NEWFOUNDLAND KNIGHT

Sir Brian Edward Spencer Dunfield, 65, a justice of the Newfoundland Supreme Court and president of the Community Planning Association of Canada, was the last Newfoundlander to be knighted before Confederation in 1949. Because the Dominion Government now does not recommend Canadians for such honors Sir Brian is the last of the Canadian knights. (CP Photo)

May Extend Deadline

OTTAWA (CP)—State Secretary Pickersgill indicated Monday in the Commons that the government may extend the Dec. 31 deadline for application for prisoner-of-war benefits.

Replying to Thomas M. Bell (PC—St. John-Albert), the minister said he will find out if there are any considerable number of former prisoners who have not applied. If that were the case, he would be prepared to ask the cabinet to extend the deadline.

Soviet Emphasizes Modern Cruisers And Submarines

Creating New Fleet to Use In Event World War Comes

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Swift, highly manoeuvrable cruisers, destroyers, submarines and troop-carrying merchantmen are going into the new fleet Russia is creating for use if she gambles on a conquest of Europe.

Plans of new submarines are raised as rivals in under-water speed to the new United States atomic models.

Authorities here estimated today that in cruiser construction alone Soviet building during the last few years has exceeded the total built by the U.S. and its North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies.

Currently Russia is believed to have more than 30 cruisers built or building, including an ultra-modern, swift, manoeuvrable type designated as the Sverdlov class.

Only one of the class has been seen by the Western world, when it appeared in the Soviet victory ceremonies last summer. Presumably it and others are based on Vladivostok and others are earmarked toward which the Sverdlov was named honors, the late Andrei Zhdanov, Red boss of Leningrad.

England, Cruisers like this are considered the best all-round ships, both combat and merchant ships and in support of amphibious landing operations.

The Sverdlov, listed by the Russians as a 15,000-ton ship and carrying much heavier, manoeuvrable armor than ships of the Western naval experts watched it on its visit last summer.

EQUIPMENT GOOD

Equipment of the Sverdlov class compares favorably with that of the best U.S. and British cruiser craft. Fire-control radar equipment for the main armament, approximately about 12-inch weapon, and anti-aircraft weapons were said.

Naval men still estimate the bulk of the Soviet submarine fleet at about 300, a figure used as far back as 1948. But since then modern submarines, including those of the type XXVI submersibles described by Germany's submarine experts, are rapidly replacing the conglomeration of older craft which the Russians had inherited by capture at the end of the Second World War. The type XXVI is powered by a closed-cycle engine which needs no oxygen for combustion, permitting prolonged operation at great depths and high speed. Underwater speeds of over 25 knots is probable, a speed which approaches the U.S. record for the U.S. atomic-powered submersibles now being built.

TIMES CHANGE

GUELPH (CP) — Wellington Court which has long prided itself on having no stop signs on its highways has given way to one. It finally decided to put up the signs at the intersection of Highway 6 and the provincial highway department for permission to designate the intersection as through roads and to erect signs at all other roads entering them.

COMMITTEE WILL TACKLE CRIMINAL CODE REVISIONS

To Make Twin Attack On Knottiest Problems

OTTAWA (CP) — A Commons-Senate committee is going to tackle the possibilities of abolishing capital punishment and whipping and whether lotteries should be permitted in Canada.

It will have more time, the legal defence of insanity will be studied by a royal commission.

The twin attack on the knottiest problems of the Criminal Code was announced Thursday night in the Commons by Justice Minister Garson.

All parties later approved the principle of revising the Criminal Code and the House gave second reading to a batch of proposed changes. Clause-by-clause study will be taken up by the Commons after the Christmas recess.

The House will adjourn until Jan. 11 after debate today on the government-proposed changes in the National Housing Act to provide lower down payments on new homes and a longer time in which to repay loans.

Mr. Garson said special study of the four clauses, capital punishment, lotteries, whipping and the defence of insanity, will not hold up passage of the new code. The present Criminal Code has been in force 50 years.

The four clauses as they now stand will be incorporated into the new code, amended or suppressed by the parliamentary committee or reinstated unchanged as it reports to the later. The government would expedite any proposed opposition amendments by examining the reports.

LACKED KNOWLEDGE

At the last session of Parliament, a special committee recommended that the four clauses be studied by a parliamentary committee or royal commission because it felt it did not have sufficient knowledge to pass final judgment on them.

Mr. Garson said the government feels a parliamentary committee can handle the subject of capital punishment, whipping and lotteries, but that it needs special legal and psychiatric knowledge by a royal commission to deal with the knottiest problem of insanity.

The bill was given second reading on the understanding that members were approving the principle that the code should be altered. When the study starts private members may object to or support any principle in the proposed changes such as capital punishment, six per cent interest on mortgages and sentences and abolition of many minimum sentences.

David Fulton (PC — Kamloops) and Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) said their two parties would oppose any move to curtail debate on the new clauses, even though they were to be selected as they stand and referred to a parliamentary committee or royal commission.

Mr. Knowles said the new code should not mean any loss in capacity for judgment or free speech. Section 133, he said, is dead "came close" to infringing on this right.

5,060 Phones Out Of Commission As Result of Two Separate Storms

TORONTO (CP) — Some telephone and telegraph lines into southwestern Ontario cities and towns were still down today about 40 hours after a severe snow and wind storm Monday.

The Bell Telephone company said 5,060 telephones in homes in Sarnia, Chatham, Windsor and Owen Sound districts were put out of commission when poles and lines knocked down by the storm were 2,300 wire breaks which cut communications on 181 long-distance circuits.

A total of 231 poles were knocked down. About 200 men were working round the clock to repair the damage. All communications are expected to be restored by Thursday, company officials said.

Long-distance calls into Sarnia were still being handled on a priority basis today. Service into the border city was never completely cut but only the most important calls were put through Tuesday.

Telegraph lines still remained were heavily loaded today as telegraph traffic was diverted to companies sent each others' messages. Communications had to be routed into Sarnia through Port Huron in the United States Tuesday, but officials said some lines into the city through Canada were operating today.

Canadian National Telegraphs had a mile of line down near Petrolia. Poles, railway, between Chatham and Windsor, and another 25 miles between Walkerton and Owen Sound districts were put out of commission when poles and wires knocked down. There were 2,300 wire breaks which cut communications on 181 long-distance circuits.

No Connection in McDowell And Schreiber Cases Say Police

TORONTO (CP)—Joseph Schreiber, 27, appeared in court today and was remanded a week on murder charge in connection with the strangulation death Monday night of his attractive blonde wife, Norma, 23.

Police said Schreiber, tall, handsome broker's clerk, has asked permission to attend his wife's funeral Friday afternoon. The request has been referred to the attorney-general's department.

Schreiber is accused of killing his wife in their east-end apartment after a violent quarrel that followed two weeks of separation.

Police said the coroner's inquest into the death and the disappearance Dec. 6 of 17-year-old Marion McDowell who worked at the next desk to Mrs. Schreiber's in the office of a photoengraving firm.

Police called by the woman's father-in-law, immigration inspector Collingwood Schreiber, found the young prisoner and found the woman's body lying fully-clothed on a bed. They questioned the husband at the apartment and at the police station and then charged him.

Detectives said he told them he couldn't remember what happened after he left his wife and went into a home after meeting in a downtown bar. Police said they found several empty beer bottles in the apartment.

NEVER MET

Police said they questioned Schreiber closely about the McDowell girl, separated children from a youth's parked car and found slain. Schreiber told them he had known the girl but had never met her.

He said he knew she worked with his wife and that he and his wife had discussed the girl's disappearance. He said that on the night of the kidnapping he was with friends.

Chief of detectives Alex McCabe said the murder appeared like the strangling with the kidnapping.

Said one of the investigating officers:

"It is sheer coincidence that the two girls knew each other and worked together."

FIVE COUNTRIES OWN NEW BULLET BUT LACK RIFLE

None of NATO Nations Has Gun to Fire Bullets

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada, along with four other North Atlantic Treaty countries today is part owner of a new bullet. But none of them, at the moment, has a rifle from which to shoot it.

This situation emerged with the announcement in Paris that Canada, the United Kingdom, the United States, France and Belgium have agreed to the standardization of small arms ammunition, NATO's new .30-calibre (7.62mm) cartridge.

For the last few years, Canadian factories have turned out .303 ammunition to fit different types of .303 rifles. Now, they probably will be asked to produce a rifle to suit the new NATO bullet.

The rifle likely will be the Belgian "Fabrique Nationale" (FN). Associate Defence Minister Campney, announcing the NATO decision in the Commons Tuesday, said the Canadian army has ordered some of the FNs.

GOOD STRIKING POWER

He did not say that they would become standard army equipment, but pointed out, however, that they had been tested satisfactorily.

The FN is manufactured by a Paris report said the new NATO bullet has "good striking power" and is the gradual replacement of existing .303 ammunition, although the new bullet and suitable rifles. This may take a long time.

The Canadian ordnance expert said it might take as many as four years to completely re-equip the army with any new rifle produced in Canada.

The Lee Enfield No. 4 now is the Canadian army rifle.

REVOLVING NECESSARY

Its replacement by a rifle to fit the new NATO bullet will entail a revolving magazine because it is a five-cartridge weapon.

Opposition Conservative leader Hazen Argue, commenting on the announcement, said it was "quite unsatisfactory" that arms ammunition will lead to standardization of "other types of ammunition."

STUDIO SIGNS LA ROSA

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Julius La Rosa, the television singer fired by Arthur Godfrey for "lacking humility," will get a movie try-out. Paramount today signed him for a screen test and said that if he makes good he'll be given a starring leading part or two in what Dulles said in Paris.

"A-Weapon Sharing Not To Be Asked Says Eisenhower

President Makes Remarks In Answer to Wilson

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Eisenhower said today he does not intend to ask Congress to permit the U.S. to share with its allies scientific processes or techniques for building atomic weapons.

He left the implication, however, that the administration does contemplate sharing information about the use of atomic weapons and perhaps sharing the weapons themselves with other NATO powers.

Eisenhower made the remarks at a press conference when asked to comment on the statement by Defence Secretary Wilson before the Paris NATO conference Tuesday. Wilson said Congress would be asked soon to permit the sharing of information on atomic weapons with the NATO allies.

Eisenhower said some changes in the law will be necessary before the U.S. can realize the fullest advantages of atomic weapons.

But no changes were contemplated which have to do with the scientific processes involved in developing atomic energy or in the building of atomic weapons.

DEPENDS ON CIRCUMSTANCES

Eisenhower said he thinks that the administration does contemplate, if Congress approves, legislation which would permit the sharing of atomic weapons and perhaps sharing the weapons themselves with U.S. allies.

He said also Eisenhower said it would depend on circumstances, meaning military circumstances, as to whether the U.S. would share atomic weapons to its allies.

He said if war comes the U.S. should use its atomic weapons to whatever degree will be to the country's best advantage. Quite possibly, he said, it would be best to let all or part of the American weapons under certain circumstances.

Eisenhower said he is by no means giving up hope the Russians will decide to accept the proposals he made to them in a speech to the United Nations — that all countries share joint in a limited program of atomic research, with emphasis on peacetime power development.

But even a rejection of this offer by the Soviet Government would not stop him from trying to meet the Soviet Union in international control in another way.

NO OFFICIAL REACTION

The president said the administration has received no official Soviet reaction to the plan he outlined to the United Nations General Assembly.

Eisenhower also commented on State Secretary Dulles' Monday speech to the Paris NATO meeting. He said in effect that he agrees with Dulles' remarks prodding Europe to build a strong defence army project. U.S. law, the president said, already provides that 50 per cent of this year's appropriations for foreign aid must be channelled into the European Defence Community, which has not been set up as yet.

If there is no EDC, the president asked, what do we do? He added he was somewhat astonished that anyone would feel there is anything blank or new in what Dulles said in Paris.

Rhee Wants To Enhance Quality Korean Papers

SEOUL (AP)—President Syng man Rhee said today he will use force if necessary to reorganize and enhance the quality of Korean newspapers.

Rhee appealed to interviewing South Koreans at the North Atlantic treaty council meeting here, said "we covered the waterfront" during the morning's meeting.

He said the ministers talked about the coming four-power conference with Russia in Berlin, in-do-China, the Far East and other questions.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: The cold spell which brought the lowest temperatures of the season to Ontario on Tuesday is expected to continue today and Thursday. The mercury went below zero at many places in northern Ontario Wednesday morning and at Graham in northwestern Ontario it dropped to 30 below. Lovely skies and snow flurries will prevail in southern Ontario today and Thursday.

'Covered Waterfront' Is Claxton's Comment

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton, who with External Affairs Minister Pearson is representing Canada at the North Atlantic treaty council meeting here, said "we covered the waterfront" during the morning's meeting.

He said the ministers talked about the coming four-power conference with Russia in Berlin, in-do-China, the Far East and other questions.

Dr. Gordon Schreiber Dies Suddenly

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Gordon Schreiber, 56, died suddenly Tuesday night at his home in Toronto.

Dr. Schreiber was a graduate of Victoria College, University of Toronto, and received his medical degree in 1922. He was a member of the Ontario Medical Association and the Canadian Medical Association.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Hall, and a son, Dr. Donald Schreiber.

NATO Ministers Order Study Of A-Weapons' Defence Role

PARIS (Reuters)—North Atlantic treaty ministers today empowered their military committee to study the effect of atomic weapons upon future planning and strategy for the defence of the West.

The decision was announced in communique following their second day meeting here.

U.S. Defence Secretary Charles Wilson told the NATO session Tuesday that the Eisenhower administration will seek congressional approval for sharing atomic information with its allies.

The five-page communique emphasized that real progress made in the 14 nations in their efforts to build up the West's strength against aggression.

The communique refers specifically to the need for including German troops in the Western defence set-up through the agency of the European defence community system.

SOLIDARITY STRESSED

It records the solidarity of views prevailing among the 14 NATO nations and those of the Soviet Union as expressed at today's top-secret and restricted meeting of the foreign, defence and finance ministers. It was agreed that these restricted meetings of ministers at NATO council meetings should be continued in the future.

The ministers agreed that the Western Big Three must hold fast against Soviet efforts to break up their 14-nation defensive alliance.

AGREE ENDS UNCHANGED

The ministers of the unanimously agreed Soviet strategy and the Kremlin's ultimate aim of world domination for communism has not be changed even if Moscow succeeds in a Geneva conference ministerial conference on the German question next month. The Russians have not yet replied to the Western invitation to such a meeting.

Consequently, according to these sources, the ministers considered the NATO structure must still be built up to a level adequate to meet the continuing threat of aggression.

The NATO council of ministers went into their closing sessions considerably cheered by the British Labor administration's pledge to try to get congressional approval for sharing atomic U.S. atomic weapons secrets.

The prospects of limited atomic co-operation, raised Tuesday by the U. S. Defence Secretary, Charles E. Wilson, looked more likely left by State Secretary Dulles' statement that U. S. air force in Europe may be cut if the European army isn't approved soon.

Christmas Trees Mean Millions Of Dollars to Canada's Growers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Christmas tree may symbolize the festive spirit to the less bomes, but to Canadian growers and operators it means millions of dollars in revenue.

The Christmas tree is being reaped as trees by the carload are rushed to markets in all Canada, the United States, Mexico and even the Caribbean and South America.

British Columbia exporters have reported record sale of 2,000,000 trees with a dollar value of over $1,000,000. New Brunswick expects sales to top $1,000,000 with 1,000,000 trees. Nova Scotia, which exported 350,000 trees last year, expects a slight reduction in deliveries this year. Ontario's U.S. sales for 1952 reached $1,000,000. Quebec made $1,000,000 from 2,500,000 trees.

Retail prices on the domestic market are generally the same as last year, a Canadian Press survey shows.

BALSAM POPULAR

In Newfoundland, where balsam fir is the most popular, the price range is from 50 cents to $1. Some 15,000 trees have been sold in St. John's. Corner Brook and Grand Falls. Cutters for export have been paid from $10-$15 a day.

Nova Scotia prices range from 75 cents to $2. Growers are receiving $3 to $4 a day for go delivered to the car.

New Brunswickers are paying $1.50 for seven - foot trees—the same as last year. Spruce is the most popular, with balsam fir and its needle-retaining quality, is the next popular. The industry employs about $400,000 annually to residents. Cutters are paid according to the number cut and can earn from $10 to $40 daily. The industry employs more than 1,000 men in cutting, bundling, tagging, trucking and shipping. Trading began on Nov. 15 and generally ended Dec. 5.

Prices in Prince Edward Island are generally comparable to those of the other Atlantic provinces.

Fir is the most popular tree in Quebec. Farmers cut trees from their woodlots on a spare-time basis during winter months. Most of the Quebec lands and forests department warned farmers to cut trees carefully so as not to damage young trees. An estimated $15,000-$100,000 trade is expected in the Montreal area where cutters are being paid from 75 cents to $1 an hour.

Most of the trade is handled direct in Manitoba and is being sold from 75 cents to $3. Cutters, working under contract, are making about 10 cents a tree, and if a helper, they can sell trees for about 25 cents each.

Saskatchewan's black spruce is selling from 75 cents to $2.50 a tree. Most of the trees in B.C. trees are being sold in some southern districts. Any person may cut trees on Crown land for his own use.

Kidnap-Killers Read Wild West Stories and Work Crossword Puzzles

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)— The Greenleaf kidnap-killers spent part of their time today reading wild west stories and working crossword puzzles, outwardly nonchalant about their execution early Friday.

Carl Austin Hall, 34-year-old ex-convict and Bonnie Brown Heady, 41, his paramour, gave no outward signs of cracking before their death by the gas chamber.

Race Partnership Given Approval In Central Africa

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (CP)—The Federal party, which has pledged partnership between Africans and whites in the development of the new Central African Federation, has won a sweeping victory in the federation's first general election.

Sir Godfrey Huggins' party, which campaigned on the racial partnership issue, had won 14 seats on the basis of the count at midday today of Tuesday's voting. The Confederate party of J. R. Dendy Young, which favors a policy of segregation, hadn't won a single seat, although one independent was elected to the 35-member Parliament.

Results from Nyasaland and part of Southern Rhodesia are still to come, but in the popular vote the Federal party had 13,849 compared with 7,850 for the Confederates and 873 for the independents.

The fate of Young in his personal race remains in doubt.

Huggins and Sir Roy Welensky, who were the principal architects of the federation of Northern and Southern Rhodesia and Nyasaland, were returned personally with substantial majorities.

In Northern Rhodesia's "copper belt," the Federals won two seats despite a large minority of workers of South African descent.

The Independent elected was Dr. Alexander Scott, who produced a reasonable volume of Indian immigration.

The new parliament will include two elected African members each of the three territories making up the federation, and an independent elected European member will represent African interests in Southern Rhodesia. In Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland two representatives will be officially appointed to look after African affairs.

Plane Has Set New Speed Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Bell X-1A rocket-driven research plane has flown at a record 2½ times the speed of sound in tests current in aviation circles said today.

Presumably the new speed, obtained in a test by the Air Force at Edwards Base, Calif., was at high altitude, it was said, but that case would be about 1,650 miles an hour.

The record compares with one of 1,612 miles an hour reported for a record 1,307 miles an hour in the upper air, which was set Nov. 20. Such a test was made by a bat-shaped rocket flown by a pilot of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

Capitol Theatre Will Entertain 100 Newsboys

Upwards of 100 news carriers of the Ontario Intelligencer will be the guests of Manager Tommy Mascaro at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow evening.

The youngsters will see two outstanding motion pictures "Hot News" and "Jack Slade."

"Hot News" is a newspaper story in which a sports columnist breaks up a vicious gambling ring with the assistance of the charming society editor of his newspaper. It is an action-packed film with a heart-warming pattern of romance woven through it.

"Jack Slade" is the dramatic story of the old west in which an agent for the Historic Overland Stage lines faces a trail that swept outlaws and bandits into oblivion. It is a western drama at its best with a love interest that rounds out fine screen entertainment.

'Quinte Secondary School' Chosen Name New Building

The new high school now under construction on College street by the Bay of Quinte District High School Board will be known as the "Quinte Secondary School", members of the board decided Tuesday night at the final meeting of the year.

Board members were unanimous in their feeling that the word Quinte should be included in the name for the new high school and there was little discussion before a decision was made on the school name.

Construction of the superstructure of the new two storey high school is expected to commence early in the new year. Pouring of the concrete foundation is well underway and with favourable weather is expected to be completed in another week. The school board has retained Mr. K. Cahill as clerk of the works with duties in connection with construction of the school expected to commence January 1st.

COMMUTTEE FORMED.

A committee of Leslie F. Reid as principal of the new school, with the new chairman of purchasing and supply, and Dr. W. F. Baldwin, as being named as equipment committee for the new school. This committee will go into what equipment is required and then recommendations to the board. Cost of equipping the school is the estimate and is expected to run close to $100,000.

In preparation for duties as principal of the school, Mr. Reid was authorized to visit other schools in the area.

CHANGE LIGHTING.

Extensive changes to the lighting and wiring equipment at the auditorium and in the Belleville collegiate was authorized by the board. Certain repairs costing an estimated $400 will be needed, while an additional cost estimated at $600 for changes will be borne equally by the school board and by the Belleville Curling Guild.

A committee of Collegiate principal G. E. Currie and board members Enos David and George Wishart was named to approach the Belleville Curling commission regarding their application for use of the auditorium floor for basketball practice. They will inquire into the possibility of gymnasium use being worked into the recreational program.

Hiring of an additional part time motor mechanics instructor for September 1954 with provision for additional accommodation for motor mechanics classes, was recommended by the board. Mrs. W. J. Doyle will be hired as an additional teacher at the collegiate to relieve Mr. Reid while he is planning duties as principal of the new Quinte Secondary School. Principal Currie was authorized to attend a headmasters' association convention to be held in Port Hope, January 4-5.

BUSES IN GOOD CONDITION.

Provincial Police have inspected all buses bringing students to school, all being found in good mechanitical condition with the exception of one which has been repaired and is back in service.

Discussion on salary adjustments for members of the school teaching staff and custodians, took up most of the time at the meeting. No decision was reached, members deferring the matter to the 1954 board.

The board ratified an advisory vocational committee recommendation for the purchase of a new gasteiner and spirit duplicator for the commercial department.

Prior to the appointment for the year retiring chairman Clifford Bartlett expressed his appreciation to members of the board for their co-operation during the year.

Woolworth Staff Plays Santa To 35 Children

The staff of the Woolworth Company branch here staged a Santa Claus role on Tuesday evening entertaining some 35 of the less fortunate children of the city at the annual Yuletide Christmas party held in the Front Street store.

The children were selected by the Salvation Army.

One unable to attend because of having no shoes to wear, will have his Christmas anyway, for the Woolworth staff and the Army will take care of the little fellow.

The six children were entertained by films, two of which were on the Christmas theme. The films were: "The Night Before Christmas," "Holiday Carols," "Here Comes the Circus" and an Andy Pandy cartoon.

Ice cream, cake, pop and chocolate milk were next on the agenda, much to the happiness of the tiny tots.

A JOLLY SANTA

A jolly Santa made his debut dressed in the bright red suit and the traditional long white beard. Each child was presented with a gift donated by the members of the staff themselves, a book and in a large bag of Christmas candy.

These children went home happy but still full of goodness many things, such as clothes and shoes and many other articles it takes to make a child's life complete. The Salvation Army will be only too glad to accept anything the public can offer to aid the children.

Bus transportation to the party for the children was supplied with several other companies donated the food required.

The party will be followed by their own turkey dinner at 6:00 p.m., and the children's party began an hour later.

Foremen's Club Host at First Ladies' Night

The first annual ladies' night of the Quinte District Foremen's Club was held last night in the main gymnasium of the Y.M.C.A. building. Lloyd Skeaff, executive secretary of the "Y" was guest speaker for the evening.

The topic of Mr. Skeaff's address was "Christmas in July." He said that around this time of year there prevails an atmosphere of peace, happiness and goodwill toward all. "Why" the speaker continued, "these emotions are not shared 365 days of the year is one of the great mysteries of the world. And yet, we are the ones who make it impossible for good will to exist every day and have a Christmas in July."

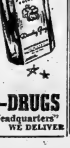
Mr. Skeaff said "that although we are the ones who make this situation impossible, the average person is the only one who can make such a thing a reality."

SAY KIND WORDS.

"The trouble is most people are afraid to say a kind word to someone's face for fear of being rebuffed. The average individual is afraid—afraid of being nice and saying nice things all year round because what they fear most is ridicule. That is why there will never be a Christmas in July," the speaker further explained.

He pointed out it would be impossible to move the 25th of December to the middle of July or change the climate. However, Mr. Skeaff said, if the people would change their outlook the same as they could change their apparel appearance: "That is the only way there will be Christmas in July," he concluded.

TOAST TO LADIES.



The toast to the ladies was made by Ed Littlefield and was responded to by, Mrs. James Dalgliesh, following a four course dinner catered to by the women of Tabernacle United Church, the group sang Christmas Carols.

A dance climaxed the evening. Hugo Diggins and his orchestra supplied the music. The following were spot prize winners: K. Baldwin and Mrs. Graham; Ray and Gladys Morry; Peter and Zeda Golding.

The guest speaker was introduced by the program convener, James Dalgliesh and the invocation was extended by Farrell O'Neil.

Ald. Wm. Argue Tells Kiwanians About Commission

Obituary

KINNEAR STEWART

(Formerly of Belleville-Madoc)

David Millett Kinnear Stewart, a former resident of the city and of Madoc, died in Douglas, Arizona, on Monday. He was in failing health for some time.

The late Mr. Stewart was a son of the late D. K. E. Stewart, barrister, and the late Mrs. Frances Stewart, a daughter of Dr. James Lister, who was a prominent medical practitioner here in the early days of Hastings County.

The speaker referred to the Industrial Commission as an advertising agent and sales department for the city of Belleville. He said that "it doesn't matter whether it's business or the fall fair, nobody won't be sold if they are hidden away in the back streets." Similarly, Mr. Argue indicated, the city cannot hope to acquire new industry unless individuals are familiar with what the city has to offer industrialists.

"We either have industry or we stagnate," he declared. The alderman urged members of the club to advertise the city wherever they might go, to make the product as attractive as possible."

Two new members were inducted into the club on Tuesday. They were Bud Punchard, son of Mrs. Bud Punchard, and Henry Bolton, introduced by Cliff Saraga.

The students of Albert College presented a cheque for $35 to go toward the Floods Relief Building Fund. The Key club is presently involved in constructing a home for Mrs. Moore and her son at Consecon. The former home was burned out last month.

Mr. Argue was introduced by Jim Ritchie and thanked by Lawrence Kelly.

Rabbit Hunters Help to Save Farm House

A party or rabbit hunters who hastily threw burning cigarettes after seeing smoke curling out from beneath the eaves, were credited with saving the farm residence of Charles Way, 2nd Concession, Ameliasburg, on Tuesday.

Damage amounting to approximately $800 resulted to the frame two-storied home before the flames were brought under control just as the fire reels arrived from Belleville miles away.

"Those hunters dig a marvelous job in saving the house," stated Fire Chief Gerald Vance. "Had the fire remained undiscovered few minutes longer there could not have saved it."

As it was the fighters' supply of water gave out just as the flames were subdued.

Faulty wiring was believed to have been the cause of the blaze which is by no means a total destruction, through the ceiling over the kitchen and out through the gable end of the house. The house was occupied by Mr. Way with a Dutch family living in the other side of the big farm house.

Two cag loads of men on their way to plant rabbits spotted the fire and drove past the farm house. They quickly organized a bucket brigade and had the flames under control, when Belleville firemen arrived.

Strange Light Was Meteor RCAF Declares

Squadron Leader Wood, Command Public Relations Officer at RCAF Station, Trenton, says the greenish-blue light which raced over the airdale area exploded last Friday has been explained. There were a number of reports or multi-colored objects in the sky, most of them seen on the same day in the Lake Ontario area. The officer said a report from the Department of Transport at Ottawa indicates the objects were meteors.

According to a professor at Queen's University, Kingston, this time of year is the best season and more are reported around the middle of December. He says other period during the year.

$127,000 Required to Put Hospital Fund Over Objective

Canvassers for the public subscription portion of the Belleville General Hospital's Campaign for funds held a report meeting in Kiwanis Centre Tuesday night.

Their report showed that the drive was approximately $127,000 short of its $600,000 objective. "but we are going to make it yet," said general chairman, A. McLean Haig, in a brief address to the workers.

"We started out to build a new wing to the hospital and it is now nearly in hand," said Mayor Haig. "It should be a source of satisfaction to you all that the hospital extension is now assured."

Mr. Haig made his remarks at the conclusion of the report meeting at which, it was revealed that $1,173,565.78 had been collected or an objective of $1,300,000 for an overall average of 90 per cent.

Mayor Haig expressed confidence that the ultimate objective would be reached.

"Cards are still out in all divisions," he said, "some in large numbers."

He thanked the canvassers for their generous co-operation and for their attendance at the meeting which he described as "an encouragement to those of us who still have a share of work in rounding out all details."

Mayor Haig announced that a "porch light" canvass of the city would be made on Thursday evening, at which time all those who have not as yet contributed to the hospital campaign will be given an opportunity to participate in the drive.

Following the reports there was a draw for six prizes donated by local merchants. The canvasser who had completed their calls were eligible for the draw, which was conducted by Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson and Mayor Haig.

U.S. Lifts Curbs Against TCA On Mexico Flights

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States has agreed to lift restrictions hampering the extension of the Trans-Canada Air Lines Montreal-Tampa air route to Mexico City, it was learned today.

Transport Minister Chevrier is expected to announce that in the Commons later today.

Under previous U.S. regulations, TCA was expected to use pro aircraft in opening the proposed new Montreal-Mexico City flight, one aircraft taking passengers to Tampa and the other picking up passengers at Tampa for the remainder of the flight to Mexico City.

GOVERNMENT STEPS IN

TCA protested that the use of the two aircraft was uneconomic. Opening of the new line was suspended and the Canadian government took preliminary steps to impose similar restrictions on American air lines flying over Canadian territory.

However, at a two-day Washington conference between Canadian and American officials, agreement was reached to end the controversy with the U.S. lifting its curbs and TCA expected to take similar action to withdraw action against the American air lines.

KITCHENER (CP)—Magistrate J. R. H. Kirkpatrick, sentencing three youths Tuesday for break and entry, told court spectators that because no worthwhile activities or supervision had been provided "what has happened to these boys is your fault and not the boys' fault."

BELLEVILLE CHEESE ABROAD

If the world no longer trembles with fear every time there is a rumble from the Balkans, that one-time powder-keg of Europe, there may be an additional reason beside the fact that gunpowder has been superseded by atoms in the arsenals of the great powers. Something new has been added in diplomatic circles in the Balkans. In Athens and Ankara diplomats have been soothed by a new magic imported from Canada.

What can it be, this tantrum-destroying substance which Canadian diplomats in these cities are importing to distribute to their friends in the diplomatic corps of other nations? Why Belleville cheese, of course.

R. A. Farquharson, former managing editor of the Toronto Globe and Mail and editor of "Saturday Night," is authority for that statement. Mr. Farquharson now a NATO official stationed in Paris, reports the Odyssey of Belleville cheese. His Christmas communication addressed to a member of the Ontario Intelligencer staff.

Those foolish persons who, going on the assumption that cheese is cheese, would suppose that shipping cheese to Europe is something like sending coals to Newcastle are set aright by Mr. Farquharson's letter. Each year has eaten off the cheeses of Norway, Denmark, Hollanti, Belgium, Italy, Greece and Turkey and that Belleville cheese is still at the top of his cheese list.

PUTTING CHRIST INTO CHRISTMAS

Last Thursday a letter from an "Interested Citizen" was published on the editorial page recommending that more of a Christ spirit be displayed at Christmas in homes, businesses, and social activity. This was an appeal to put "Christ Back Into Christmas." This enterprise has been gaining favor steadily with Christian people everywhere. After all, Christmas is the birthday of Christ, and it does seem more appropriate to celebrate it with Christ as the central figure rather than a Christmas tree, holly wreaths, seasonal cards, reindeer and Santa Claus.

Christmas is a merry party, nor the exchange of gin, ties, shirts and slippers. It is not a turkey dinner with cranberry sauce and a chaser of health salts. It is not the singing of carols, Dickens' Tiny Tim, plum pudding, nor even the old but special church services that go with the observance of the day.

Christmas is a great Christian festival with a deep spiritual meaning. Because this meaning has been lost to a large extent by many Christians, Christmas has come to be the year's biggest anticlimax.

It is the failure to appreciate the real meaning of Christmas that produces this sense of anticlimax. Had Christ come in all the magnificence of His power and majesty, it would be impossible to commemorate His anniversary in any way other than on one's knees.

What is needed is an intelligent re-reading of the Christmas story so that its real meaning will once more be apparent. It is a story of humility, of sacrifice and a lesson to all men in many ways. God Himself came down from heaven and was born as a helpless infant in a manger. He did not worry about housing. His mother rode a donkey to a manger. He was wrapped in swaddling clothes. Shepherds, as well as Wise Kings, were drawn to His side.

Putting Christ back into Christmas means putting Christ back into our lives. It requires an act of the will to accept the Saviour Christ called as the Lord and Master of the whole universe. He came to us of His own free will. He wants all men to go back to Him of their own free will.

It is only by willingly accepting Him, His ways and His lessons, that we and all men will come to know "that peace on earth, good will toward men" for which the angels sang on Judea's hillsides on the first Christmas night. Nations cannot be at peace with one another when men cannot be at peace with themselves. And men can be at peace with themselves only when they are at peace with their God.

When men heed the lessons of Christmas and enthrone the Infant Christ in their hearts and hearts, then, and only then, can there be peace. With Christ back in men's lives, Christ will automatically be back in men's Christmas celebrations. And with Christ there a true appreciation of its spiritual values will be possible and Christmas will once again command the awe and reverence which its real meaning deserves.

CRIME DOES PAY-SOMETIMES

There is an old saying that crime does not pay. Well, like a lot of old sayings, it does not always prove true. Because sometimes crime does pay, and currently it is paying Arthur H. "Artie" Samish, $10,826 a year.

That may seem like a trifle to Mr. Samish, who, apparently, is accustomed to better things, but it is better than the honest reward that most laborers get for a year's toil.

Mr. Samish, in pulling the teeth from an old saw, will have three years at $10,626 per, to laugh in the face of tradition.

Apparently Arthur H. Samish, who was once called the "secret boss of California," neglected to pay the U.S. government $71,000 in income taxes. His lapse of memory cost him three years in jail and a $40,000 fine. This leaves him with a net gain of $31,878 and three years of free meals and fresh air at the government's expense in a state prison.

It is unlikely that "Artie" will consider this a federal favor. Certainly it may not be enjoying the thrill of a six-figure income, he will not have to sell his hands, and disturb his ulcer in the hurly-burly of modern commerce. When he does return to the treadmill (probably in less than two years because of time off for good behavior) he will have a tidy little $31,878 nest egg to provide solace for his sins.

If this incident is the initiation of a trend, we can see only misery for fictional detectives and western heroes who always make sure that wrongdoers get their comeuppance in the last chapter. Not to mention real detectives and real heroes.

"It always wears out first in this spot where they stop and bestlate."

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE STILL, SMALL VOICE

"What shall I do about it?" "What course shall I follow?" "Should I do it or not?" Every day clergymen, teachers, counselors, and parents meet these questions!

Sometimes the choice is one of mere expediency. More often there is a moral element involved—one alternative is the right choice, and the other wrong. How can we tell which?

Every human conscience is supposed to guide us in these decisions. But some people have great difficulty hearing the voice of conscience because it is drowned out by other voices—the voices of selfishness, of laziness, of evil desires. Others pay little heed to neglect their consciences. They get so out of the habit of facing moral issues that they can no longer hear the inner voice of right and wrong.

As with other exercises, so with the conscience. Practice leads to ease and undisturbed the practice, the more nearly perfect. Whoever is always willing to retire alone and think his problems through carefully, asking simply and honestly what God's will is, comes in time to hear God's directions more and more clearly and infallibly.

"Thine ears shall hear a word behind thee, saying, This is the way, walk ye in it, when ye turn to the right hand, and when ye turn to the left."

THE DOLL

He saw a doll of wondrous size,
With raven hair and big brown eyes
To him, grown old, it seemed to be
A doll to love. If he were she,
And six years old, to choose
To own that doll he would be proud.

Then bonneted; superbly dressed;
Of all the dolls, the costliest.
Each mother fond when passing by Admiringly exclaimed: "Oh My!
Real shoes and stockings, gown and hat!
I never had a doll like that."

No grownup can be certain of
Just what a little girl will love,
Man, from a different viewpoint, sees
And thinks he knows what ought to please,
But little girls soon make it known
They have opinions of their own.

High in the attic still there stays
A doll of Annie's childhood days.
'Twas beautiful. I though it one
She'd surely set her heart upon.
But married (This will oft occur)
She took her old rag doll with her.

A Plea For The Country Store

Editor, The Ontario Intelligencer:

From my window I can see our country store. Long has it stood there. But many times has it changed hands, especially recently. And now, I hear that the present storekeeper, a very accommodating and kindly man, is going to close its doors if he cannot sell it to someone else soon. If a buyer does come along, he soon leaves, as he feels that there is little or no business transacted here. How sad!

That store looks at me from that distance and seems to say "—— it was not always thus. It can well remember when horses were tied to these posts; their drivers not caring to make the journey inside. Then, too, the women alike admired the assortment of merchandise displayed. Their arms were loaded with parcels when they left. Now—very few are the purchases made. Cars loaded with people now pass my door on their way to town and never even look in. Then, my door was never closed to be, hurrying home before dusk some stop to make a last minute purchase, perhaps it was sugar or tea which they had run out of in the town. Do they think of this little institution can pay my taxes and keep my owner living? Oh! No—they do not think—they forget. Sometimes a good old days when this country store was the only means of transportation, money and goods. But I have not forgotten. They may think that people seem to 'have forgotten me, but I do not forget that many a man has had no money to buy food for his family when I have fed him and his family on credit. Then when he does have some money he forgets to return the favor! Oh! no, he, too, passes by and join the mad throng. How the town stores must smile! They have their own customers, too. Why! Does not the town sell a cent cheaper?

I hear the tread of my well-filled, well-assorted shelves — and I sell many things cheaper than they do. I still cannot fathom the reason.

"Any rate, here I stand, a fast-fading business. Some day there may be regret. Some may have reason yet to say 'How I wish that store at the corners was still there. Gasoline is rationed. I cannot go to town. I should be obliged to keep it alive. It was our duty to do so'."

It is a duty for the surrounding neighborhood to help little country stores, such as I, survive? Are we our brother's keeper today or do we just look after our own self-centered self?

"I shall weep many tears when my door closes, not for myself, but for the empty hearts of those who have forgotten.

"Then, too, my good friends could be a little more like that of the days of yore. What a joy it would be to see people coming in—smiling and happy as in days gone by. Instead of which I was forgotten item but, for an armful of groceries which my owner might then smile again. Then, the loneliness might fade from his heart.

"Well, there is still in me a faint hope that a new storekeeper in my neighborhood will have a sign that a 'spring' is for sale in the window, do you think they will?"

And I answer: "With all my heart, I hope so — dear Country Store."

Neutral Wins Confidence

(Hamilton Spectator)

The choice of Gen. K. S. Thimayya as head of the neutral nations repatriation group in Korea has been received with the best of things that ever happened for his country and has already won him a be a notable boon for the world at large.

It is healthy—and a little humbling—to consider the change in Indian fortunes since unofficial attitude to Gen. Thimayya over the course of the Korean truce talks.

When he and the Indian troops who were to police the prisoner exchange arrived in Korea to take up duties in the neutral zone of Korea they were received suspiciously, refused to let them land on its soil; they had to be flown by helicopter directly from the Indian and South Koreans said the Indians, who had been sent to help the Koreans fighting (although they did have an ambulance unit working with the United Nations forces), were pro-Communist. A good many Americans and Britons were little if not quite so emphatically; they made it plain they did not believe in the Indians' good faith.

Then Gen. Thimayya is being lauded in American magazines and has become something of a world figure—simply because he has been truly neutral. With good will, a great heart, a sense of humor, patience and an absolute impartiality, he has made the prisoner exchange into one of the most remarkable humanitarian undertakings that the world has ever witnessed.

This change in attitude toward the man is bound to be reflected in a change of attitude toward his country. India's neutrality, which used to be assessed in terms of "if you're not with us you must be against us," has been put back in the realm of reasonableness.

It is possible that at the same time the attitude of India's own own attitude may also be reflected in the attitude of his country: He went to the Korean truce talks about the truth of the Western allegation that a large number of the men they held as prisoners did not want to go back to the Communist overlords. What has happened in the explanation tents has proved that the West's claim and has confirmed the Communists' assertion.

There is an important place in this world for an India whose neutrality is not a blind one but which itself respects the West's sincerity. That India has the confidence of the Communist world. That India has the ear of Russia. That India, with its great wealth, in which the members can take pride as a nation politically divided continent, she is both a free country and independent can be kept and a potential mediator in the dust of conflict settles.

India has proved that neutrality can be a position of strength. And Thimayya, tall, broad, upright soldier, is a magnificent symbol of it.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the several cities I have visited in the past year, there appears to be a growing among switchboard operators generally the irritating trick of plugging in your call, when you ring their number, and leaving you there in dead silence, until they are good and ready to attend to you.

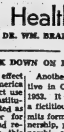
What happens is this. A PBX, or private branch exchange, has twenty or one or more "positions." A position is the switchboard with its operations, of course, such as department stores, hotels, etc. Each position has a hundred "positions," that is, switchboards, at each of which a girl sits. No office likes to employ more girls than it really needs. But there is no way to strike an average, and then make a guess.

But when a switchboard girl is receiving a lot of calls, she either sees a large number of little lights come on in front of her, or, on some switchboards, each light may be accompanied by a nasty little buzzer.

When you or I ring a number, and hear the phone buzz twice, we expect a person at the switchboard what has happened is that the girl, either to pulout the light or to silence the buzzer, has plugged you in with one cord. And when she is ready to deal with you, will plug you out with other cord.

Sometimes you have to wait only a few seconds, sometimes you have to wait a good long time. And sometimes, when the switchboard is really busy, and she has a dozen cords tangled all over the place in front of her, your poor little single cord, is let down under the tangle, and is not even noticed at all. You and you, like a dummy, sit there waiting for a busy signal. Or, like a bad-tempered old man, you bang up and dial again.

Only to meet, after two brief buzzes, by another click. And another little period of helpless silence.



Good switchboard girls, like officer treasures, are hard to get. The best of them leave us unplugged, and let us hear our calls going through. For then at least we suppose we are getting somewhere.

HIGH TIME TO CRACK DOWN ON PHONY "CLINICS"

A law which goes into effect in Ohio United States of America on January 1, 1954, will restrict use of the name "clinic" to institutions operated as charities or for teaching and research. After this limited group of private pay "clinics" will be discontinued, unfortunately the term specialists who are already using the name under the deceptive name of "clinic" can continue to trim the public customers the same as ever when the new law goes into effect.

This new law was enacted and will apply only in the state of California. Be the rocketeers need not worry—yet. They can still operate with impunity in the country at large.

Another new law became effective in California September 30, 1953. It provides that a doctor must be a fictitious name! This law permits formation of a medical partnership, provided that each partnership or group use at least the surname of one partner, if not all plus the words "medical group."

What I have been trying to tell you gullible people is simply that this: If a doctor is good he or she will practice under his or her own name.

Well, this is now recognized by law—in California.

If medicine were still a profession and not just a business, the very need of such a law would shame honest doctors into a thorough housecleaning.

A clinic, children, it what Webster says it is.

For your health's sake and your pocketbook, I advise you to leave it that way.

Cows' Tastes Immaterial

(Minneapolis Tribune)

We suspect that few working farmers will start driving luxuriously shod until 9 or 10 a.m. because a University of Minnesota dairy scientist has announced that it isn't necessary to milk cows at 5 or 6 o'clock to keep production up.

Being human, farmers do not get early because of the middle of the night, generally disobey laws and do forced exercise in the morning.

There is stock to milk, there are barns and other buildings to keep and keep in repair, fences to mend, sickies to attend, machinery to maintain, hay to cut, corn to the harvest, feed to be ground, and he must have time to study the market and know the right time to sell his feeders.

Fancy him remaining in the sack until 9 a.m. just because the cows don't care! Fancy him having breakfast a couple of hours before lunchtime and feeding the pigs at 11:30! Such a man's farming career would be shortlived, even under a 100 per cent. of parity support prices.

It may comfort him some to know that, in case of emergency, he may give his cows anything regardless of the milking hour but it won't change his work schedule. He'll keep right on setting the alarm for 5 a.m. on weekdays and 6 a.m. on Sundays.

Accidents Annoy Doctors

(Vancouver Sun)

The American Medical Association is finding doctors' time eaten away by accidents. "What is the cause of curing a case of serious disease only to have him walk in the door of car through his own negligence?" says Dr. Elmer Hazlett, president. Dr. Edward J. McCormick, secretary, says the middle of the number of doctors and hospital personnel working on preventable accident cases who should be working on disease prevention.

His words point up Police Chief Allan Hollingsworth's drive against pedestrians who willfully cross against lights, thereby throwing traffic in the middle of the block, generally disobey laws and make for the accident situation.

Perhaps only continued education can see any improvement. It relieve doctors of the increasingly heavy job of patching up the wounded by preventable accidents.

Perhaps we should stage a car crash contest, like the motorist-bicycle-car scene, with all its poignant and dread effects, in some theatre, preceded by a film edited by the public each day. Pedestrians would be impressed by year and reading of their horror scenes to have lost its power to curb them.

PARTING ADVICE (TO A BOOK LOANED)

Little book, you and I have been intimate friends for quite a time. We've warmed and comforted each other through many a trying hour. Now you're going away from me, idling in an attractive bookshop. I picked you up. You smiled at me from the shelf as I turned. You had a bright, happy dress on, so I called the clerk and said that I would take you to my home—that for a small sum you would be loaned to me, but mine to keep if I loved you!

Then, little book, I told people and they made notes about you and said that they would look you up. Then came the day when I consented to let you have a vacation and go to a friend's house where I felt you would have a happy time. I told you to be friendly in your new home, to try and always be cheerful and to return to me tired from other places. In other words, always to be companionable. I also told you to come home if you ever got lonely or neglected.

And now, after three years you have not yet returned. Well, I have missed you. Time and again I have picked up books like you, like we had for days after I brought you from the bookstore. But the bright, colorful wrapper you wore is gone. The author's inscription on the front fly leaf has been torn away, and there are silly markings and scribbles on some pages one has almost broken your back. Your heart, however, I know is intact. Your soul is not the loose-leaf. Never loan books! Buy them and gladly give them away to appreciative lovers of books, but they are too precious a product to be mixed when most needed, and their whereabouts forgotten, or their presence hid away in some dusty attic spot. Books need to be watered and cared for just like a plant. And they like to be lovingly handled by understanding hands. You see, great books are immortal!

'I Go To Jerusalem'

CHAPTER 22.

Paul lingered in Philippi for months, making Luke's home a headquarters for sorties throughout the rest of Macedonia. He revisited all his mission churches, taking up a collection for a common relief fund to be brought to Jerusalem. A representative from each city joined him to carry the money, six treasurers in all, to travel with Paul, and Luke the physician, and the ever faithful Timothy.

Paul was favored with urgency to reach Jerusalem, longing to be there for the feast of Pentecost. But throughout the journey ahead of him, he would be torn by an equally tormenting compulsion to tarry along the way, in order to rekindle in each town the fires of the faithful. Secretly, he feared that he might never again have these roads, never again have the chance to talk with these converts he loved.

Paul tried to satisfy both of these impulses all the way to Jerusalem. Between stops he was to drive his eight companions at breakneck speed; and in each Christian community he would teach without rest, in a last, lunging attempt to answer every problem present or future.

In the town of Troas Paul spent seven days preaching and trying to set straight the misconceptions of heretics and troublemakers. So much of this had to be done that the travellers scarcely went to their beds. Sure enough, Paul insisted, to sleep when they were once more sailing on the sea!

On the Sunday morning, before his departure, Paul joined the Christians of Troas in celebrating the sacrament of breaking bread. And then Paul rose to preach to the congregation. He was teaching them the next morning, and undoubtedly he felt compelled to give them the benefit of his deepest thought.

What he gave them was perhaps the longest sermon in history. The Christians sat entranced until midnight!

And that was why Paul was suddenly confronted with the need for a miracle. The circumstances were not only terrible and tragic but mortally embarrassing, the kind of nightmare scene true that haunts any speaker who talks too long.

He spoke in an upper chamber of a house belonging to a man named Carpus. The garrilike attic hall was illumined by faint oil lamps, swinging on chains from rafters. The room was crowded with Christians so closely packed together that a man had scarcely room to sneeze. The airlessness of the place, the shining lights all around, and the long eloquence of Apostle Paul, all had a very human effect on one young man named Eutychus.

Eutychus had climbed to a seat in the enclosure of a window casement, and there he had fallen asleep. In the deep of his slumber he had stirred restlessly from one side to another — and then with a waking gasp he tumbled out of the window. Three stories below in the cobbled courtyard he lay, a bleeding, lifeless mass.

With lanterns and candles the congregation hastened to the courtyard where Eutychus sprawled. Paul knelt white-faced beside the huddled victim of his zeal, until Luke dismally pronounced the boy dead.

Then, in the confusion of darkness and shifting spots of lantern light, of weeping women and men, Paul fell on the corpse of Eutychus, and embraced him. And suddenly the apostle's voice sounded out above the clamor, resonant and full of unearthly challenge:

"Be not troubled! For his soul is in him!"

"In a rasping whisper he confided: ... the man whose girdle this is ... the Jews shall deliver into the hands of the Gentiles.'"

His soul in that bleed ng, broken body? What was Paul talking about, to my such a thing! What worse was he saying now, urging them all to climb the stairs again, and to bring Eutychus with them?

But they did as he bade them. They carried the body up to the assembly room, and they found they had a living man instead of a dead one in their hands; a restored Eutychus, needing only the blood to be washed away to be as whole and well as any of the others!

And now the first streaks of dawn flared in the east, and Paul, his face flushed and sweating, gave thanks to God. Eutychus, a bit shaky in the legs, battered and bruised as any ruffian, joined the faithful and the apostle at Holy Communion with his sobbing, private prayer of thanks.

Later the women of Carpus' house found food for the whole assembly, and they breakfasted together for the second time in twenty-four hours.

And such is human nature, even in apostles, that Paul could not be silent. As Luke records for all to read, he began to preach again, and he talked long and well, even till break of day. So, he departed."

With Luke and Timothy, and the six treasurers, Paul boarded ship to begin his last voyage to Jerusalem. And on this journey Paul finally confided to them a secret he had long kept silent.

He told them that he had received a new and shaking prophecy from the Holy Spirit, warning him of prison and persecution awaiting him in Jerusalem. Calmly, humbly, he accepted the warnings, willing to face whatever future God planned for him.

Nothing that his friends could say could shake his purpose.

With a straight course over a sparkling sea, the ship carried Paul and his little band of Christian travellers to the port of Tyre, in Syria.

Many Christians lived in that proud and opulent city on the giant coral reef, and they greeted Paul with such warmth that for a week he and his eight companions remained in Tyre.

And from these Christians Paul heard fresh prophecies of the dangers awaiting him in Jerusalem. As Luke tells us, they "said to Paul through the Spirit, that he should not go up to Jerusalem."

But Paul stood resolute. He felt he must go to Jerusalem, and he was willing to face any terror to serve his God. At the end of the week, he was ready to sail again.

With tears in their eyes, the Christians of Tyre followed the travellers to the harbor. What danger lay ahead they did not know, but they were convinced that they could never see the sturdy, smoldering apostle again.

Another short sail down the Palestinian coast, a twenty-four hour stop at Ptolomais with the brethren there, "and the next day, departing, we came to Caesarea" — to a surprise and a happy reunion.

As Paul strode down the gangplank he saw the familiar figure of a friend, arms open for an embrace. Deacon Philip, called the Evangelist to distinguish him from Philip the Apostle. The years had changed both Paul and Philip, engraving their ardors deep on their foreheads and cheeks in lines like those made by an iron pen. But they loved had not changed, not for each other, not for their common Lord.

As they talked, Paul's mind went flashing back to the day when Philip was chosen one of the first seven deacons of the church, appointed to oversee the distribution of alms to Greek widows, and to the time when Philip had baptized the eunuch from Ethiopia. Now Philip welcomed into his home Paul, Luke, and the six treasurers from Macedonia and Asia.

Deacon Philip was a married man, and he had four daughters, all virgins and prophetesses, as active in church work as their father. Amid a cheerful domestic flurry they made the travellers comfortable.

For some days Paul lingered in the deacon's house, till suddenly a new warning fell, not from the lips of the four mystic sisters, but from the snaggle-toothed mouth of an unexpected guest.

At the door of Philip's house one night stood a grizzled old man from Judaea, "a prophet called Agabus, whom Paul had reason to remember.

Eleven years before, almost to the day, Agabus had come to Antioch where Paul was beginning his mission work with Barnabas. In the midst of that congregation Agabus had risen up to foretell "a great famine over the whole world." Paul had then and there begun raising the first of his many church collections, as a relief fund to protect the Judaean Christians in their hour of hunger. And the famine had come, as foretold, during the reign of Claudius.

Now Paul was again on his way to Jerusalem, with another great collection, even as the gnarled shadow of Agabus fell across the deacon's threshold.

Agabus had come to say that Paul should not go to Jerusalem.

Why not? Was not Jerusalem the cradle of Christ's Holy Church, a city of saints? True, Paul knew there was danger ahead. He had been informed by the Holy Spirit itself. But what, Agabus, is your message?

For answer, Agabus limped across the room to Paul and unfastened the long, wide leather strap that girdled the apostle's waist. The aging prophet wound the girdle round his own feet and hands, binding them securely. In a rasping whisper he confided:

"Thus saith the Holy Ghost: the man whose girdle this is, the Jews shall bind in this manner in Jerusalem, and shall deliver him into the hands of the Gentiles."

Paul! You, who made yourself the Apostle to the Gentiles will now be made their prisoner!

Now Paul found himself beset from all sides. Luke and Timothy and the others pleaded with him to give up his plans. Go back to Tarsus and rest. Or go on new missionary errands. Do whatever you will, but turn back from Jerusalem!

Paul shook his head and smiled: "What do you mean, weeping and afflicting my heart? For I am ready not only to be bound, but to die also in Jerusalem, for the Name of the Lord Jesus."

And as Luke reports: "When we could not persuade him, we ceased, saying: 'The will of the Lord be done.' And after those days, being prepared, we went up to Jerusalem."

Contact Club Has Christmas Party

Always a happy occasion, this year's Christ Church Contact Club's Christmas party on Monday evening was no exception, about 45 members and guests, including Archdeacon the Venerable, J. B. Creeggan and the reverend and Mrs. Everett, with were on hand to enjoy the varied and jolly fun which had been planned for them. A gaily decorated Christmas tree was soon loaded down with gifts as the guests arrived and had their "lucky numbers" pinned on them, the corners for the party, Doreen Mills, Beth Baldwin and Betty McLean, allowed no dull moments and each took her turn to provide games and entertainment.

Dorothy Sloan accompanied the singing of a number of Christmas carols. The winners of the "scrambled" carols gave an inspired rendition of their selection. A "Hot News" game had the girls giving their newspapers a thorough going-over and "Six-up" was one to tax the imagination. A couple of lively relay races rounded out the fun.

A Santa Claus appeared in the person of Dorothy Halbert who was wearing the brightest red 'uns and she distributed the prettily wrapped gifts and much merriment.

Refreshments were "box" inches and coffee and considerable excitement was caused when two of the girls found a most lifelike mouse and a spider in their packages.

President Florence Lennox introduced the members of the executive for 1954 and wished the gathering all the best for Christmas and the New Year.

Archdeacon Creeggan brought a happy get-together to a close with a benediction.

Keen Age Club Elects Executive

The Keen Age Club of Tabernacle United Church held its annual Christmas banquet in the church parlors, on a recent evening.

Fifty-five members and guests were present.

The tables were beautifully decorated in keeping with the season. In the centre floor stood a large Christmas tree, brightly decorated with gifts for all.

The guest speaker of the evening was Mrs. E. Follwell, who was introduced by the president, Mrs. Shirley Kelleher. Mrs. Follwell gave an interesting travel talk accompanied by moving pictures of her trip abroad last summer, touching on the high spots of the Coronation, her visit to Buckingham Palace, also her visit to Ireland, Denmark, Switzerland and France. It was indeed a most interesting talk, and greatly enjoyed by all present.

Mrs. S. Lathaugue extended a vote of thanks to Mrs. Follwell.

The business section was brief. A favorable report for the year was given.

Newswoman Starts Crusade To Help Miners

ANTIGONISH, N. S. (CP)—A blonde, peppery newspaper woman has started a campaign in this pastoral college town to help the unemployed coal miners of Cape Breton Island.

Kay Desjardin's idea of getting people to send the cash equivalent of a Christmas gift to the Miners' Assistance Fund in Glace Bay has gained the town's support.

Mrs. Desjardins, editor of the periodical Maritime Co-operator, the voice of co-operation in eastern Canada, and mother of four children, says she is tired of gift-trading among those who have plenty.

"What about the families of these 546 unemployed miners in Cape Breton? It's going to be a pretty drab Christmas for them."

Unemployment benefits for nearly a third of the miners has "run out." Most of the unemployed belonged to the 1,200-man working force at Dominion Coal Company's No. 12 mine at Glace Bay, which closed this summer for mechanization and has so far rehired only half the original force.

ANNOUNCE SCHEME

Desjardin's co-workers and the staff of St. Francis Xavier University's extension department rallied around the editor announced the scheme in a series of radio broadcasts.

The university's student body donated $200.

In town school children decided to send their Christmas gifts to the families of unemployed miners.

Boxes placed in churches have accounted for considerable assistance.

St. Francis students, who normally give a cash prescent to the priest-prefect of their buildings at Christmas, sent their collections with the hearty endorsements of the intended recipients.

Local St. John Ambulance Cadet Wins Silver Trophy

The St. John Ambulance Nursing Cadet annual inspection was held at the Canadian Legion Hall on Thursday last. About 60 girls, neatly and smartly turned out in their grey nursing uniforms with white veils and white frilly cuffs, were inspected by Mrs. R. H. Back, London, Ontario, who is the provincial nursing officer for nursing cadets. Mrs. Back was welcomed by Sgt. Nancy Oliphant.

The cadets put on a demonstration of home nursing and first aid which was highly commended by Mrs. Back for their proficiency in their work and their general appearance. She said that this inspection was one of the finest that she has ever attended.

PRESENTATION OF TROPHY

These cadets are also trained in child welfare, handicrafts, care of animals and in citizenship, and were greatly honored by one of Belleville's own cadets winning the coveted citizenship trophy, Rosetta Campbell, 51 Murney Street, who was presented with a huge silver cup, which will be competed for again in 1954. There was a smaller one for her to keep always.

She was congratulated by Mrs. Back upon this presentation of obtaining the highest marks of any cadet who has previously entered into this competition.

Mrs. C. D. Ashley, cadet superintendent, thanked Mrs. Back for her thorough inspection of the division, and also praised the cadets for their fine showing.

Cpl. Joan Kinnett then presented Mrs. Back with a beautiful pearl and brilliant brooch in appreciation, wishing her a Merry Christmas on behalf of the Belleville cadet division.

Chanel's Reopening of Dress Shop Bombshell to Fashion

By MARC PURDUE

PARIS (AP)—All that excitement last summer over Dior's shorter skirts is nothing compared to the stir today in the Paris fashion world created by a simple business announcement:

Gabrielle Chanel will start selling dresses again Feb. 5.

Now nearing 70, Chanel has been quietly refurbishing her establishment which 13 years has sold only the famous perfume that bears her name.

This week, from the seclusion of her Ritz hotel suite, she let it be known officially that she will reopen her dressmaking salon for the next big round of fashion shows.

It's still a mystery why "Coco" Chanel has decided to re-enter the field she dominated in the '20s and '30s and then abandoned at the start of the war in 1939, leaving only the internationally famed "No. 5" perfume to keep her name before the public.

POWDER REASONS

Does she need the money because inflation has damaged her investments garnered through years as one of the most successful French fashion designers? Or is she simply bored in retirement while such newcomers as Dior, Balmain and Fath collected the money and fame?

Whatever her motive, Chanel's reopening is a bombshell for the fashion folk, not only because of the nostalgia for the good old days she may arouse in the smart set, but also because of her reputation for startling stunts that stick.

Old-timers remember the many times she set the business on its ear by defying prejudice and tradition. One year she showed dresses made of wool jersey, until then a fabric reserved for workmen's garments. The mills still are turning out wool jersey.

"Lucretius", "In the Nature of Things", led by Mr. Harold Welch and Mr. R. H. Macklem, was discussed.

The discussion was motivated by two main questions "What was this first century B.C. philosopher's idea of the atomic theory?" and "How did he prove his contention that the soul is mortal?"

The next meeting on January 4, will be led by Mrs. J. Ormsby and Mr. R. H. Macklem, the book under discussion will be "Marcus Aurelius."

Bringing Up Baby

With Collected by Mrs. Ellen Carlson (Mother of 3)
If baby seems to balk at this first spoonful or two of cereal it might be the new texture is too thick. Try thinning the cereal with enough milk or formula until you have a "soupy" mixture. This makes the texture a little more familiar to baby and easier for him to swallow.
* * *
Cereal cue! When it comes to selecting those so-important starting cereals for baby try Gerber's Cereals. Millions of mothers have discovered that most babies take to the bland, pleasant flavors, the smooth texture right from the start. Even more important, Gerber's Cereals are enriched with calcium, iron and B-Vitamins. Gerber's Cereals are precooked and ready to serve! Just add milk or formula. For interest route: Mixed, Rice, Barley, Oatmeal and Wheat Cereals.
* * *
Beauty balm. While beautifying that little one with baby oil, smart mothers remember to steal a few drops for hands and elbows. Keeps hands nice for holding baby, for being held by dad.
* * *
More beauty business. Baby oil is most beneficial too, for unruly hair. After washing, a few drops massaged into damp hai. helps make it soft, manageable.
* * *
A treat in store for you mothers with "teething" babies! Gerber's now have ready for you their famous Teething Biscuits—so helpful for this trying time. Baby gets plenty of chewing satisfaction from firm Gerber's Teething Biscuits—but they're smooth, gentle for tender gums. Special shape is easy for little hands to hold. Nice for you, too—they don't fall apart so there's no mess. Teething Biscuits come individually wrapped—so convenient to tuck into your purse when you take baby out.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WHAT TO DO ABOUT AN UNDEMONSTRATIVE, UNSOCIABLE HUSBAND

"Four years ago, when I was 20, I married a man nine years older than myself, who had two children by a former marriage. Now we have two children of our own.

"At first I loved my husband; but now I can't say I truly love him any more. He hardly ever talks to me when he comes home from work, but just sits and reads the paper until dinner-time, and after that he either reads a book or goes to bed. I had a birthday recently, and he never even said 'Happy Birthday' to me. He never buys a ward at Christmas, either, or any other time.

"There is a couple that lives down the street from us who have been married as long as they have married children, yet the husband never forgets his wife on her birthday or at Christmas or Mother's Day or even Valentine's Day. He takes her out to celebrate.

"I am so terribly unhappy about the way my husband neglects me that I have some pretty awful thoughts sometimes, and I wish you could tell me what to do."

It is, I know, a very hard thing for a wife to have to bottle up all her natural feelings because she never receives any affection or consideration from her husband. To be love-starved is even worse than to be starved for food.

To look for a happier side, however, this wife didn't say that her husband doesn't really love her in his own queer way, and she didn't say he doesn't provide properly for her and the children. There are many husbands whose only fault is not showing their wives how much they love them, and while this is a big heartache for wives to bear, if everything else is as it should be, the understanding wife can usually work out a way to put up with it and find an outlet for her emotions in other ways.

When she has children as this wife does, it is much easier than if she were alone in the home with her husband. For the love she lavishes on the little folks goes far toward relieving her of pent-up affection.

FIND OUTSIDE INTERESTS

Another thing the wise wife does in such a situation is to find some activities outside the home in which she can put a lot of enthusiasm and a lot of energy. My advice on this point would be for such a woman to find two different types of activities, one, some community project whose aim is to help other people, and the second, a purely social project. Such a combination provides, in the first instance, an opportunity to relieve tension by diverting emotional energy into an effort to be helpful to the less fortunate, and, in the second case, adding some social life of friends and thus secure the warmth of personal relationships which will, in some degree at least, help alleviate the lack of warmth she feels at home.

Finally, I would suggest that, even her husband deserves her as little loving thoughtfulness, she should not allow this to keep her from demonstrating her love and thoughtfulness for him. While she may sometimes feel rebuffed, she should greet him when he comes home from work with a hug and a kiss, making him feel she is truly glad to see him. She should plan celebrations for his birthday even though he forgets hers, and she might also set up something special for all the holidays she wishes to make important to the family. A man would have to be abnormally cold, I think to remain forever unresponsive to a wife who refused to let his neglect chill her advances to him, but instead, cheerfully and faithfully, continued to concern herself with his comfort and happiness.

All this, I realize, makes a big program for this wife to undertake. But I believe it is a worthwhile experiment, and that it may well be effective in time.

JUVENILES CHARGED

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Four juveniles from St. Catharines were charged Monday with theft, malicious damage and threatening after Rocky Saugeen school, 25 miles south of here, was ransacked. They were remanded to Dec. 21. Police said the youths followed a caretaker into the school, stole $3 from a Red Cross box and ransacked a teacher's desk.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

IT'S EXCITING TO BE CHIC

There are girls over whom no fairy godmother waved a wand, bestowing beauty in the cradle. But they do seem to have been the recipients of another gift—good taste. And it is a question whether the most exquisite appearance in dress is not almost as great an asset as good looks. Certainly it sets a young woman apart, makes her distinguished.

No matter what she wears, this type of girl has style. She seems sure of herself, knows that she looks precisely right, so she is never self-conscious. Her outfits look as if it were designed especially for her. Her clothes may be simple, not expensive, but they have line and she wears them beautifully.

She makes no mistakes in the choice of colors. How does it happen that she knows about these matters? She is observing, she uses her head and keeps adding to the sum total of good judgment that means so much when a girl is plotting herself together. She keeps in touch with what is going on in the sartorial world. She considers every new beauty and fashion whimsy, accepts only those that are flattering. She has no fixed ideas. She does not buy the items of her wardrobe piecemeal, but considers the ensemble.

Many women fail to appear smartly attired because there are at her house ends somewhere. May be the shoes are too conspicuous—not in keeping with the rest of the outfit. A woman may wear too much costume jewelry. Or, if she is middle-aged, she may try to look too young, thereby making herself look older. Or she goes in for fluffy effects when she is the tailored type.

A smart appearance makes for personality. Over-dressing results in frumpiness. The stunningest clothes depend upon line, color and beautiful fabrics rather than trimming.

Careless make-up is a common error. We note faces before we note figures. No matter how beautiful the attire may be, a patchy rouge application on the cheeks or mascara that has spread, will spoil the picture.

She keeps up with "La Mode"

MANNERS GOOD

By MRS. BEECKMAN

A HINT FOR YOUR HOLIDAY COURTESY

You'll be receiving invitations to parties to be given during the holidays. Please reply to those kind invitations at once. Make this your special rule—of courtesy. And of course a prompt reply is particularly important when the number of guests is a consideration . . . a dinner or luncheon, for example, or a bridge or a buffet party. Don't make the excuse to yourself that you're too busy to answer invitation. . . . your hostess isn't too busy to give a holiday party, and she likes your busy to invite you!

INCLUDING BOTH HUSBAND AND WIFE IN ADDRESS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Ken and I were married last June. It was the first marriage for both, although we are both forty years old. We were away for quite a long wedding trip and, since our return, have been so busy getting settled in our new house that we haven't had much opportunity of meeting each other's friends. We have decided to send Christmas cards, but we are perplexed as to how to send them. For example, when Ken or I send a card to a married couple, is it proper to address it to both the husband and wife, even though we know only one of them? Also when only one of us knows the couple, should only that one's name be signed?

"Mr. & Mrs. Two"

This Christmas the way you sign your cards and the way you address them is extremely important for you are now establishing your "We Two" social relationships. For example, both your names should be signed to a Christmas card to a married couple, even when only one of you knows the couple. You really should sign all your Christmas cards with both names . . . Kenneth and Mary Holliday (the one signing a card writes her or his name last.) Also address a card to both husband and wife, even though you know only one. To: Mr. and Mrs. Two-Two is the right idea!

AFTER A BROKEN ENGAGEMENT RETURN ALL PRESENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We were to be married at Christmas-time. But we have had such a serious disagreement that we have decided not to be married. Recently a bridal shower was given in my honor. Please advise me whether or not I should return these shower presents.

M.

Yes, you should return the shower presents, enclosing with each a little note explaining that, since the reason for the present no longer exists, you feel the present should be returned and you are sure your friend will understand. Then be sure to thank the giver with special appreciation for her kind thought and generosity. And please, return all presents (the engagement ring and all other presents your ex-fiance gave you, and all engagement shower presents), so that you will wisely remove from your life all things that would mark you as a jilted engagement. Then with your head high, and your heart as high as possible, walk forth gallantly to Christmas and into a New Year!

Odds and Ends That Were Promised

By Mary Moore

Today is the day I usually reserve for a Special-Purpose Menu. I am going to have it out this week. You seldom tell me that you look for it and expect it on Wednesday, but when I leave it out I sure hear. My, you are a hungry bunch. Remind me of my crowd.

However I have to have space for Algonid Icing and White Icing for Fruit Cakes, and for Cranberry Sauce, etc. Tomorrow I give you method of roasting turkey, and for making stuffing. You will also find tomorrow recipes for sauces for the Plum Pudding.

GENUINE ALMOND PASTE NO 1

One lb. unblanched almonds or 7-8 lb. blanched almonds, 4 egg yolks, 1 lb. icing sugar, 1 teaspoon rosewater, 1-2 teaspoon bitter almond extract. If unblanched almonds are used, blanch them and let them dry overnight in a flagle layer. Put through finest knife of food chopper three times with fingers or wooden spoon work to a paste, then add unbeaten yolks and sugar and flavorings gradually until this is perfectly smooth. You may require a very little extra icing sugar. Roll out to exact size of cake on icing-sugar-sprinkled board. Brush top of cake with corn syrup to make paste thick and press paste on. Let stand 24 hours before applying white icing (see below).

ALMOND PASTE NO 2

To make 1 lb. grind 2 cups dry blanched almonds three times through finest knife of food chopper. Mix in 1 1-2 cups sifted icing sugar, then stir in 1-4 cup egg whites, unbeaten, and 2 teaspoons almond flavoring. Knead to make smooth. Let ripen, covered in refrigerator four days. Roll out as above.

WHITE ICING

(For covering almond paste on fruit cakes.)

To two unbeaten egg whites in bowl add 1 cup icing sugar and juice of 1-2 medium-sized lemon, and beat until mixed and beginning to thicken, then gradually add enough sifted icing sugar to make mixture consistency of thick whipped cream. Beat until very light. Spread over almond paste to 1-8 or 1-16 inch thickness. This does not harden so much that it chips.

EPICURE'S CRANBERRY RELISH

Peel three oranges and save the rind of one of them. Cut the pulp out to discard the membrane and seeds Cut each orange section in half. Put one quart washed and dried and picked over cranberries through medium knife of food chopper with the rind of one orange. Add the prepared orange pulp to thisand 1 1-2 cups sugar. Cover and let stand at least 24 hours. Toila keeps very well.

ATTENTION RUBY C.

I have not decided whether to use following vegetable in the Christmas dinner menu I will give you early next week. But I may, and since Ruby C. wanted it and since it is good, here it is:

SWEET POTATO AND APPLE CASSEROLE

Butter a casserole generously. Arrange 4 medium-large sized sweet potatoes (boiled with skin on until 3-4 tender) which have been peeled, and 2 medium-large apples which have been pared, cored and sliced in 1-2-inch slices, put them in alternate layers in casserole, sprinkling with salt and dotting with 2 tablespoons butter. Over top sprinkle 1-2 cup white or brown sugar or pour 1-3 cup maple syrup or cover with eight marshmallows which have been sliced in halves crosswise. Dot top with butter. Stand pan in larger pan containing hot water. Bake for 325 deg. Fahr. about one hour.

NOTE.

Slices of drained canned pineapple may be used instead of raw apple

NOTE RE HALF TURKEY

Roast a half-turkey at 325 deg. Fahr. allowing 25 to 30 minutes per lb., the longer time being for a large half-turkey. Place cavity side down, on aluminum foil on rack in pan. When half done pile stuffing, in a mound to fill the cavity, on foil, place half-turkey over, and finish roasting. Cover turkey throughout baking with foil. It will brown beautifully.

Strong Protest Registered Over Postal Rates

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Council of Women of Canada, representing 60,000 women across the country, Friday presented the cabinet with a "strong protest" over the proposed increased postal rates.

A five-woman delegation, presenting their annual brief to the government, said the proposed postal rates were exhorbitant "and out of line with the reasons given" for the increase. The regular rates are to be increased by one cent next April 1.

Their objections were presented to Prime Minister St. Laurent and six other members of the cabinet, including Finance Minister Abbott.

Asked what Mr. Abbott's reaction was to a suggestion the delegation made that the postal rates issue be debated in the Commons, a spokesman quoted the finance minister as saying, "loud and long."

NO DISCRIMINATION

The delegation said it also had "Undoubtedly it will be debated received assurance from the prime minister that the government of Canada has no intention of discriminating against women in any phase of the national life.

Further to a recommendation, contained in their brief, that the government provide better treatment of early sex offenders under a revised Criminal Code, the council was appreciated. A grant to set up a pilot project of a psychiatrist, endocrinologist and research worker to study the reasons for sexual aberrations."

The brief also had called for the removal of the 10 per cent sales tax on margarine; elimination of the means test in the Blind Persons Act; more favorable pensions to dependents of dead Canadian veterans; continued attention to outstanding women in the selection of senators; and pursuance of a policy barring liquor advertisement from CBC television and radio programs.

Canada's Deep-Sea Merchant Fleet on Shoals of Hard Times

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — After several post-war y ars of prosperity Canada's deep-sea merchant fleet has come upon the shoals of hard times.

High operating costs, stiffened competition from low - wage carriers and other factors, the operators say, have set up a serious question mark as to the survival of the fleet.

Anxious owners have taken their case to the federal cabinet. Last week, for the second time in a month, the government had the problem under consideration but came to no decision on government action.

In their latest move the shipowners sought authority to sell most of the Canadian owned deep-sea vessels in view of a Nov. 12 government decision not to subsidize operations. The owners take the deep - sea industry faces insolvency because of government restrictions on how the operators may dispose of their ships.

UNDER CANADIAN FLAG

Canadian ships flying the ocean lanes under this country's flag total 64. Not all of these are in trouble. The 14 tankers have a substantial trade that does not appear threatened, and the same applies to some of the dry-cargo vessels.

Another 32 Canadian-owned vessels are on United Kingdom registry, transferred in 1950 under a U. K.-Canada agreement when a slump developed. These can operate more cheaply than Canadian flag ships, chiefly because they do not have to pay Canadian-standard wages, second only to those on United States vessels.

From the cost standpoint, the main argument of the Canadian operators for government help is that it takes about $100,000 a year more to run a Canadian-registered ship than one under U. K. registry.

Most of the difficulties of the fleet are in eastern Canada. Apart from tankers, only two deep-sea ships operate out of Vancouver, in combined cargo-liner and tramping work.

Most of the dry-cargo carriers—34 ships—run out of Montreal. They go in for such varied jobs as passenger-cargo and straight cargo - liner services, industrial carriers and coastal trade.

Some of these are year - round tramps — operating without schedule around the world and picking up cargoes as they become available—and others go in for tramping in the off-season when the St. Lawrence river is closed by ice.

FROM ATLANTIC PORTS

Another dozen vessels operate out of Nova Scotia ports—Halifax, Sydney and Liverpool — as industrial carriers for particular firms, coastal trading and tramping. Two more are based in Newfoundland.

The dry - cargo fleet employs about 2,000 persons, including shore based staffs.

Most of the dry-cargo ships remaining under Canadian registry—47—were bought from the Canadian government after the war. Virtually all were built by the government itself in its wartime ship program.

They were sold on reasonable terms, in return for which the owners signed a so-called "covenant" that the vessels would not be sold abroad or have their registry transferred to other countries.

This first large-scale peacetime merchant marine for Canada since the years after the First World War thrived for a time. Ocean business was booming then.

Shippers were clamoring for cargo space. Britain's merchant men, which for generations had dominated the ocean carriage business, had not yet fully repaired the ravages of the sea war. Nor had other countries' fleets.

BUSINESS DECLINES

By late 1949, business for Canadian vessels was on the down side. More ships were coming globally. Canadian operating costs had gone up. Currency restrictions hampered dollar-country shipping. And there was less total traffic available as the world appeared settling down into normal peacetime trade.

Transfers to British registry were then authorized by the Canadian government, which relaxed the no-transfer provision in an arrangement with the U. K. This was accompanied by a $2,000,000 federal subsidy—for one year only — to help operations of the ship staying on Canadian registry.

Soon after that, the Korean war gave Canada's merchant shipping such a lift that the whole of the subsidy was not taken up. But that now has worn off, particularly since the cessation of actual fighting.

In its first representation to the cabinet, the Canadian shipowners association—representing about 60 per cent of the deep-sea fleet—suggested it would take about $5,000,000 a year to keep the vessels in operation economically.

OPERATORS' CASE

It put up these arguments:

1. Up to now, the extra expense of Canadian-flag operation has cost the owners more than the original price of the vessels.

2. The Canadian deep-sea merchant marine receives no subsidies such as other governments provide for their shipping.

3. There is a "compelling" need for Canadian vessels in international carriage, both for use in an emergency and as a safeguard against "exploitation" of Canada's foreign trade.

The owners asked that, if the government decided the industry was not to be helped from the treasury, it lift all restrictions and let the operators work out their own economic salvation.

"The cabinet eased one restriction. Previously, it had allowed some sales of ships abroad when the proceeds were put into an escrow fund to be spent in Canadian shipyards. Now, it will let the operators—who such foreign sales are approved—spend the sale price in yards abroad, where construction costs are lower than in this country.

Dissatisfied with that, the owners' association made its new representations to the government. With no subsidy in prospect, they want freedom to sell their ships or transfer registry elsewhere. Otherwise, they said in a statement, bankruptcy for the operators is inevitable.

Meanwhile, three of the ships are tied up and out of business. Five were tied up in recent months, but owners of two scraped up enough business to keep them going.

Merchant Navy Has Problems

Canada's ... navy, after several post-war years of prosperity, is flying distress signals. The federal government is considering a request from ship owners for authority to sell most of the ... view of a Nov. 12 government decision not to subsidize operations. Australian Court Defeats Attempt To Get Confidential Information

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)— An Australian state Supreme Court here today rejected the first official attempt to force confidential information from a newspaper under a new law attacked as a "press gag" by its critics.

Justice William F. Owen of New South Wales struck a body blow at the government intention of the act by refusing to order the crusading Sydney Morning Herald to disclose the names of two city aldermen. The newspaper had reported charges of city council corruption made by the aldermen without identifying them.

In his statement today Owen said the new act did not provide a legal basis for a court order requiring the newspaper to reveal the names. Police had applied for such an order in the first attempt to make use of the new legislation.

CAN'T FORCE EMPLOYEES

The judge said the act gives him no authority to demand nondocumentary information from the newspaper. He added that the names of the two aldermen are not documents and are allegedly known only to one or two employees of the newspaper.

He knew of no way by which the newspaper company could compel its employees to reveal the names.

The judge also maintained that he could not apply the act because the newspaper reports based on interviews with the aldermen did not specify that a particular crime had been committed—as required under the wording of the law.

He said the reports had implied that there had been moral, and probably legal wrongdoing but indicated he could find no clear-cut charge of a specific crime.

Hitler Impressed By Red Army's Stalingrad Stand

FRANKFURT (Reuters)—Hitler was so impressed by the Red army's stand at Stalingrad that he decided to let Stalin live in captivity in "the most beautiful castle in Germany."

An extract from Nazi foreign minister Joachim von Ribbentrop's memoirs, published here today, mentions the plan.

Ribbentrop wrote his memoirs, "Between London and Moscow," while on trial and later awaiting execution after his war-crimes trial.

He says he tried several times in 1942 to persuade Hitler to negotiate with Stalin. Hitler refused, but after the German defeat at Stalingrad he spoke of Stalin with great respect. Stalin was his "great opponent, militarily and in his conception of the world."

Little Benny's Note Book

I got home late for dinner again, being one of my biggest faults, and pop put his napkin down mad, saying, How nice here, this tardiness at meels has got to stop. How many warnings do you need for that to sink in? he said.

Yes sir, I said, and ma said, Your father is right, Benny, and I hope you pay strict attention to every word he says, but at the same time I realize how forgetful boys can be.

So do I for Peet sake, pop said. They can be so forgetful they even forget to listen while you're talking to them, so they have nothing to forget. But you better listen this time, young man, and you better not forget to remember, or by golies I'll give your memory a little feral aid that you wont be able to forgit in a hurry, he said.

Yes sir, I said, and ma said, I'm glad to see you so severe with him, William. A child his age simply must learn rite from wrong, even though his unformed mind is naturally still in a confused state.

Well if it's still in a confused state on the subject of being late for dinner, I'll straighten it out by fair means or fowl, pop said, and ma said, I'm glad to hear you say so, the poor little fellow.

Say, what goes on here? pop said, and ma said, I've been reading over a very intriting chapter in Dr. Krockheim's book on Modern Child Reering. Dr. Krockheim is quite definite on the point that a child's father should represent law and order and severity, and the mother should represent simpathy and understanding, she said.

Yee gods, I'm through, pop said. And he told me to sit down and represent a boy eating.

Which I did.

Dispute Right to Preside in Court

U.S. Chief Justice William Clark (right), suspended by the state department for insubordination, sticks to the bitter end at his desk as head of the American court system in Frankfurt, Germany. At left is Associate Justice Carl W. Fulghum, named to replace Judge Clark, who had been ordered to return to the United States on Dec. 5, but refused to step down. Clark heatedly protested the removal order. — Central Press Canadian.

Family Quarrel Finally Ends Up In Divorce Court

EDINBURGH (Reuters) — A duchess whose duke went to court in a vain effort to have her evicted from the ducal castle, today won a divorce on grounds of adultery.

The Duchess of Roxburgh, 40, was granted a decree against the duke, Georges Innes-Ker, 42, one of Scotland's biggest titled landowners.

The family quarrel first broke into headlines last January when the duke used to have his wife evicted from the ducal seat, Floors Castle, near Jedburgh in southern Scotland.

HELD OUT THREE MONTHS

He brought action under Scottish common law which lays down that a wife lives in her husband's house only "by licence."

For three months the duchess stood siege in the lonely, shuttered castle. Three times a court hearing of the case was adjourned. Then she ended the siege quietly by walking out.

The duchess, descendant of the Rothschilds, famous family of international financiers, became the youngest duchess in England when she married the duke in 1935 at the age of 20.

BLUE STORM LIGHTS MEAN DANGER!

REGULATIONS UNDER the Highway Traffic Act restrict use of Flashing Blue Lights to vehicles engaged in winter maintenance work, often emergency snow removal and ice control work during heavy storms. Such vehicles, like snowplows, often are wider than ordinary vehicles and extra width can be obscured by snow or ice in course of actual removal. Motorists are warned to use extreme caution while approaching or following any vehicle displaying flashing blue lights, which are warning signals. If following one, drivers of motor vehicles are urged to keep at least 500 feet in their rear. Snow removal and sanding trucks often move quite slowly.

Maori Sailors Stage War Dance On Queen's Liner

ABOARD S. S. GOTHIC (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth steps ashore Thursday to a royal welcome in the Fiji islands.

The islanders have been holding full-scale rehearsals of native dances and ceremonies since they learned the Queen and Duke of Edinburgh planned to stop at Suva on their Commonwealth tour. It will mark the first time they have touched land since leaving Panama Nov. 29.

The royal couple already has been given a preview of the entertainment. Maori crew members of the escort New Zealand cruiser Black Prince daubed their faces and donned yellow and black skirts Tuesday night when they visited this royal liner. Accompanied by guitars, they chanted and whirled about in war dances.

CROSS DATE LINE

The Gothic, which is bearing the royal household on the six-month tour, has crossed the International date line. The nearby Fiji Islands are 12 hours ahead of eastern standard time.

The Queen and duke visited the Black Prince earlier Tuesday after the Gothic stopped her engines in the lee of tree-clad Naitamba Island. The duke wore the uniform of an admiral of the fleet and the Queen a green-and-white striped frock for the motorboat trip.

The Queen can expect pleasant weather if predictions for her two-day Fiji visit hold up.

Catholic Priest In Barren Lands Safe and Well

CHURCHILL (CP) — A brief radio message, relayed along the Arctic's dog lease-radio network, has brought word from the Barren Lands that a 39-year-old French missionary, unreported for several months, is safe at a northern outpost.

Rev. Joseph Bullard of the Roman Catholic Oblate order was last seen by a mining engineer during the summer, making the rounds of his Eskimo parishioners. Much concern was felt here for his safety after a plan to send supplies to his Carey Lake mission, 1,200 miles north of Winnipeg, failed to work out.

Rev. Peter Lessard of the Oblate mission mailed a message to the CBC's "Northern Messenger" service which was broadcast from Winnipeg last Friday seeking word of the priest who has worked 14 years in the Arctic.

Before the message was broadcast a radio report came from Baker Lake, 200 miles north of Winnipeg, saying Father Bullard is in good health. He said he did not need a plane load of supplies until next March.

Officials said that from what is known of his usual winter route, Father Bullard's "all-well" message probably originated at Cambridge bay, on the south shore of Victoria island 1,100 miles north of Edmonton, on his arrival by dog team.

36 Conservatives Rebel Against Govt. Proposal

LONDON (AP)—Thirty-six Conservatives rebelled openly in Parliament Tuesday night against the Churchill government's proposals to remove British troops from the Suez canal zone.

The Conservative backbenchers introduced a "critical motion" in the House of Commons demanding that Britain suspend any negotiations with Egypt aimed at the withdrawal of British troops from the Suez.

The so-called rebels are expected to carry their fight into a foreign affairs debate next Thursday. Their move could seriously embarrass Prime Minister Churchill's government but does not threaten its defeat as no vote is scheduled.

Some of the Conservative rebels, however, have threatened to vote against the government's military budget early next year unless the Suez evacuation plan is dropped. This could lead to a government defeat.

The government has a 20-vote over-all majority in Commons. This is sufficient to assure government victory if the Conservatives remain united but hardly enough to ride out a full-fledged party revolt.

Earlier this month Churchill quelled similar back-bench Conservative revolts against the government's plans to introduce commercial television and its refusal to grant war pensions boosts.

Tuesday night's government rallied full Conservative party support to assure Commons approval of commercial TV and the defeat of a Labor-motion stacking it as a threat to public morals.

Commons Defeats 2 Motions By Conservatives to Broaden New Anti-Dumping Legislation

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons Tuesday defeated a pair of opposing Conservative move to broaden the government's new anti - dumping legislation.

Members rejected two amendments by Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) to apply the measures to all goods, not merely manufactured goods, and extend operation throughout the year.

The bill would deal with sharp seasonal cuts in sales of manufactured goods by providing for an appraisal for customs duty purposes. This appraisal would be of a "weighted average" price based on price for the goods in the country of origin up to six months prior to the date of import.

Provisions of the bill went into effect last February, aimed chiefly at cut-rate United States textile imports. It provided for a customs appraisal when import prices drop to below-normal levels "as the result of the advance of the season or the marketing period."

AMENDMENTS REJECTED

Mr. Fleming's first amendment, to apply the bill to all goods, was defeated 97 to 32.

His second amendment, to delete the reference to the end of the marketing period, was rejected 104 to 32.

Mr. Fleming said that "astute" U.S. manufacturers could find ways to get around such narrow definitions.

The present dumping of U.S. goods was not confined to sales at the end of seasons or marketing periods. Some U.S. textile plants kept operating even after their own markets had been supplied in order to avoid the costs of shutting down. The surplus production was dumped into Canada, "the happy dumping ground."

Revenue Minister McCann said if members wished to adopt the first amendment, the government was prepared to accept it and apply the measure to imports of all goods.

But the government could not agree to deletion of the reference to season and marketing period. The bill's aim was to provide for a fair and reasonable basis of valuation.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said the type of dumping dealt with by the bill was the kind of cases in petition which Canadian manufacturers should be asked to meet.

NO FAVORITE GROUP

The government was prepared, if members wished, to extend provisions of the bill to all goods. It did not want to give the impression it was favoring a certain group.

Mr. St. Laurent said, however, he did not think that any goods other than manufactured goods came under the situation dealt with by the bill.

Some members, including H. P. Cavers (L—Lincoln) and Charles Valli (CCF—Fort William), said the bill should protect fruit and vegetable growers from U.S. cut-rates during their marketing season.

Mr. St. Laurent replied that he believed the growers would prefer the present system of seasonal tariffs on U.S. fruits and vegetables rather than protection under the new legislation.

Mayor Lamport Takes Time Out To Criticize Globe

TORONTO (CP) —Mayor Allen Lamport Tuesday spent 15 minutes publicly criticizing The Globe and Mail for publishing a series of pictures, "This is Toronto."

The newspaper's series has been running for several weeks. It has drawn attention to such things as breaks in pavement, carelessly painted traffic lines, piles of garbage littering city streets and neglected monuments.

The mayor, opening the city's day's board of control meeting that he will try to find a way to "convince the paper's street-corner sieg bosses, he said:

If The Globe or Mail doesn't like Toronto, why doesn't it move out of town?

"We ought to charge them a tariff—say, a dollar a day—for each unattended box would be about right. And the city should have a couple of cells.

"I resent on behalf of this good city this paper being sent around the province with these pictures which try to show Toronto in a bad light. I object to them holding us up to ridicule.

The vice - chairman, controller Leslie Saunders, said he agreed with the mayor. The three other controllers, Louis Shannon, Ford Brand and David Balfour, also applauded themselves from the mayor's remarks.

Wants to Give Territories To Four Provinces

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator W. M. Aseltine, acting Opposition leader in the Senate, Tuesday suggested that the government could get rid of a costly administrative headache by giving the Yukon and Northwest Territories to the four western provinces.

Senator Aseltine made the suggestion during debate on a measure changing the name of the department of mines and forest development to the department of northern affairs and national resources.

"I am informed that the cost of administration is considerable and that there is very little revenue so I am going to suggest that my solution of this whole problem of looking after the northwest territory would be to give it to the provinces," he said.

British Columbia would get the Yukon and that part of the Northwest Territories lying to its north and Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba would get the portions of the Northwest Territories lying to their north.

The bill was given approval in principle and sent to the Senate's standing committee on resources for further study.

Minister Jean Marchand, government leader in the upper chamber, drew a laugh when he asked Senator Aseltine if he thought the provinces would ask for a subsidy to administer the 1,500,000 square miles of mineral-rich territory.

Perjury Charge May Be Laid Says Duplessis

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Duplessis said Tuesday Gerard Picard, president of the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor, is liable to a charge of perjury, punishable by seven years in penitentiary, in connection with obtaining an automobile driving permit.

Mr. Duplessis made the statement to the Legislative Assembly in connection with a clause of a government bill declaring it an offence for anyone to get a permit while already under a court suspension for driving because of traffic violation.

The premier said he noted in the newspapers that Jean-Paul Noel (L—Montreal Jeanne-Mance) had said that the bill was aimed at Gerard Picard, CCCL president. He was arrested in Montreal last spring and whose driving licence was suspended.

Mr. Duplessis said the union leader had obtained another permit after serving only a short sentence of the criminal code providing a penalty of six months in jail.

By the clause in the bill, the government would make it a similar offence a lesser one punishable only by a fine of $100 or by imprisonment 30 to 90 days in jail.

"Since what the government has done does not seem to have been sufficiently severe," Mr. Duplessis said, "the clause declaring this offence retroactive and let the articles of the Canadian criminal code stand," said Mr. Duplessis.

It could not be termed immediately whether or not Mr. Duplessis, who is also Quebec's attorney-general, intends to charge Mr. Picard under the criminal code.

REDS IMPRISON AGENTS

BERLIN (AP)—The official East German press agency ADN said Tuesday night that 11 agents from West Berlin's free university have been given long prison terms for engaging in "active war preparations." The agents, it said, were said a district court at Magdeburg sentenced 14 men and women, one a woman, to life in prison. The 11 received prison terms ranging from six to 15 years.

SOLDIER RELEASED

LONDON (Reuters) — British Army signalman Harry Richard Eggins, 24, sentenced to seven years in jail for the murder of an Egyptian girl, Tuesday was released from detention. He had his sentence suspended Tuesday by the war office. Page remained England after more than a year in jail.

300 Electricians Will Not Strike At This Time

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton's 300 construction electricians decided at a meeting Tuesday to postpone a strike with which they have stopped work on 26 building jobs in the city.

The meeting was taken when business agent Cecil Dibble announced that the head office of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers had refused permission for the strike at present.

Local 105, IBEW has been negotiating for months with the Hamilton Electrical Contractor's Association. A conciliation board had recommended a wage increase of 15 cents an hour now and five cents more in the spring. This was turned down by the local which voted for strike action at a meeting Monday night.

The president of the union at Washington sent the local a telegram Tuesday saying that permission to organize the strike was withheld, and that a representative from Washington would be sent into the area shortly after New Years.

If this representative cannot obtain a settlement strike action will follow.

Two-Headed, Four-Armed Baby Progressing

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A two-headed, four - armed baby was given two names Tuesday and doctors reported it was making the progress of a normal new-born.

The baby—a boy who was sliced off the "critical" list, and it-tended Tuesday—was reported as good. Doctors at the Indiana University medical centre said he is taking nourishment in both mouths and the intestinal tract is responding normally.

The 46-year-old father said he gave the names Donald Ray to "the best one" and the name Daniel Kay to the other—head and arms. There was no explanation of the reference to "the best one."

Dr. John D. Van Nuys, dean of the medical centre, said no surgery is contemplated for the baby. The surgical mortality rate for operations similar to this for consideration except in an emergency and it was too soon to determine what surgery would be possible.

Socred Party Won't Champion 'McCarthyism'

OTTAWA (CP)—Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said Tuesday in the Commons, Monday, he has no intention of "championing McCarthyism."

Earlier in the session, John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert) had two speeches in which he praised Senator Joseph McCarthy.

Mr. Diefenbaker, after Mr. Low's statement Tuesday, Mr. Blackmore (Lethbridge—Social Credit) rose to discuss the "desirability" of Parliament's having a debate to determine whether any Canadians were working toward the end of overthrowing the state in full order Communist domination.

Mr. Blackmore declared this was a matter of "urgent public importance."

MOTION "VAGUE"

Speaker Rene Beaudoin said Mr. Blackmore's motion was "vague" and that it did not rate taking precedence over the "important" public business announced for the day.

Rising on a question of privilege, Mr. Low took issue with a statement by Mr. Low, after the Vancouver Sun written by Elmore Philpott (L—Vancouver South), a Liberal newspaper columnist.

Mr. Low said: "I want to make it clear to him (Mr. Philpott) and all others in Canada that the Social Credit Party condones McCarthyism. I have the honor to be the spokesman, and not now championing McCarthy in Canada, and I do not propose to do so in the future."

FRIEND OF MISSING GIRL SLAIN

Mrs. Norma Schreiber, 23, close friend of Marion McDowell, missing for over a week, was found dead in her Toronto apartment, a victim of strangulation. Her husband has been charged with murder by police. Marion McDowell, with whom Mrs. Schreiber used to work, disappeared after her escort for an evening was clubbed over the head with a gun butt on a highway in Scarboro, Ont. Police have not admitted any connection, as yet between the murder and the disappearance.—(Central Press Canadian Photo).

Police, called to the [illegible] Mrs. Schreiber and her husband, Joseph. He was taken to a police station and, later questioning, the murder charge was laid. (Central Press Canadian Photo.)

Liberal Senator Wants Bickering Stopped at Once

OTTAWA (CP) — A Newfoundland merchant warned Tuesday in the Senate that Canada and the United States are falling into the dangerous habit of bickering across their mutual boundary.

Senator C. C. Pratt, a Liberal, said during the Senate speech debate that what is needed is a statement in the Senate to the people of both countries how they can be of benefit to each other. After his speech, he address in reply to the throne speech was adopted.

"In the economic field, reaching down to the average citizen, I think I can say there is a wall of ignorance between us," he said.

"There is undoubtedly the will to understand and there is a full measure of respect one towards the other. With that background, we have an ideal setting for the promotion of mutual interest in our trading and economic problems by organized effort of both countries."

He said trade relations between the two countries can never reach a solid, sensible basis unless the general public in both countries understand the problems involved.

"As things now are, on both sides of the border, we are groping into the habit of bickering but with widespread effort I feel we can correct that and develop together on a much broader and more fruitful plane."

PLANE DISAPPEARS

CHATHAM, N.B. (CP)—A United States F89 jet Scorpion disappeared Tuesday with two men aboard somewhere between Chatham and Presque Isle, Me. Names of the missing men were not disclosed.

Palace Servants Throw Party For Royal Family

LONDON (Reuters) — Comely kitchen maids danced with bluebloods, and footmen with princess Tuesday night, as the 200 domestic servants at Buckingham Palace threw a party for the Royal Family.

The traditional palace Christmas party is the one night in the year when princes and valets can forget the roles they must play the rest of the time, and just enjoy themselves together.

This year the Queen, thousands of miles away on a round-the-world tour of the Commonwealth, missed the party, one of her favorites.

But before she left, she arranged for the servants to hold their ball in the glittering, mirrored state ballroom.

And, while the Queen herself was not present, Princess Margaret and Princess Margaret looked in for a while.

Dress for the dance is semi-formal, with the men wearing dark suits or dinner jackets, the women long formal gowns.

The royal ladies never "dress down" at these parties. Instead they wear some of their loveliest clothes and jewels to give the other women the pleasure of describing such splendor to their friends.

U.S. Envoy Heads For Washington And Conference

TOKYO (AP)—United States envoy Arthur H. Dean headed today for Washington, hopeful that a Korean armistice conference will be called despite seven weeks of futile preliminary negotiations.

As he boarded an airliner here, Dean told reporters it is "distinctly possible" that a truce and peace conference will be resumed, although it might take some time.

Dean, spokesman for the 17 United Nations countries which fought in Korea, broke off the talks Saturday and demanded that the Communists withdraw their charge the U.S. of connicing with South Korea to release 27,000 anti-Red war prisoners last June.

The Reds have not apologized, and today Dean publicly rejected the charge and accused Dean of wrecking the first truce conference.

Moscow radio also declared that suspension of the preliminary negotiations was part of "the long-term scheduled plan" of United States for wrecking the armistice in Korea.

Dean will make a full report to the U.N. delegation here on his return to Washington. His plane is due in Washington Thursday morning.

AWAITS REPLY FROM REDS

The U.S. envoy's chief adviser, Kenneth Young, returns to Korea Friday to await possible Communist retraction of the perfidy charge.

Young is the state department's expert on Far East affairs. He accompanied Dean here Monday.

Meanwhile, Premier Syngman Rhee told a press conference in Seoul today that he would give such a conference 30 days to make progress toward unification of Korea.

Rhee stressed, however, that he would wait until a "certain time" for the conference to get under way.

Grain Exchange Described As 'Gambling Den'

OTTAWA (CP) — Robert Fair (SC—Battle River-Camrose) suggested Tuesday in the Commons that Justice Minister Garson classify the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as a "gambling den" under the criminal code.

He made the comment during renewed debate on a private bill introduced by Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia) to give western farmers the right to deliver grain to the elevator of their choice.

Trade Minister Howe again refused Tuesday to allow Saskatchewan farmers post grain acreages before June 1 to enable elevators in their area, thus deciding the amount of grain they want to sell to each company. Mr. Argue claims his bill would mean that farmers rather than elevators would decide the distribution of boxcars to the various areas. Even he said anyone in the grain business who thinks the CCF member's proposed system is workable.

Justice Chevrier Bids Good-Bye As Trial Judge

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—An Ontario Supreme Court justice reviewed as a stickler for courteous decorum in his 18 years on the bench spoke regretfully Tuesday of his retirement as trial judge.

However, Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier said in an interview that he expects his appointment to the Ontario Court of Appeal will give him more time with his family.

The 66-year-old justice who stands a mere five-foot-two chuckled about the description, "terrible-tempered," bestowed because of his insistence on courtroom dignity and strict observance of the rules of legal practice. He explained the reason for his attitude: "If you have a precious jewel, you store it away carefully and revere it. The law is our greatest heritage and we must preserve and revere it."

He has presided at trials in all parts of Ontario.

"I will certainly miss the human contacts—the human element which one meets on the circuit. I shall now have to deal with a large part of written evidence and a certain amount of verbal representation by counsel.

"I shall now sit exclusively in appeals in the monastic atmosphere of Osgoode Hall. I shall no longer carry my green bag from l'Orignal to Kenora or Cochrane along the northern circuit—and I will miss it."

Hope Dims for Interviews With 22 American Converts To Communism; Deadline Near

By STAN CARTER

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Allied campaign to win back baby war prisoners appeared today to have collapsed, and an Indian spokesman said the 22 Americans and one Briton who chose communism are fully aware time is running out.

Two PoW leaders who conferred Tuesday with Indian Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya said it makes no difference to them that the 90-day period for interviews expires Dec. 23.

A South Korean prisoner repatriated from the pro-Communist compound today said, however, that three of the 22 Americans want to be repatriated.

Pfc. Kim Min Do said most of the South Koreans now remaining to be interviewed also will ask to return home. He asserted the Communists deliberately stalled further interviews so the remaining prisoners would have no choice.

Kim asked his Indian guards for repatriation and was returned to the United Nations command during the day. He said it is possible that other prisoners may also ask to be returned.

BROADCAST CAROLS

But there appears to be virtually no chance that the Americans and British will agree to attend interviews before the deadline. And the U.N. command is considering other ways of reaching the prisoners, including Christmas carols broadcast over the communist loudspeaker system.

The music would be interspersed with appeals to abandon communism and return home.

Kim said a number of things" also are under consideration, including a request to the Indian command for permission to go to explainers into the compound.

Thimayya, chairman of the neutral nations repatriation commission, reiterated yesterday that Indian troops will free unrepatriated Americans, British, Indian and Chinese prisoners or turn them back to their captors Jan. 22.

If the Indians should turn prisoners back to their captors, Allied officials said 22 Americans, 21 Chinese and North Koreans would be promptly freed.

Believe Chinese Reds Have Burma As First Target

By A. L. McINTYRE

SINGAPORE (AP) — Reports from behind the Bamboo Curtain indicate China's Communist bosses have designs on Burma as their southeast Asia with Burma as the first target.

Observers who regularly monitor Chinese Red broadcasts say Laos, the Indo-China, Thailand and other invasion targets after Burma. To confirm what the Communist push, Communist agents in Indonesia, the Red Chinese-backed Sjongman Rhee told a press conference in Seoul today that he would give such a conference 30 days to make progress toward unification of Korea.

Rhee stressed, however, that he would wait until a "certain time" for the conference to get under way.

C. C. F. Leader Critical Of Hollinger Mine

OTTAWA (CP)—Donald C. MacDonald, Ontario CCF leader, charged Tuesday night that Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines virtually had thumbed its nose at the Ontario government in rejecting a government-backed plan for settlement of a dispute with 1,500 workers.

Mr. MacDonald said the company was more interested in attempting to smash the United Steelworkers of America (CCL-CIO) than in obtaining a settlement. The company's rejection of the plan, he said, gives the government "no alternative but to seek the acceptance by Hollinger of a settlement which it has sponsored, and which the union has agreed to in good faith."

Holding Hearing In Fraud Charges Against Broker

PERTH, Ont. (CP)—The last of seven witnesses to appear to testify today at the preliminary hearing of a former Perth school teacher who became a successful bond dealer on Toronto's Bay street and then went broke.

The hearing of 33 fraud and theft charges against Walter L. McKinnon opened Monday. The 71-year-old bond dealer was first charged last Sept. 18. He has pleaded not guilty to the charges.

R. H. McCarthy, Ontario securities commission investigator who investigated McKinnon's dealings, said near the end of Monday's session that his examination of McKinnon's records showed no evidence of an attempt to hide any transactions.

HOW CHARGE ORIGINATED

Carl J. Miller, one of seven persons from the Perth area who have laid claims involving some $44,000 against McKinnon, said under questioning by defence counsel J. J. Robinette of Toronto that thoughts of theft hadn't entered his head at the time he learned of McKinnon's bankruptcy last year.

"Would it be fair to say that you never thought of laying a charge of theft until the securities commission came along and put the idea in your head?" asked Mr. Robinette.

"Yes," replied Mr. Miller.

McKinnon is charged with defrauding Mr. Miller of a total of $2,243.

WANTED REPLACEMENTS

Norman B. James, who lost $2,243 in the failure of McKinnon's firm, said he knew he was selling his bonds for McKinnon. That I thought he was going to give me cheques as payment. I never got some of them."

The crown contends McKinnon knew the securities he sold were bought his Perth investors new bonds in which McKinnon, not they once he purchased from them. The defence holds that he was under no obligation to obtain the new bonds immediately. They were for future delivery.

Man Shoots Wife Than Fatally Wounds Self

TORONTO (CP)—Suburban East York police said Tuesday that a 49-year-old man shot his wife to death and fatally wounded himself as their 11 months-old baby slept in a crib nearby.

Dead are Alfred Lindsay and his 46-year-old wife, Sarah.

Police said Mrs. Elizabeth Sneddon, the couple's landlady, ar- rived to find the couple quarreling and went upstairs when the wife screamed that her husband was going to kill her.

Police said the wife had recently begun a separate suit proceedings against her husband. The Lindsays had five children, four of whom are married. The others, except the baby, were absent from the house at the time.

Canada Played Major Role In United Nations in 1953

By MEL SUFKIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada played a major role in the United Nations in 1953 although much of its activity was behind the scenes.

External Affairs Minister Pearson served as president of the General Assembly for the first eight months and was thus closely associated with the diplomatic moves that helped bring about the Korean armistice in July.

But his position also meant that he had to maintain a generally neutral position in UN affairs so that much of the negotiating and manoeuvring which produced the Korean developments were not publicized.

Pearson presided at the regular Assembly session early in the year and again in the special Korean session in July. The latter produced the UN proposals for make-up of the Korean conference and also the only major difference between Canada and the United States that occurred in the UN in 1953.

Health Minister Martin was the chief delegate at the Korean session and delivered an attack on a Russian proposal which would not have included Canada at the conference table.

BACKED INDIA

He also helped formulate the Canadian-British proposal that India be invited to the conference as a neutral. The U.S., under heavy pressure from South Korean President Syngman Rhee who had publicly expressed dislike of Indian policies, opposed the proposal and, with the support of the Latin-American bloc, was able to thwart the plan to invite India.

If the Communists had any hopes that the differences between the western allies would reach major proportions, they were disappointed when Canada and Britain later decided to go along with a plan to invite the 17 nations which fought under the UN command to send representatives to the projected conference.

It was decided at that time that Russia could be invited, but not as a neutral, only as a member of the Communist side. It was this point which resulted in the stalemate over conference plans and left little hope late in the year that the conference would ever be held.

After stepping down as Assembly president in September, Pearson delivered the major Canadian policy speech of the fall session.

He emphasized that Canadian troops would not fight if Rhee were to carry out his threat to violate the truce by resuming the Korean war on his own. He also expressed hope that eventually there would be a free and United Korea with a freely-elected government and all foreign forces withdrawn.

PEARSON PLAN POPULAR

His suggestion that Korea's security might be provided for under an international and supervised guarantee" drew favorable reaction in the West but at year's end, the hope of a neutral, united Korea seemed far off.

During the year Canada played its part in other UN bodies which, because they did not produce the dramatic East-West conflicts on the same scale as the Assembly, received less publicity.

In the plan to aid underdeveloped countries Canada increased its financial contribution and sent experts to many countries.

The fall session saw Dr. George Davidson, Canada's deputy minister of welfare, elected to head the UN social committee.

The Canadian delegation at the fall meeting of the Assembly included Postmaster General Cote, Senator Stanley McKeen of Vancouver, Alan Macnaughton, Liberal member of Parliament for Mount Royal, Mrs. A. L. Caldwell of Saskatoon, a member of the national film board, D. M. Johnson, the permanent delegate, and George Patterson, a native of Moncton, N.B., who died Nov. 8 in Boston, where he was Canadian consul-general, a post he combined with his UN activities.

PLAN EARLY MASS

HANOI, Indo-China (Reuters)—French troops in dangerous battle positions in Indo-China will celebrate midnight mass six hours early as the sun is setting Christmas Eve. St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, Presents Centennial Choral Service

By MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

The two large Christmas trees at St. Paul United Church, in Stirling, were trimmed and lighted for the evening choral service in Centennial year on Sunday. The two tall, white pedestals were filled with bulrushes and green cedar, with the lighted star at the ceiling.

A. Fred Waring presentation, entitled "The Song of Christmas," depicting "The Story of the Nativity" was told in Christmas songs, carols and Biblical verses.

The narrators were: Rev. A. E. Baker, Mrs. R. A. Patterson and Mr. Harold Wells.

St. Paul's choir, numbering about 35, sang in massed formation several special Christmas carols and other selections. The soloists were: Mrs. William Wilkins, Mrs. Walter Warren, Miss Marlene Carlisle and Messrs. Douglas Fryear, Harry Brown, Grant Richardson and William Aylsworth.

Mr. Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians, first presented this number on the National Broadcasting System on Christmas Day, 1945, and it has been given several times since in the United States.

Mr. George Carlisle voiced thanks to Mrs. A. E. Baker, A.R.C.T., who trained the group so efficiently for this notable production.

Mr. R. A. Patterson conducted the carol singing with Mrs. Baker and Mrs. H. West giving organ and piano accompaniment.

The offering was gathered by Messrs. Cecil Macklin, George Carlisle, Edwin Warren and Harry Heasman. Seasonal hymns were sung and the guests from nearby points were welcomed. The service closed with Charles Wesley's selection "Ye Servants of God."

WHITE GIFT SERVICE

At the morning service, the worshippers placed their "White Gifts for the King" on the altar. The Royal Choir rendered an "Austrian Shepherd's Christmas Carol" and the senior choir interpreted a selection by Barnby.

THREE LOVE GIFTS

Three love gifts were dedicated, two of them in memory of Mr. Irene Dingman, who passed on this year, and of Walter T. A. Barber, in 1951. Another gift was from Samantha J. Barker, in recognition of what St. Paul's United Church has meant to her. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed and the service closed with Edward H. Blicherstieh's hymn, "O Holy Father."

On Christmas Sunday the moderator of the United Church of Canada will spend the day in Stirling. The Right Reverend A. A. Scott, M.A., B.D., B. Paed., D.D., came to his exalted office after long and devoted service in India. He is the first office bearer of over three million United Church members and adherents. The moderator will give the message at the morning service. A special order of service loaned from John Street Methodist Church, New York City, will be used.

At the evening service the Royal Junior Choir will present its annual torchlight service, which includes "The Christmas Crib."

Bone Graft May Save Young Patient

Jimmy Welch, 18, enjoys a visit at Strong Memorial Hospital, Rochester, N.Y., from fellow patient Mary Ann Ranney, 11, who may now recover from a rare bone disease through Jimmy's sacrifice. Risking chances of a promising baseball career, Jimmy volunteered to let surgeons transplant an 8¼-inch segment of bone from his leg to Mary Ann's in an effort to accomplish what five operations on the little girl since 1948 have not. Jimmy will be on crutches for weeks, and doctors will not know for six months whether Mary Ann is cured or not. — Central Press Canadian.

Federal Experts Forecast Lower Food Prices in '54

OTTAWA (CP)—Pigs, hens and rent collectors made things tough for the housewife in her daily battle against living costs in 1953.

But the pressure on her purse may ease. Federal experts forecast lower food prices in 1954.

Retail prices seemed to be in the buyer's favor in the first half of 1953 as living costs continued the decline started early in 1952.

Half-way through 1953, food and other prices began to perk up. Living-cost increases in the latter fall eliminated all the drops in the first half and pushed the cost-of-living yardstick to where it was the spring of 1952.

FOOD PRICES UP

Causes were varied, but higher prices for foods and rents were among the main factors. Pork and egg prices rose to a two-year high. Rents touched a peak.

The consumer price index, barometer for measuring living costs, reflected the 1953 slide and bounce. From the record high of 118.2 Jan. 2, 1953, it dropped to 115.7 Jan. 2, 1953. By May 1, the index had slid to 114.4, lowest in almost two years. By Nov. 1 it was back to 118.2, highest in 16 months and a half-point higher than the Jan. 2 level.

In the United States, living costs reached an all-time high. In Canada they were still below the 118.2 record. Inflationary forces seemed to be on the march, but they retreated. Price softening was on its way at the year end. During November the index dropped a half-point, mainly because of lower food prices.

Federal food experts, at the annual federal-provincial agricultural conference in November, forecast lower prices in 1954 for meats, eggs, fruits, potatoes and grain.

Bigger supplies of pork—which helped push living costs higher in 1953—are likely to be on the market in the latter part of 1954.

EXPENSIVE BACON

The high price of pork resulted from the large United States market for Canadian supplies. There was a smaller market for beef and subsequently a price drop. But those who liked bacon for breakfast had to pay the highest prices in history.

On the basis of 1949 prices equalling 100, the bacon sub-index rose to 127.3 Oct. 1 from 72.9 Oct. 1, 1952. The pork loin sub-index rose to 121.8 from 102.3.

Generally, the food index reflected the over-all cost-of-living trend. This column, which had reached a peak of 122.5 Dec. 1, 1951, dropped to 113.5 Jan. 2, 1953. By May 1 it had slipped to 110.3. Then it bounced to 115.5 Oct. 1, highest in a year, retreating to 113.4 Nov. 1.

STEADY RENT INCREASE

Rents, meanwhile, continued to rise, steadily. The shelter index, covering rents and home-ownership costs, which rose 3.1 points in the first 11 months of 1952, increased by another 2.7 points in the first 11 months of 1953, rising to a new high of 125.

One consolation to the rent payer was that pace of the increases seemed to be declining. It may slow still more as Canada boosts its housing construction.

Other cost-of-living changes were relatively small. Medical costs were higher, but cigaret prices were lower. Clothing showed little change, but the cost of running a house, including laundry bills, was made higher.

The household operations column edged to 117.4 Nov. 1 from 116.8 Jan. 2. It was just one-tenth of a point from the all-time high of 117.5 Oct. 1.

British Economic History In '53 Shows Steady Expansion

By GEORGE ABRAHAMSON

LONDON (CP) — After the adjustments of 1952, the year 1953 will enter British economic history as one of steady but unspectacular expansion.

By September, production was nine per cent higher than the preceding year and four per cent above the peak post-war year of 1951. There were fewer unemployed and fewer persons in public administration.

There were more in manufacturing industries, especially the textile and clothing trades which established a heartening recovery. Raw materials caused few worries.

The coal output was maintained at about 223,000,000 tons by a slowly decreasing labor force, and steel production rose to a peak level of 18,460,000 tons in October.

HOUSING EXPANSION

Highlights of the industrial scene were the expansion in house-building (more than 300,000 units) and the continued progress in auto production (480,000 for January-October).

Rationing and restrictions were progressively relaxed.

Price changes in the world market were slow in making themselves felt. British retail prices continued to advance until August, partly as a result of further cuts in food subsidies, which now assume the character of producers' rather than consumers' subsidies. As well, wholesale prices declined slowly from March.

Though wages and salaries once again failed to keep in step with the advance of the cost of living, purchasing power was not short. Retail sales, stimulated by a 25-per-cent slash in purchase tax on many commodities, were better than expected. More money than ever was spent on non-essentials.

INVENTORIES LOWERED

Business firms continued to lower inventories wherever possible, and liquidity ratios and profit margins improved in some branches of industry. In agriculture, decontrol made necessary a comprehensive policy review to maintain guaranteed prices to British farmers.

Foreign commerce was marked by growing competition. Import and export prices developed in Britain's favor; by September, import prices were nine to 10 per cent below 1952 while export prices fell by two per cent. The volume of exports was maintained while that of imports increased after the sharp contraction of stocks in 1952.

The adverse balance of trade—£500,000,000 ($1,400,000,000) for the first 10 months of the year—remained formidable and one of the government's chief worries. Commerce with North America was not unsatisfactory.

Relaxation of import cuts in Australia and elsewhere helped trade with the Commonwealth, but intensive competition by other European exporters resulted in lower prices and smaller sales elsewhere.

CURRENCY POSITION

Substantial invisible exports helped to improve the currency position. Accordingly, the dollar problem gave no trouble during the year. The balance of payments was active throughout, but the surplus was slight in the second half.

By the end of November, the sterling area's gold and dollar reserves had climbed back to more than $2,500,000,000, an improvement of more than $700,000,000 over 1952. These concessions were able to be made to the Organization for European Economic Co-operation and other countries, but convertibility still appeared far off.

The cut in the bank rate in September—by ½ per cent to 3½ per cent—reflected official confidence that inflationary pressure was subsiding. While the bank note circulation advanced in line with rising consumption, bankers' advances to industry declined and bank deposits increased.

Small savings also took a more favorable course. New capital and loan issues met steady responses from large and small investors. Fixed interest securities rose by seven per cent. Ordinary industrial shares, helped by higher dividends, increased by 12 per cent on an average by the end of November, after falls of 1½ and five per cent in 1952.

Treasury receipts reflected the tax concessions to the extent that further reductions appeared unlikely.

The general outlook justifies cautious optimism as far as industrial production and investments are concerned.

There is still a serious burden of unproductive government expenditure, despite considerable economies, and the export position remains the most biggest worry.

Cotton Textile Business Fails To Improve

MONTREAL (CP)—Business in the Canadian cotton textile industry in 1953 showed practically no improvement from 1952 when domestic mills obtained less than 50 per cent of the home market, J. L. Ralston, president of the Cotton Institute of Canada, said Tuesday.

Addressing the Institute's annual meeting, Mr. Roy said a recovery in late 1952 and early 1953 was not sustained and production and employment figures were much the same now as they were last year.

"In 1952 we supplied 49 per cent of the Canadian market for cotton fabrics . . . compared with 50 per cent in 1953, 43 per cent in 1950 and 1945-49 average of 54 per cent."

RAWDON — The Christmas meeting of Mount Pleasant - Rawdon Woman's Missionary Society was held recently at the home of Mrs. Carleton Potts.

The home was nicely decorated with evergreens, lighted candles, seasonal wreaths and bells, owing to the rainy afternoon all enjoyed the warmth and cheer of the fireplace.

There were 20 members, eight visitors and several children in attendance.

The devotional was in charge of Mrs. Robert Merrick who gave a paper on the theme, Christ's commandment, "That ye love one another," and closed with an appropriate poem.

The worship opened with "Once in David's City," with Mrs. R. Hoard at the piano. Mrs. Herbert Smith read the lesson on "Charity," found in Corinthians and gave a special prayer.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave her report and several members responded to roll call with "Christmas Thoughts."

Mrs. Rose Jeffs reported $19.75 for November.

Thanks were extended for hospitality and program. The January meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Roy Thrasher.

Mrs. Bonsteel described the refugee problem, the department of reconstruction, and youth department. The world camps where "Love goes into action." This chapter, "Out in Purpose," gives a vivid account of 37 students from various parts of Asia who attended a Christian work camp in Thailand (formerly called Siam). Discrimination Does Exist Says Manager

LONDON (Reuters) — Arthur McKenzie, manager of London's Great Green Park hotel, says racial discrimination exists in every first-class hotel in London "to a large extent."

McKenzie, commenting on Socialist Arthur Lewis' charge in the House of Commons Monday that a hotel openly applies a color bar, said "some very wealthy colored people" get space in London luxury hotels if they take "three or four suites, eat in their own rooms and avoid mixing."

But the Green Park Hotel has no large suites and "we must reject the wishes of our regular clientele from all parts of the world."

RESULT OF QUEEN'S TRIP

The question of racial discrimination has hit the headlines here since the Queen's visit to Bermuda last month. There was criticism both in Britain and in Bermuda of the fact that colored persons were not present at a big welcoming banquet there.

The uproar grew when Sir Frank McDavid of British Guiana was refused hotel space in Bermuda en route to England. This brought angry questions on the floor of the House of Commons.

Japan Will Arm Boats to Protect Fishing Fleet

TOKYO (Reuters)—A fleet of 50 heavily-armed Japanese patrol boats will put out to sea early next year to shield Japanese fishing vessels from Communist Chinese attack, the maritime safety board here announced today.

Japanese officials made this announcement immediately after a report that a Japanese patrol ship had been fired on by Chinese vessels Monday when trying to negotiate the release of a captured fishing boat.

The patrol ship was hit 12 times by bullets but no casualties were reported.

Except for pistols carried by the crews, the patrol ships now are unarmed. New armament proposed for the fleet would consist of three-inch artillery and machine-guns leased from the United States.

COULD BE WORSE!

Messrs. Stan Bankier and Len Hodgson, latest additions to the OHA sweater and whistle-tooting clan, and strangers to these here parts, won't be on the list when Oshawa hands out its keys to the city.

Mr. G. H. Campbell, sporty scrivener up Oshawa way, tossed a few slips of paper into his "soup-to-nuts" pillar the other day and the gentlemen-in-question will hardly paste the remarks in their scrapbooks for posterity.

It happened during the Truckmen-Kingston Goodyears fiesta the other night when the Goodies edged the Truckmen 6-5 to take over half-interest in the top spot of the group standing.

From Campbell's description of the official capers in his story of the game, it hardly seems the sportswriting "chef" was suffering from an overdose of alibi sauce.

Writes he: "A contributing factor to the defeat was the rather inefficient and certainly inconsistent refereeing . . . The officiating left much to be desired . . . the grade in charge appeared to be inadequate . . . and too inconsistent to be competent . . . some solid boarding went unnoticed as if a some glaring examples of interference and slashing."

Down in this eastern neck of the Senior "B" group woods, those fans have been blessed with officiating that has given little if any cause for complaint. Maybe it's a case of getting what you pay for. Maurice "Mo" Walsh and Jim Crombie, the ice-lane twins from Alex., have been here on several occasions, both in duo and with other arbiters.

Bill "Squeak" Reason, who got himself a new pieces de resistance pedner this year in the person of "Moses" Flanagan, has also appeared in whistle-and-thumb action in this department's epistles, but he's been two of the best to appear on Memorial Arena ice thus far.

There was not a disagreeing rumble from the faithful here last Saturday night when the "Squeak" and the "Moses" dished out identical $3 sweaters, with the exception of the habitual crabbers who would squawk if their income tax was refunded in its entirety.

And there is no truth in the story that the bloke who wrote the current song hit, "Cry, You Fool," got his inspiration from Bill Reason's vocal calithenics when he thumbs a rule-breaking miscreant to the rinkside deep freeze.

The Memos returned from a jaunt or two up around Orillia way with mild complaints as to the calibre of the referees. Jack Walker, who hails from Kingston way, Michael J. Rodden heartily disagreed with the severity of the sentences dished out to Goodyears' player Jack White and Memos' defenceman Bob Taylor by Referee Louis Lecompte when he tabbed them with a match penalty which resulted in a four-game suspension.

Don Miguel, who has referee'd nearly three thousand hockey games, quoth: "The old National Hockey League of years ago to modern day "squirts", was not swayed by any surge of nostalgia, when he said in effect that the "punishment did not fit the crime." . . . Miguel should know.

And it is a good thing to remember when you feel like garroting, decapitating, consigning to a gas chamber, or having an official hung, drawn and quartered, that behind him stands the powerful Ontario Hockey Association.

And players, say, like the playing coach Vic Grigg, of the Orillia Pontiacs, who tried to filibuster Referee Reason out of not a few decisions last Saturday night, should remember that the official, like the traditional customer, is "always right," even if he is wrong.

DOTS 'N FLASHES—

Sarnia Sailors, which withdrew from Senior "A" hockey the other day, have had their players declared "available" until December 8. After that the boys will be allocated to OHA squads. . . . One or two might show up here . . . Nobody turned up at the meeting called by the Guelph Maple Leaf Intercounty League baseball club last night. The meeting was called to discuss ways and means to raise $6,000.' Moguls have called another meeting and if nobody shows up, senior baseball is out . . . Ezard "the Gizzard" Charles is favored to win over Coley Wallace—, "Joe Louis" on the screen in tonight's Frisco flight . . . Peterborough Petes and Orillia Pontiacs will play an exhibition game at November 17 in Orillia tomorrow night . . . Better get a load of that headline story on this page anent cost of "amateur" hockey clubs, and you may get an idea of what Bill Cook is up against operating a Junior "A" club here . . . Peterborough Petes have signed two new players while the Goodyears are said to have inked a couple fo ex-Tars out of Sarnia . . . Did you know that the famous Allan Cup once played hockey in Belleville? He came here under an assumed name when he was a member of the famous Ottawa Silver Seven away back when pig's wore crinolines, the boys pep-lop pants, and the smooch deadline was nine p.m. . . . Aside to "Hockey Fan": Why worry about that? When the playoffs start, the scheduled games are so much water under the bridge. It's a new league from there in. The most important thing in this wacky senior "B" group is to grab oneself a spot in the charmed playoffs circle. Many a championship heart has beaten under a cellar-dwelling shirt, amigo.

WORTHY CAUSE!

Two years ago the Ontario Sports Writers and Sportscasters' Association decided to do something for the crippled kiddies of the province. They settled for a "Sports Celebrity" dinner at the Royal York Hotel, and as a result the crippled kiddies have benefited to the tune of nearly $25,000. And that ain't hay, brother, even for sportswriters.

The third annual dinner is scheduled for February 10 at the Royal York, and some of the topflight "Who's Who" in sportdom will be on hand. Among others will be Tommy Burns, Lefty Gomez, Cyclone Taylor, Torchy Peden, Harry Balstone, "Pep" Leadley, Harrison Dillard, Ken Watson and Cliff Lumsden.

All proceeds go to the Ontario Society for Crippled Children and each ticket-buyer gets a charity receipt for income tax purposes. The Ontario Hotel Association is picking up the tab for the out-of-pocket cost of the meal, a total of more than $5,000.

Oh, yeah, lest we forget! The cost of the dinner is $25 per plate. Tickets can be secured from this department. How about it, fellas?

Most Teams Are in Operation Because Sponsors Pay Debts; $30,000 Loss Is 'Good Season'

By WALTE EGRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The days of operating an amateur hockey team on a shoe string are over. The teams technically can't even afford to buy the shoe string.

"Nobody makes money in amateur hockey," Stafford Smythe, manager of Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League, said in an interview Tuesday night.

He estimated it cost between $40,000 and $50,000 a year to operate a team in the OHA.

"And we consider it a good season if we lose between $20,000 and $30,000," he said.

The amateur finances was never more evident than in the OHA, both junior and senior series, this year.

Sarnia Sailors were forced to drop out of the senior circuit last Friday. Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts were the centre of a bitter dispute recently involving Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League. The NHL club owned 18 Kitchener players and attempted to transfer them to the Quebec Junior Hockey League, but the move was blocked. Greenshirt backers claimed financial losses were the reason for the move.

LOSING $1,000 WEEKLY

Quebec Citadelles dropped out of the OHA Senior "A" group Monday and the team's holdings were sold to Quebec Frontenacs, rival club in the QJHL.

Talley Weber, Greenshirt president, said at the time the player transfer would realize enough money to meet the team's current debt.

"We are losing between $900 and $1,000 a week with no visible means of support," he said.

In withdrawing its team last week, the Sarnia Arena Commission said the Sailors were $8,000 in the red. R. N. Taglietti, commission secretary, placed the blame "100 per cent on the shoulders of the public."

The Sailors, tied for last-place with Niagara Falls Cataracts, drew an average of 1,422 fans when 2,000 were needed to keep the team in the black.

SPONSORS PAY DEBTS

Smythe said most teams continue to operate solely because big league sponsors pay their debts.

"The sponsor doesn't mind paying the shot as long as he gets one or two future stars out of the team," he added.

Smythe, whose Marlboros draw an average crowd of 5,000, referred to two current examples of public support in the OHA Junior A loop.

Guelph Biltmores, 1952 Memorial Cup champions, drew huge crowds that season. This year they are in the league cellar and the fans are staying away in droves. On the other hand, St. Catharines TeePees is last-place club last season, are currently one of the better clubs and the fans are flocking there, resulting in fairly solvent financing.

£4,000 SOUGHT

EDINBURGH (Reuters) — Scotland Tuesday was asked to subscribe nearly £4,000 to send at least 20 athletes to the 1954 British Empire Games at Vancouver.

Lord Airlie, opening the appeal, said the country has attended many one of the games since the first at Hamilton, Ont., in 1930.

Earl Walls Matched With Bob Satterfield

CHICAGO (AP)—Bob Satterfield, Chicago heavyweight, has earned a Jan. 13 Chicago Stadium match against Earl Walls of Edmonton and Toronto, the Canadian heavyweight champion, it was learned Tuesday night.

Satterfield, 184, knocked out Ray Augustus, Topeka, Kans., 178, in the last rounds of their scheduled eight-round feature bout. Heavy right-hand smashes floored the Kansas twice in the final round and he was unable to rise after the second knockdown.

Satterfield is making a comeback after an in-and-out eight-year career mostly as a light heavyweight.

14 Citadelles Will Bolster Frontenac Club

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Frontenacs Tuesday night announced their new roster following a player shuffle involving their own team and players acquired in Monday's purchase of Quebec Citadelles of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A group.

The new team, announced shortly before the midnight deadline for acquiring or selling players in the Quebec Junior Hockey League, retains only three former Frontenac players—goalie Jacques Marcotte, utility player Fernand Turcotte and forward Jay Rosenfeld.

From the Citadelles the Frontenacs will line up defencemen Moe Mantha, Leo Amadio, Albert Lasalois and Bob Chevalier, and forwards Mike Hatzfeld, Gilles Thibeault, Pat Presley, Clermont Doyon, Ray Orr, Richard Bouchard, Stan Dowdell, Dennis Faulkner, Charlie Denomme and Gaston Pelletier.

Likely coach of the almost-new Frontenacs will be Citadelles' Phil Watson, who, Frontenac officials said, will supervise a Frontenacs practice today but will remain in charge "until further orders."

Frontenacs coach Jean Beaupré announced Tuesday night he has resigned because pressure of business would keep him from following the team into Ontario under the proposed inter-locking schedule. He will be retained as scout and director.

Other players from the two teams accepted the conditions laid down and agreed to play for clubs to which they were sold or assigned.

Guelph Gets Don Kendall For McCreary

GUELPH (CP)—The Billy McCreary deal, involving Guelph Biltmores and Toronto Marlboros, wound up Tuesday when Biltmores accepted defenceman Don Kendall of Weston Dukes, Marlboro farm club.

The deal, which started near the end of last year's schedule, sent the high-scoring forward to Marlboros for the remainder of the 1953-53 Ontario Hockey Association Junior A season. In return Biltmores were to receive three players outright from the Dukes.

Biltmores chose Bob Forhan, Paul Midghall and Al MacNeil. Forhan and Midghall reported at the start of this season but MacNeil refused. Under the agreement the Biltmores were to receive $5,000 if any of the players refused to report but the Biltmores refused the money. Tuesday they agreed to take Kendall. MacNeil, who has been a standout on defence this year, remains with Toronto.

The Biltmores also announced the signing of Dave Gardiner, a defenceman from Owen Sound Greys of the OHA Junior B loop.

Kitchener Defeats Mercurys 4-2, As Falls Toss Scare Into Bulldogs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Niagara Falls Cataracts did better Tuesday night with a line-up of 10 players than they have been doing with a full roster during most of the season.

Cataracts, in last place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League, didn't win but they made Windsor Bulldogs work for their 4-3 victory.

The Cataracts twice held leads over the second-place Bulldogs and tied it until Lyle Wiseman scored his second goal of the night to clinch it for Windsor in the overtime period.

MERCURYS GROUNDED

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen enhanced their first-place position by defeating Owen Sound Mercurys, their closest rivals, 4-2 in Owen Sound. In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds counted twice in overtime to defeat Pembroke Lumber Kings 8-6.

Cataracts went ahead in the first period on a screened shot by Red Olsen but Windsor took the lead in the second session on goals by Wiseman and Gord Haidy. Eric Unger tallied for Niagara Falls before the end of the period to knot the count and Nick Dubick sent them ahead 3-2 in the third. Haidy scored his second of the night to force the game into overtime. Wiseman looked after the rest.

Kitchener's victory over Owen Sound, their first in three meetings between the two teams, broke a 10-game, home-ice winning streak for the Mercurys.

MCKENZIE GETS TWO

Jack McKenzie scored two goals to pace the Dutchmen. Gerry Theberge and Georges Schaley fired the others. Roy Leckie and Harry Kazarian clicked for Owen Sound.

In Northern Ont. Hockey Assn. Ernie Sinelle, Don Johnson, Joe Bunbacon, Ron Hurst and Terry Blochi were among the Greyhound scorers. Jack Carthy, Jim Macwell, Jack Schmidt, Nobby Clarke, Orval Gravelle and Rheal Savarad tallied for Pembroke.

Stratford Indians are at Kitchener for the only OHA game tonight. Greyhounds go to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., to meet the Indians Thursday.

Jerry Toppazzini Big Help To Playoff-Hungry Bruins

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Jerry Toppazzini, the youngest and most versatile of three hockey playing brothers, has given coach Lynn Patrick played ideas for his Boston Bruins' fighting shine-better recalled from the minors last month.

Patrick will be banking on another good game from the 25-year-old Ashley man when the fourth-place Bruins meet fifth-place New York Rangers in the Garden tonight in the only game scheduled.

Although Toppazzini, a six-foot, 180-pound native of Copper Cliff, Ont., played in 49 games with the Bruins last season, he has never looked better since being recalled from the American League Providence Reds to fill in for leftwinger Real Chevrefils, who broke a leg Nov. 14.

Toppazzini didn't score a goal in the first four games with Boston this year, but in the fifth he tallied three times to lead Bruins to an 8-2 victory over the Rangers. That was Nov. 26 and Toppazzini is still scoring the drive that probably will keep him in the big time for a while.

NOT MOST GRACEFUL

"I picked him because he never stops hustling" says Lynn of his "source." Patrick said. "He isn't the most graceful player in the world but he's dangerous around the nets."

Toppazzini didn't have much experience at any position a year ago. But he played all of them since then and does a good job, Patrick says.

Lynn figures the Bruins will make the playoffs if they break even in games against Rangers during the rest of the 70-game schedule. They played four times this year and each won twice. The Bruins now have a total of 29 points, nine ahead of Rangers.

In two games Thursday night, Jack Acree Toronto Maple Leafs travel to Boston and last-place Chicago Black Hawks meet the second-place Red Wings in Detroit.

Washout of Quebec Citadelles Games Relegates Teeps to Second Position

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines TeePees won a hockey game last night but still lost first place in the standings.

Although the TeePees came from behind a 4-2 deficit to take a 7-6 decision from Guelph Biltmores in St. Catharines, they lost first place because of a team that isn't in the league.

Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts dowped Barrie Flyers 7-4 in Kitchener in the only other night game to retain fourth place.

The TeePee fame was named when Quebec Citadelles were sold. The OHA decided to wipe out the Quebec games from the records and the TeePees, who won five games against the Citys, suffered most, dropping to third place in the standings. Toronto St. Michael's College Majors took over the top rung.

But the TeePee victory didn't go to waste St. Catharines climbed into second place over the idle Toronto Marlboros.

CHELSA SCORES THREE

The Biltmores took a 3-0 lead in the first period and held on to a 5-3 margin after the second. St. Catharines scored ahead in the first session but the Bilts knotted the count 6-6. Hank Ciesla, who led the TeePees with three goals, won it four minutes before the end of the game.

Cec Hockstra, Hugh Barlow, Jack Acree Toronto Maple Leafs were the other St. Catharines scorers. Chick Chalmers and Ron Howell each notched a pair for Guelph with singles going to Bert Marshall and Ken Mosdell.

The Greenshirts roared back with a four-goal surge to take the Flyers, last year's Memorial Cup champions. They had to come from behind three times, to earn the victory.

Murray Horne paced the Greenshirt with three goals. Gary Collins, Graham Joyce, Ivan Tennant and Howie Glover, who was just acquired from the Marlboros, rounded out the Kitchener scoring with two. Arnold Smith and Jim Morrison accounted for the Barrie output.

Barrie meets the last-place Bilmores in Guelph tonight while Galt Black Hawks are at Hamilton.

Sport in Brief

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles is a boxer at the crossroads.

If he doesn't beat Coley Wallace here tonight his chances for a shot at the title he once owned probably will be gone forever.

They're both contenders, Charles No. 3 and Wallace No. 4, but the scene of their nationally-televised 15-rounder will mean much to the winner.

The 33-year-old Charles, from Cincinnati and champion from 1949 to 1951, is favored to whip his younger, bigger rival. Ezzard will weigh around 188 pounds. Wallace, a 25-year-old 205-pounder from New York, stands six feet two inches.

Wallace has had only two fights this year and won both with ease. He took the part of Joe Louis in the movie, "The Joe Louis Story."

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban police Tuesday said arrested four men charged with attempting to extort heavyweight Kid Gavilan, world welterweight boxing champion.

Police said all four were arrested in a passageway of an Radio Centro Theatre where Gavilan made his debut Tuesday night as a rumba dancer.

Gavilan's father told police four men came to Gavilan's home recently and said they needed $3,000 to get passage out of Cuba for one of our friends."

MONTREAL (CP)—Andre Corriveau, a veteran performer with the Valleyfield Braves, took over the lead in the Quebec Senior League scoring race Tuesday with 29 points on 16 goals and 22 assists.

Corriveau picked up three goals and eight assists in the Braves' upsurge during the last week to jump from fourth place in the standings into the lead. He replaced Bucky Buchanan of Chicoutimi and Leo Gravelle of Ottawa, who were deadlocked for the top spot last week.

Buchanan dropped into second place with 34 points, five less than Corriveau. Gravelle, a former Montreal Canadiens player, tumbled to third with 33 points but retained the goal-scoring lead with 20.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A regional secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union said Tuesday that as far as he is concerned, Olympic star Mal Whitfield is completely cleared of any charges which might jeopardize his amateur standing.

AAU official Larry Houston made the statement after interviewing the world's top half-miler.

Monday night in New York city, AAU secretary Dean Ferris said the AAU investigation of the status of Whitfield and Wes Santee, America's fastest miler, are threatened by an AAU investigation. He said the inquiry concerned alleged violations of amateur rules.

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—A move is under way to return organized baseball to Erie next year.

City Councilman Michael Cannavino said he conferred by telephone with Mike McNally, baseball farm system official, on the possibility of Erie entry in the class-D Pony League with assistance of the Indians.

In Buffalo, N.Y., Vincent McNamara, president of the league, said he probably will know by the next week or 10 days whether there would be an opening next year.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Archie Moore, light heavyweight champion of the world, Tuesday signed to defend his title against Joey Maxim at Miami Stadium Jan. 27.

This will be the third meeting of the pair, with Moore holding two decisions over the Cleveland fighter. The bout will be televised.

USA, Belgium Clash In Cup Tennis

BRISBANE, Australia (AP)—Top-ranking aces Tony Trabert and Phillippe Washer of the United States and Belgium meet tomorrow in the opening singles match of the Davis Cup International tennis final.

Washer, Belgium's hope of making a good fight, said he definitely will play despite a sprained muscle in his right shoulder.

The first match will be followed by a second singles bout involving the American Wimbledon title-holder, Vic Seixas, and Belgium's 23-year-old Jacques Brichant.

Washer's untimely injury makes the U.S. an even heavier favorite to score a 5-0 sweep into the challenge round against Australia Dec. 28-30 at Melbourne.

The intense heat and humidity has been almost unbearable here, with temperatures approaching 100 degrees. Official tennis balls are kept in an ice box at courtside.

'Rasslin' Sad To Be a Dead Sport, 'Corpse' Gets $350,000 for Promotor

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—If wrestling is a dead sport, as some claim, it must be about the liveliest corpse kicking around these days. Fred Kohler, the big Chicago promoter, has grossed more than $350,000 this year at his two arenas, not counting the money from TV spots.

Kohler has virtually banished the low comedy routines which were popular here a number of years in favor of "scientific" wrestling. Their claim you can see the difference.

Baseball men we have talked with feel without exception that Washington got all the better of the deal through which Jackie Jensen went to the Boston Red Sox for pitcher Mickey McDermott and outfielder Tom Umphlett.

They say Jensen, the former football hero, will not give the Sox the right-handed power they were seeking to go with their extra-short leftfield fence. Such power as Jackie has, they say, is a dead centre. Other clubs, including Cleveland, claimed to have passed up chances to land the powerful young blond who broke in with the Yankees along with Mickey Mantle.

The Yankees must be doing some tall thinking about having to carry their bonus phenom, Frank Leja, for two seasons since the storied right field fence prevents our using a monumental flop in the Puerto Rican winter league. The kid who is supposed to hit nothing but homers struck out seven of his first eight times up and were Stengel less his first fl trips before they sent him home.

Another story from Puerto Rico, not verified, says that Jim Rivera of the Chicago White Sox gave Mickey Owen, manager of the Caguas club, a going over in the locker room when Mickey tried to bawl him out for not obeying a signal.

Players Greet George Trafton At Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP) — Some of George Trafton's players were at the airport to greet the Winnipeg Blue Bombers' coach Tuesday when he returned from a visit to Chicago.

He was jovial but he wasn't saying much.

Asked by reporters when he was going to talk to the football club, Trafton said that was a job for his lawyer, Hart S. Green.

"Mr. Green is my lawyer and he's doing everything for me now" he said. "If I'm going to pay him, I'll let him talk for me, too."

Trafton reported last Friday that he had been fired as coach of the Western Interprovincial Football Union champions, with one year to go on a three-year contract.

This was denied the same day by the club, although president Karl Slocomb did say Bombers would be hiring a new man as "head coach" in 1954. Trafton, he said, had been hired as "a coach and was still on the payroll as "a coach."

Players on hand to greet the coach were tackle Dick Huffman, ends Fritz Hanson and Bernie Lumsden, guards Jimmy McPherson and Al Wiley and half Lee McIntyre.

Vancouver's Jimmy McLarnin, on his right to the world welterweight championship, knocked out Sammy Fuller in the eighth round before 12 years ago today. McLarnin won the world crown from Young Corbett the next year, 1933, and lost it to Barney Ross in 1934; regained it from Ross in 1934 and finally lost it to Ross again in 1935.

NEW COACH

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York football Giants Tuesday named Jim Howell, former star player and assistant coach under Steve Owen, to succeed Owen as head coach of the National Football League team. Howell, 39, who was also a two-year contract, played end for the Giants for eight years.

Ed. Barrow, 85, Cancer Victim Famous Figure in Baseball

PORT CHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Ed Barrow, 85, the man who discovered Honus Wagner, changed Babe Ruth into an outfielder and developed New York Yankees into the most feared team in baseball, died of cancer Tuesday night.

He entered hospital last July and his close friends knew his death was only a question of time.

Early in November he lapsed into a coma for 36 hours. Then he rallied, began eating again and seemed improved until a relapse Sunday.

Barrow retired in 1947, selling his stock in the Yankees for $300,000. He was with the club for 26 years.

Born in Springfield, Ill., May 10, 1868, he was city editor of the Des Moines Leader when he first got into baseball as a semi-pro manager.

He was president of the International League for seven years before moving to Boston as manager of the Red Sox.

Here he met Ruth, a left-handed pitcher, and changed him into an outfielder.

"It was the biggest gamble I ever took in my life," Barrow admitted later, "but I never had reason to regret it."

Ruth was sold to the Yankees in 1920 and Barrow soon followed, as business manager and secretary. Barrow took over as president when Col. Jake Ruppert died. In 1946 he became chairman of the board of directors when a syndicate headed by Larry MacPhail bought the team.

Wagner, a bow-legged Dutchman, was Barrow's pride and joy. He found him in Carnegie, Pa., throwing rocks and later said him to Louisville as a shortstop. He maintained Wagner was the greatest.

Barrow was well known in Toronto early in his baseball managing career when he brought the Eastern League pennant—it's now the International League—to the Canadian city in 1902. Barrow returned to Toronto in 1908 and managed the Windsor Hotel for a time.

4,500 Phones Dead as Result Of Heavy Storm

TORONTO (CP) — About 4,500 telephones were dead in southwestern Ontario Monday night as a result of a severe wind and snow storm.

Telephone company officials said the storm, which dumped six to eight inches over a wide section, knocked out 2,000 phones around Chatham, 700 at Sarnia and more in other sections.

So many long-distance circuits were knocked out that calls to the Sarnia Observer only got through to The Canadian Press office at Toronto at 3 p.m. EST Tuesday to report its news wire had been out all day.

I Remember

The night I got showered with eggs!

BY MIKE RODDEN

"In Detroit one evening during the International League round-robin" final between the Buffalo Bisons and the Detroit Olympics, conditions became so serious in the final period (there was 2 all) that, as referee, I had occasion to warn Manager Jack Adams that the ice must be cleared of debris or in failure the game would be awarded to Buffalo. Mr. Adams verbally doubted if I would keep this promise and in no time at all he discovered that he had erred. The egg and missile shower that greeted announcement of the award may have established an unapproachable record. I wouldn't know, however, as I had been only semi-conscious for much unchronicled time. The sweaters worn by Referee Jerry Goodman and myself were rendered bon-de-combat but we did manage to reach the dressing room in advance of the approaching fans."

The Kibitzer

The bridge crying room is usually a Tower of Babel after any duplicate tournament. Each player knows what he is talking about. But each seems to have a different way of expressing himself.

How does a player know his hand is good enough for a bid? If the players are of seeming equal ability they should have a common counting method. But it does not appear to be so.

Four players were hashing over some of the hands they held in the recent match just ended. Each was telling how he knew such and such a hand was this or that kind of a bid.

Each held and bid one club with the hand shown here:

♠ 8 6 4 2
♥ A 3
♦ 6 4 3
♣ 6 K J 10

Said one: "The hand counts more than 14 points." Said another: "There are three and a half plus honor tricks in this baby; enough for even a vulnerable opening."

A third said: "This hand has got three quick tricks and enough players to make a good opening." The fourth volunteered: "You can see in it four tricks with four highs and three sures."

Actually, what makes your hand is good enough for an opening of one? Take the common sense view of it and bridge bidding will lose the mystifying influence in which experts have wrapped it.

Each player is entitled to a fourth of what a pack contains; his average in the four essential items. They are tricks, high cards, sure tricks, cards (any kind) in the suit destined as trumps.

The bidding language contains words used for saying what you have in excess of your expected share. And a player who starts with the first bid says he has better than average in all four items.

An expert may express it in concocted terms or loose tricks, points, quick tricks, winners, losers, players, highs, sures, and such. Every average, however, is what you actually promise.

CONFESSES SLAYING

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—A 30-year-old convict, under almost steady questioning for four days, cracked Tuesday night and confessed he strangled 19-year-old Irene Fiedorowicz here Dec. 10. He was identified as Robert N. Malm, an attendant at a state tuberculosis sanatorium, by police Lieut. William H. Sullivan.

British Railway Union Leaders Meet 'Bosses'

LONDON (AP)—Rail union leaders and transport commission bosses met today for vital peace talks aimed at averting the nation's threatened rail strike scheduled to begin next week.

It was the first time both sides had gathered round the conference table since the powerful National Union of Railwaymen last Saturday ordered its 400,000 members to stop work at midnight, Sunday if demands for a 15-per-cent wage increase are not met by the commission, controllers of the country's state-owned railroads.

After day-long talks with union officials Tuesday, Jim Campbell, secretary of the rail union, said that as far as he was concerned the circumstances were unchanged and the strike would take place.

But an air of optimism—the ministry of labor for today's talks, Campbell remarked: "We come here in a spirit of optimism—we are always hopeful."

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Among the holiday season's pleasant surprises is the reconciliation of Frank Fay and his old friend, Harvey.

Fay and Harvey formed a six-foot rabbit—are friends from 'way back. They started out together in the Mary Chase play in 1945 and developed a fast friendship. They remained pals for five years—a record run for any star and play. Then they went with one particular role. It can hurt your career.

But actors change their minds. Fay has signed up for yet another tour with "Harvey" as Elwood P. Dowd. Part of Fay's plan is the miserable condition of the legitimate stage.

"This season is shaping up as one of the worst in the history of the American theatre. The legit outlook hasn't been as black since the 1936-37 season when the road was devoid of shows, except for Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and Washington.

Showmen have been putting their heads together for ideas on how to revitalize the road. They came up with the idea of sending Fay around in "Harvey" again. It is considered a sure-fire property.

"They convinced me," said the bland Fay, "So did the money. I'll admit it isn't very commercial. I get letters every week from people who have seen the show and would love to see it again. Also from people who missed it and say they would give anything to see 'Harvey.' It's wonderful.

"I asked why no one found it difficult to do "Harvey", during the long run.

"No," he replied. "It's a remarkable show. Many times I would come off the stage and feel tired. I felt as though I would have to drag through the show. But once I got onstage and heard that first laugh, the play would lift me up and carry me along.

"After three years away, I now have to learn the play all over again. I looked at the scrip and couldn't even remember some of the things that were written there. But it will come back fast."

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birth comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, DEC. 17, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Generous configurations indicate that you have a good chance to get over some excellent work. Aspects are especially partial to personal affairs, romance, family.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Get in your best efforts during early hours. Afternoon and evening favor courtship, marriage, home affairs. You are a keen observer and don't need too much pressing when tuned to achieve.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Mix business and social endeavors adroitly to bring day's activities to a successful conclusion. Chat with intelligent, thinking people, which is always stimulating; solve problems, too.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — You may have a tendency to go off the right course and waste time and energy. Review your tasks; be consistent and kind in dealing with others—especially those under you.

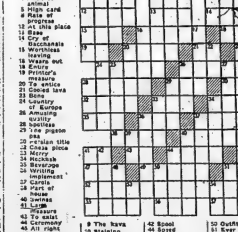
July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Watch out for unethical men and people. They have "a way." You should not heed flattery, too much praise. Study and research may be required to bring desired gains, favors.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — With your knack for seeing ahead and judging right from wrong you can prorress considerably now. Today should be productive, satisfying.

September 24 to October 22 (Libra) — This is your day—with diplomatic and businesslike handling. You can finish up on the credit side easily. Avoid hurrying; be tolerant, considerate and unexpected help will further success.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Tact should be your keynote in putting over big ideas now. Getting things done should come easy once you have mastered the plans, ways and means. You are capable; use your gifts.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Listen as well as talk. We always learn something when others talk—even if we don't agree. Here is a day with possibilities but you have to supply some of the ingredients, know-how.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Your quiet, capable personality, aided by today's vibrations, should bring fine results from business or personal efforts during this period.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Today is bound only by the individual's imagination, willingness to try, aptitude and appreciation. Have a "let's go" attitude. Lead, rather than wait for others.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — The more relaxed your thoughts, the better chance of action improving. Careful consideration of efforts plus reason will generate fresh ambition and good returns.

YOU BORN TODAY have the ability to succeed in big and important matters if you maintain a steady discosition. Avoid making hasty decisions, rash statements. You are frank, openhearted, sensitive, inherently loyal to mate and family. You are capable of consistent concentration, are innately fair, honest. Cultivate your assets. Don't let stubbornness spoil your bright, keen, entertaining personality. Birthdate of, Sir Humphrey Davy, British chemist; John Greenleaf Whittier, Amer. poet; Ludwig van Beethoven, German composer.

Three Left-Wing British Guiana Groups Outlawed

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—The British governor of this troubled colony outlawed three left-wing organizations. Tuesday night and banned several Communist publications, including the magazine Soviet Weekly and the periodical put out by the combines.

The order declared illegal the Demerara Youth Rally, the Pioneer Youth League and the British Guiana Peace Committee. It was issued by Governor Sir Alfred Savage under the emergency powers given him two months ago when Britain ousted Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan's People's Progressive party government on charges of plotting to turn British Guiana into a Communist state.

Jagan's American - born wife, Mrs. Janet Rosenberg Jagan, and nine other PPP leaders pleaded innocent Tuesday to charges of violating the emergency regulations by holding a meeting without police permission. The defendants contended that the gathering last Sunday at a sugar estate village 15 miles from Georgetown was a religious meeting not requiring a police permit.

Bizarre Death Termed Suicide By Coroner

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A bizarre death, termed a suicide by the coroner, was discovered in a Hollywood Hills home Tuesday night where a young man was found hanging by a chain with his hands and feet chained and padlocked.

Police identified the victim as James Felhofer, 27, an electrical engineer. The body, clad only in a woman's swim suit and bathing cap, was hanging from a 16-foot beamed ceiling. The mouth was taped shut.

Detectives said Felhofer lived in the house with three other men and that they could not explain the strange and elaborate preparations for death. No notes were found.

There were padlocks on the chain around Felhofer's neck and on those that bound his feet and hands. Beside the body was a chair from which the victim apparently dropped.

A completely new, luxury line of Monarch passenger cars for 1954, known as the Lucerne Series, will be publicly introduced in Ford-Monarch showrooms across Canada December 18. The Lucerne line will include the two-door coupe shown above; the Lucerne sedan; the Sun Valley, with tinted plexiglass roof, and the convertible. The regular Monarch line for 1954 will consist of a two-door and a four-door sedan model. Both Monarch lines will be equipped with a new, 161-h.p. overhead valve V8 engine. The greater horsepower makes for increased efficiency and a wider margin of safety through more flexible operation on the road.

Detectives Say Ex-Convict Admits Strangling Girl

EX-KING FINDS NEW KINGDOM

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Detectives say an ex-convict with a police record of attacks on girls has admitted he strangled an 11-year-old girl a week ago.

A soldier had "confessed" the same night, only hours before, but his story was discredited later.

Detectives identified the prison parolee as Robert Nelson Malm, a gaunt 30-year-old man who has served a jail term for attacks on young girls and a prison term for robbery with violence.

Malm broke down late Tuesday night after four days of constant interrogation. He was arrested after he was picked out of a police line-up by 13-year-old girl who said he attacked her Nov. 22.

SOLDIER "CONFESSES"

Five hours later, Pte. John H. Williams, 23, of Hartford wrote a 11,000-word statement saying that he strangled 11-year-old Irene Fiederowicz while he was absent without leave.

Maj. Otto Luedeke, provost marshal of Williams' post, discounted this story because of discrepancies in the soldier's account.

Police called the case a "sex crime," although the child had not been raped.

Six Are Killed As Oil Workers In Iraq Strike

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — The Iraqi oil port of Basra lay under martial law today following a clash between police and striking workers of the Basra Petroleum Co. in which six persons were reported killed.

The casualty reports, which were n.. confirmed, said 25 othr. persons including some police, were injured in the fray. The battle broke out Tuesday when police tried to break a workers' demonstration.

The decree was issued following an emergency meeting of the council of ministers Tuesday night. Iraqi army units garrisoned in the Persian gulf city were called out to restore order.

High School Boy Beats Girl With Iron Pipe

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A high school honor student Tuesday brutally beat a 16-year-old neighbor girl with an iron pipe as she ran screaming for help from behind her home.

Mercy hospital attendants said today the victim, red-haired Linda Frey, had four front teeth knocked out, lips cut and swollen, head badly gashed, three fingers on her left hand broken and her index finger almost severed at the first joint.

Police said Crisanto (Rocky) Castro confessed to the beating and was held on a charge of assault to commit murder.

"Something just came over me," the youth said. "I knew I shouldn't do it but something kept pushing me. Wifey I realized what I had done it was too late. I wasn't mad at her."

The girl's screams attracted a neighbor, who found Castro hysterically running in circles.

BRITISH FIRM GETS JOB

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—A British company Tuesday was awarded a $3,301,441 contract for two generators for McNary dam on the Columbia river. Col. F. S. Tenoy of the United States Engineers Corps announced the award to the English Electric Export and Trading Co., which was about $200,000 under the next low offer, by General Electric Co.

Unlike several other displaced monarchs, Rumania's King Michael of Rumania has donned a workingman's clothes since taking off his royal robes and has successfully adapted himself from ruling a country to managing a farm. The ex-king and his family and their few remaining servants moved into Ayot House, Ayot, St. Lawrence, England, a little less than a year ago. Michael and his wife, the former Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parma, decided it would be prudent to grow their own vegetables for themselves and the staff of 14. So successful has been their venture that they are now growing winter vegetables under 3,750 square feet of glass and have built a chicken run feeding them their surplus apple crop. The exiled royal family have found that a farm can be a better home than a palace. Top: Michael and Anne examine with proud pride a marrow, which one counts to a squash, grown on their farm. Above, Princess Margaret, four, and Helen, three, walk through their "kingdom" with their parents. (Central Press Canadian.)

STEER CAUSES ACCIDENT

KIRKWOOD, N.Y. (AP) — A steer caused a $100,000 highway accident Tuesday when it was ordered into the path of a tractor trailer, truck loaded with motion pictures, film and projectors. The steer was knocked 60 feet and killed, and the trailer shot up the road and landed in a field. No one was hurt.

English Legal System Subject Of Talk to Club

CAMPBELLFORD—Francis DeCarrol spoke to the Campbellford Rotary Club on Monday on "Law and the English Legal System."

English legal practice is the heritage of a system which made its own laws. English common law played a major role in the development of constitutions not only in England but in France and the entire English speaking world, he said.

There are two broad channels of law, common and statutory. Common law is judge-made law, decisions handed down by a wise and incorruptible judiciary. One of the chief functions of parliament or government of any kind is the making of laws, which are usually hard and fast rules, in contrast to the common law based on precedents explained Mr. DeCarrol.

In the 12th century, in the earliest history of recorded law in England, royal appointments were made to settle disputes. Most of these men were scholars with monastic training. Their decisions were recorded, providing the basis for common law. As ideas of right and justice were changed, so did the laws change. Whereas laws of treason used to be most strict, they have been somewhat modified.

The Canadian court structure was briefly explained by the speaker.

The Division Court has jurisdiction over personal actions when the amount involved is less than $200 unless by agreement of the litigating parties, when this amount may reach $400.

The Magistrates of Police Court have jurisdiction over petty crime. The County Court varies in matters of contract up to $1,000, and personal actions up to $1,000. By agreement of parties concerned, these amounts may be larger.

The County Court judges criminal court may try cases where right to a jury is waived. The Court of General Sessions is also a county court with jury which may meet several times a year. Over and above this is the Supreme Court of Ontario.

The highest court is the Canadian Supreme Court which may try any offence and its judgment is final. Two other courts, the Surrogate Court which deals with testamentary affairs and the Exchequer Court which deals with claims against the Crown, were also mentioned.

In conclusion, Mr. DeCarrol stated that though the law may at times seem too conservative, too rigid or too complicated, it has the advantages of impartiality, equality, general uniformity and certainty.

The saying "We are slaves to the law so that we may be free" has much truth. The law is wiser than any individual and though it may at times be a curb, it is certainly a protector.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Archie Meyers and thanked by Rotarian Wallace Rutherford.

CAMPBELLFORD

Zoning By-Law Will Likely Be Passed Before Year's End

CAMPBELLFORD — Discussion of a proposed zoning by-law for the town of Campbellford occupied much of the regular monthly meeting of the council here on Monday night, when the by-law was presented for its first and second readings.

The by-law is the result of almost two years study, and was the original brainchild of councillor F. H. Macmillan. Council authorized expending money to prepare the by-law last year, and since that time it has been discussed and altered a number of times. Council picked numerous holes in the proposed by-law on Monday night, which was to have been passed at the December meeting.

A number of points of the discussion were explained by Councillor George Free, who presented the by-law, but as some members of council were still not clear on some of the clauses, it was decided to have additional copies printed and distributed to each member of council, in order that they might study them and interpret them intelligently. A meeting will be called later this month by the mayor, and the thing will be discussed further, with a view to passing the bill before the close of the year. Councillor Macmillan, who originally suggested the by-law, leaves council this year, after seventeen years service, and it is the wish of council to have the by-law passed, if it is going to be passed, while he is a member of council.

REMOVED FROM AREA.

A communication from the Minister of Education notified council that the Town of Campbellford, the Township of Seymour and the Township of Percy with the exception of Sk. No. 9, have been officially removed from the East Northumberland High School Area Board, and have been a High School Area by themselves, at their own request. This official notification is the result of months of agitation and petitioning by Campbellford, Seymour and Percy, to be excluded from the East Northumberland Board. The members were stunned by council at instants to the new Board. They are A. K. Loucks, who was appointed for a two year term, and R. A. Connor, who was appointed for a period of one year. One of the members will retire each year.

A grant of $200 was made to the Mount Pleasant Cemetery Board.

INSURANCE CANCELLED.

Council cancelled the Public Liability and Malpractice insurance policies which they had carried on the old hospital building on Front Street. Tenders for the sale of the old hospital were opened at the meeting. Four tenders, on for $1,250, one for $1,200, one for $1,500 and a fourth for $2,500 were read, but council decided not to accept any of the tenders at present. The Property Committee was instructed to have a plumber winterize the plumbing facilities in the building, in order that they would not be damaged.

It was decided to declare a public holiday on December 24, the day following Christmas.

Councillor Ness, chairman of the Police Committee reported that two flasher beacons to warn traffic had been installed, one at the top of the school hill and the other at the Edgewater Park turn.

Deputy Reeve Maybee reported excellent progress on the work, at the sight of the new Kennedy Park. The park was purchased recently and will be operated by the town as a park. Thirty-five hours have been spent in bulldozing the area, and the hill at one end of the property is now considered safe for sleighriding for children. Public liability insurance on the park will be investigated and if the park is not now covered, under a policy held by the town, the clerk and treasurer were asked to see that the police be expanded to include the new park.

VOTE OF THANKS.

A vote of thanks was moved to the Santa Claus Parade Committee under chairman Reeve Wm. R. Nicholas, for the excellent job done in carrying out the parade last Saturday.

J. C. Birmingham reported a total of $104,222.63 had been collected in taxes, out of $113,240.56 on the roll, leaving a balance of less than $9,000 still to come in.

Little Benny's Note Book

Last nite ma was still imbroidering the things she has been imbroidering for about 2 months, and she said to pop, Well, William, they are practically finished, and I'm very proud of myself.

I'm proud of you too, my dear, what's finished? pop said, and ma said, The luncheon mats I been imbroidering for my sister Fanny and your brother Law and his wife. A half duzzen for each. Do you realize the amount of time I've put on these mats, William? she said.

You've been working on them ever since I can remember, and I can remember several weeks, pop said, and ma said, That's what I meen, I've been imbroidering them steddily since early in October, or was it late in September?

Maybe it was, pop said, and ma said, If I had to buy hand imbroidered mats, they would be practically out of the question. A professional imbroiderer gets at least a doller an hour. I'd be surprised if Fanny and Law's wife get any nice Christmas presents than these. So you can imagine their own surprize. Let me see, William, figuring an average of an hour a day since October, what would that amount to? Count it up for me, she said.

Well, ruffly, at a doller an hour that would be about 70 dollers, pop said, and ma said, Mercy, just imagine. We cant afford to spend any such sum for 2 Christmas presents just for relations. It would be extravagance at its very wildest. William, Im going to keep these for ourselves. Imagine, a whole duzzers. We're rich, she said.

Maybe we can borrow a little money from each other and stage a celebration, pop said.

Being the happy end of the subject.

Superfort Spews Flaming Death In Housing Area

17 Killed and 14 Injured; Engine Trouble Causes Crash

GUAM (AP)—A homeward-bound B-29 superfort, forced by engine trouble to turn back, plunged into a military housing area and exploded today, killing 17 persons and injuring 14.

The big bomber dropped out of the stormy sky just short of its goal and smashed a fiery 800-foot path through the homes of United States Air Force families.

Dead are three crew members, five military passengers, six children and two women and one air force officer. Fourteen persons, including a woman, were injured. Two are in critical condition.

Five of the crew and three passengers managed to escape the blazing wreckage.

Only minutes before the crash the superfort took off from Anderson air force base here en route to the US, on a routine rotation flight. It carried a crew of 10 and six military passengers.

Fifty miles out the pilot radioed that the plane had developed engine trouble and he was turning back. He made one approach to the field but did not land. On the second approach the plane faltered and crashed. The crash occurred while most air force personnel and their families were asleep.

The huge wing sliced through one house as the plane came down but Mai. Cyde Owens and his wife escaped injury.

The plane then hit the ground and exploded in a ball of fire, strewing wreckage along a swath 800 feet long and 120 feet wide.

Kingston Girl Missing From Home Since Tues.

KINGSTON (CP)—City and provincial police are conducting an investigation into the disappearance of a 15-year-old Kingston girl missing from her home since early in the week.

Police said Marion Joyce, attractive third form high school student was last seen when she left the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Lambert at 10 a. m. Tuesday on her way to classes at Kingston Collegiate and Vocational Institute.

Since then a constant checking by local police here and provincial police detachments both in Kingston and Belleville has failed to turn up any clue as to her whereabouts.

Parents of the missing girl, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Joyce, at first thought it possible that their daughter might have returned to her grandmother's after school on Tuesday. When she did not come home Wednesday a check of the school authorities showed she had never turned up for classes Tuesday.

The girl had been hospitalized with pneumonia during late October and early November and she had been receiving medical treatment almost up to the time of her disappearance. Her parents think it possible that some sort of amnesia may have resulted from a fall she had when she lost with the pneumonia.

Helen Joyce is five feet eight inches in height, has dark brown hair and dark complexion and may be wearing her hair in a pony tail. When last seen she was wearing an air force jacket, a cream coloured sweater and brown loafer shoes.

Says Missing Girl Had Initials Carved on Arm

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto police today investigated a report from a co-worker of missing Marion Millward that the 19-year-old girl had initials of a boy friend carved on her forearm a few days before she left her office.

They quoted the unidentified co-worker as saying the initials were "K.M." when she displayed them at the paper's writing office where she worked. Marion is reported to have said she had also carved her name on the left arm at the site of the boy friend.

Two women detectives are investigating the story.

Start Searching For Quebec Pilot

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec Flying Club announced the start of an air search today for one of its members who disappeared Nov. 28 aboard a single-engine private plane.

Three club planes will search both shores of the St. Lawrence river between Quebec and Nicolet, about 80 miles away, a club spokesman said. The search area will be 20 miles wide on both shores.

The plan was adopted after new information was received from Kingston, Ont., airport which Jack Lawson left for Montreal's Cartierville airport. The youth was quoted as saying he would fly on to Quebec City if he found Cartierville closed down because of darkness. He left Kingston late in the day and never stopped at Montreal.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: The cold wave which struck Tuesday throughout North America except in the extreme south of the United States and along the western seaboard will continue today and Friday. Graham in northwestern Ontario reported the lowest temperature in the province early Thursday morning, 13 below. Temperatures reached near zero mark. Relations with France. The Western world can simply not afford Franco-German hostility. The French are perhaps more than anyone else aware that from the historical background.

"I hope that I will still have an opportunity—perhaps from a place other than Ottawa—to see how we can best work well—to talk seriously to both."

The paper said Churchill's proposal for a meeting of his country home in England to its correspondent, Malcolm MacDonald, son of Ramsay MacDonald, and Mr. Pleven, premier of France.

Tirpitz quoted Churchill as saying: "The Russian question must also be taken up sometime. We must not forget there are human beings in Russia too.

"Perhaps the time could talk best. His whole nature was certainly against war. He felt that war was a human corner is it—his sense of humor."

NEW HOUSING ACT IS INTRODUCED; HOUSE ADJOURNS

Lower Down Payments Will Help Owners

OTTAWA (CP) — Members of Parliament can sit by their Christmas fireides mulling over the government's new housing legislation.

A bill amending the National Housing Act was introduced in the Commons Wednesday night by Works Minister Winters shortly before Parliament adjourned for the Christmas recess. The Commons adjourned to Jan. 12; the Senate to Jan. 13.

The legislation provides for lower down payments—10 per cent instead of 20—on the first $8,000 of the housing value of a house. Down payment on the portion above $8,000 will be 30 per cent.

Mortgage repayments will be reduced by extending the life of mortgage loans from the current 20 years to 25 years.

Chartered banks and Quebec savings banks will be able to enter the mortgage lending field for the first time. They will tap Canada's bank savings account for home-building.

The borrower will have to bear the cost of the mortgage insurance premium. This is 1 per cent of the loan in case of home ownership and 1½ per cent on property constructed for renting.

CABINET SETS INTEREST

In reply to a question, Mr. Winters said the cost of the credit rate will be set by the cabinet after the bill is passed. The present interest rate is 5½ per cent.

Mr. Winters said the rate will be related to that on long-term government bonds at the time.

Earlier Monday Mr. Winters (Winnipeg North Centre) said the cabinet should not have the power to set interest rates. The Commons could not know how much it will cost persons for a house.

A government housing expert said the new legislation's not expected to create any great upsurge in house building in Canada next year.

The legislation, if approved by Parliament, would help middle-class but not any major—increase in home building. One expert suggested that without the new legislation housing starts might decrease in 1954.

MARCH 1 TARGET

Mr. Winters estimated that housing starts in 1953 will number about 105,000 compared to 84,000 in 1952, 74,000 in 1951 and 70,000 in 1950.

Officials said they hope to have the new plan in operation by March 1.

CHRISTMAS TREE TO BE ERECTED NEAR ARMOURIES

The Chamber of Commerce several days ago ordered a 25-foot Christmas Tree to be erected and decorated with a string of 50 colored lights on the lawn of the Bridge Street Armouries. According to a chamber official the tree has arrived and will be erected today. Also, the costumes for the carollers who will be labroad on city streets from seven until nine p.m. Friday and Saturday arrived Wednesday afternoon.

The tree is intended to augment other Chamber of Commerce Christmas activities. Wednesday afternoon theatre tickets were distributed to the public and separate schools. Pupils of grades two to six are to be guests of the Chamber at local theatres before Christmas.

SEASONAL MUSIC WILL BE GIVEN BY ARMY BAND

Christmas carols and other seasonal music will entertain residents of the eastern section of the city this evening.

The Salvation Army Band will offer Christmas melodies starting at Burnham Street at seven o'clock. From there the army musicians will go to Bleecker, thence to MacDonald and Deferia, all sections south of Bridge Street.

The band will conclude the evening's musical efforts at Bayview Heights.

GIFTS DISTRIBUTED AT CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Belleville division, including staffs from Kingston and Brockville, of Trinidad Leaseholds, Canada, entertained their annual Christmas party at the Queensway Hotel, Trenton, on Monday evening last.

Everyone participated in the singing of carols prior to a Christmas dinner. Immediately following dinner, gifts were distributed to the employees' children. Dancing and cards were on the entertainment program for the remainder of the evening.

Mr. F. F. Meldrum, divisional manager, acted as master of ceremonies.

POLICE BLOTTER

The reported theft of an electric drill from beneath the new grandstand at the local fairgrounds proved a false alarm today.

A foreman for the Tatham Company which built the stand reported that the hasp had been broken from the door leading to beneath the stand and that an electric drill was missing. Later it was discovered that a workman had put the drill away. Breaking of the hasp is being investigated by police.

Children playing on the thin ice of the bay late Wednesday afternoon caused a report to be lodged in to police who were asked to warn the youngsters of the dangers of the thin ice. Police went to the scene but the children had left.

Unemployment At Record High For December

Unemployment in the Belleville area has reached its highest percentage that were given at the inauguration of unemployment insurance back in 1941, it was stated today by Mr. H. H. Reed, manager of the local employment office.

A total of persons now "on claim" at the Belleville office is now 972 as compared with 610 for the same period last year.

Reasons for the number of unemployed were given as seasonal employment having come to an end; temporary cut-backs in the working staffs at certain industrial plants, and to the fact that there is virtually no construction underway in the area.

Of the total unemployed there are 438 "postal claims", 24 short time claims and the balance being made up of "regular claims". With the recipients of benefits reporting personally to the Belleville office.

Two hundred and eight of the total unemployed in the area are women and girls, it was stated.

Benefits of Long Term Pastures Told Meeting

The benefits of long term pastures and how they can be improved by the proper application of fertiliser, were told to members of the Hastings County Holstein Breeders' Association at their annual meeting held in Stirling Wednesday evening.

Speaker was George McLaughlin of Elmcroft Farm at Oshawa who told how long term pastures had paid off in profits at his farm. Pasture production had been increased, while at the same time it had been able to cut pasture acreage.

One of the secrets of successful long term pasture was the regular application of the right kind of fertilizer. Mr. McLaughlin said that at Elmcroft Farm 600 pounds of fertilizer per acre were applied to pastures and it paid off.

With proper management Mr. McLaughlin said, there was no limit to the period which long term pastures would last.

Jerry Nelson, fieldman for the Association, discussed the activities of the provincial organization during the year, while A. J. Tamblyn of Orono, Holstein salesman, discussed sales, noting that demand for top grade Holsteins were holding well.

Charles Treverton of Plainfield was re-elected president with Allen McComb, R.R. 5 Belleville, and Bernard Hunt, Tweed, as vice presidents. A. O. Dalrymple, agricultural representative, was re-named secretary treasurer.

County directors are: Sidney, Fred Campbell, J Reynolds, and Hudson Richardson; Thurlow, Carl Thompson, Clifford Ketcheson, L. Cumminsy; Tyendinaga, J. E. Walsh; Rawdon, Wes Finch, Everett Lake; Huntingdon, W. A. Duncan; Elzie; Hungerford, Harry Coulter, A. Martin; Marmora, Stewart Hardy; Madoc, Philo Harris, E. Burnside and Percy Broadworth.

Marmoraton Mining Company Seeks Permission to Dump Tailings on Own Property

TORONTO (CP)—In an unusual case before the Ontario mining court, the Marmoraton Mining Co. Ltd., and its parent company, Bethlehem Mines Corp., are seeking permission to dump tailings from an iron development at Marmora on lands to which Marmoraton already holds surface rights.

However, the application is being opposed by the Mineral Exploration Company which holds mineral rights to the same 165-acre plot in Hastings county. This company is arguing, in the case which has been before Judge Thomas E. Godson since early November, that its right to dig for and mine minerals below the surface will be damaged by the dumping of tailings.

Evidence and argument in the case are expected to be concluded next week.

It is unusual for a company to apply for the right to dump tailings—refuse from a mill—on property to which it holds surface rights. Normally a company with underground rights seeks an agreement to dump tailings on the surface above it to which another firm holds the rights.

The Ontario Mining Act provides for compensation if such an easement is granted.

Mercury Dips Below Zero In Winter's First Cold Snap

Jack Frost, the master artist, traced delicate patterns on windows and doorknobs and left a thick hold on trees and shrubbery last night when he sent the temperature plunging down to a new season low.

According to the official figures at the purification plant, the mercury dipped to 2.5 degrees above in the first severe attack of Old Man Winter.

The lower stretches of the Moira River were partially sheathed in ice from the effects of the season. Vapor rose from the mid-stream slow current which was dotted with floating wafers of newly formed ice.

Early morning workers hurried along Front Street, heads without a hat. Only the occasional warmth of upturned coat collars. Milady had no excuse for the downfall of fur coats and other winter apparel, other than necessity.

The frosty air, a distinct departure from the warm, spring-like atmosphere in that caused bulbs to sprout and lawns to take on a green hue a fortnight two weeks ago, was tempered somewhat by the rays of a brilliant December sun which shone from a cloudless sky. But the mercury quickly fell below freezing to refuse to any appreciable extent.

Apparently the arrival of subzero weather is a flash in the pan, for the weather man sums up his prognostications for Friday in one word: "Cold."

Light Resembled Acetylene Flame Says Observer

The strange light reported over southern Ontario last Friday night was "nothing of this world" according to a description given the Ontario Intelligencer by Clinton M. Sine, of Harold, 20 miles north of Belleville.

Mr. Sine, who was travelling to Salem Church with his wife when he saw the strange light, described it as "bluish-white, like the flame of an acetylene torch."

"It lit up the countryside for miles," said Mr. Sine, "it could see the road, trees, and the farms along the road as bright as in daylight. The light lasted about five or six seconds at the most, showing sparks in all directions before it died out."

Mr. Sine thought that the light, which he described as being "miles high", was southeast of Belleville.

"It didn't shoot through the sky, though," he said when asked to comment on previous reports that the light was seen moving at "terrific speed."

"It seemed to me that it was almost stationary, maybe moving slowly to the north," said Mr. Sine, "it didn't see it explode. It just seemed to die out in a shower of sparks."

"I've seen shooting stars, but nothing like this," he said. "It was a terrific sight."

Mr. Sine estimated that he saw this light about five minutes before eight p.m.

Santa Adorns Cec. Holway's Service Station

Cec Holway's service station on the corner of Front and Dundas streets conveys a touch of Christmas spirit, thanks to that merry old elf, Saint Nicholas himself.

Santa rides in his familiar deep side sleigh, a bag of toys, as big as the bearded one himself, sitting in the front half of the sleigh, just waiting to adorn the tree and fire places of many a happy child over the Christmas holiday.

The famous "Rudolph" leads the way across the sky, with his red nose shining as brightly as ever, followed by four other reindeer.

The roof-top display is placed just over the door, on a ledge running along the front of the building, where it will remain until after the holiday season.

Dutch Couple, Five Children Are Homeless

A Dutch family and five children are homeless following a fire which early today forced them out into below zero temperatures at Barry's Bridge Lennox and Addington.

All five children were bundled out into the open when the blaze was discovered, but all furniture belonging to the family was destroyed along with the house.

About six o'clock this morning Mr. J. Hovings was starting a fire in the kitchen stove, when he glanced up at the ceiling to discover it was ablaze where the stovepipe passed through. He only had time to rouse his family before the house was a mass of flames.

Absence of a telephone prevented the alarm being given, but other buildings nearby were saved. The farm home owned by Floyd Huffman was known as the George Babcock farm, and was tenanted by the Hovings family. The Hovingas were given shelter at the home of Mr. and Mrs. K. VanCoil.

NEED TWO MORE COPS

In a letter to the board of police commissioners, he said the present strength of 12 men and one radio-equipped cruiser is inadequate. He asked for two additional members on permanent strength and an extra man during the summer.

Shall always be on with me.
Since you've gone first and I remain
One thing I'd have you do
Go slowly down that long, long road
And wait a while for me.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Most price groups were higher in dull mixed trading on today's stock market.

The exchange's indexes showed industrials leading with a gain of almost a point, followed by western oils and golds with a nominal gain. Base metals were lower. Uraniums and Beltaurst-area base metals slipped a little in mixed trading.

Papers, manufactures, utilities, retailing oils, liquors and banks led the industrial rise.

Rare metals were down as seniors, trading lightly, showed a few more small losses than gains. Junior had no noteworthy changes.

La Luz led the juniors with a 13-cent gain.

New Delhi was the weak uranium with a five-cent loss and New Lander U was the bottom New Brunswick base metal as it slipped two cents.

Western oils moved higher but most issues showed only small volumes and gains were confined to small amounts. Canadian Collieries' 25-cent loss, the group's largest, was attributed to profit-taking. Pacific was the leader with a 35-cent gain.

Tweed Clairvoyant Confident He Can Assist in Finding Body of Marion McDowell

Ralph DeButte, 37 - year - old Tweed butcher, who practises clairvoyancy as a hobby, is confident that he can assist in finding the body of Marion MacDowell, Toronto district girl missing for more than a week after she was abducted by a masked man.

So certain is the Tweed man that he can assist in locating Marion's body that Wednesday he made a 150-mile trip over icy highways to contact Markham township police and tell them his story. DeButte made the trip to Toronto with Tweed chief of police Don Matheson and Ed Courneya, Tweed hotel operator.

Snow hampered the efforts of DeButte on Wednesday but back in Tweed the Belgian immigrant butcher says he will continue to "work" on the case.

DeButte works with a radiesthetic pendulum which assists him in foretelling certain events. In his seven years practising clairvoyancy he says he has met with considerable success but is hesitant in giving specific instances.

FORETELLS SEX OF CHILDREN.

His wife, however, says he foretold the sex of their last two children, both boys, and also named the two of his employer's baby prior to its birth.

DeButte is sure that Marion's body will be found in Markham township although he cannot pinpoint the exact location. His pendulum tells him that Marion is dead.

He says the ability to "see" is a gift, but a clairvoyant can become better with practice. He himself could be surer with more practice, "but I have a wife and five children to keep — I have to work," he said.

UNDERSTANDS PRINCIPLE.

He says he understands the principle by which a Montreal man was reported in The Star as being able to "see" through solid ground. He says the principle is one of magnetic radiation. "It may have stumped the experts but it does not stump me," he says.

Contrary to the Star story that there are only three others in the world beside the Montreal man who can "see" through solid ground, DeButte says he knows of a dozen or more in Europe who can perform the same feat.

DeButte became interested in clairvoyancy about ten years ago when he lost his wallet in Belgium. He went to a "seer" who told him where his wallet was to be found and from there in was interested.

"I think clairvoyants can be a great service to the world, "the Belgian man said. "I am not interested in any reward offered for finding Marion MacDowell's body. I am interested solely because I understand the anguish which her parents are going through. I have five children of my own."

GIVEN EVERY ASSISTANCE.

DeButte was living in Toronto when Mabel Crumback disappeared from her home some years ago. At that time he felt that he could help find her, but said Toronto police dismissed him when he approached them. This time it is different and he said Markham police had given him every assistance.

Chief of Police Matheson at Tweed, when DeButte first approached regarding the MacDowell case, said that DeButte was very sincere.

"He may be right or he may be wrong, but the Markham township police gave him every encouragement," the chief said.

It was Mrs. DeButte who suggested that her husband go to the police and tell them what he could about where Marion MacDowell's body might be found.

"She knows what I can do and when she saw me "working," she told me it was my duty to assist in every way I could."

DeButte is Canada seven years ago and lived in Toronto and Hamilton before moving to Tweed two years ago. He operated a butcher store in Belgium and hopes to have one of his own in Canada. They have five children, two of whom were born in Canada.

A COMMONSENSE VIEWPOINT

Few Canadians have ever heard of Charles McDonald of Windsor. But Mr. McDonald, who is president of the Ford local of the United Automobile Workers, recently made an observation which deserves country-wide attention.

"A union negotiating committee," he declared, "can function far more smoothly when it is equipped with arguments to substantiate reasonable demands . . . It is folly for anyone to think that the higher the demand the more will be won . . . A more concentrated set of demands — backed heavily by proof through research—likely would result in earlier settlements thus shipping off weeks or even months of delay through conciliation."

We are indebted to "The Rural Scene" for this quotation. This "journal of opinion" quoted Mr. McDonald in a column entitled "Along Horse Sense Trail" and, printing the word "reasonable" in capital letters, noted that the emphasis was Mr. McDonald's.

The statement makes sense. The excessive time required to complete conciliation procedures has, in many cases, resulted in aggravating rather than lessening, the friction between unions and management.

But there is one sentence in Mr. McDonald's statement which should be open to question. He says that it is folly for anyone to think that the higher the demand the more will be won." That statement ought to be true. It is. It is not true—and in certain instances we fear it is not—if then it is positive proof of the folly of one or both parties to past disputes. At some time some union official thought that the more he demanded, the more he would get; or some employer thought he might win as big a reduction in original small demands as he would have endeavored to obtain had the demands been high.

Whatever the reason, it is not very frequently true that a union believes it must first demand much more than it hopes to get; and that management as frequently makes the first offer to permit room for a per capita basis there.

The only remedy for such a situation is a growth in the number of union leaders who, like Mr. McDonald, are prepared to bargain on the basis of what is reasonable, and of men in management who are prepared to consider such demands in a similar frame of mind.

RETAIL SALES TRIPLE

A table compiled by the Ontario Bureau of Statistics shows that in 1951 the residents of the Quinte district spent almost $3 for every $1 they spent in the base year of 1941. Retail sales in 1951 were $141,000,000, compared to $48,000,000 in 1941. Part of this increase was the result of a larger population, but there is per capita basis there was a noteworthy increase, from $321 in 1941 to $790 in 1951.

Of course, this increase in retail sales was not confined to the Quinte district, but was general throughout the province. Indeed, taking the province as a whole, we find that the dollar value of retail sales has increased more than four times since 1939. Not all of this increase represents an actual increase in the amount of goods purchased. This figure takes account of a substantial part of the increase, but when proper allowance is made for this fact retail sales in Ontario still doubled since the pre-war years. Making a similar allowance for the increase in the province's population, we find that retail sales have increased by one-third. In other words, the standard of living is one-third higher than it was before the war broke out. This increase in living standards, however, occurred during the immediate post-war years. When we make allowances for increased population and for higher prices, retail sales in Ontario have maintained at approximately the same rate since 1947.

It would be erroneous, however, to suppose that this increase of one-third in retail sales during the past decade or period is because real income has increased by a like amount. Actually people are spending a greater share of their real income than ever before. They are enjoying a higher proportion of people's income today than they did in the pre-war years. In 1930, when retail sales were $1,049,000,000, 60 per cent of the amount spent consisted of the estimated personal disposable income of the residents of the province. Sales dropped to $883,000,000 in 1935, but this represented 63 per cent of disposable income. By 1939, when sales were up to $1,049,000,000, 60 per cent of income was thus spent. How Ontario residents reduced their spending during the war years, either by choice or because goods were not available, is shown by the fact that 1943 retail sales of $1,450,000,000 represented only 47 per cent of available income. When 1947 sales of $2,687,000,000 were 68.4 per cent of the income, it might have been supposed that this included a large portion of deferred purchases but other years since the percentage of income expended has been higher, reaching a peak of 71.6 in 1950. In 1952, when retail sales totalled $4,388,000,000, this was 69.8 per cent of available income.

It will probably be no surprise to learn that food and beverage stores get the largest share of the Ontario resident's income, accounting for 30.8 per cent of retail trade in 1951, but automotive stores are a comparatively close second, getting 24.5 per cent of the trade. Furniture, appliances, radios and home furnishings accounted for only 4.4 per cent of the total sales in that year.

The Englishman who jumped around a pub on a pogo stick for an hour and a half to collect a cup and pet, is reported to have raced a passenger train down a 3,560-foot mountain and walked backwards 16 miles to a prize fight. The report said that he is always on the lookout to do something out of the ordinary. He is a golfer, too.

The Greatest Faith Ever Known

What Happened in Jerusalem

CHAPTER 32.

Warm welcome awaited Paul on his final visit to the city. All the Christians in Jerusalem now knew of his glorious work on the three mission journeys. They marvelled at his energy and fire, his willingness to live and die for the Lord.

To James the Less, and the elders, Paul made his report, summarizing his activities. And Luke adds, "He related particularly what things God had wrought among the Gentiles by his ministry."

The listening ancients of the new Church broke into prayer, glorifying God for news of the spread of the faith. But, alas, their joy was still mixed with misgivings.

One of them with a tentative grin, put the matter frankly to Paul:

"You see, brother, how many thousands there are among the Jews that have believed; and they are all zealous for the Law . . ."

Paul sighed. Still discord?

"Now they have heard of you that you teach those Jews who are among the Gentiles to depart from Moses; saying that they ought not to circumcise their children, nor walk according to the custom, What is it, therefore?"

Every Jewish convert in Jerusalem had heard these stories and was immensely troubled. Now that Paul was in Jerusalem he must deny or affirm the rumors.

The Hebrew elders of Christianity had some advice to give Paul:

"Do therefore this that we say to you. We have four men, who have a vow on them. Take them, and sanctify yourself with them: and all will know that the things which they have heard of you, are false; but that you yourself also walkest keeping the Law."

To the surprise of some of these elders, Paul gave instant obedience to this request. He believed fully in both the Old Testament and the new Gospel. He would happily make a vow with these strangers.

He took the four men and went to the Temple.

But that ceremonial performance did not satisfy all of Paul's enemies.

"I beseech you let me speak to the people." The crowd was surging and boiling on the marble stairs. What kind of fellow was this?

Actually, Paul had to be carried like a child up the long flight of steps to the Castle Antonia; had to be held high up beyond the reach of the ravening people who wanted to kill him.

The Roman tribune heaved a sigh of relief as they reached the top platform of the marble stairs. He had no interest in Jerusalem riots; he cared nothing for Paul, and was concerned only with his job of maintaining public peace. Now the mob was kept at bay with Roman spears and broadswords. In a few minutes Paul would be lodged safely in a dungeon, and the nasty affair would be ended.

But just at the door of the upper platform, the prisoner, again on his feet, startled his captor.

"May I speak something to you?" asked Paul in a low, polite tone.

Lysias swerved and stared at the tattered, bloody wretch he had snatched from the mob.

"I am a Jew of Tarsus in Cilicia, a citizen of no mean city," Paul said, "and I beseech you to let me speak to the people."

Lysias laid the back of his hand against his forehead. What kind of fellow was this, who spoke perfect Armaic and Greek and Latin and who, having been nearly murdered by that crowd still surging and boiling on the marble stairs, wants to make a speech to his enemies? Lysias knew a gentleman when he saw one. With a rough nod, he gave permission.

Standing on the height of the prison stairs, Paul beckoned to the crowds held back by the Roman guards below.

In the Hebrew tongue, Paul began in the hush of that warm afternoon by declaring to the people the history of his conversion. He told them of his experience on the road to Damascus, and they listened in respectful silence. And then he told them that God Himself had said to him: "Go, for unto the Gentiles will I send thee."

That was the unintended end of Paul's speech.

At the very mention of the Gentiles, the mob screamed as if in pain. Gentiles! As with one voice the rioters shrieked:

"Away with such a one from the earth; for it is not fit that he should live."

And they began tearing their clothes off their bodies as if they had been present at a blasphemy. Lysias, who had been listening fascinated by Paul's outburst, now sprang into action.

Into the castle with Paul! Scourge him! Torture him! Even his own soldiers must have been startled at the tribune's orders. Perhaps the faith of this prisoner, all bloody and torn, rising above everything in its frenzy ecstacy, had troubled the Roman's soul; perhaps he rebelled at being touched to the quick of his spirit by such as Paul, into the whips and the chains, there.

At Lysias' command, the foot and soldiers bound Paul with leather thongs, his feet and hands made immovable as the prophet had foretold. Paul drew a deep breath; his face, though marred and blood-stained, was at peace. With perfect calm, he asked a question:

"Centurion! Is it lawful for you to scourge a man that is a Roman and uncondemned?"

The centurion's face went white. A Roman! This battered mess of a man? A citizen of the Empire? It was hard to believe, but the centurion could take no chances!

With apologies for carrying such a tale, he reported Paul's question to Lysias.

Across the cobbled pavement of the inner court of the castle, Lysias stalked, angrier than ever but more cautious now.

"Tell me," he adjured Paul, "are you a Roman?"

"Yes!"

After that, Lysias dared not go through with his plan of trial by torture. Indeed, the tribune was hoping that Paul would, by Christian charity, forgive his offence. The law read that every Roman citizen could be tortured and no citizen could be bound with thongs until he had been properly tried and condemned. Lysias had already broken that law, and he well realized he could be made to smart for it. He loosed Paul's hands at feet at once.

For one night he kept Paul in the castle. And all evening long Lysias tossed in his bed, trying to decide the best course of action. By dawn, he had thought of a plan. He would keep Paul under protective custody, so that he could not be torn to death by those crazy mobs in the street. At the same time, he would return him to local Jewish authority by taking him back to the Temple, to the throne chair of the high priest. The tribune would see to it that the whole Sanhedrin would be called into session.

And at the word of Roman authority, they did indeed come together, to hear Paul's case. Paul's looked like an aging and defeated prize fighter with black swellings under his eyes and a deep patch on brow and cheek. Tattered mallion rags were all that remained of his tunic and robe.

He stood before the judges, as the tribune commanded him, and he was told to speak his mind, so that these judges could make clear to him the exact nature of the offence.

Paul well knew that these listening magistrates were the Only God knew what tales they had heard during the last three years. But Paul was also a master of the Law, with a Pharisee's confidence in the integrity of judges. He began bravely, declaring:

"I am a Pharisee, the son of Pharisees; concerning the hope and resurrection of the dead, I am called into question."

By this simple statement, Paul moved with adroitness to divide his judges into two camps, Pharisees and Sadducees. The Sadducees considered themselves intellectuals, believed in free will, but not in immortality. For a long time, the Sadducees had controlled the office of high priest, principally because the cynical Roman authorities preferred to do business with men who did not believe in resurrection. Besides, the Sadducees refused to accept the "oral Law" of the Pharisees with its thousand regulations.

Strictly speaking, the Sadducees were neither a party nor a sect; they were made up of aristocratic families, who had looked far more favorably upon the Hellenistic culture than upon the ancient ways, although they carefully refrained from saying so in public.

But Paul's remarks concerning the hope of life after death inevitably set the judges quarreling among themselves.

Out of this tangle came a sudden and bewildering climax.

The Pharisees, whose insistence on ritualistic laws was at the base of all the dissension in the Christian Church, now veered violently in favor of the side of Paul, the Christian apostle. Turning wrathfully away from the Sadducees, the Pharisees sprang to their feet, screaming in unwitting imitation of Pontius Pilate:

"We find no evil in this man." Into the teeth of their enemies, they hurled a challenge which intellectuals still do not know how to meet.

"What if a spirit hath spoken to him? Or an angel?"

The answer was renewed tumult. The judges snarled at each other; the watching crowds caught the infection. In another instant there would be sticks, knives, and blood in the council chamber.

"They will pull this man Paul to pieces," groaned Lysias. "Go down," he commanded his soldiers, "and take him by force from the council chamber. Bring him into the castle."

Back in a cell, Paul was left alone. The Romans, to quell the mob, would appear them for a homicide. Paul felt sure of that finish to his career. If only he had some of the brethren to talk to before the end which now seemed so certain, so near.

But Paul was not deserted. He who had no Christian brethren to share his imprisonment, suddenly, miraculously, found himself no longer alone but in the presence of the greatest of all companions.

Not alone — because his beloved Master, Jesus Christ, stood by and spoke with him; reprieved him in the cold, damp cell filled a soul with courage, spe

Weddings

SIMMONS—FINLAYSON

St. George's United Church, Trenton, was the setting for the candlelight wedding on Friday evening, December 4, between Marjorie Joyce, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Roderick Finlayson, of Toronto, and Dr. Edward Henry Simmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Alvin Simmons, Trenton. The Rev. Dr. Ian Short officiated. The church was resplendent with standards of white 'mums.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a gown of white satin, the basque bodiced with a square "neck" and is etched with pearl and crystal-beaded scrolling. The long satin sleeves were pointed at the wrists with matching pearled rolls. From the pointed waistline, the very full skirt billowed over a crinoline, ending in a cathedral train. Her long veil was secured to a matching cap scattered with pearls, and she carried a cascade of gardenias and streamers.

Mrs. Donald M. Finlayson was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. William Cousins, Mrs. Wilbert Richardson and Miss Jean MacLennan. All wore gowns of deep red velvet with softly draped bodices and matching stoles. Their matching velvet hats were trimmed with white 'mums and they carried white 'mums and holly.

Mr. Wayne Simmons, Trenton, was groomsman and ushers were Dr. Donald M. Finlayson, Dr. Berton Grapes, Dr. William Lindsay and Dr. Ian MacNab.

The reception, following the wedding ceremony, was held at the Granite Club. The bride's mother received the guests in a gown of French blue chiffon with matching accessories. The groom's mother assisted wearing a petal pink and bittersweet satin gown with matching accessories. Both wore white orchid corsages.

For travelling to Florida where the honeymoon is being spent, the bride wore a grey suit, matching hat with tan accessories, a muskrat coat and corsage of scarlet roses.

Dr. and Mrs. Simmons will reside in Toronto, when they return from Florida.

'Covered-Up Look' in Shoes Sets New Trend in Winter

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters) — The "covered-up look" in shoes is a trend for winter. Styles veer away from cut-out pumps toward higher vamp effects worked well up over the arch of the foot.

Christian Dior's new pump illustrates the trend. The squared vamp is counter-balanced by a medium, squarish heel, and narrow, pointed toe. For dress wear, interest is centred on this same style, in draped effects across the front of the shoe.

Heels are definitely lower. Cuban and Louis XV styles are shown for streetwear, and thin spindles or champagne glass stems for more formal occasions.

Combined with the trends towards sharply pointed toes, and higher vamps, these styles recall the long, narrow, Patrician feet of the 1930s. Trimming is restrained, restricted to bandings, incrustations of contrasting leather, or two-colored trims. Jet and bronze ornaments are favored for dresswear.

SPINNING GLOBE SANDAL

Among novelty ideas is one shown by Codex, who last summer produced a plastic heel which encased a live mouse. This winter he shows "universe," a satin evening sandal with a small revolving world globe set in the centre of the heel. The metal globe, lightly traced in the continents, is the size of a golf ball, and turns slowly on the axis of the heel.

Other stunts, which may be the forerunner of a minor trend, include exaggerated Persian toes. These slightly upturned, pointed toes which were created by Simoni for Hubert de Givenchy, have been adapted in modified versions by other shoemakers.

MANY SCOUTS

LONDON (CP) — Boy Scouts headquarters here reported the world total of Scouts has reached a record 5,561,983, an increase of 402,000 in the last two years.

Coronation Club Holds Christmas Party

The Coronation Club of Bridge Street Church held a Christmas party at the Y.M.C.A.

The president, Mrs. J. S. Layzell, welcomed the members and their husbands.

Doug Aselstine entertained the club with his record panto-mimes and everyone was sorry he had brought only three records.

Mrs. Linton Read and Mrs. S. Hoard conducted the novelty dances which consisted of a Paul Jones, jig and elimination.

The box lunches were auctioned off, most successfully by Bryson Leslie.

Everyone had an enjoyable evening due to the work done by Mrs. Wm. Jardine and her committee.

Canadian Legion L.A. Elects Officers

On Tuesday, the Ladies' Auxiliary of Canadian Legion Branch 99, Belleville, held its regular monthly meeting in the Coleman Street club rooms. There was an initiation of new members, followed by the election of officers.

New officers for 1954 are—president, Mrs. W. Bean; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Slater; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Gardiner; secretary, Mrs. W. Bailey; treasurer, Mrs. D. Bradford; standard bearer, Mrs. Jean Hughes; chaplain, Mrs. Gulliver; Executive—Mrs. Jeffs, Mrs. MacGillivray, Mrs. Blair, Mrs. G. Helm, Mrs. Beaudoin, Mrs. Farara, Mrs. Hughes, Miss J. Keegan, Mrs. Hooge, and Mrs. Newton.

Committee chairmen — Sick committee, Mrs. Smith; social, Mrs. L. Helm, Jr.; Entertainment, Mrs. Gardiner; publicity, Mrs. Farara; membership convener, Mrs. Helm, Sr.; house chairman, Mrs. Newton.

Wife Preservers

A roll of paper toweling in the kitchen has many uses. When pork sausages or bacon are cooked, lay them on paper toweling for a short time to drain off excess fat before serving.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HER FATHER OBJECTS TO HIM BECAUSE HE'S NOT RICH

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a young man of 21, and very much interested in a girl 20, who seems to reciprocate my interest.

The trouble is, though, that her family are wealthy and mine are not, and while it doesn't seem a matter at all to her, it evidently does to her parents. The last time I called at her house, her father came to me at the end of the evening and told me to keep away from her. Since I can't see what they have against me, other than the fact that I am an ordinary job-holding young man, and since I want very much to continue my friendship with this girl, I am at a loss as to what I should do.

I have thought of trying to talk with her father, and explain to him that while my background is only a simple one, I'm quite sure my prospects are good enough so that I could take adequate care of his daughter. Do you think that would be a good idea?

Bill

Dear Bill:

If this girl's father is as stupid in his thinking as he seems to be, it would be a little dubious about the likelihood of your being successful in getting him to see things the way you do. However, you seem to have plenty of courage, and if you can get him to listen to you, it would of course be the most logical step to take.

If you can't get him to listen, then I think you should put it up to the girl herself. If she cares enough about you to ask you for her own right to choose her friends, whether he likes them or not, then, things may work out for you. Admittedly, it's not easy for a girl of 20 to oppose her parents and run the risk of creating an unhappy family situation, but the two of you talk it over together, you can't be able to find some sort of way of getting around her father's objections.

Give both ideas a try and let me know where you get.

SHE WORRIES LEST HER BOY FRIEND DOESN'T LOVE HER

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 18, and engaged to a wonderful boy who is in the army, but I am constantly unhappy.

For some odd reason I cannot understand, I have the feeling he no longer loves me. He writes every day, and he if forever telling me he does love me, but I still have the feeling he doesn't, and I don't know why I think this.

We've only been engaged a few months, and he is going to be discharged next spring, but I get lonely without him, and although I get lonely I don't want to date other boys, though I am frequently asked out.

Sometimes I have a doubt in my mind that I don't want to marry him, but when his letters come, I always change my mind and realize I love him.

Do you think I should break my engagement and wait until he gets home and then start over again, or should I let things stay as they are?

Becky

My advice is to let things stay as they are and then see what happens when his boy gets home. I don't see what you will gain by breaking up with him now.

Keep busy with activities that interest you, try not to let your imagination get out of hand, and just let things ride. Then, when he comes home, if you still feel so uncertain, you can talk it all over together and make whatever decision seems best.

Roasting His Nibs The Turkey

By Mary Moore

A week from today will be Christmas Eve and I hope your minds and hearts will be at peace.

If to do so means to share in giving your mind, peace in the food department, I had better include the directions for roasting that turkey.

The average-sized bird weighs 8—dressed—15 lbs. I am told by a turkey raiser and by a produce manager.

Well I will proceed on the assumption that your turkey will weigh around 15 lbs., and I hope Hazel L. M. sees this:

TO ROAST THE TURKEY

Do's—Roast the turkey in an open pan; roast without water; roast without cover, roast with skin brushed with unsalted fat and covered only with a cloth dipped in unsalted fat or better still, foil.

Most of you will have the butchey dress the bird, and those who do not must know how to do it, I always cut myself doing it, so I've quit wrestling with monsters.

Wash bird inside and out. It is a slick trick to moist-scrub the bird using baking soda as a very gentle abrasive to make the skin take on a white-clean puroness.

Dry bird well, and sprinkle inside with salt. Put stuffing (you need 14 to 15 cups) and believe in neck cavity first and fold neck skin back to hold it in and skewer. If you prefer. Fill body cavity but do not pack, for it swells. Fasten shut with skewers, then draw it very close by lacing in double figure eight around 3 or 4 skewers. Tie legs to tail and crisscross the twine over back around base of wings, and lace. Force wing tips over back. Brush bird all over with unsalted fat—lard or salad oil. Place on rack, in roasting pan. Cover with foil dipped in melted unsalted fat or cover carefully with foil.

A 15-lb. bird requires four hours at 325 deg. Fahr. Do not overcook or legs and wings will fall away.

A 16 to 20-lb. bird requires 4 1-2 to 5 1-2 hours at 300 deg. Fahr.

STUFFING FOR 15-LB. TURKEY

Fourteen cups fresh breadcrumbs. (The white breadcrumbs preferably —and you know how I hate to say that—but grand drawing may be made with 1-2 and 1-2 white and whole wheat bread crumbs.) One cup melted fat which is 1-2 butter and 1-2 rendered out poultry fat or margarine, or good vegetable shortening or fresh bacon dripping; 3-4 cup grated onion, 1 1-2 cups finely chopped celery stalks and leaves, 2 tablespoons salt, 1 teaspoon black pepper, 1 to 3 teaspoons finely crumbled sage or thyme or marjoram or poultry dress'g. Gently melt the fat and add onions to it, and cook them until they are yellow but not one bit brown. Then combine the longest job so call in your young members to help and slog rounds on hill (cubes while you crumb the bread. Mix all ingredients. NOTE:

If you want to use giblets, or sausage or mushrooms they may be chopped finely and added after slightly cooked or raw in stuffing —do not use any more than 1 or 2—do not go mad with it.

I promised Vera of Whitehorse some pudding sauce recipes.

HARD SAUCE

One-third cup butter, 1 cup fruit, icing or light brown sugar 1-3 teaspoon fresh lemon juice, 2-3 teaspoon vanilla or almond or any flavor. Cream the butter well, and add sugar very gradually. Add flavoring and chill overnight It is attractive to score the top with a fork, and sprinkle with finely grated nutmeg.

ORANGE SAUCE

Beat the whites of 2 eggs until stiff then gradually beat in 3-4 cup fruit sugar, until very stiff, then fold in grated rind 1 orange, and slowly 1-2 cup orange juice and 2 or 3 tablespoons lemon juice.

It outshone mink at a recent fashion show.

Evening elegance is nicely stated in a strapless dress composed of layers of tobacco brown silk chiffon, cut on straight. Empire lines. The bodice is marked by a high-placed black satin ribbon with sash streamers.

It's wonderful what our handbag designers do to give fashion appeal at a tiny tag. Pleated fallic makes a box bag, smartly outlined with a gold metallic frame. Pleated fallic handle, red taffeta lining and a full-sized mirror in the lid are other details of a sensibly priced, but very attractive, handbag.

MANNERS GOOD

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WHEN THE BOSS GIVES CHRISTMAS PRESENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Peggy and I are the only employees in the office of a small manufacturing company. She has worked here since last March, and I since last April. Our "boss-man" is very kind and generous, and the gift he always places I took, a friend of mine who 'got married, told me he always gives the girls in the office a Christmas present.

1. If he does give us a present this year, should we open it when he hands it to us? (This seems awkward to me, but Peggy thinks this is what we should do.)

2. Of course, we'll say "Thank you" at the time. Should we also write him a thank-you note?

3. Would it be proper for us to send him and his wife a Christmas card? Or should we send one only to him, and addressed to the office? (We've met his wife several times when she came to the office.)

NOTE:

Peggy and Emily

1. I agree with you that it's more graceful, gazier, not to open the present in front of the giver. Why instead say, for example, "Thank you very much indeed, Mr. Jones, how very kind of you to give me a present. I'll put it on my Christmas tree. I'll enjoy opening it tonight It is attractive to score the top with a fork, and sprinkle with finely grated nutmeg.

2. Yes, you should each write a little thank-you note to him, friendly and prompt. If only his name is written on the Christmas card, write your note to him only, and leave it out his wife (as I said, he may be), his wife's name is included or else just write to both.

3. Yes . . . send a card adressed to "Mr. and Mrs.", at their home-address.

AN ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCEMENT DOES NOT DEPEND ON RING OR WEDDING DATE

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

Several of my friends have become engaged recently, and have announced their engagement [illegible] as soon as they have received their engagement ring. When they have announced their engagement they have not known their wedding date. Please tell me if it is proper to announce an engagement stating that "no date has been set for the wedding," or should you wait until a date for your wedding is set? Another question: If it is proper to announce your engagement after you've wedding date is set, is it proper to announce your engagement several months after you receive your ring if you don't know your wedding date until then?

Daily Reader

It is proper to announce an engagement whenever those concerned wish to announce it. The announcement need not wait until the girl receives her engagement ring .. as a matter of fact many girl, who for some reason aren't going to have an engagement ring announce the engagement whenever it is most convenient to make the announcement. Also it is not at all necessary for the engaged girl to wait to announce her engagement until the date of the wedding is set. In the announcement it is not at all necessary even to mention whether or not the wedding is set.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

EMPHASIZE YOUR BEST FEATURES WITH COLOR

Ladies of fashion, who know how to cultivate a distinguished appearance, never go wrong when selecting colors for the various items of their wardrobes. They are not afraid to experiment, to try out new color combinations. For them beautiful colors, like graceful lines have a strong appeal. The two together create style.

Consider then, their opposites, women who have fixed color ideas from which they can't seem to get away. It is almost as if they thought that dowdy clothes of dismal shades represented respectability. They select cold greys or uninteresting browns that are most unattractive, esthetically speaking, and which do nothing at all for them. Every woman, no matter what her age or type, looks prettier if she uses a bit of gay color somewhere in her clothes.

Colors have a psychological effect—gaiety, and forthcoming; others give the spirits a lift, make one feel friendly and responsive. Sometime, when you are down in the dumps, buy yourself a red hat or a pair of red shoes, and see what happens.

Red is stimulating. A smart red hat on a white-haired woman forms a becoming frame for the frosted tresses and the delicate skin texture which are features of life's autumn. Red men like red because it's gay and youthful. Yet Christ-like men are born with the fear of wearing bright colors about them as they would a virtue.

Blue, the color of the sky, makes for tranquility. There is no color more flattering to the eyes than blue settee, than french blue, that soft smoky shade. Navy blue, so popular this season, is as reliable as the affection of your dearest friend. It will never let you down.

Black is for certain types. It should not be worn by elderly women as it gives accent to wrinkles, is so great a contrast to white hair. Only the young and beautiful should wear black. Then it should be a fabric with a soft surface. Probably no material is more trying than hard black satin. And, unless a black frock has beautiful lines and flair, it is a disappointment.

Yellow is sunny and springlike. Pale green is a cool color, suitable for the summer season. Experiment with color in your clothes. It can be a real adventure.

Bulbs for Home

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Want a pot of big red, or pink blooms to brighten the dark days of winter? Then Amaryllis is the plant for you. Grow them yourself from bulbs. They are a cinch to grow and give spectacular results. The enormous lily-like flowers are six to eight inches across, and each bulb produces two, or three flower stocks which bear three to six blooms each. And, each bloom will last a month if the plant is kept in a cool room.

Good bulbs cost about ninety cents each. One Canadian seed company list them at four dollars a dozen. Imported bulbs and name varieties sell as high as fifteen dollars a bulb, but those under a dollar will give you fine plants, with plenty of bloom. They make thoughtful gifts for the plant lover, the shut-in, or the hard-to-buy-for friend. Men like to grow them for their robust color, and ease of culture.

Use a small pot, four inch is usually right. A small pot is soon filled with roots and then the bulb sends up top growth. Use pot-third each sand, peat moss and garden soil. Vermiculite may be used in place of the sand. Only the thick lower part of the bulb is covered with soil, with a half inch of soil under the bulb. Soak the soil well when the bulb is planted, then water sparingly until the leaves, or flower stock begins to show. The flower stocks often develop before the leaves. When the top growth starts water generously, but see that no water stands in the saucer over night. Keep in a cool place until the roots have formed and the top sends up the beginning of new growth. Move to a warm light position and see that the plant gets plenty of sun and food. The new liquid plant food is ideal for the Amaryllis, since it is a heavy feeder it needs quickly available nourishment to make its thick stock and immense blooms.

Take care to feed the leaves well after the blooms have faded if you wish to carry the bulbs over for next year. Cut the flower stocks when flowers have all faded. When the weather is right stick the pot in a sunny position in the garden, and see that it is supplied with sufficient water to keep it growing. In October bring in the plant and allow the soil to dry out gradually. The leaves will dry up and the plant will take its required rest. Late in the fall start watering it again, and feed when top growth forms. Plants may be kept for two years, or more. Do not repot until the bulb cracks the pot, then choose a slightly larger pot.

The new hybrid Amaryllis range in color from deepest crimson to pale salmon pink. There are great variations in markings from those with a white throat and stripes to the new hybrid veins.

The Amazon lily is related to the Amaryllis and needs somewhat the same culture, but this plant will bloom two, or three times each year. The blooms are waxy white and have a delicate perfume.

Gloxinias are coming more and more into favor as house plants. They can be started from bulbs and require much the same care as African violets. In fact many violet fanciers are turning to Gloxinias as a side line, or a new hobby. They make a beautiful pot plant grow rapidly and the blooming season often lasts for as long as four months. The foliage is attractive too, forming handsome background for the immense flowers. The bulbs may be used over and over again for several years. The same soil mixture used for Amaryllis, one third each sand, or vermiculite, peat moss and soil will serve. Care must be taken to keep the roots moist, but not wet, and the leaves should be kept dry.

The big velvety blooms may be carmines red, scarlet, purple, white or pink with spots, or lacing of other hues. Some green-thumb artists report good results in growing gloxinias from leaf cuttings, as they do African violet leaves.

Any of these and many more bulbs may be had from your local florist or seed catalogues. They will add color indoors until nature supplies it outdoors again.

Hall's Regrets Are Over Spree Not Slaying

By AL DOFKING

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Carl Austin Hall's last day was filled today with regret—and regret that he kidnapped and killed little Bobby Greenlease, but that his wild gamble for quick riches was lost in a drunken spending spree.

A few cells away from him in death row his paramour, Bonnie Brown Heady, was sorry, too—sorry that her illicit love affair with Carl was broken up in a shocking crime.

It was learned from officials who have talked with Hall since he entered prison Nov. 20 that his sorrow is not over the slaying he and Mrs. Heady plotted the day before the kidnapping.

Officials say Hall is sorry only that his plans for quick and easy wealth crashed in the blaze that led to his arrest.

The bereaved Hall had been quoted as saying that he planned to kill Mrs. Heady, 41, next and that he had vowed never to be taken alive. Now Hall says his prolonged spree made him too fuzzy to realize clearly what was happening when arresting officers knocked on his hotel door in St. Louis Oct. 8.

IVANHOE

IVANHOE — Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Leavesley, Loughborough, Lieses, England, who were shocked the "Ascania", arrived in Canada early this week, to be present at the marriage of their daughter, Miss Norma Leavesley, on December 26th. Mr. and Mrs. Leavesley are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stephens.

MISSION BAND

The Mission Band held its Christmas meeting in Bethel United Church on December 3rd. The worship service was conducted by the leader, Mrs. Geo. Wood. The call to worship, "Let the People Praise Thee" was explained by the leader. A chorus, "Everybody Ought to Love Him," was sung. The Scripture lesson, Psalm 100, was read by Jack Wood. Following the presenting of the offering a prayer of dedication was offered.

During the Mission study, "Nara Hill" was reviewed and pictures shown. A special program, "Our Daily Bread," was in charge of Elaine Wickens. Readings, "Thanksgiving," Beatrice Ing, "Thanksgiving," Beatrice Ing, "All Alike," Sandra McFadden; "All Alike," Sandra Hayes. "Away in a Manger," "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night" were sung.

A quiz was conducted by the lead, "Scrambled Bible Verses." Handwork was the making of an African scene. The meeting closed with the singing of Christmas carols and prayer.

W.M.S.

The December meeting of St. Andrew's W.M.S. West Huntingdon, was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harry Bensen. The president, Mrs. Barton Haggerty, presided, and the program was opened by the singing of "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks," followed by the Lord's Prayer. The Scripture found in Luke 8, was read by Mrs. J. Hassell. Rev. W. H. V. Walker led in prayer. The roll call was responded to by a "Christmas Thought."

A story on this key word was given by Miss Beadie Fleming, "The Christmas Baby Who Grew Up."

Part of the eternal appeal of the Christmas story lies in the fact it is the story of a baby — yet in that fact also lies a danger.

To treat Christmas only as the story of a baby, to sing about it in time-honored carols, to paint it and celebrate it and then fail to accept the challenge which Jesus, the full grown man, makes to our way of life, is vanity.

Jesus Christ was born in the meanest circumstances, His lodging was a manger but a star drew distinguished visitants from afar to do Him homage. He wrote no book, built no church, had no money back of Him, but after 1900 years He is the one central character of human history, the perpetual theme of all preaching.

A solo, "Star of the East," was given by Mrs. A. Hassell. Reading, "Peace on Earth," Mrs. J. C. Silis. The story of St. Nicholas was given by Mrs. John McInroy.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Following a short business session a slate of officers was brought in by the nominating committee. Rev. W. H. V. Walker conducted an impressive installation service.

President, Mrs. Barton Haggerty; first vice-president, Mrs. H. Thompson; second vice-president, Mrs. J. C. Silis; recording secretary, Mrs. M. Shaw; treasurer W. M.S., Mrs. John McInroy; treasurer Ladies' Aid, Mrs. Harry Benson; Mission Band leader, Miss Beadie Fleming; assistant, Mrs. Lindsay Sills; Glad Tidings secretary, Mrs. Don Haggerty; press secretary, Beadie Fleming; welcome and welfare, Mrs. John McInroy; library and literature, Mrs. W. Shaw.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was up in my room doing my homework while I was listening to The Human Spider on my Junior Midgit radio, and pop looked in the door, saying, I'm a stranger around here, but it seems you might put your mind on your lessons to better advantage if that radio wasn't shouting at you at the same time. Please correct me if I'm wrong, he said.

But jimminy roostalem, pop, the only time he has to keep my mind on my homework, I said, and pop said, Well well, I wonder why. When I was your age I could only do one thing at a time and do it well. In fact I'm still that way, he said.

Well gosh, if the radio wasn't going I'd be thinking of all kinds of ways to interrupt my homework, like going for a drink of water or looking in my closit for something, but now I got to stay rite here and pay attention, or I'm libel to miss the most exciting part of The Human Spider, I said, and pop said, I hope I'm not depriving you of any of that uplifting experience with my silly chatter, but for Pete sake wouldn't it be nice to get your lessons done first, and then listen to the radio with a free mind?

No sir, because then I'd be worrying and worrying about not having enough time left over for the radio before I had to go to bed, and that would be bad for my homework, because our teecher told us we ought to get in the habit of doing things cheerfully, because that's how we get the most good out of them, and she said that includes our homework, I said, and pop said, Well, maybe I see what you mean, pardon the interruption.

And he went away again, and I kept on with my homework and the radio kept on with The Human Spider.

Record Tonnages Pass Through Sault, Welland Ship Canals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The two biggest canals on the Great Lakes began adding up record tonnages yesterday after one of the longest and busiest seasons of Great Lakes shipping.

The season officially closed on the Welland and Sault Ste. Marie canals at midnight Tuesday. Officials said record tonnages will be chalked up.

At least one Great Lakes port noted another kind of record. More European vessels put in at Toronto than ever before. The number has been increasing steadily since the war.

Sault officials expected this year's total will reach almost 129,000,000 tons, compared with the previous record in 1942 of 122,000,000 tons. Almost every month of the season saw a new mark set.

Welland canal officials reported a record tonnage this year, although figures were not available.

MORE SHIPS EXPECTED

Canal officials expected a few vessels to pass through before tying up at Great Lakes ports for the winter.

The canals opened much earlier than usual last spring. The Sault opening was March 23 and the Welland canal March 31.

The Mohawk Deer, her bows docked with Lake Superior ice, moved east through the Sault locks 15 minutes after official closing Tuesday night to become the last ship through in the official season. She was bound for Windsor, Ont., with oats and barley.

NINE SAILED MONDAY

Shipping officially closed at the Lakehead Monday when nine vessels left Port Arthur and Fort William for the Sault.

At Toronto, it was expected the port will have handled about 4,500,000 tons by the end of the year. This was about 282,000 tons more than the record year 1948.

The Canadian Steamships Lines vessel Ramsoyle left Toronto today, the last grain vessel expected to leave here this year. Some oil tankers and sandsuckers, however, were expected to move between Lake Ontario ports up to Jan. 1.

MEDICAL TEAM

KENTVILLE, N.S. (CP) — Dr. John Quinlan and his wife, Dr. Helen Quinlan, have passed their examinations for specialists' certification from the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada. Both are employed at the Nova Scotia Sanitorium here.

SUDDENLY CROWDED

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)— Jack Ashcroft, 27-year-old industrial worker is looking for a bigger home. The number of his children jumped from two to five Tuesday when his wife, Alice, also 27, gave birth to triplets—two boys and a girl.

WELLINGTON

WELLINGTON—Mrs. F. Durant has just returned from a trip to California where she visited relatives for several weeks. This lady, who is in her 80th year, flew by plane both ways and says she wouldn't have missed it for anything.

Mrs. Fred Davis left on Tuesday afternoon for Timmins to be with her son, Mr. Ross Davis, who is seriously ill there.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Stoneberg and Ross left on Thursday for Florida to spend the holidays there.

Mr. Andy Walker spent the week-end in Toronto. His sister, Mrs. Sargent, of Toronto, who has been very ill, is still in a critical condition.

Funeral services for the late Francis Embury, a former resident of Wellington, who passed away in Belleville, were held in the Ainsworth Funeral Parlors on Monday with burial in St. Burr's cemetery.

Sorry to report Mrs. Lewis McPaul is very ill at her home here. She suffered a heart attack while in Belleville and got as far as Mr. Wood's at Allisonville, where they had to stop and call Dr. Bishop. She was then brought home by ambulance. Mr. and Mrs. McPaul were all ready to leave for Florida for the winter when she became ill.

The marriage took place in Wellington United Church parsonage on Saturday, December 12 of William Thurston and Marie Thomas. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Alfred Poulter in the presence of immediate relatives.

Rev. and Mrs. Poulter spent Tuesday in Kingston visiting their daughter-in-law, who is making a gradual recovery from polio.

Mrs. Poulter has been spending some time recently in Belleville with her mother, Mrs. Wooton, who is seriously ill.

Miss Margaret Head was a supper guest of Miss Mary Marvin on Saturday evening, it being Mary's 12th birthday.

Mrs. W. D. Bedell, of Picton, spent Friday with Mrs. Frank Harris and attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Effie Philips.

Among the many from here who attended the first birthday party of the Picton Chapter were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Gibson, Mrs. Jean Hamil, Mrs. Mary Hutchinson and Mrs. Ben Harris. Mrs. Harris was the winner of the prize given for the holder of the lucky ticket.

Several carloads of C.G.I.T. Girls journeyed to Picton Monday night to join in the carol service held by the Picton CGIT.

Anti-Dumping Legislation Now Officially Law; Liberal Senators Oppose Govt. Move

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's new anti-dumping legislation became law officially Wednesday night. It received royal assent in the Senate despite last-minute objections.

The measure, put into effect last Dec. 8 by order-in-council, was opposed by Senator Thomas Crerar (L—Manitoba) who said it is inconsistent with Canada's efforts to expand trade abroad. Senator W.M. Aseltine, acting opposition leader, urged the government to leave the dumping laws as they now are framed.

Following a brief but bluntly-worded debate in the upper chamber, the measure was given three readings, a procedure which usually requires at least two days. Then the bill and 60 other measures were given royal assent by Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret, deputy governor-general.

The customs bill passed the Commons minutes before it was presented to the Senate by Senator W. D. Euler (L—Ontario), a former revenue minister and ex-premier.

Mr. Euler said that the bill would make it possible to set an evaluation for duty on imported manufactures equal to the average price of the goods in the country of origin during the previous six months.

MEASURE UNWORKABLE

In the Commons, George Hees (PC — Broadview) described the measure as having been drafted deliberately so that it would be unworkable.

He said it would take months and "an army of customs inspectors" to determine customs evaluations called for by the measure aimed at curbing end-of-season dumping of manufactured imports at cut-rate prices.

Mr. Hees was one of several Progressive Conservative members who argued against the method of evaluation—a "weighted average" of prices in the country of export during a period up to six months prior to the date of import. The PCs urged that the customs evaluation be based on production and marketing costs.

VIOLATION OF GATT

Prime Minister St. Laurent replied that a production-cost valuation would be regarded by other countries as a "clear violation" of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, the world pact to reduce tariff barriers.

The evaluation method proposed in the bill could not be disputed by the United States government since the U.S. administration had urged Congress to adopt the same type of measure.

The Progressive Conservative proposal did not come to a vote.

However the Commons rejected, by 126 to 14, a CCF motion that the measure expire Dec. 8, 1954. Provisions of the bill have been in effect since last Dec. 8.

Colin Cameron (CCF—Nanaimo) who moved the motion, said the bill gave the revenue minister power to set the customs evaluation. Such power should not be given without some provision for annual review.

Mr. St. Laurent, opposing the motion, said the Commons could review any legislation during consideration of departmental estimates.

Says Reds Guard Prisoners Who Want To Go Home

PANMUNJOM (AP) — A South Korean captive who fled from a pro-Communist prisoner compound said today die-hard Red leaders are guarding some and perhaps four Americans and 30 South Korean prisoners who may want to go home.

The young soldier said compound leaders have stalled Allied explanations to prisoners who refused repatriation because they fear "defections."

He named four Americans who might come home if given an opportunity but the names were withheld by military authorities to prevent possible reprisals.

Far East command censors later permitted identification of one, Cpl. Williams H. Cowart of Sandusky, Ark., because of prior publication in the United States.

The Indian custodial command said meanwhile one of the 22 men returning Wednesday from Red hands to hear "come home" explanations, but later changed his mind and now is standing with the others against explanations. He was not named.

The South Korean Wednesday crawled through barbed wire surrounding the compound holding prisoners loyal to Communism and asked an Indian guard for repatriation. He was returned to the United Nations command the same day.

Bill Provides For Extension Of Benefits

OTTAWA (CP)—Veterans Minister Lapointe Wednesday introduced in the Commons a bill to provide for extension of rehabilitation benefits to some 22,000 regular force veterans who served in Korea.

The benefits are similar to those granted to Second World War veterans. They cover veterans of all three services who left for Korean service before July 27, 1953, date of the armistice.

Previously, regular force veterans in Korea had received gratuities, and had not contributed to the special unemployment credits but not such benefits as settlement grants and vocational training. The 5,000-man special force, which arrived in Korea in 1950, already was covered.

Reserves Judgment

PERTH (CP) — A 71-year-old bankrupt Toronto bond dealer will learn Jan. 5 whether Judge Lewis feels there is sufficient evidence against him to lay him on charges of fraud and theft.

At the end of Walter L. McKinnon's hearing Wednesday, Magistrate D. C. Smith reserved judgment until that time to study the large amount of evidence. The Perth bond dealer was released on $10,000 bail.

During the hearing, seven district residents who lost some $44,000 when Mr. McKinnon's firm went bankrupt in 1951 testified of their dealings with the former Perth school teacher.

Mr. McKinnon has pleaded not guilty to the charges against him.

RCN GETS MINESWEEPER

MONTREAL (CP) — The Royal Canadian Navy Wednesday accepted delivery of HMCS Thunder, one of 14 minesweepers being built at St. Lawrence river ports as part of Canada's contribution to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The 150-foot vessel was formally handed over by Col. G. H. Barrett, president of Canadian Vickers, to Cmdr. P. S. Heath of Ottawa, representing the chief of naval staff.

Wins on Recount

ORILLIA (CP) —John R. MacIsaac became mayor of Orillia Wednesday after a recount of the ballots of Monday's elections.

After the first count Mr. MacIsaac was tied with U. Johnston, each with 1,227 votes.

The recount increased Mr. MacIsaac's total to 1,241 votes. Mr. Johnston received 1,228.

W. M. Cramp, mayor last year, picked up eight votes in the recount.

Judge J.G. Harvie ruled that ticks or check marks would be accepted. The customary mark on a ballot is an "X".

FORMER MEMBER DIES

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—John Willard Freeborn, 68, a former Liberal-Progressive member of the Ontario legislature for Middlesex North, died Wednesday.

Bank Robber Had Nine Years Sliced Off Term

TORONTO (CP)—Bank robber Harry Duguid, 38, of Toronto and London, Ont., had nine years sliced from his 19-year total of 1411 sentences Wednesday by the Ontario court of Appeal.

Duguid, who was once on the RCMP's list of most-wanted men, was sentenced June 15 at Welland to nine years for robbing a branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada at Stamford, in June, 1947, and for escaping from the Welland county jail in August of the same year.

The father of five children had previously been sentenced to eight years for a 1942 bank robbery in Toronto had two years for a series of break-ins in Vancouver.

Duguid's nine-year sentence at Welland included a seven - year term for bank robbery and two years for escaping custody.

The appeal court's action increased the seven-year sentence to 10 years for the bank robbery and ordered that it and the two-year sentence for escaping custody be served concurrently with the previous sentences totalling 10 years.

NANAIMO, B. C. (CP) — A husky 15-year-old boy who police said killed his father with a punch on the jaw after the parent came home drunk was charged Wednesday with murder.

Roy Milton Kenny told police in a statement he killed his 45-year-old father in self defence during a fight in the family home.

The body of George Harold Kenny was found by police after they had been called by neighbours at South Wellington, near here, by his wife early Wednesday.

Police Safety Drive Shows Sharp Decline in Traffic Cases

By DON MATHESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—A sharp decline in traffic accidents has resulted here from a police safety drive. "Ghosts" are giving motorists and pedestrians the jitters.

When the 34th traffic fatality for 1953 was recorded Nov. 18, the 1952 total of traffic deaths was equalled. Then Chief Constable Walter H. Mulligan decided on an all-out safety campaign.

The "ghosts" were increased. Police in civilian clothes now cruise the streets in unmarked cars and light trucks, nabbing traffic violators, whether drivers or pedestrians.

ACCIDENTS DECREASE

In two weeks accidents declined 33 per cent, injuries 26 per cent. Three pedestrians were killed, and another, injured earlier, died. The traffic fatality figure of 36 remained constant during the first two weeks of December.

"We will use every device and method within the bounds of our imagination and the law to apprehend and charge any individual who risks injury to himself or creates a traffic hazard," said Chief Mulligan announcing the drive.

The city is going along with the chief's methods. There has been no organized protest, although the British Columbia Automobile Association has objected to the use of non-uniformed men and a few letters protesting ghost cars have appeared in the papers.

Civic hospital records back up the campaign. The weekly average of 65 persons treated for emergency traffic injuries has dropped to 25; injuries being treated are less severe than before ghost cars were used.

Decisions are stringently enforced. Speeders, even those moving one mile over the 30-mile-an-hour limit are the main target. On the first full week-end of the drive, 384 tickets were issued in 60 hours—including 125 for speeding, 45 for jay walking and 203 for offences in automobiles, such as failing to signal a turn.

The "black November" traffic death toll of nine, turned the all-out drive on pedestrian violators.

A "flying squad" of five men at downtown intersections ticketed 197 jay-walkers in 90 minutes the first day they were on duty. Most charges were for entering intersections against traffic lights.

"Driving a strike most sharply at the over-60 age group. Of the 36 deaths in 1953, 25 have been pedestrians, 17 over 60. Of 1952's 34 deaths, 16 of 20 pedestrians killed were over 60.

Chief Mulligan comments: "What astonishes me is the number of elderly people out at night. . . . Two out of three pedestrians injured or killed when struck by autos are breaking some law at the time."

The drive will continue through the Christmas and New Year holidays. The police chief expects to assess the effectiveness of the campaign after it has been in force for a month.

One Man Killed, One Saved In Sewer Cave-in

TORONTO (CP)—Rescuers dug for four hours in a caved-in sewer excavation Wednesday night to free Mike Caruso, 34, but they could not save his 43-year-old brother, Giuseppe, found dead six feet away from him under collapsed planking and tons of sand.

The brothers, who came to Canada from Italy, were working on construction of a 600-foot storm sewer along Fallingbrook drive in suburban Scarborough Township. They were alone in the sewer when a section of plank shoring gave way and loose sand pushed the plank wall against the opposite side, trapping the Carusos.

Giuseppe who leaves a widow and three children, was caught with his head between eight-by-eight-inch timbers. For some time his brother and the rescue workers could hear his groaning.

Mike lay with his back and legs pinned against a two-foot concrete sewer pipe. While men with hand shovels and crowbars toiled to free him, he chatted with fellow workmen and with members of his family. A doctor twice went down to give him a sedative to ease his pain.

One man crawled 500 feet along the uncompleted storm sewer to move the pipe that was pressing against Mike's leg.

At hospital, Mike was found to be suffering from shock and exposure, scratches and bruises.

One Other Canadian Besides Gouzenko Was Questioned By FBI Says Justice Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Garson disclosed Wednesday that at least one other Canadian besides Igor Gouzenko has been questioned by the FBI in Canada in connection with loyalty probes in the United States.

Mr. Garson informed Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre) that this Canadian—he did not identify him—had been asked whether he would be willing to appear as a witness in the U.S. concerning a possible "criminal charge" against an American involved in a loyalty investigation.

The minister did not give the outcome of the case. For "obvious reasons," it would be "unwise" to discuss the matter publicly.

Mr. Garson said, however, that details of the Gouzenko case, no Canadians have been quizzed in Canada by U.S. congressional investigators.

Gouzenko, former cipher clerk in the Russian embassy here who bared a Soviet spy ring in Canada in 1945, was questioned in Ottawa in 1949 by representatives of a U.S. Senate sub-committee. He is soon to be questioned again by another U.S. Senate sub-committee—the internal security group headed by Senator William Jenner. Gouzenko was also quizzed in Canada on occasions by the FBI between 1946 and 1950.

Mr. Knowles asked if the government would disapprove of the FBI questioning Canadians in Canada on behalf of congressional inquiries except where special arrangements were made as in the Gouzenko case.

ARRANGEMENT HELPFUL

Mr. Garson said he couldn't add to his statement, which covered this point "very clearly."

Previously, in his statement, Mr. Garson said: ". . . The police investigator of one country will never conduct any investigation whatever in the other country unless it is with the full knowledge and approval of the appropriate agency in the other country. . . . Our authorities have always found the FBI meticulous in this regard."

The arrangement was "fully reciprocal" and proved as much advantage to the United States as to the FBI.

In the case of the unidentified Canadian, the FBI had conducted the interview with the knowledge and approval of the RCMP and with an RCMP officer present.

Accused of Strangulation-Murder

Joseph Schreiber, accused of the strangulation murder of his wife in a Toronto apartment, is escorted by a detective after the body of his wife was found. His wife, Norma, had left him three weeks before her death. Police say there is no connection between Mrs. Schreiber's death and the disappearance of Marion McDowell, 17-year-old girl with whom Mrs. Schreiber worked. — Central Press Canadian.

'54 Automobile Built to Run Much Longer

DETROIT (AP)—The 1954 automobile engine, of greater horsepower and higher compression ratio, has been built to run much longer without major overhaul.

Besides the stronger cast iron block, the engine has the advantage generally of better piston rings, smoother and tougher cylinder wall lining and improved carburetion and manifolding. Additional changes have been made in the shape of the combustion chamber on many of the new power plants.

Most of the cars will boast improved braking systems. This has been an annual claim by the auto makers. It takes on greater significance with the advent of the more powerful engines.

To get the fullest braking capacity of the new systems in the quickest possible time, more car makers will have power units in them as optional equipment at extra cost. The power braking systems have been greatly refined since they first were introduced several years ago.

Rich Plains In Argentina May Become Dust Bowl

By CROMARTY BLOUM

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—Argentina's rich plains area, which produces the exports on which the country's economy depends, may become a "dust bowl" unless action is taken against creeping desert, say agricultural experts.

About 93 per cent of Argentina's exports are farm products.

Intensive deforestation which started in 1914 has led to big changes in the semi-arid zone lying immediately to the west of the rich plains.

The newspaper La Nacion says, "We have created in the heart of Argentina the germ of a desert which, like a cancer, threatens the whole country unless it is removed in time.

"We are confronted by a fait accompli. The dry climate with its well balanced rainfall formerly enjoyed by the centre of the Republic has been changed by the action of man.

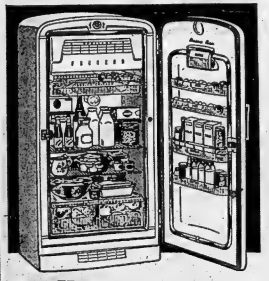
REFORESTATION NEEDED

"The profits made by abusive deforestation and by overstocking degenerating pastures are a mere fraction of what it will cost to repair the damage."

Reforestation on a vast scale, it said, is the only remedy.

The "Review of the River Plate" published statistics showing that in the Ameghino area, lying between the spreading "dust-bowl" and the productive Pampas, rainfall has declined in the last 25 years from an average of 28.3 inches in 1927-46 to 19.6 inches in 1937-46.

The Argentine Rural Society says that even the Pampas, not yet threatened by the growing desert to their west, are in urgent need of soil conservation.



The society said intensive farming during 60 years or more has brought the soil to a state of outright exhaustion.

CAREFUL NOT TO KILL

MANNHEIM, Germany (AP)—Bernhard Prigan testified Wednesday that because of his "Christian responsibility" he did not strangle his alleged rape victims to death, but only to unconsciousness. The 33-year-old German miner, on trial charged with three sex murders and 17 rapes or attempted rapes between 1949 and 1952, said he was always careful not to kill them."

UNDER FIRE

Strongest French criticism in years has been directed against John Foster Dulles, U.S. secretary of state, for his statement that French failure to ratify the European army would force an "agonizing re-appraisal" of U.S. policy. French newspaper called his remarks the "list on the diplomatic table."

Under criticism in Britain is Oliver Lyttleton, colonial secretary, for his views on racial segregation, and for his policy in Uganda, Africa. He said that segregation is necessary to the tourist trade in Bermuda. In Uganda, he removed the king of Buganda province when the king sponsored an independence movement.—(Central Press Canadian Photos.)

Kindly Bandits Place Pillow For Victim's Head

AVONMORE (CP)—Two considerate gunmen held up Merlid C. Nesbitt and his wife in their home on Wednesday night and escaped with $1,000.

Before leaving, the men bound Nesbit and his wife, but put a pillow under Nesbitt's head when he told them he had just returned from hospital after an eye operation and asked them to go easy on him. A neighbor found the Nesbits 30 minutes after the men fled.

Falling U.S. Grain Prices Stirred Political Commotion

By WILLIAM FERRIS

CHICAGO (AP) — Falling grain prices stirred a lot of political commotion in the United States today.

In a decline which started in December, 1951, grains headed downward until August, 1953, after which a rally began. The long decline may be over, the current rally may be only a temporary reboun.

On the favorable side is the fact much grain has been impounded under the government loan. This reduces the amount available in the free market. Despite the recent rise, prices are still below the loan for wheat, corn, oats, and rye.

World supplies of grain are very large. Demand for United States grains from foreign countries is slim.

The government may try to get rid of some of the grain it has acquired through defaults in its loan program, putting it in the free market at a loss.

In this connection, the government announced Dec. 8 that it would subsidize a limited quantity of exports of surplus wheat at the same rate it subsidizes shipments under the International Wheat Agreement. The subsidies will range from 49 to 52 cents a bushel, depending on the port of shipment.

REMEDY ON SPOT

Politically, the drop in grain prices put Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson on the spot, which became downright scorching after the ninth congressional district in Wisconsin, a farm area, elected a Democrat for the first time in history.

Benson must come up with a new farm program for the next session of Congress. The problem simmers down to a choice between high price supports, as at present or flexible ones, which would lower government support levels when surpluses become excessive.

Other political developments included agitation in Congress against imports of oats and rye from Canada.

The agriculture department recommended restriction of oats imports. Hearings were held before the tariff commission, which has submitted its recommendations to President Eisenhower. It is up to the President to proclaim restrictions.

The agriculture department said it plans to make similar recommendations with regard to Canadian rye.

APPROVED QUOTAS

And then there was a vote. In August U.S. wheat farmers approved by an overwhelming majority wheat marketing quotas on the 1954 crop. That assured government support at 90 per cent of parity. Without quotas, the support level would have dropped to 50 per cent.

It was at this period that grain futures on the Chicago board of trade scored their lows for the year, apparently on fears wheat farmers would reject quotas.

All the political commotion was stirred up by the same basic facts which had tumbled grain prices down throughout 1952: a huge supply and a limited demand.

Total U.S. wheat supplies in the current marketing year were estimated by the agriculture department at about 1,750,000,000 bushels, a record. The total 1952 supply of about 1,500,000,000 bushels is down about 120,000,000 bushels from last year, but still-large.

High for cash wheat at Chicago was $2.3 in February, low was $1.71¼ in August; the oats high was 95 cents in January and the low 71½ cents in May.

HISTORIC BATHS

Remains of Roman baths with walls five feet thick were found in 1948 at Canterbury, England.

THERE IS NONE BETTER!

At breakfast you could always get your toast light or dark—your bacon medium or well-done—your eggs, 2, 3 or 4—minus hotel. But your coffee! Well, you just got coffee.

The coffee might be too strong for you—it tasted bitter. Or too mild for you—it tasted weak. Else if you were in the minority—too bad! After all, one pot of coffee can't satisfy everybody's taste.

But then came the revolution—the "Coffee Revolution"! Now the most forgotten "little man" can get just the cup of coffee he likes! Seriously, though, it's the women who make the coffee who brought on the revolution! It was they who discovered the wonderful new Instant Chase & Sanborn, and started serving it for breakfast.

First of all, here's 100% real coffee that really tastes like it. Chase & Sanborn scientists saw to that! They took on the job of producing a fine "instant" worthy of Chase & Sanborn's 100-year-old coffee reputation. They never relaxed till they had succeeded in extracting from the finest coffee beans the color and texture—the rich aroma, flavor and aroma of freshly ground coffee.

Indians Store Winter Meat In Deep Freeze

PRINCE ALBERT (CP)—Indians of Saskatchewan's far north have discarded stone-age methods used by their forefathers in favor of the white man's deep freeze.

At the end of the caribou hunting season this winter the northern tribes will store their winter meat supplies free of charge in a gigantic deep freeze, installed at Stony Rapids by the department of Indian affairs.

The freezer has 8,000 cubic feet of storage space. The warehouse has been built as a means of conserving the dwindling herds of migrating caribou, the main food supply of Indians.

The time-honored practice of the Indians was to shoot as many caribou as they could, store them by piling the carcasses and covering them with layers of snow and brush, if undisturbed, this natural freezer would keep the meat fresh until summer.

WASTEFUL PRACTICE

However, Indian affairs officials and provincial conservation officers considered the method wasteful. Far more animals were killed than could be eaten and wolves and other animals destroyed many piles.

O. B. McNeill, conservation officer at Stony Rapids said that in 1800 more than 2,000,000 caribou made the annual trek from the barren lands. By 1951 the annual migration dropped to 620,000 and 'this year the number will be even fewer.

In addition to providing the freezer, Indian affairs officials and conservation officers are encouraging northerners to build stockpiles of fish as dog food rather than use their own stores of meat. The officials have convinced the Indians of the necessity of killing no more caribou than they actually need.

Lowly Warriors Blast Barons; Bisons Draw

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Surprise of otherwise uneventful American Hockey League exchanges Wednesday was a 5-3 clouting handed by lowly Syracuse Warriors to second-place Cleveland Barons in the toughest game of the night.

Elsewhere, league-leaders Buffalo Bisons played their second straight home tie, 2-2 with Providence Reds; and Pittsburgh Hornets downed Hershey 4-1 to squeeze into a third-place tie with the Bears.

At Syracuse, fireworks flew in the second stanza with five goals—three for Warriors—and free-for-all fighting that led to five penalties, including a major and misconduct for Don Ferry and a major for Glen Sonmor.

Keith Allen and Harry Pidhirny counted two each for Warriors, with Walter Atanas getting the fifth. Fred Sasakoski, Gilles Olson and Chuck Blair notched the Cleveland goals.

At Buffalo, the Bisons twice held the lead on goals by Rollie Rousseau and Joe Lund but the Reds struck back with counters by Al Barrett and Peter Kapustin.

At Hershey, the Hornets went ahead in the second stanza through Bob Bailey's drive from near the blue line. Lorne Ferguson tied it up but Bailey scored again and Danny Lewicki and Phil Maloney sailed it away for the Hornets.

RCAF CF-100s Involved In 37 Accidents

OTTAWA (CP)—Associate Defence Minister Campney said Wednesday RCAF CF-100s have been involved in 37 accidents since the all-weather jet fighter went into service about two years ago.

Six RCAF personnel and seven civilians were killed in 11 major accidents and 26 minor ones. The civilians were killed in a single accident at Ville St. Laurent, Que., when a CF-100 plunged into a row of houses.

Of the 37 accidents, 10 were due to defects in the aircraft, seven to human error, two to faulty maintenance, four to other causes and there was as yet no final finding for the other 14.

Mr. Campney informed Clarie Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South) in the Commons that the CF-100 had undergone minor modifications as a result of the accidents but there had been no major structural changes.

The RCAF had "complete confidence" in the CF-100. It had been designed for the Canada—United States air defence—and was living up to it. There had been no changes in caution was being taken in operation of RCAF plans concerning its use.

New Record Set For Crossing United States

WASHINGTON (AP)—A transcontinental speed record for United States commercial aircraft apparently was set early today when a National Airlines DC-7 completed a California-Washington flight in five hours, 54 minutes.

The DC-7, piloted by Capt. David B. Gannon, 43, and Capt. L. J. Royal, 32, carried five passengers.

Heavy Damage In Burford Fire

BURFORD (CP) — Pumper trucks from four communities raced here Wednesday night to help battle the worst blaze in 15 years in this village, 10 miles east of Brantford.

Starting in a 100-year-old building which was being used for a bakery, the flames destroyed the bakery and an adjoining butcher store. A barber shop next in line was also gutted.

No one was injured. The damage has not been estimated.

Firefighters, hampered by a six-above-zero temperature and scarcity of water, brought the blaze under control just as the flames were threatening the fire hall shortly after midnight. Most of the village's 900 citizens turned out to watch or help.

Pumper trucks were brought in from Woodstock, Paris, Brantford and Scotland.

Newmarket's Don Willson fired a long shot that hit the wire screen behind Nationals' goal. The puck landed on top of the goal and slowly rolled forward. While the crowd roared warning, goalie Ginger Hall peered from side to side as the puck slowly toppled, struck his back, and bounded into goal. Boston Coach Says 'Red' Kelly Best Player In National Hockey League

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

TOUGH SPOT:

The Memos are once again back in the spot where they have to lift themselves by the skatestraps in order to hoist themselves into within striking distance of the occupants of the first floor in this senior "B" apartment group.

At the moment, and it will be a trifle "wussee" if the Peterborough Petes hang one on the surging Orillia team twice tonight in Orillia where the teams clash in the game which was laid over from November 17 on account of the Orillia ice plant machinery blicking up dideos, the Petes are three points in front of our injury-riddled buckaroos. If the Lillock laddybucks do succeed in whupping the Panthes, they will be out in front by five points, quite a hurdle in a loop where "yer years yer money and takes yer choice" is say game.

On the other hand, if the Ponties are true to form and performance and dunk the Petes they will be breathing down the necks of both the top-slot Kingston Goodyears and the slipping Oshawa Trackmen. The Ponties' victory over the Trackmen on Tuesday night consolidated their third-spot position with 15 points, and a win tonight will see them within one point of the top-rung teams.

Friday night the Memes entertain the Goodies from Reddeerville and it should be another of those typical Kingston-Belleville feelers hotties. Coach Walter Dennis said today that he doubts if his injury will permit him to play Friday, but in all likelihood Duke Doran will be back in the line-up.

Bob Taylor will have served his four-game suspension and be back in harness. Bob incurred the match penalty in the game against Kingston on November 30 and since that time the Memos have met Peterborough twice, Oshawa and the Goodyears. Kingston's White, who "suffered" with Taylor will also see action fishday evening.

It should be an all-out battle for the Kingston team for first time this year can occupy undisputed first place if they can tack a fifteenal on our side. On the other hand the Memos will go all-out to win, firstly, because they must grab two important points to stay within a reasonable distance of the other four squads, and secondly, there is nothing they like better than tax-free incomes, a six months' holiday in Florida with all expenses paid, and a ticket as the winner of a Kingston sweepstakes, than to hang a shellacking on their buddies from down east.

THE PERFECT SQUELCH

It happened during a visit to Tokyo and military bases in the Far East of Billy Cavanaugh, former referee, West Point coach and boxer.

Speaking to a gathering of G.I.'s, Cavanaugh was asked by a member of the audience if it was Ed Gavilan who invented the new famous "bolo punch."

Cavanaugh said "No." He told the G.I.'s that the inventor of the punch was Ceferino Garcia, the former middleweight champion. "I happen to know, because I refereed the bout in which Garcia lost to Barney Ross and saw him use the punch several times," said Cavanaugh.

"That's right," came a quiet voice from the soldier crowd.

Now being soldiers and with the usual disrespect shown for each other on such occasions, the G.I.'s chorused "Shut up, y'bum, Whaddya you know about it!"

The soldier stood up. "All I know about it," he replied, not a smile on his face, "is that I am Ceferina Garcia."

Garcia's identification was immediately confirmed by Cavanaugh who told him that the former champion was in the audience. Garcia sat down of his own accord. For nobody there asked him to do so because nobody wanted to be blasted with a bolo punch.

HAYNES SWITCHED RICHARD

It was Paul Haynes, former member of the Montreal Maroons, Boston Bruins and Montreal Canadiens, who switched Maurice Richard from a left to a right winger. Haynes was coaching the Montreal Canadiens Seniors at the time (1941-42) and Richard was the star left wing. However, Maurice always cut over to the right as he approached the defence from his left wing lane and was consistently blocked-off by the opposition's left defenceman. Haynes figured that by playing Richard on the right wing he would be in the clear when he swerved to the right. The switch seems to have worked out pretty well.

SELDOM PRACTICES WITH TEAM!

Bob Goldham, Detroit's veteran 31-year-old defenceman, seldom practices with his teammates. He just skates in practice for about 10 minutes in all. He plays so many minutes in a game (between 28 to 34 of the 60) that the Red Wing management believes it best that he conserve his energy as much as possible. Goldham, a 13-year veteran in the N.H.L., is completely exhausted at the end of each game. He has trouble skating off the ice sometimes, he's so tired.

Better Than Howe or Rocket In All-Round Performance; Rollins, League's Best Goalie

By BEN ULAN

NEW YORK (NANA)—Who is the National Hockey League's best player—Gordie Howe of Detroit or Maurice Richard of Montreal?

"Neither," says Boston Bruin coach Lynn Patrick. "I'll take Red Kelly (Detroit defenceman)."

"Kelly is the best all-round performer in our league," Patrick declared. "Sure, Howe and Richard are good. But Red is not only great on defence, he can score too. In my opinion, he's the big reason Detroit has won five straight championships."

Kelly, 26-year-old native of Simcoe, Ont., currently is fifth among the NHL's top scorers. He has 26 points on 10 goals and 16 assists.

"When Red brings up low, it's something to see," Patrick said. "He sparks Howe and Ted Lindsay and the rest of the Detroit wingers. He's got to stop him. We feel we have a better chance of winning that way."

ROLLINS TOPS

Patrick made another surprising observation by naming Al Rollins of the last-place Chicago Black Hawks as the league's best goalie.

Rollins doesn't get nearly the protection that the others get. But he's looked great against us and with a better defence he'd be right up there with Harry Lumley (Toronto) and Terry Sawchuk (Detroit)."

Lynn thinks his own club, which now is in fourth place and lost 4-3 to the Rangers here Wednesday night, will find itself before the season is over.

"Earlier in the year, I thought we had a good chance of challenging Montreal and Detroit for the lead. But after we lost Bill Quackenbush and Real Chevrefils on injuries we hit the skids. If we're at full strength in a couple of months I still believe we might finish near the top."

The 41-year-old former coach and star left winger and Joe Blasgrass figures the first-place battle between Montreal and Detroit is a toss-up.

"But the Wings have Kelly, and that might be the difference."

Guelph Breaks Big Loss Streak; Whip Flyers 5-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Biltmores just got under the trading deadline Wednesday in a deal with Galt Black Hawks. The move paid off.

The Biltmores broke a 10-game losing streak by defeating Barrie Flyers 5-2 in Guelph Wednesday night.

Hamilton Tigers edged the Hawks 3-2 in the other Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game.

Biltmore coach Alf Pike, seeking to strengthen his defence, dealt forward Chuck Chalmers to the Hawks in return for defenceman John Muckler, forward Hillary Menard and an unidentified junior B player from Hespeler Hawks.

The Biltmores also loaned centre Paul Midghall to Galt for the rest of the season and gave defenceman Mike Cirka his release.

Glen Ramsay now becomes Guelph's highest-salaried player. He started on the right foot, allowing the Flyers a single tally in each of the first and second periods.

McCREARY NETS PAIR

Billy McCreary scored two goals to lead Guelph snipers. Bill Price, Ed Shack and Ed Mateka, whom the Biltmores also acquired Wednesday in a straight deal with Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts scored singles.

John Marian and Bill Hope counted for Barrie.

Bill Steeves went it for Hamilton after the Hawks erased a 2-0 lead given the Tigers by Brian Kilrea and Ed Loutit.

Switching sweaters didn't affect Chalmers and he accounted for half of Galt's total. Bob Wilson fired the other marker for the Galt Hawks.

Guelph plays host to Toronto Marlboros Friday while Kitchener and Barrie and Galt at St. Catharines.

Doug Hepburn Considers Offer To Turn Pro

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver News-Herald said Wednesday in a sportspage story that world heavyweight-lifting champion Doug Hepburn of Vancouver is seriously considering an offer to become a professional wrestler.

Considered a sure winner for Canada in the 1951 British Empire Games trials, Hepburn was reported to be in Oakland, Calif., on the invitation of wrestling promoters Joe and Mike Malcewicz of Oakland.

Hepburn won his world title at the 1953 championships in Stockholm 16 August.

Guelph Goalie Given Release

GUELPH (CP) — Guelph Biltmores of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Wednesday announced the loan of centre Paul Midghall to Galt Black Hawks for the remainder of the season.

They also announced that netminder Mike Cirka, obtained from Oshawa Generals early this season, has been given his outright release. Glen Ramsay will be the regular goaltender.

Ezzard Charles Shows Oldtime Form In Tenth-Round Defeat of Wallace

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Lean, mean Ezzard Charles, the former heavyweight king, showed he is back in the title door again following his fight-night victory over Coley Wallace Wednesday night.

Charles, fighting in the same powerful fashion as when he wore the crown from 1949 to 1951, dropped Wallace in the tenth round before the scheduled end of the nationally-televised 10-rounder.

Although he was in masterful fashion and led from start to finish, Charles' win provided the setting for an argument over whether he should be credited with a knockout or a TKO.

The 30-3 heavyweight contender dropped Wallace, former rival twice in the 10th round. The first one was by a knockdown. Wallace hit the canvas from a right to the jaw. He staggered to his feet and went down again from a right and left to the chin. The time was 2:43.

NO COUNT

Referee Frankie Brown did not count over the fallen Wallace. According to California state athletic commission rules, he should have been called a technical knockout. Brown, in the ring with the commission, said it was a knockout. Judges Eddie James and Tobe Irwin said it was a TKO in their first report but later changed it to conform to the commission rule.

Willie Ritchie, former world lightweight champion and chief commission inspector for northern California, said it was a TKO, but commissioner Ray Peters said he would abide by the referee's ruling.

Wallace, former title challenger from, proved that experience and top condition can overcome such physical advantages as Wallace enjoyed because of his youth and size. Wallace, 25, weighed 201 pounds to 190 for Charles.

Gerry James Put on Decision Spot Choice?—Hockey, Football or School

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Gerry James has a major decision to make next year. He must choose between hockey, football or education.

The 19-year-old Toronto athlete said in an interview Wednesday that by next summer he hopes to have made the decision. Bit right now he's happy doing all three.

As a football player he's already a proven star with two seasons with Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union behind him.

As a hockey player, he's a key defenceman with Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series with the promise of something better next year.

As for education, Gerry is in fifth form at Toronto's Runnymede Collegiate, taking five subjects this year and planning four more in 1954 with an engineering course in mind.

NO CONTRACT SIGNED

James says he plans to return to Winnipeg next June to look over the football situation. He has not signed a contract yet and says he will wait until the Blue Bomber executive and situation is straightened out.

"It all depends on who the new coach is," he said. "How I react to him and how he reacts to me will influence my decision."

At present Bomber coach George Trafton is in Winnipeg attempting to clarify his status with the club.

Born in Regina Oct. 29, 1934, Gerry started playing football with a Winnipeg public school team in 1951. He moved to Toronto with his family the same year and joined the Runnymede team.

Signed by the Bombers in 1952, he returned to Toronto for a whirl at Junior B hockey and was signed by Marlboro, farm club of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, to play defence in the junior A playoffs against Guelph Biltmores. Following this year's football final he rejoined Marlboro's and has one more season of junior hockey ahead of him.

Gerry said that although he has had no pro hockey offers yet, several have been mentioned.

Dufferin Track

TORONTO (CP)—Roll On, owned by Harry Hirsch of Sydney, N.S., and Edna F. Scott, owned by Fawn brothers of Mitchell, shared the limelight at Dufferin Park Wednesday when they each won a heat in the junior free for all trot, the featured harness attraction.

Roll On's time of 2:14 3-5, over a snow-covered track, was the fastest time of the Dufferin season to date.

Spender Lawrence, owned and handled by Jack Bannerman of Stratford, was an easy winner of both heats in class AA trot, the secondary feature.

Chicago Black Hawks Officials Deny Team Moving Out of National Loop

CHICAGO (CP)—Chicago Black Hawk officials again have denied persisting rumors that the club will move out of the National Hockey League.

"It sounds like another guy up in the air," said Johnny Gottselig, former Hawk player and, at present, a front-office man. "All I know is that Mr. Wirtz (Arthur M., Hawk president) recently said the report was silly and couldn't be supported that I know of to make that comment."

A Chicago Stadium spokesman who declined to be identified said: "There would the Hawks get? Hockey has deep roots here. It's not a matter of the Hawks getting players. Those 15,000 people who used to storm our gates for every home game haven't moved away. Good hockey by the Hawks will bring them back."

Bill Tobin, Hawks general manager, has blamed the lack of a farm system in the NHL in part for the team's inability to be built into a solid contender.

Lynn Patrick Protrudes Neck, Rangers Promptly Lop It Off; Rookie Winger Scores Winner

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

New York Rangers took Boston coach Lynn Patrick seriously.

No sooner had Patrick stuck his neck out and commented Boston Bruins needed only to break even with New York in their remaining games to make the Stanley Cup playoffs, when the Rangers developed new hockey life.

The fifth-place Rangers, who have won only eight games in 30 outings this season, scored in the dying minutes Wednesday night to beat the Bruins 4-3 in a National Hockey League game before 5,135 fans at New York's Madison Square Garden.

Ron Murphy, 21-year-old left-winger, gave the New Yorkers the victory with his fifth goal of the season late in the third period.

It was the fifth time the two clubs met this year and the third time the Rangers came out on top.

The win left New York in fifth place with 23 points, seven behind the Bruins.

Nick Mickoski, Don Raleigh and Camille Henry scored for the Rangers along with Murphy. Johnny Peterson, Milt Schmidt and Joe Klukay accounted for the Boston goals.

FIRST-PERIOD LEAD

The Bruins took the lead on Petrosns goal at 10:22 of the first period. Rangers broke out with three goals in the second, while the Bruins got one.

Murphy beat Boston goalkeeper Sugar Jim Henry at 18:19 of the third period after Klukay had tied the game at 14:12.

The Bruins go back at it tonight in Boston against third-place Toronto Maple Leafs. In the only other league tilt, second-place Detroit Red Wings play host to the all-end Chicago Black Hawks.

Will Discuss New Schedule

MONTREAL (CP)—Representatives of junior hockey in Quebec and Ontario will get together soon to discuss a new schedule for the Quebec Junior Hockey League and interlocking a series of games for games with teams of the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A division.

Necessity for the new arrangement followed withdrawal of Quebec Frontenacs of the Quebec Citadelles clubs. Frontenacs were operating in the QJHL and Citadelles in the OHA. After the purchase deal went through it was decided to resume the interlocking arrangement which was in effect last season.

Grid Prexy Calls For Game Unity

SARNIA (CP) — Norm Perry, president of the Canadian Rugby Union, Wednesday night called for unification of rules in Canadian football.

He told a service club that any return to two separate football unions operating under different rules would harm the game. The former Sarnia imperials player hoped Canadian football could be kept "where it belongs, with Canadians governing it."

He said changes in voting power in the CRU which were made this year went "as far as we should go." The changes gave the Big Four and the Western Conference three votes each, compared with two for the Ontario Rugby Football Union and one each for the Intercollegiate and Quebec leagues.

Sport in Brief

BAUCKLAND (CP)—At least 40 New Zealand athletes are expected to compete in next summer's Empire Games at Vancouver as a result of government grants toward competitors' expenses.

This number will probably include three officials and eight lawn bowlers who financed their own trips.

The New Zealand Empire Games Association is insisting that national sports associations donate $200 for each competitor as a check on the sending of below-standard athletes.

The New Zealand teams leave by air July 13 and return from Canada Aug. 13.

A new government announcement Wednesday gave promise of a considerably larger attendance of New Zealand spectators than previously was expected. The announcement said $400 would be allowed visitors to Vancouver for the games.

Normally the dollar exchange is not available except small sums through travellers and limited amounts to business men on essential visits.

The allowance does not include fares, which is payable in New Zealand currency.

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)—An amateur hockey scoring record of three goals in one second has been set by Bill Naismith, former Medicine Hat forward now with Great Falls American in the Alta-Mont Intermediate League.

Confirmation that Naismith's Saturday night feat at Great Falls against Medicine Hat Cantalini was a record came in a telegram from W. A. Hewitt of Toronto, registrar-secretary of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

The previous record was held by Jack Shill, former member of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National League. Playing for Toronto Marlboros against Sudbury Wolves in 1932, Shill scored three goals in 30 seconds.

NEW YORK (AP) — Al (Red) Schoendienst, in his narrowest miss of the National League's leading batter, was tie for defensive second baseman for the third time in 1953.

The St. Louis Cardinals' malady field .283 with only 14 errors in 909 chances, official statistics released by the National League service bureau, show.

Schoendienst, a .342 batter, second to Carl Furillo's .344, easily won out over rookie Jackie Gilliam of Brooklyn and Cincinnati's Rocky Bridges, each of whom fielded .978. Red also was top at his post in 1946 and 1949.

Smooth Belgian Defeats Seixas In Cup Match

BRISBANE, Australia (AP)—Jacques Brichant, 23-year-old automobile salesman, sent United States Davis Cup hopes plunging downward today when he defeated Vic Seixas 6-4, 11-9, 14-4, 6-1 in the second singles match of the U.S.-Belgium interzone finals.

It was not so much the fact that Brichant defeated Seixas that bothered American captain Billy Talbert. Rather, it was the effortless manner in which he turned the trick. Seixas defeat took all the joy out of Tony Trabert's 6-4, 6-4 victory over Philippe Washer in the first match.

Now the best-of-five series is all tied and Friday Trabert and Seixas must play Brichant and Washer in doubles. And it was in the tandem event that Australian experts figured the Belgians had their best chance of salvaging perhaps one match.

Instead, the Belgians now are thinking in terms of sending the challenge round against the Australians later this month.

Saints Nudge Ottawa Senators In League Race

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three closely fought games Wednesday night did not change the Quebec Hockey League leadership but top-flight Sherbrooke Saints put on a spurt to shake second-place Sherbrooke Saints from their roll.

Saints recorded a convincing 5-1 victory over the cellar-dwelling Springfield Indians while Senators beat was a 5-3 overtime tie with sixth place Montreal Royals at Ottawa.

Sherbrooke came from behind to score three goals in the third period and win the game. Gilles Dube, Bert Giesebrecht, and Gerry Eshan. Eric Pogue scored for Springfield.

Ottawa also was dragging 3-1 at the end of the second period, Pat Litzenberger, Skippy Burchell and Carmen Mason scoring for Senators. But a penalty against Montreals Jack Roche set Senators on the rampage which netted counts early in the third period to send the game into a scoreless overtime session.

Leo Gravelle counted two for the winners. Bep Guidolin scored the other.

At Quebec, Aces dropped from a second-place tie to third place when they were beaten 5-4 by Valley field Braves. Braves moved into fifth place as a result of the perfifty-second struggle which also ran into overtime.

Crafty Yankees Get Robinson, Byrd In Biggest Player Deal in History

NEW YORK (AP)—In an 11-player deal, the world champion New York Yankees Wednesday acquired first baseman Eddie Robinson and pitcher Harry Byrd from Philadelphia Athletics in exchange for Negro first baseman Vic Power, outfielder Bill Renna and first baseman Don Bollweg.

The swap, greatest numerically in Yankee history, also involved the Yankees' Kansas City farm of the American Association and the return of $25,000 to the Athletics in the sale of third baseman Loren Babe last year.

Besides the main five, here are the other players involved in the transaction:

The A's sent Babe, first baseman Tom Hamilton and outfielder Carmen Mauro to Kansas City.

In return the A's got catcher Al Robertson, who played with Kansas City and Syracuse, pitcher John Gray of Kansas City and third baseman Jim Finigan of Binghamton of the Eastern League.

In addition the Yankees said they would option two Kansas City players to Ottawa, Philadelphia's international League farm. The Yanks said they would retain possession of the players.

The Yankees said Babe last April to the A's for $25,000 and as part of Wednesday's deal the Yankees will return the money.

Although Earle Mack, Philadelphia vice-president, called it "a wonderful deal for us," there wasn't the slightest doubt that the Yankees thought it was super-wonderful for them.

"This will open the floodgates," said George Weiss, Yankee general manager. "The other clubs will have to scramble."

Players' Plan To Save Sailors Is Abandoned

SARNIA (CP) — Rollie Beauchamp and Dray Savage, player representatives for Sarnia Sailors who were suspended to re-enter the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league, said Wednesday the deal is off.

They said three or four key players refused to join an agreement to run the club co-operatively and the plan collapsed. In Wingham, Trey Gregg, president of the OHA confirmed that the re-entry attempt had fallen through.

A Sarnia contractor, Lorne Hay, had agreed to back the team financially if it were run on a co-operative basis and re-entered the league.

The Sailors dropped out of the league last week after poor attendance caused the team an $8,000 loss. The Sarnia arena commission, which ran the club, gave team members permission to continue on their own.

Dutchies Extend Senior Loop Lead With 3-1 Victory Over Stratford

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen increased their leadership in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A race Wednesday night by defeating Stratford Indians 5-1.

In the third period coach Howie Meeker of the Indians was ordered out of the dressing room by timbed into the stands after a heckler. It was the second successive game that the fiery Stratford coach has been put out. He paid a $10 fine for the last offence.

Dutchmen got a 2-0 lead in the first period on a pair of goals by centre Ken Laufman.

In the third period Mickey Roth scored for Indians while the Dutchmen were short-handed. McKenzie counted for the Dutchies with less than six minutes to play to clinch the verdict.

Fred Pitchich got three penalties including a major. He cut wing Charlie Charlie Brooker over the head for 10 stitches, precipitating a second period fight in which the two got major penalties.

There were 19 penalties in all 10 to the Indians.

FRENCH SANTA — Little Debora Jones, of Lancaster, N.H., walls "that's not Santa Claus," as she meets St. Nicholas, Santa's French counterpart at Metz, France. Debora is held by her father, Cpl. Arthur Jones, stationed with the RCAF's No. 1 Air Division, Metz. The little girl later became reconciled and enjoyed the medieval procession through the streets. (CP from National Defence.)

AT THE McCARTHY — Abbe Lane make an exotic debut in motion pictures when here first role casts her as the sister of bandit queen Julia Adams in the Universal-International Technicolor production of "Wings of the Hawk" in which Van Heflin is co-starred. The adventure story opens today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE CAPITOL—Dorothy Malone and Mark Stevens, as the title character, play some of the most violent love scenes ever screened in the Allied Artists' production "Jack Slade", now showing at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program a top sporting news story "Hot News", starring Stanley Clements and Gloria Henry. Both hits are first showings.

Pakistan Seeks Arms from U.S. Premier States

KARACHI Pakistan (Reuters)—Premier Mohammed Ali today announced that Pakistan is holding informal talks with the United States on obtaining military equipment, but "nothing has been finalized."

His statement to a press conference confirmed persistent reports in the last month that negotiations for military aid were going on. India, Russia and Communist China have already made official protests against U. S. military aid to Pakistan.

All denied that the question of U. S. bases in Pakistan had entered into the talks.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

BARRIE (CP)—Fred H. Lewis, 32, former Camp Borden provost sergeant, Wednesday was committed for trial on a manslaughter charge in connection with the level-crossing death Oct. 26 of Cpl. John Sholis, 28, of Petrolia. Evidence was that an automobile driven by Lewis collided with a slow-moving train at Camp Borden.

Deputy Chairman Of Whole House Is Appointed

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons Wednesday appointed Edward T. Applewhaite (L—Skeena) as deputy chairman of the committee of the whole House.

He will act, in the absence of the chairman, W. A. Robinson, as chairman of the Commons when it goes into committee to study legislation.

TUSK IDENTIFIED

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—A five-foot husk found in a nearby Aldershot gravel pit last week has been identified as that of a prehistoric mastodon, greatest of the hairy mammals to roam the earth. Dr. Herman Kicerekoper of McMaster University here examined the husk and identified it as a mastodon's. Digging at the pit is expected to continue for about four years. Workmen have been asked to watch for further remains of the mastodon, believed to have died about 15,000 years ago.

WOLVES ARE BOLDER

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Alta. (CP)—Timber wolves are getting bolder this winter. Usually they remain at least five miles from town but a farmer within a mile of the main street saw two wolves at his farmyard, within 20 feet of his kitchen door.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Mix a few simple signals with common sense and you can make a good bridge player out of yourself. The fancy doo-dads promoted by experts are wholly unnecessary. All they do is gild the lily.

Stop to consider what an opening one bidder asks of his partner. He knows his contract of one must take seven tricks. He promises to take five of them. So, he expects two from partner.

A partner with no more than two tricks should pass. With more than two he should bid something. Thus, any response other than a pass is a promise of more than two tricks. Simple as that.

South opened with a bid of one club when he held the north hand the hand shown here.

♠ None
♥ K 7 6
♦ A Q 7 5 3
♣ Q 6 5 4 3

North has a count of seven tricks. How does he know? Simply by counting one trick for each high card (ace or king or queen) and one for each short card (each card short of three in any suits.)

The ace, the king, the two queens are four high cards. The void in spades means three shorts in that suit. The four highs and three shorts are a total of seven tricks. A child could count them.

With five promised by south and seven in his own hand, north sees 12 tricks in the pair. Thes are certainly enough for a game in the pair; possibly enough for a slam of some kind.

When a player sees tricks enough for game or more he uses some signal to get it. He may use the signal at once or delay it until the next round. The signal used is a jump bid.

However, there are certain strings attached to a jump. Used at once, it means certain other things besides game. If held back until later, it does not promise the other things besides game.

In this case south would not jump at once. He lacks the other things, an immediate jump promises. This we should talk more about.

A TRE BELLE

Tuxes, Technicolor in Warner Bros. Musical at Belle Moore

Kathryn Grayson stars in Warner Bros. musical picturization of the life of one of America's greatest singers—Grace Moore—in the Technicolor tune-filled film, "So This is Love", showing tonight for the last time at the Belle Theatre.

Make sure you see the whole joyous music-and-love story of Grace Moore—and all the glorious melodies that made her a legend in the land of song.

Merv Griffin, Rosemary DeCamp, Joan Weldon and Douglas Dick all portray important roles as some of the people who were part of Grace Moore's dynamic life on stage and in true life.

The enjoyment of the feature attraction is enhanced with the presentation of a full-color array of featurettes, including a funny Bugs Bunny Cartoon, "Hardy Fer Bugs," a Technicolor Travel Tour, Danis Sport Delight, and the Warner Bros. Newsreel, presenting latest world-wide news events.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY, DEC. 18, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Today for caution in behavior, in dealing with strangers; handling hazardous tasks, machinery, tools, in building and construction. Better achievement if careful, sensible, patient.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Your Venus and other planetary influences indicate a need for moderation, well-considered action. Extremes, sudden decisions taboo. You will gain more, be happier if you take things in stride.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Suppose you do have to slow-up some today? It may be more advantageous to do so; give you time for surer, better judgment; time to reflect when and where to move next. Use your commonsense.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Patience, accuracy and moderation are the "Big Three" to heed now. And all three are possible. Familiar matters, finishing inconsequentials more favored than launching new ventures.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Day has some restrictions. Control emotions and do not overdo things. It is well that we have days like this so that we may "catch our breath," take time to calculate, figure things out calmly.

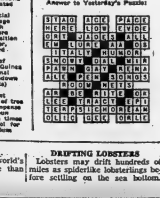
August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Your Mercury among those planets stressing extra care now so that next week's accomplishments may be greater. No day is ever without some promise; some fresh opportunity to use skill, cleverness.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Today is favorable in that it should be distraction-free—giving time for planning a more astute management of work and affairs. Be considerate, genial.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—A good day for energetic Scorpions because it is partly restraining, suggesting quiet tempo for a change. Don't procrastinate, however. Allocate activities properly for best results.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Quite friendly especially if you use commonsense and don't overdo or try to fit two day's work into one. Proceed at reasonable pace. Familiar matters highly favored.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Your usually industrious nature coupled with patience and ambitious attitude should bring good returns now. Domestic and romantic interests can bring pleasure. Be kind.



January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Mildly favorable rays held over from yesterday sponsor the unusual in method and idea; but, on the whole, vibrations warn against extremes.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Day starts quietly but vibrations become more stimulating after midnight. Tomorrow will be favorable for confidential matters, chemistry and many other activities.

YOU BORN TODAY are sincere and generous as a rule, industrious; sometimes obstinate and rash. You can hold position of importance and will be faithful to a trust. You can better your education quickly by study, good reading and observation of others' progress. Pray always for guidance.

Birthdate: Edward A. McDowell, noted music composer; Karl Von Weber, German composer.

MADOC

Nearly 400 Enjoy Band's First Anniversary

MADOC — The Madoc and district band held its first anniversary concert in the Madoc armories on Friday evening last to an audience of nearly 400.

The program, which included select numbers by the well known artists, the Quintones (quartet) and the lyric tenor soloist, Mr. Jan Druit, and others, also featured many fine instrumental works by the band, including old-time semi-classical waltzes, marches and concert numbers.

The Quintones added much to the concert, their splendid rendition of favorite barber shop numbers earned them repeated encores.

LYRIC TENOR

Lyric tenor Jan Druit, a new Canadian, pleased the audience with his fine voice. He sang (in German), "I Send Red Roses to a Fair Lady"; (in English) "Song of Songs" from York, and (in Italian) "Tourneces Sorrente" "Ciel bene mio"; "La Spagnola" "Ladonna a Mobile."

The Hon. Major John Poole, V.C., formerly of Madoc, consented to act as master of ceremonies. Himself a member of the former Madoc band and the son of a Madoc bandmaster, Major Poole congratulated Madoc's new band on their fine performance, and accepted the invitation to be Bandmaster. William Aylesworth to relay with his band for the evening.

VISITING BANDMASTER

A visiting bandmaster, Maurice Bell, of Trenton, conducted for the march, "Garden der Corps."

Much credit is due the efforts of the band's executive for the fine variety and superior quality of the program presented.

Among the visiting band members played by the band were a medley, "Winter's Tale"; "Valse," "The Bluetail Fly" and the beautiful serenade, "The Twilight Hour."

"Old Ireland," a medley of Irish tunes was dedicated to Mr. and Mrs. W. Hawthorne, also to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kincaid, it being their wedding anniversaries.

Hear Fraud Charges Against Bond Dealer

In Perth, Ont., Court

Head of a bankrupt Toronto firm, Mr. McKinnon, former bond dealer, is appearing in court in Perth, Ont., in the preliminary hearing of 33 charges of fraud and theft. Six men and women, all past middle age and some of them long-standing associates of McKinnon, laid the charges. The McKinnon firm went bankrupt in 1952.

Miss K. McCaffrey, crippled by polio, came to the Perth court room in a wheelchair. But when she lost approximately $3,410 through bankruptcy of the firm of Kinnon firm. — Central Press Canadian Photos.

The band featured Mr. Bob Wigle, assistant bandmaster, and accomplished baritone player, as soloist for the evening. His solo, "Old Home Down on the Farm" was accompanied by the entire band.

The recently organized junior band was in charge of the refreshment office and the ushering for the evening.

After the performance the band and guest artists met for a social hour at the home of the bandmaster. It was generally agreed Madoc had not had such a fine concert of this nature for quite a number of years.

While in Madoc last Friday, Hon. Major John Poole, and Mrs. Poole, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Naylor.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Renwick, of Peterborough, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. George Duffin.

OFFERS FARE — Senator R. B. Horner of Blaine Lake, Sask., has offered to pay the passage of Lillane Soudemonte, 22-year-old Belgian girl who worked her way to Canada as a seaman and was shipped back home by Immigration officials. Marmora, Madoc Winner Of Games In District Loop

MARMORA — Two good games of Trent-Valley hockey were played at the Marmora Arena on Monday.

Marmora took on Trenton for the first encounter and won 4-1.

Ireted for Trenton drew first blood scoring at 3.30 of the first. Marmora nets on a pass from Stoliker. Marmora were not long in equalizing as Faranuk registered on assists from Darrah and Loveless. The score was unchanged in the second but early in the third Trumbetse Hall on a pass from Loveless. Sheriff and Jones added another on a neat pass from Manzie. Marmora added another on an assist from Loveless. Trenton tried hard to score again but Killian defended stubbornly. There was only one penalty in the game and that for elbowing.

Madoc and Bancroft gave the spectators another exciting game to-day with Madoc winning 5-3. Neither team scored in the first, taking a little time to settle down but within five minutes of the second, Madoc scored three on which Bancroft still scoreless. Sherry got two counters each on an assist from Greene and the other goal came to Mumby on Reynolds' assist.

Bancroft tried hard to even the score in the third with Lentz bombing least in the game. Fricke drew scored on Brough's assist. Then Brough was successful as he received from Levar. It was Madoc's turn to re-enter next, Heider scoring from Wells and then scored unassisted. Young, Bancroft goalie failed to stop Reynolds' shot on Mumby's assist. There were only five penalties in the game which with the previous game was well handled by Referees R. Scriver of Hastings and C. Puffer of Norwood. Due to weather conditions games were a little in doubt and finally attracted an attendance of about three hundred

New Probe Being Launched Into Shutdown

OTTAWA (CP)—Chief Commissioner J. G. Bisson of the unemployment insurance commission said today a new investigation is being launched into the shutdown of the Paymaster, gold mine at Timmins, Ont.

The commission has tentatively ruled that the 350 mine workers who have been laid off as a result of a lakeo dispute and therefore eligible for unemployment insurance benefits.

However, Mr. Bisson said that in a meeting with representations made, the commission has decided to send over a new inspector to Timmins to find out if there is any evidence of "bad faith" which might warrant a reversal of the decision.

The commission's ruling was based on reported wage negotiations at Paymaster, and a claims officer decided, had led to a mine lockout. However, the commission's Quebec City office announced Nov. 26 that the mine would close today and cited lack of experience and costs.

The Canadian Congress of Labor and the United Steel Workers of America (CIO-CCL) have appealed for a reversal of the commission's ruling, declaring there is no industrial dispute at the mine.

CHURCHILL HOPES

Churchill said that if a "Bermuda" meeting of the great powers had been held in 1914, the First World War "might have been, if not prevented, at least delayed."

The prime minister said the Big Three discussed such questions as trade and "even such awkward personalities as President Chiang Kai-shek and Premier Stalin of Soviet Russia."

"I hope," he added, "I shall not tempt members to ask questions which, in the present circumstances, it would not be in the public interest for me to answer."

DISCUSSED ATOMIC

In addition to discussing the Trieste situation and Britain's oil quarrel with Iran, Churchill said he talked to Eisenhower on "a number of points about the atomic problem affecting our two countries."

"We in Britain have already discovered almost as much as our American friends (on atomic knowledge) and it is probably true that our Russian fellow mortals — because that is what they are—may well know almost as much as either of us," he said.

"At any rate, I hope that results will be forthcoming to recount apparent which will bring Britain and the United States into a closer, more agreeable and more fertile relationship upon atomic knowledge."

Mother's Plea Rejected by Son In Red POW Camp

Mrs. Portia Howe, of Alden, Minn., reads in Tokyo the letter from her war-prisoner son, Pvt. Richard Tenenbaum, 20, rejecting her plea to renounce communism and come home. Young Tenenbaum, one of 22 American GI's who have refused repatriation, told his heart-broken mother he loved her and his home but couldn't go home "impossible" to return. Mrs. Howe said simply: "He was to when he went. What does he know of his country? He will realize his mistake." — Central Press Canadian.

Got Relief From Weak, Nervous, Upset Stomach

Am Surprised How Quickly Syntona Helped Me," Says This Woman. Now Has Relieved of Headaches and Dizzy Spells, "Backache Gone, Sleep Well, More Energy."

"A few weeks ago when I was feeling very miserable a friend advised me to try Syntona and I can't begin to tell you how pleased I am with the way it helped me," said Mrs. Mary Hall, of Unit St. St. Thomas, Ontario, in a recent interview.

Stomach Very Bad

"I was troubled so much with stomach disorders that day after day I didn't care whether I ate or not. In fact after eating even the lightest food I would soon in my stomach, all the while I suffered from spells of headache and heartburn. I would get so nervous and sick headaches. Spots danced before my eyes. My tongue was coated and my nerves were so on edge that I couldn't sleep at night. I had a terrible backache and pains in my limbs, joints and muscles.

Syntona Acted Quickly

"After I started using Syntona it wasn't very long until I noticed an improvement in my health. I felt as if all the upset conditions in my stomach were being relieved. My appetite came back wonderfully and I soon felt as well as ever. I am rid of that terrible backache and pains.

"My nerves are calmed down, too, and the sick headaches and dizzy spells are gone. I can eat anything I like and I sleep well at night. I am glad to tell everyone what Syntona has done for me and will recommend it to any one."

May Help You, Too

Syntona has helped so many people in this way that any one suffering from stomach troubles would be a chance not to try it. It is sold in Belleville at Murphy's Drug Store and many other druggists are recommending Syntona as the result it gives.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan the Druggist.

Experts Try to Determine If Hulls Those of French Fleet

...ts survive 41 relics unveiled but 17th ...

KINGSTON (CP) — Historians and three wooden hulls unearthed near old Fort Frontenac may be the relics of what once was France's Lake Ontario fleet.

Col. John Bracebridge led a British raid across the lake from Oswego, N.Y., in August, 1758, about 12 months before Gen. James Wolfe took Quebec in the battle that brought about the British capture of Canada. Bracebridge burned the French fort here, destroyed its supplies, and, as he wrote later, "set fire to the vessels which lay near the wharves."

Two weeks ago construction men digging trenches for foundation piers for a new National Defence College building brought a power shovel down hard on one of the hulls at the point where historians say the vessels of the French ships sortied to be.

Since then, in the 37 foundation trenches, three vessels have been glimpsed, with the possibility of a fourth.

The contracting firm, with a deadline to meet, could spare little time for historical research, particularly with winter at hand. However, they granted a few days to workers to dig out one of the hulls. The battered bow of the most exposed ship was found Wednesday and taken by truck to Fort Henry for further examination.

FIND SMALL DOCK

The three hulls lie parallel with each other with their bows pointed toward Fort Frontenac and their sterns extending into what once was a small bay. Between two of them workmen found what could have been a small dock—or perhaps was timbering from an old causeway that once crossed the Cataraqui River.

C. H. J. Snider, former editor of the Toronto Telegram and an authority on lake ships, viewed the find. He and Ronald Way, director of Fort Henry, said closer examination of the hulls will be necessary before identification is definite.

Historians say one indication the ships were built in the 18th century is the fact the metal fittings on them appear to be forged rather than machined.

Historians say there is a possibility the relics are those of ships that sailed the lakes more recently than 1758 and were somehow buried in the area when the little bay was filled in some time before the turn of the 20th century.

Millions of Persons Will Hear Queen's Message at Christmas

TORONTO (CP) — Radio's biggest day of the year since the Coronation comes Christmas Day, when millions of persons around family fireside hear the Queen's Christmas message and the world-wide greetings from Commonwealth and Empire points.

The Queen's message this year comes from New Zealand, but the world-wide exchange of greetings which precedes the Queen's speech will be centred on Australia, where Sydney provides a more convenient distribution point for the world-wide hookup. In Canada, the Queen's message will be heard at 10 a.m. EST.

Hundreds of radio men will have spent many days checking transmitters and relay stations at lonely spots to ensure clear, world-wide reception of the Christmas Day broadcast. The 21st century THIS R TUB EY sh rud mmm wide performance of this nature by the BBC.

The Queen's speech will travel by land-line from Government House in Auckland, N.Z., to Wellington, Evan Wallington it goes by radio-telephone to Sydney and to London by broadcast transmitters to Sydney and to London; and by New Zealand navy transmitters to the admiralty at London. Sydney sends the message on by radio-telephone to London, and broadcast transmitter direct to London and also to London via Ceylon and Singapore. These radio paths across the oceans and continents are the communications arms of the huge operation.

The narrator for this year's Commonwealth program is the Australian broadcaster and war historian, Chester Wilmot. The music has been written by the Australian composer John Antill for the Sydney Symphony Orchestra.

CANADA'S PART

Canada's contribution to the program opens in Quebec, where the visit by Elizabeth and Philip in 1951 will be recalled by a choir of French-Canadian school children. A different Canadian scene will be the broadcast from the nickel mining town of Lynn Lake in northern Manitoba, where it will be recounted how the entire community was transported to its present location from Sherridon, 130 miles across the snow.

The program opens from New Zealand, with the Maoris of Rotorua preparing to welcome the Queen in an historic ceremonial feast. Australia's greetings come from a Sydney children's party, followed by the United Kingdom and Jamaica.

After Canada, greetings will be heard from the Pacific islands of Fiji and Tonga, from New Guinea and Korea, Hong Kong, Borneo, Singapore and other Asiatic spots, from India, Ceylon, Mauritius and South Africa, other African territories and then back to the Australian antarctic before the circle is completed with a New Zealand message from Sir Edmund Hillary, conqueror of Mount Everest.

Mark Fiftieth Anniversary Of First Flight

KITTY HAWK, N. C. (AP) — Aviation celebrated its golden anniversary throughout the world today—but especially here at the place of its birth.

Old friends of the Wright brothers, early flying students, relatives, Carolina natives who knew of the inventors, and notables of the aviation fraternity gathered around to pay tribute to Orville and Wilbur Wright, the gentle-minded bicycle makers from Dayton, Ohio, who came to Kitty Hawk in quest of good and steady winds.

Other groups in other towns, and in other lands, planned similar gatherings.

Labor Members Help Government To Defeat Rebels

LONDON (CP)—More than 100 Labor members of Parliament lined up today with the government in favor of negotiations with Egypt to settle the Suez dispute, thus putting an apparent end to a threat to the government by a dissident Conservative minority.

Thirty-nine Conservative members had rebelled against the government's policy of continuing negotiations with Egypt. And had the issue come to a vote of confidence with Labor lined up against the government, the 39 Conservatives voting against their own side could have caused a government defeat in the House of Commons—which would mean its resignation.

LABOR PULLS SURPRISE

But Wednesday night 118 Labor members put up a surprise resolution endorsing the government's aim to reach a settlement with Egypt providing for withdrawal of British troops from the Suez canal zone base.

The government thus went into today's foreign affairs debate, which was to centre mainly on Egypt, with more than one-third of the Opposition behind it. The Conservative majority in the House is 20.

The Labor resolution on Egypt came after the Conservatives defeated a Labor motion, 301-273, censuring the Churchill government for its handling of African colonial affairs.

The Labor party had expressed "grave disquiet" over the manner in which Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttleton dealt with Mau Mau terrorists in Kenya and administrative matters in Uganda.

TELEVISION BILL BACKED

The government also won a House vote Wednesday night on its controversial plan to set up a sponsored television network.

A government bill to set up a public corporation with powers over companies buying advertising time was given second reading without a division. A Labor amendment that it was "contrary to public interest" was defeated, 302 to 280.

The bill now goes to committee for final revision. It would supplement the present service now controlled by the BBC.

CRIPPLED SHIP OFFERS TO TOW TUG

Though buffeted by winds of 75 miles an hour, the Stavangerfjord, top, a Norwegian ocean liner with 1,000 persons aboard, has voyaged without a rudder from south of Newfoundland to the Scottish coast. The captain of the ship refused the offer of the tug Turmoil, above, to be taken in tow and used the ship's two propellors to keep her on course. As it became apparent that the Stavangerfjord was making headway against the gale, the captain sent a message to the Turmoil, cruising alongside; asking if he could take the Turmoil in tow. The tug is the one that tried unsuccessfully to save the Flying Enterprise last year. (Central Press Canadian.)

NATO Chiefs See Little Prospect Of Cold War's End

By STANLEY FRIDDLE

PARIS (Reuters)—Atlantic pact chiefs left for home today with little hope that the forthcoming Big Four meeting in Berlin will lead to any let-up in the cold war.

Their final communique Wednesday night at the end of a three-day session declared Russia still aims at world domination. The West, therefore cannot permit any easing of its "policy of strength." The idea of meeting Soviet strength with strength will be fully tested for the first time at the for-eign ministers' conference in Berlin. Although the Atlantic leaders doubt that the Kremlin will accept the Jan. 4 date proposed for the meeting, they believe the conference will have taken place by the time of their next council session here next April.

Laniel Tops Third Ballot For Choice French President

Most of Bidault Votes Being Given to Leader

VERSAILLES, France (CP) — Premier Joseph Laniel today won a third ballot in elections for a new French president but failed to get the required absolute majority. A fourth ballot was held at 8:30 p.m. (2:30 p.m. EST).

Both houses of Parliament, meeting jointly at Versailles Palace, gave Laniel 326 votes to 313 for Socialist candidate Marcel Naegelen and 225 for Radical Socialist Yvon Delbos in the official count.

Laniel's chances to become president had been rising steadily since he trailed on the first ballot Thursday. Before today's voting, Foreign Minister Georges Bidault withdrew his candidacy. Most of his votes apparently went to Laniel.

RECORD SET

The number of ballots required was unprecedented. Never before, the legislators began electing the chief of state after the Franco-Prussian war, had the two ballots been required.

The French constitution requires about four hours since each member of Parliament must walk to the podium and drop his secret ballot into the urn. A majority of votes cast is necessary for election.

On the second ballot, Thursday, Naegelen, former governor-general of Algeria, had led with 299 votes to Laniel's 296. Delbos had 233 in the National Assembly and Senate.

LANIEL FOLLOWS

Trailing Naegelen on the second vote were Premier Laniel, a right-list Independent, 278; Yvon Delbos, a Radical Socialist (moderate) and pre-war cabinet minister, 185; and Foreign Minister Bidault, of the Catholic - dominated Mouvement Republicain Populaire, 145.

The other 10 candidates on the first ballot were cut off the ballot although 20 votes were scattered among them in the second poll.

Though the president is largely only a ceremonial post with almost no power, the candidates' views and beliefs played a big part in the corridor politics accompanying the race for the sought-after post.

The Communists after the first ballot threw their support to Naegelen because he and the Socialists oppose the European army.

20,000 People At Lautoka To Greet Queen

LAUTOKA, Fiji Islands (CP)— Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh flew today to what correspondents have called "a flower-decked paradise."

Some 20,000 people waited in the streets of this town on the north coast of the main island of the Fiji group to greet their Queen, who was flown from Suva, the capital, in a flying boat.

The Queen and the duke were received by H. G. R. McAlpine, district commissioner. They had lunch in the new residence kept by the Fiji governor, with a breath-taking view of the nearby coral islands. The house was built beneath green Fijian mountains, and is surrounded by tropical flowers.

As the royal couple approached the house, men dressed in bark cloth and grass kilts performed a native rhythm on three-inch drums at the entrance to the house's compound, 20 warriors carrying war clubs and looking fierce in their war paint formed a "guard of honor."

The luncheon menu included Fijian crabs, and prawns cooked in coconut milk.

GREETED BY CHILDREN

After the Queen and the duke drove along avenues where giant shady acacia trees formed a green tunnel. At one part of the drive, 6,000 school children waited beside the ocean-front road.

Here the Queen kept up her usual habit of letting a few members have the best view, the car slowing almost to walking pace.

Further on, arches painted palm leaves and scarlet flowers curved overhead along the road. Before coming to Lautoka, the Queen visited Suva's Roman Catholic cathedral, where Rt. Rev. L. S. Stimpfhuber, Bishop of Polynesia, met them.

The Queen appeared tired after Thursday's tremendous reception on their arrival in Fiji in the hot sunshine.

Wheat Surplus Said Guarantee Against Hunger

MONTREAL (CP) — Despite hardship imposed on Western farmers by current wheat surplus this year will act as a guarantee against future hunger, Montreal university professor said Thursday.

Commenting on year-end wheat figures, Prof. David L. MacFarlane of McGill University, economics and University school of agriculture, said the surplus will serve as a buffer for Western farmers against any crop failure in the next few years.

Farmers had been unable to market more than one-sixth of the total crop of 290,000,000 bushels—second largest in Canadian wheat harvesting history—due to a surplus of 365,000,000 bushels at the end of 1953, but there was little reason for pessimism on the world wheat situation.

Prof. MacFarlane said Canada cannot export in a normal year at the level maintained during the recent large-crop years. A normal crop next year would cut the surplus.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: An increasing flow of cold air over the lakes brought windy skies Friday morning to many parts of the province. Heavy snowfalls occurred in several areas as winds blew off the lakes. The cloud cover kept the minimum temperatures 5 to 10 degrees higher than on Thursday morning.

Somewhat drier air brought partial clearing in northern Ontario but little change in temperatures. The cold spell which began Tuesday is expected to continue on Saturday.

U.S. NAVY PLANE WRECKAGE SEEN ON BLEAK GLACIER

Iceland-Based Craft Carried Crew of Nine

LONDON (AP)—Wreckage of a missing U. S. Navy patrol bomber was sighted today on a bleak Icelandic glacier. First reports said there are survivors among the nine-man crew.

U. S. Air Force headquarters in London said an Icelandic ground rescue party will be rushed by plane to a small airfield at the foot of the glacier.

An American air rescue plane from Iceland reported sighting the "badly broken up" wreckage this afternoon after a 24-hour search by 10 planes and at least two Danish ships. The spotter plane said the wreckage was sighted on the Dalakjoull glacier on the south coast about 110 miles southeast of Reykjavik.

The PBY bomber was on a round-robin training mission from Keflavik airfield, near Reykjavik, when it disappeared. It last made contact with its home base by radio Thursday afternoon when it was about 200 miles south of Iceland. All aboard were Navy fliers, the spokesman said, adding that heavy rain and snow cutting visibility to zero were during the early part of the day, but was improving later.

Settle Wage Dispute

CHICAGO (AP)—Settlement of a wage dispute between the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the U.S. railroads was announced Thursday night in a joint union-management statement.

Reached after seven days of negotiations, the agreement will give cents an hour to present wage rates and ends the cost-of-living escalator clause provision which has been in effect since April 1, 1951.

Wage increases totalling 13 cents an hour which have previously been paid on a temporary basis now become part of the basic wage rates.

The statement said that about 200,000 of its members are affected by the new wage rates.

New Pyramid Uncovered Near Cairo Is Oldest, Dating Back 6,500 Years

By GILBERT SEDBON

CAIRO (Reuters) — Egypt today announced the discovery of the oldest dressed-stone building in the world — a pyramid which dates from some 6,500 years.

The discovery was made by Dr. Zakaria Goneim, 40, an archaeologist of the Egyptian department of antiquities at Sakkara, 16 miles south of Cairo.

The pyramid belongs to the second dynasty of Egyptian pharaohs. Goneim's nearby pyramid of King Zoser of the third dynasty was always considered to have been the oldest dressed-stone pyramid.

The outsize tomb which Zoser built for himself is 200 feet high and is gradated in a series of deep steps.

Goneim said the work of clearing the earth covering the newly-discovered pyramid is being accelerated. He is anxious to reach the underground burial chambers intact, as they might throw light on the hidden story of the pharaohs.

Goneim has been digging in the area for some years and had always held that discoveries would be made which would open a new look into ancient times.

The new pyramid was discovered buried under a hill. The department of antiquities said the base covers about 15,600 square yards. This makes it a bit smaller than the Great Pyramid of Gizeh, the pyramid best known to tourists, which covers 23,100 square yards.

Today's announcement did not say how high the pyramid is, assumed that only the foundations of the pyramid have been discovered. Superstructures of most of Egypt's many hundred pyramids have been carried off throughout the ages for use as building stone.

Cheops' Great Pyramid, dating from the fourth dynasty, about 4,000 B. C., is one of the most examined, and was restored several times by later pharaohs. It is 481 feet high and contains 6,000,000 tons of dressed stone in blocks.

Ring and Woman's Small Hat Hold Spotlight in Murder Case

MORRISBURG, Ont. (CP) — A ring and woman's small black hat held the spotlight at the preliminary hearing of 2nd Lieut. Peter Balcomb, who faces a charge of murder in the knife-slaying of a pretty Quebec girl.

The ring and the hat came up Thursday as the slain girl's younger sister and mother testified with six other witnesses at the hearing's opening.

The hat was among other articles of clothing exhibited by the crown as belonging to Marie-Annie Carrier of Bleuville, Que., whose nude, stabbed body was found in a ditch near here Oct. 15. Police found the clothing in the attic of a tourist cabin near Woodstock, a few hours after Balcombe was arrested Oct. 18 at his London, Ont., home of his wife's parents.

Crown attorney R. P. Milligan held up in-turn a salmon-colored topcoat, a pair of silk panties, a garter belt, bracelet, slip, a slightly nylon stocking, a black silk purse and small black hat trimmed with bright sequins.

Each time from Maria Therese Carrier, the dead girl's sister, came the same words: "It belonged to Annie."

SAID BALCOMB'S RING

Therese then identified a gold ring with initials engraved inside. She said she believed it was the ring Annie had received by Balcomb some time last February.

Under cross-examination by defence counsel G. M. P. Kelly, she said that on the night she received the ring, she had not seen Balcomb the night of Oct. 12.

Balcombe's face. From the kitchen door in the Carrier home, he had seen a man in an army uniform kneeling in front of her sister with his head bent forward, but "I could only see his back," she said.

A record was called and she left the witness box and sat in a chair and wept for a time. At about the same time, her mother, waiting in another room to follow her daughter as a witness, fainted.

When Therese resumed her testimony in the courtroom, crowded with spectators and 14 newspaper men from Canadian and United States papers as well as one British newspaper man, Mr. Kelly sought to get her to:

"The best you can say of this hat is that it is similar to one owned by your sister, is that not correct?" he asked.

"I don't know. I am certain of that. I was with her when she bought it," Therese replied.

TELLS OF MEETING

The mother of the slain former RWAC sergeant's wife told Annie Carrier told of first meeting the young officer Jan. 31.

She said Balcombe had supper at their home that night and was in civilian clothes. He returned afterward.

It was in the latter part of February or early March, she said, when Balcombe gave Annie the ring. She said she did not understand it was an engagement ring.

The last time she saw her daughter, Mrs. Carrier said, was March 14. She said she last saw Balcombe the night of Oct. 12.

Lips Reddened by Final Kiss, Carl Hall and Mistress Die

Larry Hall, who wrote the following story on the Hall-Beatty execution, was one of three reporters who watched the kidnapper-slayer die in Missouri gas chamber.

By LARRY HALL

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)— Lips reddened by a final kiss but silent on the missing ransom mystery, Carl Austin Hall and Bonnie Heady Beatty died together in the gas chamber early today for the kidnap slaying of six-year-old Bobby Greenlease.

The pair refused a final official request for a statement on what happened to half the record $600,000 ransom paid for the millionaire father of the child they abducted and murdered Sept. 6.

Instead, they spent their last minutes in their cell exchanging fond farewell embrace, shared a final cigaret, bid their Missouri prison guards goodbye and died side by side amid swirling clouds of cyanide gas.

Mrs. Heady, 41, plump and darkhaired, mustered a parting wink for the lawyer at the door that bound her to the death chair.

Then the cold, wasted lover had words for none but her after both had prayed with the prison witness who attended the midnight execution.

Hall died first, gulping in the poison fumes.

SUCKED BREATH

Mrs. Heady seemed reluctant. She appeared to hold her breath. Then suddenly she sucked in deeply the first shrill, her lungs labored for two minutes and then after calculating her body had slumped motionless.

Dr. Donald Shull, a prison physician, commented that her breathing lasted longer than any person he had ever seen die in the gas chamber. No other woman has died in Missouri's gas chamber.

The killers' final conversation, it taste about 30 minutes, was in a small detention cell just off the gas chamber. With them was a federal marshal, William B. Tetman. The pair were not visible to the official witnesses who filed by the slide on a cot in the cell.

As he stepped out of this cell to its clamber side the death chamber Hall's lips were reddened as if from lipstick. Tetman said after the execution, confirmed that the two had given each other a final embrace and kiss.

"You wouldn't want to deprive them of that," Tetman said.

Hall was puffing on a cigaret when he approached the gas chamber. He passed it to Mrs. Heady, who took a final puff.

SMILED AT WITNESSES

Tatman stepped into the gas chamber with the two. After the straps had blindfolded them and strapped them to the chairs, the witnesses filed in. Mrs. Heady smiled at them.

Witnesses seemed to this question a task to find out if either knew what had happened to more than $200,000 of the ransom money they collected in Kansas City Oct. 20. That was missing when they were captured in St. Louis Oct. 6.

Both shook their heads, and Mrs. Heady said aloud: "No."

As the death chamber was being tightened about her chest, Mrs. Heady, with a little chuckle, told reporters:

"It's tight—I'm not going anywhere."

Then she called out to Hall:

"Are you going, honey?"

"Yes, mama," Hall replied.

As the official witnesses walked through the darkness of the prison courtyard, Christmas decorations were being put up. Trees were placed on the trees and bushes, flickering lights were turned on soon after the execution.

Elaborate security precautions had been made, with extra guards and highway patrolmen brought in to augment the regular force, but none were not needed. There was no outcry against the convicts.

As the parade of witnesses followed the death cars on the two-mile trip from the prison to the funeral home, a few persons stood and watched.

Reds in Malaya Renew Ambushes Of British Troops

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (Reuters)—A new wave of ambushes against British troops was reported here today as the communist campaign against the Communist underground showed signs of flaring into new activity.

Two Britons were wounded and a railroad handcar derailed in the incidents.

A government statement today said it has been learned definitely that the Malayan Communist central committee made a decision to intensify the "shooting war" at a meeting some months ago.

Masked Gunmen Take $20,000 From Que. Bank

VARENNES, Que. (CP) — Provincial police were searching today for two masked gunmen who held up a branch of the Provincial Bank of Canada here Thursday and made off with an estimated $20,000.

It was the fifth holdup of the bank in four years.

The men forced bank manager Jean Jacques Dion and employees Jacqueline Desrochers and Lucille Deschemin into the vault before taking the money from the till.

A provincial police spokesman said the amount the men escaped with had not been definitely established but was believed to be around $20,000.

HEROIC BANK MANAGER SHOT BY LONE GUNMAN

Managed to Phone Police Before Dying

NOTRE DAME DE STANBRIDGE, Que. (CP) — Police said a heroic bank manager, in the throes of death, telephoned them today after being shot by a lone gunman in the local branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale.

The bank manager, Ovila Courville, was believed alone in the small branch when the masked man entered. Details were scanty but police reported the dying man managed to telephone them about the holdup.

Mr. Courville died about 30 minutes after being shot. One report said he also called his brother before collapsing.

Notre Dame de Stanbridge is about 50 miles southeast of Montreal.

It was the second bank holdup in Quebec within 24 hours.

Missing Kingston Girl Is Sought In This Area

KINGSTON (CP)— Police continued a search today for attractive Helen Marie Joyce, missing since last Tuesday morning when she left the home of her grandmother to go to school. Failure to find any trace of the 15-year-old girl led detectives to believe she has left town.

Helen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Joyce and was a student at Kingston Collegiate and Vocational Institute. She was last seen Tuesday morning when she left to attend classes at the secondary school. Her disappearance was not reported to police until Wednesday morning, since her parents thought at first believed she had spent the night at the home of her grandmother Mrs. Mary Lambert.

It has since been discovered that the girl did not attend classes.

Thursday, city detectives combed both the city area and the Cataraqui district but did not known to have friends. A similar search of the Trenton area is planned.

When last seen she was wearing a pale green coat over a blue plaid skirt and a cream colored sweater. She is known to have favored a pony tail-type hair-do.

Indo-China Reds To Free Africans On Christmas Day

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Ho Chi Minh, chief of Communist forces in Indo-China, has ordered Christmas Day liberation for two hundreds of French North African prisoners held by Communists, it was announced today.

French forces fighting the Communist rebels in Indo-China include a large number of African soldiers from French colonies. The action applies only to the African troops and not to any white members of the French Foreign Legion.

'Nike' Guided Missile Battery Installed to Protect Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—The army announced Thursday night the first "Nike" anti-aircraft guided missile battery is being installed at Fort Meade, Md., primarily for the protection for Washington, Baltimore and other military targets in the surrounding area.

It also discussed officially the first time some details of the faster-than-sound weapon designed to seek out and destroy, "regardless of evasive action," invading enemy aircraft.

It said the nike system, to be extended to other vital areas of the east and west coasts and the northern half of the country, "will provide defended areas with a far greater degree of anti-aircraft protection than was ever before possible with the more limited ranges and altitudes of conventional anti-aircraft guns."

An official motion picture of the nike system, showing it in action destroying a radio-controlled B-17 bomber 23 seconds after the missile was launched.

The distance to the target was not disclosed in the film. However, it is believed the speed of the nike is approximately 1,900 miles an hour and that the distance, in this particular demonstration, was about 40 miles, or about 10 miles.

The film brought questions from reporters as to whether the nike could hit targets faster than the relatively slow B-17—a Second World War bomber with a speed of about 250 miles an hour—and at greater distances.

The answer given by the army was affirmative in both cases, a spokesman declaring that the nike can "knock down a jet-powered aircraft of any known capacity."

Planes Arrive For 6 Men Lost In Wilds 11 Days

Trekked Through Bleak Land After Their Plane Crashed

SEPT ILES, Que. (CP)—Planes landed today at isolated Lake Manicouane to rescue six men missing for 11 days after their plane disappeared in rugged northern Quebec during a heavy snowstorm.

Two ski-equipped Beaver aircraft put down near the lake and took off shortly after to bring the men to this iron ore centre, 360 miles northeast of Quebec City. The first of the planes was expected to land here about noon.

Details still were lacking on how the men managed to survive in the bleak, frigid terrain. They left the lake by the Department of Transport weather station at Lake Manicouane, 150 miles west of here. A radio message said they were all in good condition.

One report said they had built their twin-engine Anson aircraft had landed on a hill about 20 miles from Lake Manicouane and that they had gradually made their way to the weather station.

However, veteran bushmen said it was hard to believe that a log could put down on a hill and all aboard walk away unhurt.

Aboard the plane when it disappeared Dec. 8 on a 224-mile flight from Rose Bay, Labrador, to Sept Iles, were George Stapley of Sept Iles; Doug Dolby, Clint Burley, and Garnett Burley, all of Toronto; Wilmer Tubman of Chesuncook, Me., and Dick MacKinnon of Middleton, N. S.

CLOUDY WEATHER

The weather was cloudy and a light snow was falling as the rescue planes took off from here at 9 a. m.

The men were to be given medical examinations on their arrival here and, if found fit, allowed to continue to their homes.

Search for the missing men had been stymied by cloudy weather.

All six were reported well and uninjured when details of their trek through miles of wasteland in the sub-freezing temperatures were skimpy.

They had been lost since December their plane, a twin-engine Anson, disappeared during a raging snowstorm on a flight from Rose Bay, Labrador, to Sept Iles. The flight normally takes 2½ hours.

The fact that all made the trek together unscathed was all the more remarkable as it was only eight days less than two months ago that seven men were rescued after being missing for 11 days in the Chibougamau district of Quebec when it ran out of fuel.

That was only 2 and 100 miles away from the spot where the men turned up Thursday. They are construction company employees who were building a small railroad in the area.

BRING MEN OUT

When the men reached the weather outpost Thursday, the news was radioed to Sept Iles and plans made way for their rescue.

When the men started they had provisions for about four days but believed they rationed their food to make it last longer and probably supplemented their supply by eating edible roots.

No word had been heard from the men since they set out on a routine flight transferring workers employed on railway construction until they turned up. The plane was owned by CEMIK Construction Company.

475 Employees Of Kingston Nylon Plant Laid Off

KINGSTON (CP)—About 475 employees of the nylon plant of Canadian Industries Limited here will be laid off for two weeks beginning Monday, D. R. Cooper, plant manager, said today.

Part of the plant will be closed down, he said. There to be laid off—about half the plant's working force—would be asked to return to work about Jan. 2. They would be paid for Christmas and New Year's Day.

Mr. Cooper blamed unsettled conditions in the textile industry for the layoff. Some parts of the plant making nylon for other mills and knitting mills would continue production.

Another plant of the company at Maitland, near Brockville, will continue operation, he said. It supplies raw materials to the Kingston plant.

MOST OF STUDENTS AT O.S.D. ON WAY TO HOMES

The remaining 200 students at the Ontario School for the Deaf will leave today for the Christmas vacation. The school reports 90 left on Thursday and another 100 went early this morning. Fourteen students will remain at school for the vacation.

Approximately half the students from Albert College left by train for various parts of Canada this morning and the remainder are scheduled to leave this afternoon.

Colored Lights Taken from Trees On Front Lawns

Colored lights adorning Christmas trees on front lawns are being raided by bulb collectors making night-time raids to acquire a personal supply without the formality of paying for them. Two trees vandalized on the East Hill, one on Charles Street, and the other in Parkwood Heights district, reported to police that outside trees had been raided for colored lights. The woman on Charles Street said her tree had been stripped of lights, while in the other instance many lights were missing and the "natural" tree was damaged.

Police warned that offenders will be severely dealt with.

Bell Prepares For Flood of Long Distance Calls

Long distance operators are preparing for the busiest Christmas Eve they have ever experienced, G. W. Proctor, Bell Telephone manager here, said today.

The company expects that a record volume of calls will be made during the holiday season. It is estimated that 3,600 calls will originate here on Christmas Day, not to mention the huge tide of messages that local residents will be receiving by telephone. Last Christmas Day 3,450 calls were placed here representing a 13 per cent increase over the average December day of 3,050 calls.

To help telephone users avoid delays and get greater satisfaction from Christmas greeting calls, Mr. Proctor offered this suggestion: "If you know the number of the person you are calling, give it to the operator. This eliminates a call to the 'Information' at the distant centre and speeds up the completion of the call."

Earlier early in the fall the Bell Company has been making plans to cope with the expected flood of calls during the holidays and reserve operations will be called upon to help.

Wherever possible, extra equipment will be lowered into service, and circuits will be temporarily arranged to handle the normal pattern of Christmas calling. However, because of heavily loaded circuits, delays and inconvenient calls will be unavoidable, particularly on Christmas Day. This will not apply especially on calls to the Maritimes, Western Canada, the United States, and to overseas points.

More calls will go through promptly if placed before or after Christmas Day, Mr. Proctor said.

There are 365 persons handling long distance traffic for Belleville and Trenton this Christmas, working in shifts, to deal with the Yuletide traffic, which is expected to increase greatly early during Christmas Eve.

"Naturally, the girls would prefer to be home with their families, friends and relatives on Christmas Day," remarked Miss H. I. Harris, chief operator, "but we all get a sense of satisfaction from doing an important job. Of course, the operators receive holiday pay but there's a truly heart-warming glow from helping others to exchange greetings with their loved ones."

Objection to Size of Fund Raised to Pay Cheese Loss Registered at Annual Meet

Objection to the size of the fund likely to be established by the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board through its two-cent per lb. licence fee instituted to pay the loss on cheese sold to Britain, was heard at the annual meeting of the Hastings county cheese producers' association held at Stirling Thursday.

Bessey Robson, M.L.A. for Hastings East, raised the question, asking officials of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, what the Marketing Board was going to do with the fund for which the two-cent licence fee will be collected throughout 1954.

He noted that the loss on the 10 million pounds of cheese re-sold to Britain would have to be paid up by June.

WILL BE SPRING CONTRACT.

Everett M. Biggs, Ontario dairy commissioner, who was guest speaker at the meeting, reminded that the Marketing Board will have to negotiate a spring contract with Britain and having some money available was the only way whereby they would be able to accept the generous offer should it be below the Canadian domestic price.

"And if we don't export there will be a surplus here and we'll get a depressed price," he said.

He noted that it would take $450,000 to pay the 1½ cents on the cheese recently exported. The two cent licence fee was expected to realize the fund about $1,200,000.

"We are building up a fund to subsidize exports of cheese. In the long run it will put more money in the pocket of producers, and will make for stabilization and more independent," he said.

REVIEWED OPERATION.

Attending the meeting besides Mr. Biggs were W. O. Coon, president of the Ontario producers, and Charles N. Heath, secretary of the association.

Mr. Coon reviewed the operations of the Marketing Board particularly activities since 1951, which he said have been a disaster for the producers. Base of the trouble in the cheese industry during the last two years has been the lack of an export market.

He referred to the recent sale of ten million pounds of cheese to Britain and said that while the price of 25½ cents was not as high as was published, the marketing board felt they could not afford to turn down the offer and then expect to sell cheese to Britain when their dollar exchange troubles were settled.

"We were also fearful of carrying over a surplus of cheese into 1954 and what that surplus would do by way of decreasing prices."

OFFER MADE TO HELP.

He reminded that Britain could have got along without the purchase of Canadian cheese, but had made the offer to help out the Canadian industry in this country.

"Britain is still looking to Ontario as the supplier of high quality cheese and we should look at it with the idea of Empire trade and help Britain wherever possible."

Mr. Coon urged producers for their fullest co-operation in the June set-aside and assured that the advertising of cheese had paid off by way of higher domestic prices.

He referred to the color ban on margarine and said producers should make it clear to the Ontario government that they wanted the protection ensured.

FACTS IMPORTANT

Mr. Biggs congratulated Mr. Coon for bringing the affairs of the marketing board before the producers and stressed the value of proper public relations. "Facts are important," he said.

The speaker said cheese increased production at mills for 1954 with an estimated 17.3 billion pounds for next year as compared with 16.7 billion pounds in 1951. It was expected more would be milked in Ontario next year.

Mr. Biggs supported the policy of subsidized export cheese and disagreed with claims in some quarters that it was economically unsound.

"It is wiser to get surplus cheese out of the country or allow a depressed price?" he asked. The sale of surplus cheese as handled by the Marketing Board was the right solution, he maintained. It would have been unfair to ask producers to accept a lower price when the solution was at hand.

BOARD'S FEE

He referred to the two-cent licence fee being deducted on all cheese to raise a fund for paying losses on export cheese and at the same time said it was unfair to ask the producers to subsidize the whole dairy industry. "And that is exactly what is happening," he said.

Mr. Biggs also stated that soon after the sale of cheese to Britain had been made there was a 12-cent increase in the price paid for powdered milk. Also producers of fluid milk were feeling happier because surplus cheese had been moved out of the country.

The feeling that cheese production could be done away with subsidize the entire industry was catching on. Fluid milk men were unanimous in their feeling that a surplus fund be set up to allow for disposal of surplus to be sold on world markets.

STILL LEGAL WRINKLES

Fluid milk men were now asking the government to do something about legislation permitting milk in the form of cream, still legal wrinkles to iron out, however.

Greater co-ordination in the cheese industry was needed. Two important conventions coming out of the cheese conference at Belleville last year, the fluid producers and members of the trade should sit in on discussions regarding future policy, that the cheese producers marketing board was the right body to export cheese out of Canada, and that cheese was the right surplus dairy product to export.

Already the producers and the marketing board were getting together in discussions and it was with the approval of the trade that the sale of cheese was made to Britain.

Mr. Biggs referred to the edible oils act which prevented the sale of substitute milk dairy products and spoke of recent convictions gained under the act. He was hopeful that the courts would find the legislation fair for all concerned.

URGED BOARD SUPPPORT

In conclusion he urged support for the Marketing Board. "It is your association and the support of all producers is needed," he said.

He noted that some producers had grown weary of their criticism of the marketing board which would have been stronger with more support. He hoped for a better stabilized industry next year, but if this did not materialize he asked that producers be not too quick to criticize, but remember successes of the past and not the troubles of the moment.

C. N. Heath explained the manner of cheese payment being made to farmers and urged that all factories make certain that farmer's compensation is cleared for their cheesemakers and their location so that no accident could prove costly and the law said the factory was responsible.

WOULD LEAVE SELVES OPEN

Mr. Heath urged that production not be allowed to drop below what was required for home consumption and that producers would leave ourselves open to imports and the introduction of oleo substitutes.

Roscoe Robson, M.L.A., referred to certain claims that the price of cheese could get too high, and in view of the present attitude, he claimed. Prices for all other commodities were at an all-time high. Why not cheese, he asked.

W. E. Sandercock, M.L.A., for Hastings West, paid tribute to Marketing Board and Producers Association efforts and pointed out that cheese should have more advertising. George Pollard, factory instructor, called for co-operation on the part of factory patrons in shipping high quality milk. One way to encourage increased production of cheese was to maintain highest quality.

Lloyd Mitchell, fluid milk producers, said members of the Belleville fluid milk producers were unanimous in the feeling that a fund should be set up to

$500,000 Filtration Plant Put in Operation This Week

TRENTON (Special) — Trenton's new $500,000 filtration plant unofficially went into operation this week flushing supply lines and reservoirs. Giant pumps forced the first 5,000,000 gallons of river water through the system which was installed to alleviate the growing strain on the town's spring water supply.

The plant was designed to deliver between 1,000,000 and 1,500,000 gallons of fresh water a day but in an emergency the daily capacity can be boosted to 2,000,000 gallons. The intake is located north of No. 1 dam on the east side of the river.

Construction started about a year ago behind ahead of schedule. The staff of five officially take over after the first of the year.

SCARCITY OF BAIT.

Cold weather has brightened the shanty fisherman's outlook to some extent. But the ice anglers still have a shortage of live minnow bait skirting them in the face. Regular supplier George Squire of Bay Street worries about having to turn away customers empty-handed for the first time in years. Seasoned fishermen have no explanation for the prevailing scarcity of minnow bait.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Price groups were lower in light trading on today's stock market.

Industrials, the recent leader, led the downward trend, followed by base and western oils. Golds showed a nominal loss. Uraniums and New Brunswick base metals slipped.

Steels and utilities remained lower and refining oils slipped further. Banks were the sole bold-out against the lower trend as they showed a few small additions.

Western oils slipped although price changes were slight. The groups biggest price change was Canadian Colleries 20-cent gain, 78 it recovered from Thursdays eliehi predfishing drop.

Base metals showed several losses tended to both juniors and seniors, but the downward change was small. International Nickel, down 25 cents, was the biggest change in seniors.

Golds slipped only a little as Dome, East Malartic and Pickle Crow lost small amounts.

Queen Alexandra School Choir Gives Concert

On Wednesday evening the senior choir of Q.A.S. entertained the folk of the Hastings County Home, with a varied program of Christmas carols, recitations, and dance numbers. The choir, composed of pupils from the grade eighth, sang unison, descant and three-part music with fine effect. Assisting them were Judith Mott, Linda Lennox and Ann Burgoyne. Mrs. William Burgoyne accompanied on the piano for the group sing-song and the choir numbers. Mr. Ray Lennox played for Linda's dance numbers.

The entertainers were warmly welcomed by Mrs. York and the appreciation of the audience left nothing to be desired. Mr. York thanked the group and extended an invitation for a return visit next year.

These young people are to be congratulated both for the excellence of their program and for this fine example of thoughtfulness for others. Their willingness to share the wonder and happiness of this season exemplifies the true spirit of Christmas. The choir was composed of the following members:

First soprano: Carol Bacon, Peggy Campbell, Lynda Peoples, Sheila Green, Jean Muirhead, Joan Joslin, Alice Jewell, Dorothy McKenna, Sandra Newman, Peter Ireland, Leslie Shulman, Donna Rolston.

Second soprano—Carolyn Daniel, Dick Agar, Linda Hogg, Dianne Trill, Pat Squire, Bob Reeves, Walter Richards, Beverly Durno.

Alto—Jane Evans, Frank Bryant, Gilbert Mastine, Don McNevin, Stuart Parry, Gordon James, Karen Kelleher.

The entire program was under the direction of William Burgoyne, vice-principal, Queen Alexandra School.

URGE SWITCH TO WHEAT

The Japanese Parliament is endeavoring to alter the eating habits of its people.

It has approved a motion calling on the Japanese people to reduce rice consumption in favor of wheat. Such a resolution would receive scant attention in any western nation. But the Japanese are a docile people. Perhaps they will eat as instructed. Perhaps, if their legislators almost force the change, economic factors will still promote it.

Rice is scarce; wheat is plentiful. Moreover, most of the major wheat-producing countries enjoy stable economics. And, bit by bit, means all, of the world's rice produced in eastern lands which are strife-torn. Moreover, their ever-growing populations are making a severe drain on the rice produced, leaving less and less available for export to such rice-importing countries as Japan.

Some earlier suggestions that wheat be substituted for rice as a staple food in the Orient have been met with the retort that wheat is of a food foreign to the Asiatic. Cosmopolitanism Americana states that the Chinese claim to have used wheat as a food 2,700 years before the Christian era. Vast quantities of wheat are still grown—and exported—in northern China. India, too, is a major wheat-producing country. European countries normally produce a little more than half of the world's wheat crop of 3,500,000,000 bushels or less. The United States is the greatest wheat-growing country in the world, but other lands which produce more wheat than they consume are Canada, Australia and Argentina.

In most of the wheat exporting countries, scientific advances have brought the possibility of substantially increased yields, as Hungary East switched from rice to wheat there would be a reasonable hope that the wheat-producers would be capable of meeting the demand. Not a shortage of Asiatic production of wheat but the difficulty which would face the importing countries in financing their purchases appears to be the greatest obstacle in the path of carrying out the Asiatic diet of Asiatic peoples.

An alternative course suggests itself. The Ottawa Journal, in a recent editorial, notes that "the amount of dollars now spent by wheat growers would never have been possible without the development of varieties such as Marquis, the achievements of the scientists at the Central Experimental Farm and other institutions who have distributed seed to their Canadian needs."..

The paper declares that the varieties of wheat available in the 1880's, when Canada was opening her harvests of the West, would not have been able to build the great economy of today. "Drought, frost, grasshoppers and disease lay in wait for the early settlers," continued the Journal, "and all too often in the early days ruin instead of a winter in California was the reward of the farmer."

But the determination of Marquis wheat, and "whole catalogues of varieties designed to fight off innumerable enemies" changed all that.

What science has done for wheat it might very easily be able to do for rice, too, increasing yields and by the development of new strains widening the area in which this grain can be successfully produced.

As for wheat, the Encyclopedia Americana says that "it is evident that there are vast areas of fertile virgin soil yet to be brought under wheat cultivation."

A CASE OF EXPEDIENCY

Britain and the United States have released five more German war criminals from prison.

In one instance the released German was originally sentenced to death in 1948 for ill-treatment of Allied nationals. The woman in the present case was later commuted to life imprisonment, afterwards reduced to 10 years. Now he has been freed, five years after being sentenced to death.

There have been other cases involving similar facts.

Without knowing all the pertinent facts in each case, no person is qualified to say that the release of these men is not justified.

But one fact is painfully obvious. A death sentence and a five-year prison term cannot possibly both be appropriate sentences for the same crime. Either the war criminal now released at first received an indefensibly harsh sentence or he is now being permitted to escape paying the just penalty for his crimes.

The fact that there have been many cases following the same pattern would seem to indicate that there has been a change in the thinking of Allied courts. Any explanations occur, neither of them reflecting much credit on the Allies. Either the courts which originally tried these Germans were too severe in their sentences, or else their thank a desire to mete out justice. Or else the officials who are now granting amnesty are primarily concerned not with justice but with the necessity of allowing the cooperation of the German people in the defence of Europe against the Communist menace.

GIRL FRIENDS UNDERVALUED

A few weeks ago an editorial here dealt with the delicate problem of a woman's worth. At that time several female auto workers were suing the Ford Motor Company for what they described as discrimination. The sums involved, including remuneration for insults suffered, placed a female auto worker's worth at something more than $5,000 a year.

Girl friends, apparently, are worth less. Approximately half as much, according to a court decision in Vancouver recently.

It seems that a 26-year-old Vancouver man threatened to shoot his former girl friend if she went out with anyone else. Before he could carry out his threat he was arrested. Last week he was ordered to post a $2,500 bond to keep the peace for one year or serve six months in jail.

We feel that the judge showed an uncommon amount of common sense in binding the defendant to keep the peace for one year. In that time it is quite likely that his emotions will have become stabilized as well as his trigger finger.

But we feel that the judge was being unfair to everyone's girl friend, as well as to aspiring girl friends of all ages, to set a price of $2,500 on their preservation. It is apparent that girl friends are worth more than that. Aren't they?

Was Invasion Planned?

(London, Eng., Recorder).

Field Marshal Kesselring, commandant of the Luftwaffe during the war, has this week sparked off a major controversy among leading historians over the origin of German affairs—did Hitler intend to invade Britain?

Kesselring, in his memoirs published a few days ago, maintains that a big invasion was neither closely planned nor did it receive active participation.

This conflicts sharply with many opinions published during the past few years. Not the least that of Sir Winston Churchill himself.

Mr. Alan Bullock, the Oxford historian, claims in his book, "Hitler, a Study in Tyranny" the actual words used by Hitler when he signed the directive fixing the middle of August, 1940, as the date by which preparations must be completed for invasion.

"As England, in view of the hopelessness of her military position, has so far shown herself unwilling, in spite of my compromise, I have decided to begin to prepare, and if necessary to carry out, an invasion of England."

Hitler, for a number of reasons, changed his mind. Russia developed cold feet, and Keitel blamed it on Goering's failure. Further has decided that from now until the Spring, preparations for Sea-Lion (the name of the invasion) shall be continued solely with the purpose of maintaining political and military pressure on England.

Mr. Bullock says "Nothing that has happened recently has caused me to alter my conclusion."

"The evidence, he admits, on the question of invasion is 'contradictory and confused.'

"It is not a thing on which one can be too dogmatic, but as I remember," said Mr. Bullock, "no decision had been made in advance. When Hitler had been defeated in France he would have left the question open."

Kesselring, in his book, says that if Hitler had enthusiasm for it, he showed it only in private and then cancelled. Evidence is in no way conclusive one way or the other."

Eating Contest Needs Rules

(Edmonton Journal)

The eating competition, that old favorite at country fairs and picnics, has gone international. An American pie-eating champion, hard recently staged a contest at Ste. Sebastien in northern France for the honor of their respective countries.

According to the Swiss newspaper Pour Toux, the American pie champion ate a pie, then a roast chicken, four pounds of beefsteak, six sausages, twenty-four bananas and a bucket of ice cream. The Spaniards dipped their handkerchiefs in Bilgay beef, a whole tuna fish, four pounds of asparagus, six bananas and six apples and a few ice-cream cones. The battle was declared drawn.

It strikes us that this contest, considering its great importance, was conducted in a rather slapdash manner. The extremely varied diet adopted by the two champions makes precise comparison of their intake almost impossible. Take, for example, that whole tuna the Spaniard consumed. Tuna vary in size, some reaching a length of ten feet and a weight of 1,500 pounds. If he demolished one of these he certainly deserved the crown. On the other hand, if it was just an 18-inch job of twenty or thirty pounds, it might not be sufficient to distend the Latin citizen's roast chicken and six sausages — especially if they were to be of the spreading variety as beloved in southern Europe.

We suggest the judges decided to call it a tie!

In the old-time contests, things were much more precise. The contestants were confronted with a massive meal, say, two-three berry pies of standard size, and victory went to him who could eat the greatest number in a given time, score being kept with a stop watch. Such scientific methods like this will have to be adopted before the world's eating championship can be fairly decided.

Lots to Learn

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

The hunting season has ended in the province now, but the number of accidents and the number of court cases involving illegal hunting during the season indicates we have a great deal to learn about safety and sportsmanship.

This is a nice age for a man or woman to start entering second childhood.

And if we could only get a little responsible for what happens we would be. The basic characteristic of the adult is that he recalls the child's only interest is life is naturally and wholly selfish. At the far end of second childhood, the child comes right back, full circle.

But if we expect a child of six-teen to have achieved some appreciation of its social responsibilities, we should not necessarily allow a person of fifty-four to escape some of the same responsibility, and start down the pleasant path up which we all came.

And give 'em sixteen years, instead of a few final months, a hundred years from now, it will likely be as ridiculous to make children work and worry as it was a hundred years ago to employ child labor.

WANTED: AN A1 MEDICAL SCHOOL

After graduation from high school a student who chooses a medical career has to continue another ten years in school —four years in college, four years in medical school, then a year's internship, or both, approximately. Requirements vary slightly from state to state.

Ten years, or thereabouts, is an excessive portion of productive life to pay for preparation.

Maybe I just show my ignorance when I say that the best went straight into medical school from high school, received my M.D. degree after four years of medical school, served nine months' hospital interne, received my licence to practice medicine and surgery, established another 9 months in hospital service while living over the brick store and hung my shingle on the Four Corners in Pea Soup, on the clothing store.

The globe was one of my first mistakes. The sign painter was unduly impressed by the fact that I intended to practice medicine and surgery (that's the way all state licences read at that time) it was in the Empire State, at that time.) So he painted the sign:

Dr. Wm. Brady
SURGEON
& physician

You could read the word Surgeon a block away. To read the rest of it you had to get up on the fence and get a map. That first winter few people found me out.

Now I ask you, is the doctor who has had ten years of schooling 100% or 5% better than one who has had five years of schooling?

Whether or no, the price you pay for medical care is affected by requirements for this ten-year plan. I do not mean to imply that the return to sanity in medical education would cut your bills 50%.

For that matter, even if we had A-1 medical schools in all parts of the country, where students could enter upon the four-year course upon graduation from high school, to get the M.D. degree, and then a year of internship to get a licence to practice general medicine (not any specialty) anywhere in the country, without being required to contribute to the support of the politicians on medical examining boards—if we had such ideal training for "ordinary" or family doctors, a lot of you $500 moths would still go for the bricks and cialists.

There are many medical schools in the Class A division, and presumably still some of Class B level, though I don't want to be associated with a second rate institution.

But at present there is no Class A 1 medical school in America—not in the United States.

Because here in Yankeeland, where everything else drives a more expensive car than he can afford, "education" is not good enough to tell us which palin-killer to use when we have the tremendous choice of what kind of glorified sugar to put in the baby's bottle. In living for profit, there's no demand for such a school.

Red Fiction Mechanized

(Montreal Gazette)

The U.S. High Commission in Germany has been making a study of current German "popular" fiction. The study reveals that the East Germans are being fed an "overdose of Soviet Realism" fiction: it's completely mechanized.

The lover's heart beats like a new pneumatic drill, his sweetheart's eyes shine like rivets in a tank factory, his shoulders are as broad as a tractor and their affair is run by the regulations of a collective farm.

This is the type of thing the modern Russian has been brought up on, while his formerly agricultural homeland has been forcibly recoded to fit the machine age. East Germany, we understand, was also primarily agricultural, is undergoing the same process.

Though the methods are greatly enhanced by modern communication systems, the attitude is oddly out of date. The world has long since become decustomed to machines. The process began a hundred years ago and it was gradual. There was no need to make the machine a god.

In the "workers' paradise," of course, the worker counts for much less than the machine. Workers are plentiful and machines are scarce.

The danger is that even when machines become plentiful, this attitude will remain, where some measure of individual dignity is retained. The West, thus, will remain free.

It man, indeed, no more than an imperfect machine, to be used, worn out and discarded in the service of the state? That is the meaning of the system which Communism imposes.

The East Germans do not seem "converted" so far. One of the most striking photos of the anti-Communist riots in that area showed armed German workers throwing bricks at one of Communism's most adored machines—a tank.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BLESSING OR CURSE?

Did the Wright Brothers do the world a great service or a great disservice when they invented the airplane?

There are many who will say that they did it a great disservice. Airplanes are used for terrible crimes. We would have no fear of Russia were it not for the airplane. The best that can be said for it is that it saves time in travel, but of what value is that if we do not have some useful employment for our time?

Such reasoning would seem to be the reasoning of cynicism and despair. No inventions or discoveries ever takes the world either forward or backward—it simply exposes man's compunities, and by so doing makes it possible for him to do more good or more evil.

Is the automobile a curse or a blessing? depends on who is behind the wheel. Will the speeding up of life bring us happiness or unhappiness? It will not be the engine, unhappiness; but if we use the new opportunities to raise life to higher levels and achieve more humane goals, then its inventors and we all to the good.

We are too near Kitty Hawk to exclude the significance with absolute accuracy, but by and large the world appears to go forward with every new discovery. And don't let us get sentimental about the good old days of yore; they were awful.

WINTER FRIENDS

The martin house is taken down.
Now empty are the robins' nests.
The sparrows still remain in town.
Content to be our winter guests.

A blue jay now and then appears.
At times the pheasants pay a call.
Their shrill cry grates upon the ears,
They have no gift of song at all.

And yet without such creatures brave.
Who dare to stay when others flee,
The place were silent as a grave
And dreariler would winter be.

The PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

If we live long enough, we usually enter what is called our second childhood. This is often confused with senility, which means the decline of strength and mental faculties that we have lost sense. Second childhood is often the most amusing period of our lives, and there are any number of old people around us to prove it.

In fact, the time may have come when we ought to consider lowering the age at which second childhood may be permitted. We should we not be able to enter our second childhood at fifty instead of sixty if there in our late seventies and eighties? Modern medical science says that, with the improvements in health in recent years, the world is almost starting to fill up with elderly people, leading to serious problems ing the problem, and figuring on raising the age at which employes have to retire.

This is entirely the wrong approach. Lower the age limit of second childhood, for the same reason that we raised the school age limit to sixteen, and half the world's woes would vanish. The old age pension was a modest, hesitant step in the right direction. But if we are ready to spend immense millions on keeping children at school until they are sixteen, we ought to be able to face the facts arising out of the other end of the scale. If seventy is the allotted span, then sixteen off is a reasonable deduction.

And if we could only get a little responsible for what happens we would be. The basic characteristic of the adult is that he recalls the child's only interest is life is naturally and wholly selfish. At the far end of second childhood, the child comes right back, full circle.

But if we expect a child of sixteen to have achieved some appreciation of its social responsibilities, we should not necessarily allow a person of fifty-four to escape some of the same responsibility, and start down the pleasant path up which we all came.

And give 'em sixteen years, instead of a few final months, a hundred years from now, it will likely be as ridiculous to make children work and worry as it was a hundred years ago to employ child labor.

TODAY'S TALK

CURIOSITY—A CHALLENGE

Curiosity is behind much of our progress, especially in this Western World where there is freedom of thought, so that anyone can attempt the solution of any problem of his imagination. Inventions keep trying one after another until they arrive at some point where they begin to see the light. Many an accident in the chemical laboratory has happened because the experimenter was too curious!

A child's first attentions are curious. It wonders. It burns its fingers on a hot stove and that experience cures it for a time. It won't touch them again! We are curious about the weather, curious about authors of books, the lives of people who dare and take chances. Goldsmith was curious about what a single engine could do on a flight across a great ocean, he would never have even attempted such a thing. The world may well regret that man ever became curious about the splitting of the atom. We can become too curious for our own good, though, but this is intellectual curiosity, is what has given to us most of our joys, comforts and luxuries of life.

In my city, whenever a tall building is being erected there are crowds that gather on the opposite side of the street, curious about how such a thing is done. Behind that structure is made. I have often come upon a group or a ed the crowd, as curious as I, as to what caused it and how it was to end, I have read where it has been stated that both Montaigne and Bacon were victims of exaggerated curiosity.

Dickens and Gissing wrote of the poor of London because they were curious and wanted to learn all about how the other half lived." Dickens wrote about the more colorful and humorous side and Gissing about the tragic elements which make for horror and in which he was interested. It takes bravery to be curious about some things.

The Trial

CHAPTER 24.

Naturally, Paul's enemies did not know that he had been visited in his cell and reassured by his Lord, Jesus Christ. If they had been told the facts, they would not have believed them. They were occupied with their own important business — the immediate destruction of Paul.

Now, Paul's sister, who lived in Jerusalem and who had lovingly housed Paul in his student days, had a son. Of his nephew her story was to know little except at this desperate crisis in his uncle's life.

Mother and son heard of a bloodthirsty oath taken against Paul. By the underground system of communication, without which the early Christians might have perished, they learned that forty zealots from the Temple had sworn to destroy Paul before they again ate or drank.

Breathlessly Paul's nephew came to the cell in the castle Antonia to pour out the news. Paul listened attentively, then ordered a centurion to take the panting young visitor to Lysias, the tribune.

With eyebrows raised, Lysias took the lad aside with him privately. "That is if you have to tell me."

Breathlessly, the boy gave him the details:

"The Jews have agreed to ask you to bring Paul tomorrow into the council — as if they meant to inquire something more certain concerning him.

"But do not believe them! For there lie in wait for him more than forty men, who have bound themselves by oath neither to eat nor to drink till they have killed him."

As they stood together, secluded on a balcony overlooking the courtyard, Lysias pondered this highly dangerous and exploding problem. Soldiers were killed and a report went back to Rome that Lysias had allowed a Roman citizen to be slain by a conspiratorial mob. Lysias would be removed as tribune. He might even wind up a slave in the galleys.

He felt a heavy hand on the boy's shoulder: "Tell no one about this. Hold you accountable if anything goes wrong. No one can reassure your mother that all will be well with your uncle."

Instantly Lysias sent for his officers, and issued emergency orders. A troop of 200 foot soldiers must know that I know. But you and 70 horsemen and 200 spearmen must be ready that very night — to escort Paul as a secrecy out of Jerusalem, and into the hands of Felix, the governor of Judaea.

Puzzling orders those! Even the soldiers knew that Governor Felix was one of the most dissolute and power-designed men in public office. His brother was Emperor Nero's favorite rakehell companion, and thanks to that Felix had been from slavery to the governorship, and married three times on the way. He was a most unwise ruler.

But in sending Paul to Felix, Lysias freed himself of all responsibility in the matter — all worries about street riots, and hunger conspirators, and Temple judges. By late afternoon of the next day, Paul was standing before Felix in the palace at Caesarea. Five days later his accusers from Jerusalem arrived, and the trial began.

When he faced his accusers, Paul felt perfectly confident that God would indeed be in his mind and heart to prompt him.

The spectacle of the throne room, Felix in purple and gold, and all the bearded attendants grouped around, could not intimidate the adventurer of the three missionary voyages. Nor did the sight of the crowds, straining against the ropes that ran on three sides of the great hall. Those gaping loafers, he knew, could turn into a mob of defenders or accusers, as a few days before he had seen worshippers transformed into lynchers in the Temple. Still, Paul was not disturbed.

They led him forward to stand at the left hand of Felix. Paul's eyes searched his accusers, now bathed and refreshed after their swift journey from Jerusalem.

Chief among them in his white robe with its fringes and phylacteries, was the new high priest, Ananias, present as chief prosecutor of Paul, a kind of ecclesiastical district attorney. But there was one younger man, who stood with Ananias and his cronies. A vigorous fellow, very busy with scrolls and screeds, he was forever clearing his throat, rolling his eyes, and sizing up the crowd, as if serving notice that he was the star of the cast and when the action started he would see a very remarkable performance indeed. This was Tertullus, outstanding orator of Jerusalem, hired by the Temple powers as their trial attorney.

Tertullus launched his attack with almost demoniac impetuosity. For hours he spoke before Felix's court, piling infancy and blasphemy up against the name of Paul. His wringing hands, his upturned eyes, the horrified sighs that rolled between his lips, all expressed the loathing of a well-ordered and tranquil society for such as this Christian tentmaker.

Lake, standing with Timothy near the stone walls of the hall, wrote down the gist of that prolonged denunciation. He reported how Tertullus began by praising Felix as the restorer of peace to the province; a bold, unblushing falsehood. And how he denounced Paul as a seditionary character, who had profaned the Temple.

When Tertullus was finally done, Ananias and the rest of the ancients rehearsed Paul's history in carrying treason throughout the Imperial territories.

In that moment Felix ceased to be bored.

Paul's ringing voice, although subdued, was clear and distinct to the farthest corner of the Herodian Hall. He stood quietly, hands at his sides, and let the truth pour forth from him. He had taken no thought what he should say, and now the Holy Ghost was in him as he addressed the governor:

"Still with his eyes, that glowed like coals, straight on the palling face of the king, Paul continued . . ."

"Knowing that for many years you have been judge over this nation, I will with good courage answer for myself."

In a brief but eloquent speech Paul explained exactly what this "heresy" and "subversive activity" amounted to — the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Simply and calmly, he recited the facts.

Then, quite abruptly, Felix interrupted him.

To the astonishment of the deputies from the Sanhedrin and to the mortification of that star performer Tertullus, the governor let it be known that he was not satisfied with the prosecution's case. To get at the truth he was sending to Jerusalem . . .

And with these words Felix adjourning the trial: "When Lysias, the tribune, shall come down, I will hear you."

That adjournment lasted two full years. Two slow-paced, idle years Paul lived as a prisoner in Felix's palace. Lysias never came, and no one knew why.

The governor refused to take action against the prisoner; nothing could force him to bring the case to a conclusion. Yet he also refused to set Paul free, although at times he seemed on the verge of doing so.

Then, at the end of two years, Felix was governor no longer. He was replaced by a man named Festus.

So now Paul was in chains while a new governor stepped in at the helm of his fate.

No sooner had Festus landed, than the graybeards of the Temple brought up the matter of Paul. They banqueted the new ruler, and flattered him, and suggested that he turn Paul over to them for judgment. But Festus, who understood their motives, smiled politely, and announced that he himself would hear the case — in Caesarea, and not in Jerusalem.

Once again Paul stood in the palace throne room while the Temple powers thundered their indictment against him. All the old accusations of trouble-making, blasphemy and treason were recounted.

Festus listened, then curtly ordered Paul to answer.

Paul's reply was stingingly brief:

"Neither against the Law of the Jews, nor against the Temple, nor against Caesar, have I offended in anything."

The past ten days had softened Festus' resistance to the blandishments practised upon him by Ananias and his retinue of Temple aristocrats, who had received the governor with lavish and flattering hospitality. So bending forward and smiling a little, the new governor asked:

"Paul, will you go up to Jerusalem, and there be judged of these things before me?"

Paul's answer was instantaneous and majestic. Once more he spoke as a citizen of the Roman Empire, one who knew his inalienable rights:

"I stand at Caesar's judgment seat, where I ought to be judged. To the Jews I have done no injury, as you very well know. For if I have injured them or have committed anything worthy of death, I do not refuse to die. But if there be none of these things whereof they accuse me, no man may deliver me to them.

"I appeal to Caesar."

Festus sat back in his chair as if he had been pushed. Then he fixed his sobered eyes for a moment on Paul.

"Have you appealed to Caesar? Then to Caesar shall you go!"

And that settled the governor's problem nicely. He was rid of the whole difficult business of Paul!

That decision was a terrific blow to the chief priests; they saw their prey slipping from their hands. But a sudden turn of events brought them new hope. King Agrippa II, a great friend of the Temple powers, was coming with his sister Bernice, to welcome the new governor. The urgent Agrippa to hear the case himself, hoping that as their friend he would overrule Festus' decision — the command that Paul be sent out of their jurisdiction, to Rome.

And Luke, ever faithfully present in the background of the crowd with Timothy, recorded the defence of Paul before King Agrippa:

"I think myself happy, King Agrippa, because I shall answer for myself this day before thee touching all the things whereof I am accused of the Jews: especially because I know thee to be expert in all customs and questions which are among the Jews: wherefore I beseech thee to hear me patiently."

Painstakingly and lovingly Paul retold the story of his new life, from the time of his conversion on the road to Damascus through his mission journeys, recalling the beautiful truths of Christianity. And, in conclusion he said:

"Having therefore obtained the help of God, I continue unto this day, witnessing both to small and great, saying none other things than those which the prophets and Moses did say should come: that Christ should suffer, and that He should be the first that should rise from the dead, and should show light unto the people, and to the Gentiles."

Again that maddening phrase, "to the Gentiles," filling Paul's soul with love, drove his enemies wild with hatred. Until that instant, Paul's knowledge and eloquence had held the Hall of Audience under a spell. Now bedlam broke loose before the judgment seat. Festus himself stood up and cried out in a loud voice:

"Paul! Paul! You are beside yourself, much learning has made you mad!"

"I am not mad, most excellent Festus!"

Paul moved forward as he spoke. His words were addressed to the procurator but his gaze was fixed compellingly on King Agrippa.

"I am not mad," he repeated. "But I speak words of truth and soberness . . ."

Then with his eyes, that glowed like coals, straight on the paling face of the king, Paul continued:

"For the king knows of these things of which I speak, to whom also I speak with confidence. For I am persuaded that none of these things is hidden from him. For neither was any of these things done in a corner."

Still nearer the throne Paul came, and his voice now echoed high overhead:

"Do you believe the prophets, O King Agrippa? I know that you believe!"

The degree of the king touched the sweating wrist of Festus, blinding him all down. In a whisper that echoed down the hall, the king confessed:

"Almost you have persuaded me to be a christian. In a little, you persuade me to be a Christian."

But Paul had appealed to Claudius Nero Caesar. No one could change that fact. He must go to Rome.

Mrs. L. L. Ketch and Mr. Leland Ketch attended the funeral of the late Mr. S. C. Clement at the United Church, Picton, on Saturday.

Women's Institute

QUINTE W.I.

The regular meeting of the Quinte Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Archie Creatrix, with a large attendance. Mr. Sandercock, the president, gave a few remarks on the value of the Creed. Mrs. Arnold Mitchell gave the minutes of the last meeting and some thank-you letters were read.

Mrs. Creatrix had her home decorated Christmas with a tree surrounded by parcels for the exchange or gifts as it is the custom of the Institute at Christmas.

It was decided to make a donation of $50 to the Hospital Building Fund.

Mrs. Perrott, the convenor, read Francis M. Sayers' "Origin of Christmas Wrappings and Spirit of Christmas". Christmas carols were interspersed throughout the afternoon.

Mrs. Bennett gave a delightful reading on a "Gift for Princess Tanya". This was much enjoyed.

CHRISTMAS MOTTO

Mrs. Perrott also gave the motto, which was made up by Mrs. Farnsworth, who was absent through sickness in the family. The motto was "Christmas is the time for the open hand, the open heart, the open house, and the open heart."

The theme of Mrs. Perrott's talk was "Christmas Incarnate".

Mrs. Montgomery gave a splendid talk on charm and beauty of Christmas. She spoke of appreciation of Christmas and a world of peace and good will. This was most informative and made all think of the real meaning of the season.

Little Miss Caroline Mitchell delighted all with a solo, "I Saw Mama Kissing Santa Claus." She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Manly Mitchell, who also favored with Christmas carols on the accordion. Little Janice Bradshaw drew the gifts from the tree and distributed them around.

Delicious refreshments were served by the committee, and Mrs. Sandercock, the president, expressed thanks to those who made program such a success and extended season's greetings to all.

All thanked Mrs. Creatrix for her hospitality.

PARK DALE W.I.

A Christmas tree and numerous Yuletide decorations provided the setting and Christmas carols, the spirit of the season for the December meeting of the Park Dale Women's Institute.

The president, Edna Keeble, called the meeting to order and read the following poem:

"When things don't go to suit you;
And the world seems upside down;
Don't waste your time in fretting
But give away that frown;
Since life is oft perplexing,
'Tis much the wisest plan
To bear all trials bravely,
And smile whene'er you can.
The roll call was in the form of an exchange of gifts.

Doreen Rolston gave a timely talk on the motto "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

Christmas carols were sung and a humorous poem which was read by Bertha Miller, was enjoyed by all. Thelma Rogers gave a short and instructive reading on "Ancient Christmas Customs."

The hostess for the evening, Clem Rice, demonstrated the practical art of home-made decorations.

A social hour concluded the meeting in which all enjoyed refreshments provided by the assistant hostesses, Connie Miller, Anna Simpson and Jean Reid.

Home Craftsman

Mrs. Frank Eeles pots clay models in her home-made kiln at her home at Fort Frances, Ont. Among her many hobbies is modelling from clay she digs herself and fires in the kiln she built at a cost of $200. She sells her work to flower shops. Her other hobbies include weaving, painting and teaching art. Her husband is a customs inspector. — (CP Photo.)

Fascinating Hobbies Provide Relaxation Between House Chores

FORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP)— Mrs. Frank Eeles has fascinating hobbies that provide relaxation between household chores.

In addition to weaving rugs and drapes, painting pictures and teaching art, she makes pottery from clay she digs herself and bakes in a kiln she made herself. And, soon, she plans to attend night classes in jewelry-making.

Mrs. Eeles, whose husband is a customs inspector in this town bordering the Minnesota line, started the extensive handicraft activities for amusement and relaxation and discovered they were money-makers opening up a part-time career in craftmanship.

QUICK RETURNS

She started making pottery a year ago and now sells her works to florists; a loom she bought in 1942 soon paid for itself and she also sells paintings. In 1945 she won a prize at the international exhibition held at the University of North Carolina.

In her living room hang drapes she has woven and the chairs are covered with a fabric she made on her loom. Some materials are free for the picking. Mrs. Eeles says the dogwood strips, golden-rod stocks, straw or rushes can be used to weave into place mats or window shades.

As a summer project, she made an outdoor kiln to fire her pottery. She revised a book diagram to suit the materials available. The completed kiln cost $200 and she estimates the price of a similar manufactured kiln at more than $1,000.

With a gas burner for heat, it is able to produce a temperature of 2,300 degrees.

METHOD OF OPERATION

Mrs. Eeles rolls out the clay, found I sher backyard, then cuts it and puts the slabs in a mould. After an hour it is removed and rough edges are smoothed.

She sets it out to dry for several days and then fires it for about eight hours. After being decorated with enamel the pottery is put in the kiln for another eight hours. Mrs. Eeles says the natural clay turns a "beautiful red" when fired.

For painting Mrs. Eeles has an attic studio where she conducts a Saturday afternoon class.

"The recreation and relaxation derived from an afternoon of painting is worth as much as a finished product," the housewife says.

Canadian Kennel Club Appoints Woman President

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Alva McColl of Toronto, who has been elected president of the Canadian Kennel Club, becomes the first woman to be president of any kennel club in Canada.

Mrs. McColl, commenting on her election in an interview Thursday, said: "This is going to revolutionize the dog world. The American kennel club doesn't even allow women to be delegates."

Fashion Flashes

New notions make the selection of a skirt an interesting event. Felt—in pastels, dark or vivid hues—makes a four-gored flared skirt marked by a new wraith waist-nipper section. A pocket is inset at the waistband, which fastens with a back zipper.

A major event in the fox muskrat field is the development of a new shade—gold—worked out in light tawny and dark tones and simply glorious with almost every color. The pelts are large and full, with long, silky hairs, and the coppery-tan shade is subtle and most flattering.

Packed in many resortbound trunks is the dressy sweater with a dyed-to-match skirt. A pink cashmere sweater has an irregular neckline appliqued with matching wool lace medallions. The dyed-to-match skirt is of fine wool gabardine, fashioned in taffeta with a single slot and pleat seam at front and back, topped with embroidered silk arrows.

Going out at night is wool, sheer, polished broadcloth and fine, soft tweed. Black wheel mix mixture tweed makes a handsome evening coat, full-length, softly straight and done with an all-over embroidered single flower treatment in black jet and rhinestones. Lined in red satin with matching fill-in scarf.

Friends Consider Success Triumph of Determination

COBALT, Ont. (CP)—Stella Fantino returned to her home town to practise law and friends consider her success a triumph of determination.

The 29-year-old Cobalt woman graduated from Osgoode Hall, Toronto. She was one of two women and 182 men in the class and received her call to the Ontario bar this year.

Stella will be the third lawyer in town and she made the grade despite accidents as a child that kept her from school for five years.

Tall and Slender with flashing black eyes, she is the daughter of a Greek immigrant, George Fantirias, 76. Mr. Fanarites came to this northern Ontario mining town in 1906 and set up a restaurant.

Stella was injured while playing with the fire chief's daughter. The lively seven-year-old didn't notice the hole in the floor through which firemen slide down their pole to the ground floor. She spent 2½ years in the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto. When she was discharged, one leg was shorter than the other.

The second mishap occurred seven years later while Stella was trying out for the girls' hockey team at Cobalt high school. She broke a weakened thigh bone and was again away from school for more than two years.

"But the second accident actually turned out for the best," she says. "Dr. D. E. Robertson, a noted Toronto surgeon, attended me. When he was through, my leg was at normal length. I was in much better shape than after the first injury."

Harmony Studio Club Holds Christmas Party

Last evening Harmony Studio club's Christmas party was held at the home of Mrs. C. Scott, Maple Road.

After welcoming members and guests, Mrs. Scott turned the meeting over to Carole Thompson, the chairman.

The program began with a group of Christmas carols. Volunteer music selections, enjoyable games, and an interesting story by Jean Cornish were enjoyed by all during the evening.

The music selections were as follows: "A Christmas Overture" by Anna Corinne Gray and Mrs. Veley; an arrangement "Adeste Fidelis" by Jean Cornish; "Jingle Bells" by Mrs. Veley and Helina Mallezewska; "Arabian Dance" by Marilyn Jones and Anne Jeffery, "The Glowworm" an arrangement by Paul Lincke, by Lois Bradshaw; a vocal solo "We Three Kings" by Grace Veley.

A door prize was given which was won by Lois Bradshaw.

Gifts were exchanged in keeping with the season.

Refreshments were served which brought a delightful evening to a close.

THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS-GIVING

As the gifts of the Wise Ones were,
And we may not told whose gift was gold,
Or whose was the gift of myrrh.
—Edmund Vance Cooke, The Spirit of the Gift.

A GRACEFUL WAY TO SEND CHRISTMAS CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What is a nice way to sign Christmas cards from my husband and young daughter to be sent to a mother and father and, say, two children? Should we address the envelope to "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith and Family" and sign the card "From Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jones and family"?

A Reader

Never address an envelope to "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith and family"; . . . this is too general, it does not make the proper individual low. And never sign a card or say "From Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jones and family"; (1) a signature should not include a title ("Mr. and Mrs."); and (2) "and family" is tabu in the signature as on the envelope.

The best way, the gracious way, is to address the envelope to "Mr. and Mrs. John Holliday", and then on the card write your message to the family, mentioning each name to give individual compliment. The father's name should come first. For example: "Devoted Christmas greetings to you, John and Mary, and to Joan and Joey. A Happy New Year, too, Peter and Polly and Carol."

A WIDOW PLANS HER SECOND MARRIAGE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I have been a widow for almost two years, and have a 6-year-old daughter. I am planning to be married soon, at a small church wedding. My fiance, who is a bachelor, and most of his family live here. But all my family (except one brother) and all my relatives live at a great distance from here. At our wedding there will be about 75 guests. Do my parents send out the wedding invitations?

2. Under our circumstances would it be correct to have a reception after the ceremony?

3. Would my brother give me in marriage?

4. Would it be correct for my little daughter to take part in the wedding? If so, what part could she take?

E.

1. Since, as I judge, your church formal invitations would not be necessary. Correctly, and customarily a widow (since the guests to her wedding by word of mouth or by notes of invitation).

2. Yes . . . I hope you will plan to have a post-ceremony reception, an informal, festive gathering of relatives and friends.

3. If you are planning to be given in marriage, your nearest male relative is the one to be invited to do this. Your brother, if this is most convenient.

4. Yes . . . your little daughter may, if you wish, be your only attendant. She would walk up the aisle alone preceding you and your brother.

LEGAL FORMALITY

MINNEDOSA, Man. (CP)—The cemetery here has been in use 70 years but was never registered with the land titles office. Now the town council has passed a by-law to amend the cemetery act, to lay legal recognition for the cemetery.

Readers' Friday Column

QUESTION:

I have heard so much about a recipe called Pineapple Sweet and Sour Spareribs. If you should have the recipe would you send it to me.—Mrs. W. D.

QUESTION:

. . . I am a working girl . . . cook on the week-ends. . . every time I bake a cake it never rises and splits in the middle. . . can you use colding shortening at room temperature. . . have you a good recipe for Chinese Chicken Chop Suey and Sweet and Sours . . . have you a recipe for German Strudel.—Edna I.

ANSWER:

First I will give you the Sweet and Sour Spareribs recipe you wish.

SWEET AND SOUR SPARERIBS

Sweet-Sour Sauce: 1-4 cup vinegar, 1-2 cup pineapple juice, 1-3 cup well-packed brown sugar, 1 1-2 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 tablespoon water, 1 teaspoon salt. Mix together the cornstarch and sugar and salt well. Stir in remaining ingredients and stir over heat until it boils.

Fritter Batter (for spareribs or ...lean pork): Have spareribs cut so that each rib has meat on both sides and each piece is about 2 1-2 inches square when raw. (If you use lean boneless pork pieces should be 1 1-2 inches square.) Dip in this batter: In a bowl mix together with beater 1 egg, 2 tablespoons milk, 1-4 cup sifted bread flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt. Drain Fry in peanut oil at 350 deg. Fahr. for about five minutes, turning once. Transfer meat pieces to casserole as they are done. Pour Sweet-sour sauce over and bake 1 hour at 350 deg. Fahr., basting 2 or 3 times. Cover if you want them soft. Bake uncovered if you want them crisp.

I have mailed you, Edna, three foolproof cake recipes. The recipe for Strudel is very long and other readers want Christmas cooking recipes. Would you write again after Christmas and repeat your request for Strudel and enclose stamped envelope and address?

QUESTION:

Would you please advise how to make perfect meringue?—W. J. M.

ANSWER:

PERFECT MERINGUE

Have three egg whites at room temperature and add 1-8 teaspoon salt and beat until foam is fine and forms rounded peaks when beater is lifted. Then add 6 tablespoons fine granulated or berry sugar (not icing) or better still canned cane sugar syrup, slowly, beating constantly until meringue is very stiff and glossy but not dry. Spread on warm pie filling, being sure to touch crust all round. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. 5 minutes. Overbaking causes "weeping". Some cooks prefer to add 1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar with the salt. Both methods produce light fluffy meringues that set easily.

QUESTION:

. . . I have been a most faithful disciple. . . your printed recipe for meringues I made but baked four hours. . . they were lovely until I put them together with whipped cream then they seemed to melt. . . can you tell me why? . . . must you definitely put a pan of water in oven when cooking fruit cake?—Noel.

ANSWER:

I did not like to leave out the friendly parts of your letter—it was like a fresh spring breeze. No waterpan is absolutely necessary but it gives a lovely cafe feeling, and when you spend $7 or more for 10 lbs. fruit cake, precautions against burning are advisable—for beginners they are musts. So your meringues melted . . . . Shortbaking, can't guess what the mystery is but four hours baking would have a very drying effect.

Try the recipe below which is the meringue method for tortes and shells.

MERINGUE SHELLS

(You can make these as large or small as you like.) Beat until they hold a soft point 3-4 cup egg whites, and gradually beat in 1 cup fine granulated or berry sugar (not icing). Then begin to fold another cup sugar in very carefully with 1 1-2 teaspoons lemon juice or vinegar, beating during entire period. Meringue should be very stiff and glossy. Shape into shell shapes like nests or like meringue kisses on heavy brown paper. Bake at 275 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes until delicately browned.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DON'T CONSIDER DIVORCE TILL YOU'RE SURE YOU'VE DONE YOUR BEST

The first thing a great many wives seem to think about when their married lives begin to develop snarls and tangles is how they can get out of their marriages most quickly and easily. Or else they immediately begin to tell themselves that they would be perfectly happy again at once if they were only married to somebody else.

Here are two letters typical of the latter:

"I am a woman of 35, married to a man 15 years older than myself. We have three children, aged 13, 12 and 9. I was married when I was only 19, and I guess I didn't know what love was and so made a mistake.

"Anyhow, I am now in love with a man who is also married, and the only time I feel happy is when we are together. He is ready to divorce his wife for me, but I am afraid to suggest divorce to my husband, and besides there are the children to think of. What do you think I should do?"

And then this letter:

"For the last few months, my husband has been going out with other women, and our life together has become very unhappy.

"At a club to which I belong, I recently met a man I liked very much, and I have been seeing him two or three times a week. He has told me that it was love at first sight with him, and that he wants to marry me. He has no ties, so there is no problem for him, but I am very confused because I think I still love my husband and yet if he is going to behave this way I am not going to be happy with him. Do you think I should divorce my husband and marry this other man, who I know would do everything possible to make me happy, even though I am not exactly in love with him?"

NO DEFINITE REASON

Now, in the first of these two letters, the wife does not give any definite reason for being unhappy in her present marriage, unless she means to imply that they are incompatible because her husband is 15 years older than herself. She does say she is afraid to try to divorce her husband, which carries the suggestion that, for some reason, she may be in fear of him; in any event, I find no indication in her letter that she is trying, or even cares to try, to discover a way of making her marriage more successful.

Since she gives me so little information about the marriage itself, the best I can do for her now is to ask her if she has sincerely tried to find the good things there may be in it and to build her home on them. Or, was she hunting so hard for a means of getting out of the marriage that she welcomed the attentions of this other man as a way of achieving her purpose?

If she has not, so far, really tried to revamp her marriage on the basis of the salvagable things there may be in it, but, instead, has constantly brooded over the misfortune of what she obviously considers a rash early step to the altar, then I suggest that one carefully conducts a program, and put it into effect for awhile, before taking a second step that might prove to be equally ill-advised.

As for the second letter, she gives her husband's infidelity as the reason for her unhappiness. And I wonder if she has made any intelligent, well-thought-out effort to cope with it, or if she, too, has devoted her time and thought to dreaming about how much happier she might be with someone else.

If she really does still love her husband, as she says, certainly this is the course to follow before throwing him over in favor of a man with whom she is "not exactly in love."

What each of these women, and any others like them, should ask themselves is this: Have I myself done everything I can to make my marriage work? If not, here something else I might try first before calling it a failure?

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

TUB VS. SHOWER

Women who are shower fans may be just as clean as the tubbers but they don't get as many beauty benefits. There is nothing relaxing about standing under a shower, but a restful ten-minute session in warm water can do wonders in taking the kinks out of one's nerves and helping one to forget the things one doesn't want to think about. Also, the tubber can revel in bath toiletries to her heart's delight and will carry a lovely fragrance with her all the day long.

She will cream her complexion before starting this daily ritual, because the warm vapor rising from the water will melt the cream, making it more effective in softening and smoothing the skin.

A good soaking before using the scrubbing brush will help dislodge dead skin scales to which deposits of sweat glands cling like all getout.

Bath salts not only impart a pleasant fragrance, but they soften the water. The soap you use should lather quickly. A long-handled brush is a necessity. Do not economize when buying a bath brush as only the best are really effective and have qualities of endurance.

It is a nice idea to combine tub and shower as all soap suds should be rinsed away. If you have no shower, use a bath spray. Use tepid water at first, chill gradually. And, if you want to feel like dancing on your toes, dry yourself with a coarse towel that makes the flesh tingle.

Cellulite skin is inclined to be dry, there are delightful oils that will correct the condition. If the skin is normal a friction with eau de cologne after the drying is refreshing.

Bath, time to also a good time to give attention to the feet. If you suspect that corns are forming, friction them with cream and rub them with a toilet pumice stone.

Bath Toiletries Are A Fragrant Delight.

Signs of Stormy Struggle For World Markets in 1954

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's economy set a record pace in 1953, but as the year ends there are signs of a stormy struggle for world markets in 1954.

Some Canadian industries are beginning to feel the impact of a growing competition for markets that may bring lower prices.

Sales of farm machinery, textiles and electrical appliances began to slip in 1953. Federal economists say that as the struggle continues it will spread into other commodities, including agriculture.

COMPETITION KEENER

The reason is that world production is rising, and although Western markets are still strong, the big powers are unable to overcome trading barriers between the sterling and dollar-area countries.

The Iron Curtain, too, has ringed off a big slice of the world market, reducing the global marketing area that must be shared by the major Western exporters, including Canada.

Nevertheless Canada made great strides in 1953. Her huge resources development program, coupled with a growing domestic consumer market, provides a strong prosperity base for 1954.

Growth of the economy in 1953 exceeded expectations. The country, as a whole, earned more and spent more than any time in history. And yet the savings rate was maintained at the 1952 figure of nine per cent of disposable income.

RECORD PRODUCTION

The Gross National Product, sum total of all goods and services produced, rose to a record $24,200,000,000 — up $1,200,000,000 from 1952.

National Income swelled to an estimated record of $19,000,000,000, up from $18,135,000,000 in 1952. In this bracket labor income soared to almost $12,000,000,000, a gain of 11 per cent from the previous year.

Consumer spending kept pace with the general advance, rising to another high of an estimated $15,000,000,000 from $14,334,000,000 in 1952.

And as the country resounded to increased mine, forest and factory production, the total money poured into capital investment reached $5,600,000,000—up nine per cent from 1952.

FOREIGN INFLUX

Foreign capital—some visible and some invisible—continued to enter the country, countered by the influence of a decline in exports and maintaining the Canadian dollar as the world's strongest currency, roughly two per cent higher than the American dollar.

Canadians imported more goods than at any time in history. Exports, however, dropped slightly from the 1952 high of $4,350,000,000.

This heavy buying, contrasting with lower exports, produced a trade deficit roughly about $200,000,000, compared with a surplus of $230,000,000 in 1952.

MARMORA

C.W.L.

MARMORA — The December meeting of the Catholic Women's League, with which is associated the annual Christmas party, was held in the Sacred Heart Parish Hall on Sunday with a good attendance of members over which Mrs. Donald Shannon presided.

The meeting was opened in the customary manner, and the treasurer's report showed finances to be in good condition. Reports of conveners, each with its own interest and indicating progress, were next presented.

Mrs. W. Forestell and Mrs. F. Reynolds reported four calls being made to sick persons. Volunteers for the duty for the ensuing month were, Mesdames J. A. Paquet, James L. Shannon, and E. D. O'Connor.

A donation of $15 was voted to Our Lady's missionaries.

Another donation was made to the Chamber of Commerce Santa Claus Fund.

PRESENTATION MADE.

At this point, Mrs. Donald Shannon presented a crucifix to Mrs. William A. Shannon, immediate past president in appreciation of work while occupying the presidency.

The recipient made grateful response.

Rev. Father W. P. Healey expressed his pleasure at seeing so good a number in attendance and wished all a good Christmas.

This was echoed by the president in a short gracious speech.

The program followed under direction of Mrs. James Black, and opened with the singing of some Christmas carols. Mrs. Black then gave "The Legend of the Christmas Flower". A whistling contest, which followed, resulted in honors going to Mrs. James of Shannon. Miss Eva Shannon and Mrs. Hugh Brady sang two duets, "A White Christmas", and "Wonderland." This was followed by Mrs. C. Brady, giving a reading, "Your Christmas Tree."

Some amusement was created by the Mocking Bird Silver-toned Ladies' Quartet. Mrs. E. D. O'Connor read a poem, "Second Childhood." Six Delore ladies, styling themselves The Cats Symphonic orchestra, created further mirth as they played some selections. Mrs. J. A. Paquet then furnished a pianoforte solo.

A further number of carols, having been sung by the members, Mrs. J. Black gave the monologue "On Being Clinicked." The final touch of hilarity to the program was given by a cast of six ladies as they presented the humorous play "Christmas at Casey's". Mrs. K. McCoy came next with a pianoforte selection.

SANTA'S ARRIVAL.

The arrival of Santa Claus was preceded by a reading, "I Believe in Santa", by Mrs. Ed Warren.

Then came the exchange of gifts with occasion being taken by the league to present Rev. Father W. P. Healey with a handsome table lamp.

Refreshments were then served.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma got a letter from Aunt Fanny today, and she told me about it when I came home for lunch, saying. You are a very lucky boy Benny, to have such a nice Aunt Fanny, and I'm sure you'll say so yourself when I read you what she writes in her letter.

G, is it something about Christmas? I said, and ma said, That's exactly what it's about, I mean at least the part of the letter that concerns you.

That's the part I want to hear, oh boy, whats she going to give me, ma? I said, and ma said, She doesn't name any definite thing. I'll read out what she writes. She writes, "I've been thinking about what to send Benny for Christmas, but I want to be sure it's something that will be welcome."

Why dont she send me a magic ray gun to go with my space patrol helmet, she can be sure that will be welcome all rite, I said, and ma said, I think it's very nice of your Aut Fanny to want to send you something you'll appriciate.

I'd appriciate a weight pulling machine to attach to my wall and give me big mussels, I said, and ma said, Here's what she writes. She writes, "So I decided to let him make his very own cookie." Isn't that nice of her? ma said.

Wowie, I'll say it is, I said, My choice is a new chemistry set. My old one is used up and wore out, I said, and ma said, Here's the way she ends. She ends, "Tell Benny he can choose between a nice book or a nice highwayman sheet with big flowers on it, or 2 nice neckties in a box." Isn't that nice of your Aut Fanny? ma said.

Aw heck, good nite, holey mackerel, some people dont know the difference between Christmas and April Fool's Day, I said.

Which they dont.

Sunday School Lesson:

A Dream That Will Not Die

By ROY L. SMITH.

There is something very strange and very beautiful about man. He goes on hoping.

No matter how black the skies, and how threatening the days; no matter what the morning's headlines may tell about international discord, the perfection of more frightful weapons, the marshalling of armies, the heart of man insists upon continuing with its hoping.

ISAIAH STARTED IT.

Seven centuries before Christ a venerable old Hebrew prophet who was probably the best informed man then living in the world, voiced the hope that the day would come when weapons of war would be beaten into instruments for the feeding of the race.

The facts seemed all against him. The armies of Assyria were already on the march. The rivalry between Egypt and Assyria was so terrible that all the world covered in terror. Israel and Judah lay athwart the great trade route that linked Asia to Africa. They were the Belgium, Holland, Poland, Czechoslovakia of the ancient world. They could not hope to escape the conflict. But in spite of appearances and facts the greatheart continued to believe that a day of peace would come because he believed in that kind of a God.

JESUS VERIFIED IT.

The infant Jesus came into the world in the midst of one of its blackest hours. A monster sat on the throne of Judah in the person of Herod the Great. Never in all the long history of the Jews did the people live under a more unscrupulous, bloody, or cruel king. There was nothing in all that world that an honest or kind man could trust.

The announcement of the divine event was made to humble men —shepherds who kept watch over their flocks by night. Tradition has it that they were men who had been chosen especially for their task, because they were herding sheep destined to be offered as sacrifices on the altars at the temple. Whether that be true or not, it is significant that the great news was broken to humble people before it became known to the mighty and the powerful. History seems to incline to the opinion that the people are very frequently ahead of their rulers in the matter of moral and spiritual perception.

WE HAVE TRIED.

It is a dream that will not die among us. Within the lifetime of this generation we have watched the establishment of the World Court, the League of Nations, the International Court of Justice, and more recently the United Nations.

Long before any of these, the czar of the Russias undertook to initiate a movement by which the nations of the world would unite their forces in behalf of peace. And before that, and before that, and before that!

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for December 20: "The Prince of Peace and a Warless World," Isaiah 2:2-4; 9:2, 5-7; 65:17-25; Matthew 6:9; Luke 2:8-14.

But the dream does not die. The hearts of men will not accept the fact that war is eternal, and that peace is impossible. Down deep in the human heart, with something of the invincible force of an instinct, there sometimes the confidence that someday man will find a way to adjudicate differences without resort to arms.

And that faith rests back on a confidence in God. In all this world there is no sign that materialism, secularism, or any other form of atheism is doing anything to relieve mankind of the burden of armed conflict. If the end of war ever comes it will be through the good offices of religion.

Christmas is the world's assurance that the hope is not vain, that the war against war is not hopeless.

Order Third Trial

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Court of Appeal has ordered a third trial for Paul Cachia, 21, who has already spent two years in custody after conviction on a charge of armed robbery of a Swansea service station two years ago.

The courts decision Thursday was based on testimony of a new witness whom defense counsel said he could not get in touch with before.

Testimony of the witness supported testimony given at the second trial last June 16 that Cachia was not a participant in the robbery.

The robbery took place Sept. 20, 1951, and Cachia was sentenced to four years in Kingston penitentiary.

Blonde, Escort Asked to Tell What They Saw

TORONTO (CP) — Police have appealed to a "strawberry or platinum blonde" and her escort to come forward and tell what they saw the night of Dec. 6 when Marion McDowell disappeared from a lonely lover's lane in suburban Scarborough township.

Police were told the blonde and a boy friend were parked close by at the time. The information came from a man who said he drove through the area about 9:40 p.m. the night the 17-year-old blonde typist disappeared.

It was at about this time that James Wilson, 19, said the McDowell girl was taken from his car by a masked gunman. Wilson himself was slugged.

GAVE DESCRIPTION

Police said their informant accurately described Wilson's automobile and said there was another car parked 200 yards away, facing Wilson's. It was in this automobile that the other girl and her companion were seen.

Police said the couple may have seen the kidnapping which Wilson described.

At the same time Toronto police entered the search with their quarry a youth with Marion's initials carved on his forearm. They said they learned from a co-worker of the girl that Marion had "K.M." — carved on her arm a few days before her disappearance. He in turn had Marion's name sliced into his arm.

Scarborough township police, however, said they have no information to support this story and it is described as "utter rot" by the girl's father, Ross McDowell.

Dean Voices Personal Belief Korea War Won't Be Resumed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special ambassador Arthur H. Dean, expressing a personal view that Korea will have peace, today prepared an official report on his far-fruitless negotiations for a Korean peace conference.

Dean came back from Panmunjom Thursday night. Representing all the United Nations countries which fought in Korea, he had walked out of the conference, called to set a time and place for a peace meeting, after protesting Communist charges that the United States was guilty of "perfidy."

"Based upon what I observed and as a personal opinion, I am quite sure hostilities won't be renewed," he said on arrival, but declined to go into details prior to his report to President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles.

Dulles came home, several hours before Dean, from the North Atlantic council meeting in Paris, where he pressed for early action by France on a European army in which West Germany would be rearmed.

Also back from the Paris conference was Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson, who was asked for comment on reports from Paris that the U. S. had "threatened" to cut off arms aid to West European countries if they refused to support plans for a united European army.

Wilson replied: "That wouldn't be my way of going about it."

But this was not interpreted at the state department as implying any split between Wilson and Dulles, who had said there might be an "agonizing reappraisal" of foreign aid policy if France did not approve the European army idea.

If You Want Polar Bear Rug Flying Priest of The Arctic Will Arrange Swap for Radio

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP)—Like to swap some radio equipment for a polar bear rug for Christmas?

Just write to Rev. William Leising, 40-year-old flying priest of the Arctic, at this Northwest Territories settlement and he'll see that the deal goes through.

Father Leising, a member of the Oblate order and a native of Buffalo, N.Y., says radio receivers and transmitters are badly needed by three of the order's missions 1,000 miles north of here.

REMOTE MISSIONS

The missions, located in barren arctic wastes where the sun goes down in the fall and doesn't rise until spring, are without communication the year round, except for the occasional visit by supply ship or by Father Leising's ski-equipped plane.

"If anyone can provide a radio or a transmitter," he said, "I'll probably be able to get my hands on the best polar skin in the Arctic. And I'll throw in a white fox skin to boot."

He needs three powerful receivers, able to pick up aircraft and other short-wave bands, and three transmitters with a power of 30 to 50 watts and a range of 300 miles—"enough to get them in touch with a government radio relay station."

"Radios would save lives," he said. "I landed at one mission and an Eskimo friend of mine pointed to a mound of stone and said, 'There lies my wife.' He had brought her to the mission in childbirth and she died. A radio could have got medical direction and saved her."

700 MILES FROM POLE

One of the missions is at Holman Island, 700 miles from the north pole. It has a small receiver "but they can pick up only Russia, Sweden and Finland." The two missionary priests there, Fathers Maurice Metayer and Henry Tardy, were missing for 13 days last August when their boat went astray on a supply trip to Coppermine, 275 miles to the south.

The other missions without communication are at Faulkuk, 425 miles east of Aklavik, and Stanton, 300 miles west of Coppermine and "in the middle of nowhere."

Father Leising, who operates out of this settlement near the Alberta border, was a chaplain with joint Canadian and U.S. armed forces in the north during the Second World War.

He flew in his teens and after the war decided to take on the job of flying supplies and personnel to Roman Catholic missions in the north. To fit himself for the job, he took special flying courses at East Lansing, Ill., and Edmonton.

Two-HeadedBaby Ready to Leave Riley Hospital

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A two-headed, four-armed baby boy, six days old and thriving like a normal infant, was ready today to leave Riley Hospital.

Dr. John D. Van Nuys, dean of the Indiana University medical centre, said there is nothing to prevent the father from taking the baby home.

The hospital has kept the baby on the "critical" list, but only because doctors have virtually no precedents for such a malformation.

Dr. Van Nuys said examinations disclosed that the baby has two stomachs, joined to a single intestinal tract. It had been determined previously that there is only one heart, and doctors had thought there was only a single set of internal organs.

ANOTHER IN BRAZIL

The birth of a second two-headed baby in the Western Hemisphere in a week was reported Thursday night in Belo Horizonte, Brazil, by doctors attending her at Sao Vincente Hospital.

Three Whooping Cranes Make Way to Texas

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—Three whooping cranes, long overdue on their migration from far northern Canada, were feeding contentedly on the Aransas wildlife refuge near here Thursday.

Julian A. Howard, manager of the U.S. fish and wildlife service refuge on Blacklock peninsula, said a thorough count of the whooper population was made Wednesday. Officials criss-crossed the refuge in a plane three times to verify the numbers and found 34 whoopers.

Previous counts had shown 31. The count of 34 shows a gain of three compared with last year. At one time the count has been as low as 14.

Where the missing whoopers had been is anybody's guess, Howard said.

The whoopers here are the only known ones in the world.

Reluctant War Prisoners Will Get Last Chance

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The two neutral officer in Korea indicated today that reluctant war prisoners, including 22 Americans and one Briton, may get one last chance to change their mind after the explanation period ends.

Meanwhile, hopes have dwindled that Allied persuasion teams will meet the 22 reluctant Westerners before the deadline next Wednesday midnight.

The neutral repatriation commission put off until Monday consideration of demands by pro-Communist South Korean prisoners which the Americans and the British prisoner say must be met before they will attend interviews.

Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the repatriation commission, said in answer to written questions from correspondents that he might "take up at a later date" the possibility of sending all prisoners who have refused to return to their homelands.

Although Thimayya said he has "no plan, either concrete or tentative," there has been speculation that he will give the PoWs one last chance, without any coercion, Thimayya said six weeks ago that he planned on it.

CONFERENCE PLAN

At that time, Thimayya suggested that he would station an Indian officer at each of the 12 PoWs remaining in neutral custody to talk to them individually, and express their desire in one word—"repatriation" or "non-repatriation."

Other Indian officers offered another simple plan: Have the prisoners walk single file, at considerable distances from each other, down a narrow U-shaped path. One arm would lead to repatriation, the other back to the Indian-guarded compound in the neutral zone.

A South Korean prisoner who fled from the pro-Communist compound Wednesday said four Americans and about 20 South Koreans might return home if given a chance.

Church Member Plays Santa Role

TORONTO (CP)—A member of the Church of England in Canada is playing the role of Santa Claus to 250 clergyman of the church's dominion wide system of a gift of $50,000.

The special committee of church officials decided to distribute the money to clergy in the lowest paid bracket of the mission service. Cheques ranging from $85 for unmarried men to nearly $250 were mailed Thursday to clergy serving in remote mission centres from Vancouver Island to Newfoundland.

The money is for the personal use of the clergy and their families.

If You Must Think, Do Not Drink Is Medical Association's Advice

CHICAGO (AP)—The Journal of the American Medical Association today offered advice along this line:

If soon you have to do sharp thinking,

You'd better not do any drinking.

The article suggested that, if you have something important to do, don't drink beforehand.

"For example," it said, "the after-dinner drink may be perfectly harmless if no important activities are undertaken at such times, whereas the drink taken before driving a car, running machinery or performing any task that demands accurate decisions or mental acumen might be dangerous.

"The drinker should observe the following rule: For every two drinks he should wait three hours before undertaking important activities."

BLOOD CONTENT TELLS TALE

The article said the effects of drinking depend largely on the amount of alcohol which accumulates in the blood, it added:

"The amount that accumulates depends on the amount ingested (taken into the stomach), the size of the person, the concentration of alcohol in the beverage, the presence of food in the stomach, the rate of oxidation and elimination of alcohol and, particularly, on the rate of drinking.

"The average person can oxidize and eliminate about six to 10 cubic centimetres of pure alcohol an hour, so that he could consume about a pint (300 cubic centimetres). of 100-proof whisky in 24 hours without ever being intoxicated if he spaced his drinks properly.

"On the other hand, a single drink consumed rapidly on an empty stomach may produce measurable symptoms of intoxication."

Two Little Girls Burned to Death In Farm Home

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Que. (CP)—Two little girls were burned to death Thursday in a blaze which destroyed their isolated farm-house as their father unsuccessfully tried to battle through smoke and flames to save them.

Suzanne, 3½ and Danielle Lord, 2½, were asleep in an upper bedroom of their frame house near Shawinigan Falls when the fire broke out.

Their father and mother, who escaped through the window of a downstairs bedroom with a six-month old baby, failed to reach them.

Origin of the fire is unknown.

Natural Gas Commission May Be Formed

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario government officials said Thursday night a natural gas commission, with powers similar to that of the Ontario hydro power commission, is under consideration.

Officials disclosed that an eight-man committee that includes four cabinet ministers and three of Ontario Hydro's top officials has been appointed to study the question.

It is believed the committee will recommend establishment of a commission which will undertake transmission of natural gas on a wholesale basis and also build pipelines to serve Ontario communities where gas now is not available.

The committee will also decide whether the proposed commission will have its own chairman or operate with the hydro body under one chairman.

Surveys now under way by the committee and the decisions it will reach within the next two or three weeks are described by Queen's Park officials as "of tremendous importance to the future of the province."

The officials said Ontario is the key to the whole question of importing natural gas from Alberta and can find a market to make an all-Canadian pipeline a financial success.

Should the commission be set up, private companies now in operation would buy their gas from it.

All Telephone Lines Repaired

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Bell Telephone officials said Thursday that long - distance lines to Sarnia, knocked out by snow and winds Monday, now have been repaired but will be in constant danger until warmer weather arrives.

R. G. Dillane, Bell manager, said some lines have up to four inches of ice on them.

"There is still very great danger until that ice melts. The wires may break anywhere under weight of ice, and if a strong wind developed there would be a lot of breaks," he said.

Local circuits in Sarnia still were [illegible] and it would be quite a long job to get them back in service."

Nearly 4,000 telephones were cut off originally.

'Metal Object' Sighted by Pilot Over Sweden

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — A veteran Swedish pilot reported sighting a "symmetrical metal object" travelling at a "colossal speed" over southern Sweden Thursday.

The pilot's statement was released by the Swedish defence staff which said it was making a thorough investigation of the report.

The pilot who fought during the Second World War with the RAF was Capt. Ulf Christiernson.

He said he saw the object while flying his DC-3 airliner at about 1,500 feet over Hassleholm. Visibility was good.

"As I got nearer I saw it was completely a symmetrical metal object. It is difficult to find words to describe something one has not seen before, but it looked like a robot."

Capt. Christiernsson said he was absolutely sure it was neither a meteor nor any other sort of celestial body.

Duke Snider National League Batting Champ

NEW YORK (AP) — Brooklyn's Duke Snider is the official winner of the National League's slugging championship, Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee slugging third-baseman, by two-tenths of a percentage point.

Snider, 27-year-old outfielder, slugged for an average of .5371 to .5269 for Mathews, official statistics released today by the baseball top's service bureau show.

The Duke put together 370 total bases in 390 at bats, including 38 doubles, four triples and 43 homers. Mathews, with 363 total bases in 579 trips, had 31 doubles, eight three-baggers and 47 home runs—most in the league.

Averages compiled by The Associated Press and released last October also listed Snider as the slugging leader with .5371 and Mathews as the runner-up at .5269.

Roy Campanella of Brooklyn finished third at .516.

Yankee Pair Edges Belgium In Cup Play

By WILL GRIMSLEY

BRISBANE, Australia (AP)—Billy Talbert, United States Davis Cup captain, grumbled and was the day when he teamed up with his young protege, Tony Trabert, and helped to carve out a 6-3, 6-2, 4-6, 8-7 victory over Belgium's Philippe Washer and Jacques Brichant in the doubles match of the Davis Cup interzone finals.

Talbert substituted himself for Vic Seixas, his slumping star. The 35-year-old veteran, who has been playing little competitive tennis in recent years, was superb for two sets, then held on for the last two when the pace began to get him.

Now Talbert's operatives need only to split Saturday's two final singles matches to enter the challenge round against Australia at the end of the month.

Tallo crafaid he will send Seixas back into action Saturday against Washer and Trabert against Brichant, a reversal of the first two singles opponents. Thursday Brichant upset Seixas and had Talbert worrying over just what course of action to take.

Bill used himself reluctantly and only after talking the matter over with the players and Dr. R. E. Davenport, manager of the team and a power in the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association.

The Talbert of today was a far cry from the happy-go-lucky Billy of the past. He teamed with Trabert because, no doubt, he thought he could instill confidence into the young University of Cincinnati student. Trabert and Seixas had not been going well in practice. Trabert had made no secret of the fact that he did not want to team with Seixas.

Solomons Wants Three Fights In London

LONDON (AP)—British boxing promoter Jack Solomons is on his way to New York with hopes of signing heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson and heavyweight contender Roland LaStarza for fights in London.

The prospects are that he'll sign LaStarza, No. 2 contender from New York, for a March 30 bout against British heavyweight champion Don Cockell in London's Earls Court. Negotiations for the Cockell-LaStarza fight have been going on for two months.

Solomons said he would like to sign Olson to defend his crown in London against either Randy Turpin or Trinidad's Yolande Pompey, and Marciano to meet Cockell for the title of the Briton beats LaStarza.

Your Christmas Shopping will never be done UNTIL YOU'VE VISITED Schwab's

LONG DISTANCE is always "rushed" at Christmas. So many people want to greet absent friends and families that delays on many calls are simply unavoidable.

Calls reach their peak Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. Then, even though every switchboard is manned to capacity and every operator is working at top speed, delays will occur.

That's why it's a good idea to call before the rush.

Please remember—

Long Distance Calls will go through much faster before Christmas Eve and after Christmas Day

If you can give your Long Distance operator the number you're calling, you'll save time. Calls can be put through faster when you "call by number".

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

TTING READY!

The squads in the Senior "B" circuit are straing their loins for the drive down the back stretch which should start sometime early in the New Year. Oshawa has added an ice-like character by the name of "Wally" Samaniuk, who they claim, hails from Whitby and has been doing his recent pucky-chasing in pro ranks and is the property of the Cleveland Barons.

Kingston Goodyears have signed one Olinski and another, McKeown, to bolster the squad, while the Petes have added two, Garvey, and another, in an effort to put up a bold front in the finish for the playoff berths.

Reports from Oshawa says "Manager Wren Blair hints that some firm action is going to be taken with some of his players who haven't been 'giving' as much as ability warrants." Anyone of that, it might be mentioned that the Truckmen haven't tasted victory wine since way back to November 26 when they edged the Petes 4-3. Since that memorable day they have wowed six times in a row.

The Memos clash with the Goodies here tonight in what should be a lively tussle. If the Goodies cop the nod they take over the group lead, two points in front of the Oshawa Truckmen. But the Memos cannot afford to lose tonight's tilt as they must stay within at least striking distance of the fourth-slot Peterborough Petes.

And the Orillia Pontiacs came up with an "assist" for the Memos last night when they defeated the Peterborough Petes 5-4 in the Doubleday Cup contest. The Pontiacs appear to be well away on another winning streak. It was their second victory in a row after losing to the Memos on December 13 and their seventh victory in eight starts. The Pontiacs are now a three point behind the league-leading Truckmen and Goodyears.

Tomorrow night the Petes are guests of the Kingston Goodyears and in what should be a terrific clash the Pontiacs tangle with the Oshawa Truckmen in Bowmanville. Much can happen over the week-end and don't be surprised to see a new group leader come wash day.

IG SHOW!

Canadian athletes may not have proven any great "shakes" in the last Olympic Games, but the Dominion's sports representatives and officials are going all out to make the 1954 British Empire Games being held in Vancouver, the best in the history of the event.

The last word in modern athletic equipment, stadia and other facilities for the big sports meet, is being readied, and officials, even at this stage of the game are confident the 1954 games will be the most colorful and attractive seen in years.

The shining gem, it says here, in the British Empire Games equipment division is the spectacular new swimming pool now nearing completion at the University of British Columbia. The pool, of Olympic standards, will be the most modern in North America and will sparkle with colorful tiling, plastic paint and chevarium-plated steel fittings. It is expected to be ready for use early in the new year.

The pool is to be 500 metres long (165 feet), 50 feet wide and having a depth of 16½ feet at the deep end and slightly more than three feet at the shallow end. Various diving boards are provided. The water will be heated and illuminated from below. Seating is provided for 6,000 people.

A neat little chore that should keep the construction laddies busy is the laying of 5,676 miles — that's it — miles, of wire between the various venues and headquarters. This wiring, which could reach nearly across Canada and back, does not include many more miles which will be incorporated into the new construction work such as studio, pool, cycle track and downtown headquarters.

AMES NOTES

Work on the $115,000 cycle track has been completed. The smallest team to contest the games comes from Barbadoes. It will send one man, a weight-lifter, and his manager. Canada, The host country will, of course, have the largest entry. At the moment 22 countries have officially entered the Games, breaking the previous record of 13 established in New Zealand in 1950. Only four countries remain to be heard from and these are expected to compete.

IRST APPLICATION

One of the first applications for tickets for the games comes all the way from South Africa. Mrs. E. C. Donaldson of Louis Trichardt, has written to say her son and three other young men decided two years ago to see the Games.

"They are currently working their way through the British Commonwealth," Mrs. Donaldson wrote, "and they have been in England and on the continent for the past year. They left their offices in Johannesburg for the Copper Belt in Northern Rhodesia where they earned big wages which made the trip possible. They are now working their way across to Canada."

The head of the Games Ticket Department in Vancouver has the South Africans' applications for tickets.

Retain Control of Stadium In Triangular Transaction; Kansas Stadium Also in Deal

NEW YORK A(P)—Ownership of Yankee Stadium—the "house that Ruth built"—passed out of the hands of New York Yankees Thursday in a $6,500,000 deal.

But co-owners Del E. Webb and Dan R. Topping of the Yankees said there will be no change in the operation of the baseball club. It was strictly a real estate deal, they explained, and will enable them to concentrate more on baseball.

In a three-cornered transaction, Webb and Topping sold Yankee Stadium and Blues Stadium in Kansas City, to the Arnold Johnson Corporation, headed by Arnold Johnson, a Chicagoan who specializes in big real estate purchases.

Johnson in turn sold the land under Yankee Stadium and the adjacent parking areas to the Knights of Columbus for $2,500,000.

Then, by means of long term leases, Johnson netted their land from the K of C and rented the entire property back to the Yankees.

The effect of the deal was that the Yankee baseball club now becomes tenant instead of the owner of both ball parks. Webb and Topping received a fat profit on the property they bought, along with Larry MacPhail, for $2,800,000 in 1945 and still own the two ball clubs.

HOCKEY CONNECTION

Johnson, 46-year-old industrialist, had one other formal contract with sports prior to his position with associates of Yankee Stadium.

Johnson was a vice-president and treasurer of Chicago Black Hawks and still serves as a director on the National Hockey League team. He was associated with Bill Tobin, current Black Hawk vice-president and general manager, when a syndicate was formed to buy the Hawks from the estate of the late Maj. Frederic McLaughlin.

The Kansas City park was not involved in Johnson's transaction with the Knights of Columbus.

Although none of the parties would say what the Yankees will have to pay in annual rental for the stadium, Johnson said he felt he was getting "a very good return on my money and is a fair deal to Del and Dan."

Johnson's lease with the Knights of Columbus, who own many other valuable pieces of real estate, is similar. The original lease is for 20 years, at an annual rental or "amortization payment" of $182,-500. Johnson has options of renewal which could extend the lease as long as 70 years. He also has the option of repurchasing the land for $1,000,000 at the end of 17 years. The Yankees have no repurchase clause in their lease with Johnson.

FORMER PITCHER DIES

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Louis A. McEvoy, 50, former right-handed pitcher of the Washington Senators and New York Yankees, died Thursday of cancer. McEvoy pitched professionally from 1926 to 1937.

Frontenacs Will Carry On In Quebec League

QUEBEC (CP)—The name Quebec Frontenacs will be retained by the city's entry in the Quebec Junior Hockey League, Hon. Gerald Martineau, honorary president, said Thursday night.

Martineau told a press conference the club executive voted 13-3 to drop the name of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A club, Quebec Citadelles, following purchase of that club from Frank Byrne.

However, by using the name Citadelles, Frontenacs would lose the right to line up four imports permitted in a first-year, junior A club.

Another reason was that under proposed interlocking schedule with the junior A clubs of the OHA, the club would have had to post a $25,000 guarantee with the OHA to complete the schedule.

Citadelles potted a similar guarantee to operate in the OHA, but it was refunded earlier this week.

COACH'S HOPES SLIM

Mr. Martineau said he is "satisfied to give a chance to coach Phil Watson of the Citadelles," to coach Frontenacs.

However, the QJHL adopted a resolution last year not to allow Watson in the league.

It looks very much as if the chances are small that he will be accepted in the league."

Watson is under a one-game suspension and was sentenced by the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association to post a $500 good conduct bond.

The QAHA order resulted from a fracas last spring between fans and Watson at the Montreal Forum in a league play-off with the Junior Canadiens.

Skov Leads Wings to Victory Over Lowly Chicago Hawks; Bruins Margin Maple Leafs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Glen Skov never figured he would take big time hockey by storm. He didn't.

But he has perseverance and that's why the Red Wings pay him a National Hockey League salary.

The strapping 22-year-old centre, fellow man Tommy Ivan is counting on for a "brilliant future" has found some scoring punch. He scored two goals Thursday night to lead the Red Wings to a 5-1 victory over the last-place Chicago Black Hawks.

In the only other game, Boston Bruins beat the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2.

Skov wasn't sensational. He was steady; all that Ivan asks for.

Those two goals gave him five for the season, four of them coming in the last four games. At that rate the 180-pounder forward will surpass the 13-goal total he had last year, the highest career he joined the Red Wings as a regular in 1950.

The victory gave the Wings a total of 40 points and a tie for first place with Montreal Canadiens, idle Thursday night.

Skov scored at 10:23 of the second period on a pass from left winger Marcel Pronovost and tallied the other at 14.51 of the third session. Howe, Alex Delvecchio and defenceman Red Kelly counted the others.

NEVER IN GAME

The Black Hawks, who were never in the running, tallied their goal when centre George Gee beat goalkeeper Terry Sawchuk at 13:01 of the third period.

Another two-goal performer was big George Armstrong. He scored the only two Leaf goals as the fourth-place Bruins gained their 13th victory in 29 starts.

The Bruins stood off a last-period Leaf rally for the fifth home-town fans, the smallest NHL crowd at Boston Garden this year.

Rightwinger Fleming Mackell tallied what turned out to be the winning goal at 6:36 of the third period.

The other Boston marksmen were Porky Dumart and Ed Sandford.

In the only game tonight, Red Wings travel to Chicago for a return match against the Black Hawks.

Richmond, Havana Get Franchises In International Baseball League

WASHINGTON (AP) — The International League Thursday awarded condition franchises to Richmond, Va., and Havana, Cuba.

The award carried the contingency that the new Richmond club owner, Harry D. Seibold, come up with a ball park that meets International League requirements by Jan. 5.

Seibold said he has no doubt that this requirement can be met. He said Mayor Edward E. Haddock of Richmond had assured him that if he could get the franchise, the mayor would provide him with a ball park.

The Havana entry into the International League is dependent on the Richmond Ball park, too. If Richmond fails to meet the requirement, the league will revert to a six-club circuit without either Richmond or Havana.

Frank Shaughnessy, International League president said that he had assured the Havana people at the minor league meeting earlier this month it could have the eighth franchise if Richmond were admitted.

Richmond had entered a serious bid at the minor league meeting, but it failed when Edwin M. Moore, owner of the Richmond franchise in the class-B Piedmont League, refused to sell. George Trautman, minor league commissioner, said he called Thursday's meeting because of the "unrest in Richmond" and that officials of both leagues were invited to iron things out.

Trautman, Shaughnessy and the others including representatives of Mayor Haddock, argued with Moore for more than eight hours in conferences in an effort to get him to sell his territorial rights.

In the end, Moore's sold his franchise to Seibold for a figure said to be $25,000. Moore, however, retained possession of the ball park in which the Piedmont League club played.

'Let Hawks Quit Raise Admission', Says Smythe

TORONTO (CP)—Conn Smythe, general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs at the National Hockey League, commenting on rumours that Chicago Black Hawks may fold said Thursday if "Let 'em quit."

"I personally am in favor of lessening the number of teams if necessary and having fewer but stronger teams."

He said he knew nothing about the rumor "but where there is much smoke there may be fire."

He suggested, in the event of the Hawks departure, New York Rangers be given first call on Chicago players, and a 10-per-cent increase in admission prices be introduced.

"We would be justified in charging 10 per cent more because we would be offering 20 per cent better merchandise."

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Glen Skov, Detroit, whose two goals helped the Red Wings down Chicago Black Hawks 5-1.

Fleming Mackell, Boston, who scored what proved to be the winning goal in Bruins' 3-2 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs.

George Armstrong, Toronto, who scored twice for Maple Leafs in the same game.

Minor Hockey

Six games were played in the minor hockey leagues last night, the completion of the midget, squirt, and juvenile — junior leagues for 1953. The next games in these three divisions will be played on Thursday, January 7, 1954.

In the juvenile-junior fixtures Team Three came through with a 4-1 victory over Team One while Team Four met their first defeat by a 4-3 score at the hands of Team Two.

Stewart Warner, Robb Royals and Moose Lodge held decisive over Webb Motors, Reid's Regents and Big "A" Company in the mid-get section.

Stewart Muirhead scored the only goal of the game as the Black Hawks notched a 1-0 win over the Maple Leafs in the squirt game played at six p.m.

Team Two held on for a 4-3 one goal win over Team Three to undefeated Team Four in the J-J league game. Vaughan from Bukard and While, While from Upper, Jr. Day and Hughes from Adamson and Murry and Bob Brooks on a solo rush doing the scoring for the winners.

Gerry Goyer was in on all three of his team's goals, getting a pair himself and setting up Bill Vesterfelt for the other. Vesterfelt was credited with an assist on Goyer's last goal.

Wayne Bowerman was the big gun in Team Three's victory as he banged in the hat trick and assisted on another. Gary Little scored the other marker. Atkins had a duo of helpers and James got an assist when Bovey slapped in his rebound.

"Shaker" Baker notched Team One's goal on a pass from Meagher and with a few breaks might have had several more as he was trying all during the game.

Stewart Warner downed Webb Motors 6-1 with Bob Crujl leading the way on a goal and a trio of assists. Joe Calnan and Dale Beer each had a pair while Frank Critz got the other.

Don Woods scored for the losers on a nice passing play with Wally Instead.

Gerald Sinclair had a goal and an assist in Bobb Royals' initial victory of the year. George Ferguson and Bill Yull planted the remaining two. Thomas got a helper on Ferguson's goal.

Bill Dickey broke through for the Regents' goal with five seconds left to play, spoiling Jack O'Neil's bid for a shutout.

Bill Fraser paced the attack for Moose Lodge as they edged Big "A" 3-2. Foster scored a pair and got an assist on Duvall's goal as did Leo St. Dennis.

Ab Wright had a goal and an assist in a losing cause with Howard Skelly denting the twine for the second goal. Jack Gill set Wright up for his goal on a pass out from behind the net.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, DEC. 19, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—During the morning hours make strenuous efforts—especially in financial matters. Later in the day things should clear up, openings appear; hide your heart empty.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — The day may appear ordinary and uninteresting but beneath the surface there are possibilities to study. Think harder and go farther than usual. It will pay well.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Step up effort and quality of work during this somewhat uninteresting period. Be very careful making promises, signing contracts, legal documents; in real estate. Better safe than sorry.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Remember, we all were given free will by God and are responsible for what we do. Don't blame others; look within your soul. New ideas may influence future decisions, plans.

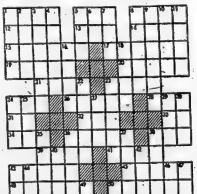
July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Should be favorable time for small businesses to expand wisely, take on new life. Blue-chip investments can be profitable. Civic, state affairs under improved aspects.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Your planetary forecast stresses more caution in money matters than usual. Personal affairs in better position. Concentrate there.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Don't try the speculative, unless well-recommended. May be uncertainties in personal affairs; reserve opinions. Be the peacemaker.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Goals and gains must be earned—perhaps won—the hard way today. It may be easier tomorrow but Scorpio can do it either way. Have patience; concentrate on the essentials.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Special opportunities today for those who are alert and on-the-job. Highly favored; home and heart interests. They offer refreshing contentment.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Although aspects warn against erratic moves and moods, they could help the best efforts. You can make progress, profits, gain pleasure. Don't brood; be happy.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Don't guess, or take foolish chances. If not sure, listen, observe. Then proceed "on your own."

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—The unusual and new will stand out today. Take plenty of time, know your way. Then pitch in and, if you have—and win. Be consistent.

YOU BORN TODAY have intellectual versatility, not only learn readily but usually thirst for knowledge; often educate yourself. You can reach high levels, specializing in banking, selling, management. Don't scatter your efforts; concentrate on one or two things and achieve more. Birthdate of: Albert A. Michelson, scientist; Edwin M. Stanton, Amer. jurist, statesman.

Oshawa Hunters Fined

LINDSAY (CP) — Two Oshawa hunters, John Crooke and Ray Mackay, Thursday were convicted of transporting deer without tags. Crooke was fined $50 and costs and Mackay was placed on a year's probation.

75-Year-Old Hotel Burned

COMBER (CP)—The fire brigade in this town 20 miles south of Windsor fought its second fire in two days Wednesday night when the old hotel burned to the ground.

The Aubin House, a 75-year-old structure located on the old stage coach route to Chatham, was razed by flames which started in a chimney and were fanned by a north wind.

Firemen, hindered by lack of water, could only protect nearby buildings.

Tuesday night, the local 10-cent store was burned out.

14 Sentenced For Trieste Riot

TRIESTE (Reuters)—An Allied military court today sentenced 14 persons to prison terms ranging from 17 days to six months for taking part in pro-Italian riots Nov. 4 to 5, in which six persons were killed in clashes with police. Most of the sentences were suspended. Seven persons were found not guilty and acquitted.

The court, presided over by Maj. Robert Grabb of the United States army, gave the heaviest sentence, six months, to a 50-year-old man found guilty of instigation.

1954 SPORTS CAR PACES STUDEBAKER STYLING

Here is Studebaker's brand new sports car for 1954, the Commander Starliner Hard-top. The low, wind-swept lines that have won national and international honors are accentuated by new grille treatment. Interiors are as exciting as the style pace-setting lines of the car, with appointments and upholstery harmonizing with the 10 solid and 11 two-tone combinations in which the model is available. The Starliner is also available in the Champion series.

Britain Shrouded In Thick Fog

LONDON (AP) — Thick fog settled on Britain today and the weather man warned that it might stay. Trains and buses ran late high across the country. All flying stopped at London airport.

Worst-affected areas were London, southern England and Glasgow and Edinburgh, Forecasters said the sun might break through in patchy drifts in the afternoon, but the fog would thicken up again by nightfall.

Most of continental Europe reported weather approaching normal after the early-winter mild spell. Italy however, still basked today in June-like sunshine.

A cold snap in northern Germany Slight fog covered the German coast and moved inland up in the Elbe and Weser estuaries.

Canadian Held For Attempting To Smuggle Gold

MANILA (CP) — William Ernest Jolliffe, 37-year-old China-born Canadian, today pleaded not guilty to a charge of attempting to smuggle gold bullion from the Philippines to New York. Trial was set for Monday.

Jolliffe, a former assistant to the Canadian government trade commission in Shanghai, was arrested by customs agents Dec. 7 as he was about to board a plane for Hong Kong. The agents said they seized 22 gold bars, worth about $17,500, strapped around his waist.

SERVED IN NAVY

Jolliffe, who served part of the Second World War on the Atlantic with the Royal Canadian Navy, took the trade commission post in Shanghai after the war. In 1949 he was posted to Hong Kong where he resigned to go into business for himself.

His wife and three children arrived in Hong Kong from Toronto two months ago.

Jolliffe was born at Chengtu, China, in 1916.

Gold Exporters Able to Sell On Free Market

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott announced Thursday that gold exporters no longer will have to debase their product in selling to the so-called free world markets.

He announced also that mine operators who elect to sell on the free market, and thereby forego the government's gold subsidy, can switch back to the subsidy after six months instead of a year.

Experts believe the changes will be of some benefit to one large gold mine, Kerr-Addison, and a few smaller ones, but will have little impact on the bulk of the industry which produces base metals.

Prices on the free markets, which at one time reached a high of some 900 an ounce, recently have dropped. They currently are less than a dollar more than the official price of $35 (United States funds) an ounce.

POLIO SUSPECTED

HALIFAX (CP)—Two Christmas parties scheduled for children of naval personnel have been cancelled by two suspected polio cases at the Shannon Park housing centre; the navy said today.

One naval man and a naval dependent are in hospital for observation.

Laniel Tops Fifth Ballot But His Total Vote Declines

VERSAILLES, France (CP) — Premier Joseph Laniel topped the fifth ballot for the French presidency today but failed to gain the absolute parliamentary majority needed for victory.

The deputies and senators, meeting in joint session, polled 403 votes to give Laniel three candidates, and none got enough votes for election to the post vacated by the past president Socialist Vincent Auriol.

Premier Laniel, wealthy industrialist and businessman, got 374 votes, a drop of 34 from the fourth ballot. For election 441 votes were needed.

Marcel-Edmond Naegelen, Socialist, got 312 votes, a drop of 32 from his last total, Jean Meedecin, a Radical Socialist moderate and mayor of the Riviera city of Nice, got 197.

Meedecin re-entered the race just before the fifth ballot started. He had dropped out after the first ballot, on which he received 54 votes.

Never before in history have more than two ballots been required to elect a French president.

The result of the issue is still undecided after three days of political scrambling. A sixth ballot was to be held but observers see little chance of resolving the problem before Sunday at the earliest.

Laniel, a wealthy independent textile magnate who has been premier since June 28, received 456 votes in Friday night's count. He was closely followed by his only serious opponent, 61-year-old Socialist Marcel-Edmond Naegelen with 344.

The search for a compromise candidate continued. Mail was became apparent that the key Radical Socialists (moderates) were standing firm in their opposition to Laniel. Many senators and deputies threw their votes to non-candidates in order to keep either Laniel or Naegelen from being elected. Some even cast blank ballots.

The two avowed candidates were backed by the opposite wings of French politics. Leftist members, including the large Communist bloc, lined up solidly behind Naegelen, while the rightists lavished Laniel.

The Communists threw their support to Naegelen because Socialists, like the Reds, oppose the projected European army. Laniel had been only lukewarm toward the plan.

Three New Arrivals Put Whooping Cranes Ahead of Survival Battle

By DAVE CHEAVENS

AUSTWELL, Tex. (AP)—The arrival of three more of the world's rarest birds, the whooping crane, has put the endangered species a little further ahead in their battle for survival.

There are just nearly 30 birds that are feeding in the swamps of their ancestral home, three more than left here last spring on their annual Canadian migration to the Arctic circle.

Julian A. Howard, manager of the Aransas Pass wild life refuge on Blackjack peninsula, had been watching for three or four weeks, since the birds had been reported seen in flight from western Canada.

Howard and his crew of half a dozen grinning scientists zealously guard the whoopers every winter at this south Texas refuge. They have been on duty with 30-foot observation towers, and patrol the swamps and waterways by jeep and boats equipped with two-way radios.

One of the toughest jobs is standing between the whoopers and hunters who sometimes get more curious about the big birds than they are concerned whether the cranes live or die out.

The whoopers don't like to be disturbed. They prefer the shallow bay waters and shorelines of this 47,000-acre wilderness. The refuge is between San Antonio bay and St. Charles bay, on Aransas Pass and Matagorda island and the gulf of Mexico.

This is the winter home of the huge cranes, with their brilliant white bodies and black-etched wing tips. It is the only known wintering area for the 30 or so pentinental whoopers, who hatch their young somewhere near the Arctic circle in Canada then fly with them in snug family groups to the gulf coast.

RESCUE TEAMS PUSH UP GLACIER TO PLANE WRECK

At Least Three Alive Out of Crew of Nine

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP)—United States and Icelandic rescue teams pushed up a mile-high glacier today toward the wreck of a United States Navy bomber and its reported survivors.

The smashed plane, a twin-engined Lockheed Neptune which disappeared Thursday on a patrol flight from Keflavik airport near here, was sighted Friday by a U.S. Air Force rescue plane. At least three of its nine-man crew were said to be alive.

Planes quickly dropped survival equipment and a U.S. air rescue squadron flew a rescue search party, including Icelandic ski experts, to a small airfield at the foot of the glacier.

The glacier, near the south coast about 110 miles southeast of here, is 30 miles long and from 10 to 20 miles wide. It rises as high as 4,466 feet above sea level.

The plane, described as "badly broken up," was spotted at about the 4,000-foot mark after a 24-hour search by helicopters, ski troops and planes and ships.

Wind swept the frozen wastes early today, but there were signs the weather might improve.

The number took off from Keflavik airfield at 10 a.m. Thursday (5 a.m. EST) and approximately five hours, its last message received by the Air Force, was aboard the nine miles southeast of Keflavik and did not mention any trouble.

Perjury Charge Laid Against St. Louis Officer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A federal grand jury probing the $2,000,000 Brinks robbery here Friday indicted a suspended St. Louis policeman on a charge of perjury.

Action against the 32-year-old ex-officer, Elmer Dalton, came less than 15 hours after the execution of the kidnapers of the $1,200,000 robbery.

Dalton, suspended last week by the St. Louis police board pending a hearing on charges growing out of his handling of the arrest, appeared before the grand jury and was charged with the grand jury uncontested, then, a short time later, drove away with the girl in a car he drove.

"In practically every investigation, some concrete starting point is found," Inspector Adamson said Friday. "So far, we have turned up no such point in this case. We have considered every possible theory, yet each case is somewhere the face of the known facts."

LIE DETECTOR USED

Police questioned Wilson for hours. He failed to his story of the assault-kidnapping. They took him to the lovers' lane at 3 a.m. to see if a person watching from the spot he described could see the car and girl. The car was parked at a distance of 50 feet, as he said. Police decided such a thing was possible.

Wilson voluntarily took a lie detector test in Buffalo Friday. Attendant said he "passed with flying colors." Wilson said he wanted to convince the police he was holding nothing back. The police said the test helped eliminate any possible suggestion his story was unbelievable.

One report checked by police this week was that Armco, whose interests ranged from motorcycle riding to roller skating and Johnnie Ray records, had a new curve ball initials, "K.M." into her arm and with the same name had Marion's initials or perhaps her full name carved on her arm.

REPORT DENIED

The girl's father, Ross McDowell, said the story about the line, etc., told by Wilson's fellow office workers at a photo-engraving plant in Kansas City, Mo., where Wilson checked the files in search of anyone who might fit into the case.

One theory is that the girl was kidnapped and slain—but no trace of a body has been found. Police Chief Wilfred McLellan of Scarborough, Ont., said a search of the township hall by the Ontario provincial police and Constable Marcus McDowell left home of her own free will and is still alive.

14-Year-Old Comox, B.C. Boy Gets Coveted George Medal

OTTAWA (CP)—A 14-year-old boy's heroic rescue of an airman from a burning plane has given him the coveted George Medal, one of the highest decorations for bravery in the Commonwealth.

Robert Thomas Waters of Comox B. C., becomes the seventh and youngest Canadian to receive the decoration, instituted in 1940 and named for King George VI.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Waters of Comox, and Albert Richard De cuyper, 30-year-old farmer, each rescued a man from the burning wreck of a Lancaster bomber. Flight Lieutenant also was awarded the George Medal. Eight airmen were killed.

PUBLISHED IN GAZETTE

A simple announcement Friday in Canada Gazette said the Governor Queen has approved the award of the George Medal, listing De Cuyper and Waters by details of their heroic fest of Nov. 24, 1952, accompanied the brief announcement.

Details were given, however, in RCAF citations.

The George Medal, for "acts of great bravery," is awarded principally as a civilian award although previous winners include two air force officers, an American, a Negro, an immigrant and a police constable.

AIR FORCE GIVES STORY

The air force said young Waters saw the Lancaster, on a training flight from the RCAF station at Comox, crash in heavy bush and swamp. He went immediately to the scene after telling Mr. De Cuyper who was working on a farm nearby.

Waters entered the flaming wreckage to drag the pilot, FO. R. F. Johnson of Springhill, N. S. to safety.

De Cuyper spotted another crew member, FO. M. J. Wright of Vancouver, trying to free himself. De Cuyper reached the wing of the plane, but was hurled into the air by an explosion. Not injured seriously, De cuyper returned to the rescue attempt and removed Wright from the plane.

SIX SURVIVORS CATCH UP ON EATS AND SLEEP

Miraculously Escape From Blizzard

SEPT ILES, Que. (CP)—Six veteran bushmen, an 11-day ordeal of tramping through the rugged wilds of northern Quebec behind them, settled down today to the pleasure of anticipating spending Christmas with their families.

Only a short time ago, Christmas was a thought, an ambition an almost unhoped for dream. Today, it was a reality and they intended to give themselves over to the true spirit of the season.

The men miraculously survived a crash of their twin-engine Anson aircraft Dec. 6, and a week of their subsequent adventures. They tramped through rough terrain, perhaps 80 to 100 miles under adverse conditions—snowed under and in temperatures that were nearly always below freezing.

They came across a trapper's cabin and that was the start of their salvation. An Indian trapper found them and brought them to a remote weather station.

Friday, they flew from the 150-odd miles to Sept Iles on the north shore of the St. Lawrence river, 360 miles northeast of Quebec.

CONDITION GOOD

Four of the men were later flown from Sept Iles to Montreal and then on to Toronto. The other two remained here to rest up a while before flying to their homes.

All were in remarkably good condition, considering the ordeal they had been through.

Doug Bailey of Toronto was found to be suffering from two fractured ribs; Wilbur Tubman of Thessalon, Ont., had head injuries; pilot George Stapley of Sept Iles and Roscherer, N.Y., shock; and Clarnet Mooney of Toronto a broken arm and frost-bitten toes.

Joe MacKinnon of Middleton, N.S., and Clint Burley of Toronto were found to be in good condition.

Dolby, Tubman, Mooney and Burley were on the Toronto flight. Kinnon was to fly back to Halifax today while Stapley's plans were undecided.

When their plane crashed in a blinding snowstorm, they scrambled into a clump of trees. The wings were torn off and the engine fell out; the fuselage missed a large rock and settled in a muskeg.

They six are described by the CMMK Construction Company and Foundation Company of Canada as a month stint on a railway project in Ungava's rich iron ore development.

ADVERSE WEATHER

The Anson, owned by the construction company, took off Dec. 6 from Ross Bay, Labrador, for a 224-mile, three-hour flight to Sept-Iles.

It ran into a blinding snowstorm. The radio was iced and could not be used. It was decided to make for Mont Wright, 70 miles away, but iced up rapidly and crushed.

The crew remained at the scene of the crash for three days. Capt. Bourgie left the tower was spotted three miles away.

It took them three days to reach the tower. He "borrowed" a canoe for a map of the area.

The men found a telephone line leading from the tower brought them to the trapper's cabin and rescue.

Wilson Passes Lie Detector Test With Flying Colors

TORONTO (CP)—"Bizarre. Fantastic. Nothing about it adds up, no matter how you look at it."

That's how Detective - Inspector Harold Adamson described the thorough township'describes the disappearance two weeks ago Sunday night of Barbara McDowell, 17-year-old baby-faced blonde.

He and fellow officers have checked and rechecked more than 200 persons, have driven more than 20,000 miles, have waded through thicket and farm, and have followed every clue, but nothing—absolutely no matter how improbable. They have found nothing significant.

The township's 16-man detective force has worked 20 hours a day since Ella Mae Wilson, 19, walked into the Scarborough police office dazed and bleeding and said a man in a masked mad forced his way into the car in which he and the girl were sitting on a lovers' lane, slugged him and the girl unconscious, then, a short time later, drove away with the girl in a car he stole.

Ontario Farmers In Good Shape For Winter Season

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario farmers are in good shape at the start of the winter season with most of their general needs on hand, fall ploughing, fencemending and other farm chores completed.

In most regions, except northern districts, cattle were still on the pasture last week, believed to be a record.

The unusually mild weather up to the recent temperature drop permitted farmers to catch up on odd chores in preparation for the winter season and in many parts of the province, it is reported, they are in better shape than last year.

While some southern counties enjoyed mild weather, Bailey Bros. reported more snow by the beginning of the week than in all of last winter.

Many counties report little movement of livestock to the high pressed prices. On the other hand, there are reports that farmers in Victoria county they sold for $12 to $14 each.

Crop returns are a "fair volume" of Christmas trees, most of which are being cut in northern Ontario.

Several counties needed more soil moisture.

Paris Airports Are Shut Down Result Strike

PARIS (AP) — Paris airports were shut down at noon today by a strike of control tower and radar operators, leaving their equipment unmanned.

Planes at both Orly and Le Bourget fields were held up and incoming flights were diverted away. At Orly, passengers were already aboard a plane about to take off when the strike call came into effect. They had to disembark.

The strikers are demanding an hour pay now fixed at a minimum 24,000 francs (about $69) monthly.

RUSH-TIME STRIKE

The walkout came just when both Orly, base for inter-continental flights, and Le Bourget, port for European flights, were handling a pre-holiday rush.

Civil aviation authorities said this morning that they planned to requisition the safety and control device operators if they walked out. This means that the government can employers could order the employees to return to their jobs or be dismissed.

Balcomè Goes On Trial For Murder Next February

Magistrate Agrees Evidence Is 'Very Circumstantial'

MORRISBURG (CP)—2nd Lieut. Peter Ernest Robin Balcombe goes on trial for murder next February.

The 24-year-old London, Ont., subaltern was committed late Friday at the end of a two-day preliminary hearing into the woman's charge that he was responsible for the fatal stabbing of Marie Annie Carrier of Bicnville, Que.

A farm boy found Miss Carrier's body, wounded body in a ditch near this St. Lawrence river town Dec. 15. Three days later in the home of his wife's parents at Rockmka, near London, Balcombe was arrested as he dined with his wife and two young children.

At the conclusion of crown evidence, defence counsel J. M. P. Kelly of Ottawa moved that Balcombe be let go. "The crown has succeeded only in proving that a crime was committed," Mr. Kelly said. "There is not the slightest evidence that my client caused with the crime."

Magistrate S. M. Cass agreed that evidence was very circumstantial," but he believed there was sufficient for a jury to be accused upon his trial.

The prisoner committed for trial before the spring assizes, which open in nearby Cornwall next February 15. Balcombe appeared stiffly at attention, said:

"I understand the only thing I can say is I am not guilty."

Dr. W. E. Hagen, psychologist and a professor at Queen's University, Kingston, described his examination of Miss Carrier's body. He said the 22-year-old CWAC reserve sergeant had been stabbed once in the eye with a tin knife apparently sharp on both edges, twice in the left breast and once under the right breast. He said there was a shallow cut on each side of the abdomen.

Dr. Hagen said Mr. Carlson, Balcombe's company commander at Valcartier Camp, Que., said a similar Balcombe carried during training earlier this year at Wallaceburg and Angor, Alta., was missing from the accused's effects.

Capt. Carlson said that a coroner's check of equipment of officers on leave, he did not find the Balcombe knife in Balcombe's gear.

Dr. Hay said abrasions on Miss Carrier's neck could have been caused by a knotted silk stocking found around the victim's clothing in a tourist cabin near Woodcock Corners. She analyzed for the Ontario attorney-general's department and testified that the abrasions said the stocking could have been used as a gag.

Charles Gaudette, employee at the Beachville tourist camp near Woodstock, Ont., said he sold a pair of silk stockings like the one in court room as the soldier. Clayton Gold he and the tourist camp owner, identified a stocking found in woman's clothing in the cabin a week later and turned it over to police.

When the hearing opened Wednesday, Mrs. Sarah Therese Carrier, younger sister of the slain woman identified the clothing as belonging to Annie.

Federal Surplus In November Is $9,045,000

OTTAWA (CP) — Government spending increased during November, but revenues more than kept pace, resulting in a $9,045,000 surplus. This compared with a $3,520,000 surplus in November last year.

Higher charges against defence, public debt and welfare accounts increased government expenditures to $329,452,000 for the month, up $11,251,000 from $318,207,000 a year ago, the monthly treasury statement showed.

This was more than balanced by higher personal and corporation tax collections and increased customs and excise revenues, boosting total revenues to $332,646,000, a $15,230,000 gain from $307,416,000.

November's surplus increased the total for the first eight months of the 1953-54 fiscal year to $275,-068,000, about $16,800,000 below the $291,850,000 surplus in the first eight months of last year.

The government has forecast a total surplus of about $11,000,000 by March 31, 1954, compared to last year's $24,000,000.

Christmas Trees Hold Spotlight, With Turkeys, Geese, Close Seconds

A market of Christmas trees! Everywhere the evergreen trees predominated, some leaned against brick walls, rested on the floors of doors trucks, and decorated the rear of cars. There were spruce and balsam, with spruce predominating. Lovely trees of medium height, and colour or dark and lighter greens—all lending their beauty to the spirit of the season, testimonies to the birthday of the Prince of Peace, and His gift to men.

The price ranged from 75 cents for those trees as tall as 30 for the tall, and stately ones suitable for the lofty ceilings of the big homes of the home type tree.

A few flowers, chrysanthemums, were still on sale in the inner market, and were selling at 60 cents per bunch, and sold at 10 cents each.

Vegetables were sparse at an early hour, with parsnips at 50 the six quart basket, onions at 75, potatoes at 75 and 80 cents each.

Fruit included Macintosh Reds at 75 cents per six quart basket, Northern spies, and others at 75 cents per basket, and also at 75 the six quart basket.

There was a splendid showing of fowl, turkey hens, at 85 cents per pound dressed, gobblers at 75 cents, geese, nice plump birds at 60 cents per pound, capons also at 60 cents.

Eggs ranged from 78 cents per dozen for small pullets, 40 for medium, and 45 for large.

Butter was steady at 70 cents per pound.

Some exceptionally fine Christmas cakes were selling at 70 cents per pound, in large, medium and small sizes, fruit, nut and nuts and cherries—just like mother used to make. Fancy cakes included decorated shortbreads at 25 per dozen, jam-filled cookies at 25 per dozen, long doughnuts, sugar coated at 45 per dozen, while the usual "round" doughnut, a Christmas 'must' was 40 cents per dozen. Date squares were 25 cents.

Fancy work included satin cushion, duffles at $1.50, braided at $3 each, and in all shades, some in white crochet and one large green and gold frog at $15, nice Christmas gifts. There were aprons, dollies, with filmy ruffles, and fancy linens, towels, chair sets, socks, mitts, dresses, all retailing at reasonable prices.

Dairy commodities included honey at the usual prices, 80 cents for four pound pail, and 20 cents for the one pound section.

The blind had some fine handcrocheted lunch cloths, belts, change purses, bill folds, purses with coin compartments, all at reasonable prices, and nice suggestions for Christmas giving.

Train, Bus, Airline Travel On Par With Last Season

The volume of Christmas passenger traffic on railways and airlines has not as yet increased or lessened over last year, according to C.P.R. officials. Agents agree reservations are on par with those of last year.

Motor coach operators have been sold out for some time, George Campbell, C.P.R. passenger agent said, but airline space is still available though filling rapidly. "There is still plenty of space available on coaches," he said, "and we shall be able to accommodate all those wishing to travel during the holiday period." The Toronto-Montreal service is fully guaranteed with extra sections and an extra train which, Mr. Campbell said, would be running for the next two weeks.

G. M. Davidson, C.N.R. agent, pointed out many persons do not travel until the day before Christmas or Christmas Eve and he said an auctioneer for 35 years, was very well known in the Frankford district, having served as reeve of Murray township for a number of years as well as being reeve of Frankford for a few years. The funeral was largely attended by sorrowing friends and relatives.

Oldtimer Grows Sentimental Over Memory of Happier Days

"So crackers and cheese don't make a meal, eh" cracked an "oldtimer" of the city who prefers to remain anonymous.

He was referring to a statement made by a Liquor Board official yesterday, but was slightly off beam in his interpretation of the statement.

In any event, the oldtimer who was a "flaming youth" back in 1897 was a bit disgruntled with the modern day "giveaway" that proclaimed they came under the category of "There's nothing new under the sun."

"Seems in some modern hotels they charge for crackers and cheese, and the boss gets himself in wrong claiming they constitute a meal," he snorted.

Back in the good "old nineties" he went on, they gave things away. Not just in small volume they do today. "In fact, the giveaway idea is getting to be the pest where before long, you'll be buying the gift and they'll toss in the television set, washing machine, electric stove, or a vacuum cleaner."

FREE FOOD WITH BEER

Recalling the oysters and cheese, and shucks, you could walk into most any of the 19 hotels that adorned Bridge Street, and Front and Bell Fitzimmons was the idol of the fight fans, and got your fill. And now you could get a five-cent glass of beer that would bathe the "crackers."

"Yup, them were the days", he said. "You could get six drinks of suds in a bucket for a quarter, and if you knew the barkeep, and he knew you, you could get a free filled regardless of gallonage. "Scarred" would give five cents, but if you preferred a better quality, it cost an extra nickel. Bartenders were huge handlebar moustaches and rubber collars.

"A suit of tailored clothes cost you $18, and eggs were a dime a dozen. You poured your own whiskey and the bartender tossed the change into a cigar box."

"Don't get me wrong, I'm a favorite Saturday night patron to my own blood—I'm not against the buggy whip and Ole Dobbin would 'druther' you be here than you stayed over, the hotels operated at 6:30 a.m.

"Those were no jangling juke boxes, Eddie Fisher, Frank Sinatras, or Maria Ewans in those days. Itinerant musicians used to drop into the hotels, and for the fees of dilapidated fiddles, three-string banjoes and accordions mandolins. And once a sawdust tenor or bull-frog baritone used to jerk the tears from a sentimental crowd with a beery rendition of "After the Ball" or "Sweet Adeline." Oh, boy, Come Home With Me Now."

EVENING'S ENTERTAINMENT

First stop on the Saturday night circuit was the Taylor house where the Warren building is now located. Then came the Queen's for the latest fight news and after a brief sojourn there to the Victoria Hotel where the Victoria and Grey Trust Co. now stands.

Here was the first "meal" of the evening for Jack Dempsey and Tommy Cochrane dispensed hard-boiled eggs and at times where round Johnny Burke was host," said the oldtimer. "Johnny was quite a favorite, and thought nothing of personally inspecting the bartender's teeth to see if he was of age."

Then on to the Gibson House at the corner of Bridge and Front and over to the New Balmoral, but

Babson to Make Annual Forecast

Roger W. Babson's Business and Financial Outlook for 1954 will appear in the Ontario Intelligencer on December 31st.

Mr. Babson —pioneer in the field of business and financial statistics—enjoys an unusual record of success in his annual forecasts. His score for 1953 was 84 per cent accurate.

Roger W. Babson

On December 31, 1953, he predicted: (1) that World War III would not start during 1953; (2) that the supply of money would be ample in 1953 and there would be less government control; (3) that disposable income and demand for goods would hold up in 1953 due to full employment; (4) that rent controls would be a thing of the past in most areas in 1953; (5) that the cost of mortgage money would increase; and (6) he definitely forecast lower stock prices.

Watch for the Babson Business and Financial Outlook' for 1954 in our issue of December 31.

Cars Collide Head-On Near City Limits

One man was injured and property damage amounting to approximately $1,000 resulted Friday evening in a head-on collision between two vehicles on No. 37 Highway just north of the city.

Injured was Vern Ambrokew, Picton soldier, who suffered a cut over his left eye and lacerations to his hip and knee.

Ambrokew was a passenger in a southbound car driven by Robert Baragar, of Canifton, which collided with a vehicle driven by Glen Parks, of Plainfield. The accident occurred when the first curve outside the city on No. 37 was investigated by Provincial Police Constable K. Williamson.

Cash's Social Club Holds Christmas Party

On Thursday evening approximately 100 members and friends of the social club enjoyed their annual Christmas party and dance at the Army, Navy and Air Force Memorial Club rooms, provided by Harold McAvoy and his orchestra.

The first part of the evening was spent in enjoying a delicious turkey supper, with all the trimmings catered by the Women's Auxiliary. Following dinner the C. E. Kerr, president of the club, addressed a few words of welcome to those present, after which he turned to the committee for all their help in arranging for the party. The prize for the draw won by Mr. M. Shorey. Several gifts of appreciation were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hall by Mr. T. Hood, to Mr. Wesgate by Mr. J. G. Perritt, to Mr. E. Shorey by Mr. Ed. Hall.

With a loud bang and a jolly hello Santa Claus arrived to present the gifts.

Dancing rounded out the evening with spot dances won by Mrs. Hall and Mr. Shorey, Mr. and Mrs. Williams and Mrs. N. Williams and Mr. K. Williams. The spot dances at the evening was won by Mr. E. Lashway and Miss S. Cross. Dancing ended at 2 a.m. with the playing of "The Queen" after which all went home after an enjoyable evening.

IN MEMORIAM

CARSON.—In loving memory of a dear sister, Shirley, who left us one year ago, December 30th, 1951.

The nearest sister and sweetest One of the best whom God could bless.

Always loving, gentle, thoughtful and kind.

Always willing to help a friend.

Ten years at the mercy of God that has fled,

But time brought many a long night and weep

Many a lonely remembrance fondly and deep.

—Ever remembered by brother Gordon. D19

CARSON.—In ever loving memory of a dear sister, Shirley, who left us on December 30th, 1951.

Darling you suffered so hard,

And watched her suffering there;

Slowly but surely passing away

From the pain she scarce could bear.

Then the angels came to relieve her suffering and pain in peace.

We know she has gone to realms of love,

And in Heaven has peace at last.

—Lovingly remembered by her Aunt Annie. D19

CARSON.—In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister Shirley Carson, who passed away December 30th, 1951.

There are others, yes, we know

But she was our only darling her so.

Two years ago, we were all by her side,

And watched her fight with all our heart.

The wound so deep, it will never heal

Only those who have lost know how we feel.

If we could speak with Shirley today,

And ask her if she'd like to stay,

And Shirley spoke from Heaven above,

She'd say indeed would be worth while.

—Sadly missed and ever remembered by Mom, Dad, Sister Joan and brother Bob. D19

CARSON.—In loving memory of a dear sister, Shirley, who left us December 30th, 1951.

Somewhere beyond the shadows

Where a great light shines,

Whom I could not follow,

Whom I loved and cherished so dearly,

Left behind and sadly grieved.

Forget you, dear Shirley, no I never shall.

As years roll on I miss you still.

Memories are sweet and dear to me

Though you are gone from my sight.

The sorrow of parting without

Good night.

But God is good, He gave me strength

To bear my sorrow alone.

He is the comfort who knows

And the only friend I own.

—Sadly missed and remembered by Georgina, Bill and family. D19

THORN.—In loving memory of Tom Thorn, who passed away December 31st, 1951.

I'm thinking of you today Tom,

I'm still the same nothing could

I thought about you yesterday,

And the day before that.

I will think of you tomorrow Tom,

And all the days through the years.

I'll keep you in my memory Tom,

I loved you too dearly to ever forget.

—Sadly missed by wife Agnes. D19

—Always remembered by Mom and family. D19

THORN.—In loving memory of a dear dad, Tom Thorn, who died December 31st, 1951.

Although I miss you night and day

I know how much you have gone

For a better place.

The Great Reunion

Dad, I know you are yours no more

But God has called you to His side

And I know you are resting there.

—Loved by and remembered by Irene. D19

THORN.—In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Tom Thorn, who passed away December 31st, 1951.

Days of sadness still come over us,

Tears flow unseen at times

For memory keeps you ever near us,

We always remember, always care.

Jerusalem the Golden

Jerusalem the golden,
With milk and honey blest,
Beneath thy contemplation
Sink heart and voice oppressed;
I know not, O I know not
What holy joys are there
What radiancy of glory,
What bliss beyond compare.

They stand, those halls of Zion,
All jubilant with song,
And bright with many an angel,
And all the martyr throng
The Prince is ever in them,
The daylight is forever,
The pastures of the blessed
Are decked in glorious sheen.

There is the throne of David
And there, from care released,
The song of them that triumph,
The shout of them that feast;
And they who, with their Leader,
Have conquered in the fight,
Forever and forever
Are clad in robes of white.

O sweet and blessed country,
The home of God's elect!
O sweet and blessed country
That eager hearts expect!
Jesus, in mercy bring us
To that dear land of rest
Who art, with God the Father,
And Spirit, ever blest.

"JERUSALEM THE GOLDEN"

"Jerusalem The Golden," one of the popular hymns of the twentieth century church, was taken from a long and famous poem written eight centuries ago by Bernard of Cluny, abbot of a French monastery.

The Latin poem, inspired by the author's impatience with a sinful world, contrasted the evils of earth with the glories of heaven. Bearing the title, "Concerning A Disdain Of The World", the poem of 3,000 lines was a vigorous protest against the sins of the age which saw all about him.

It ended with a vision of the "City Of Gold" in which the imagination of the writer enjoyed full freedom and it is these closing stanzas which Dr. John Mason Neale, London churchman and scholar, translated to make a hymn for Christian worshipers.

"Jerusalem The Golden" was first published in 1862 in a small volume issued by Dr. Neale under the title, "Hymns Of The Eastern Church Translated". This collection also included an English rendition of the popular hymn, "The Day of Resurrection" by John of Damascus.

Bernard of Cluny was born early in the twelfth century in Morlaix, France and, when he became of age, he dedicated his life to Christian service and entered the monastery. The peace within the abbey walls was overshadowed, however, by Bernard's concern for the worldliness which he saw outside the monastery. Finally, his impatience found expression in verse and the poem from which Dr. Neale made his translation was born.

A Lift for Living

Bethlehem and Barbed Wire

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Last year I fulfilled a long cherished dream. I was in the land of our Lord at the Christmas season.

My plane landed at the great, new, dynamic city of Tel Aviv. There in that vital young nation of Israel is the blending of east and west. But how impressive to me was the meeting of the modern and the eternal.

I had stopped in the Holy Land to broadcast a Christmas message to America having landed in Israel. I could not go quickly across the border, which is held by the Arabs. However, I did ask to be taken as near as possible to Bethlehem. So they drove me to a point where I could look across the brown hills to "the little town of Bethlehem."

BARBED WIRE BOUNDARY.

But beside me as I watched stood a soldier with fixed bayonet. And between myself and Bethlehem stretched a barbed wire marking the boundary of Israel and Jordan.

That bayonet and barbed wire were sinister reminders that the Prince of Peace, born in Bethlehem, has not yet banished war from the governments of men. But shall we give up hope? Ah, no!

Of the Babe born in Bethlehem, we might paraphrase Sir Winston Churchill's famous statement about the British airmen. We might say that in all history there is no other situation in which so many owed so much to One so little.

When a stone is dropped into a lake, it starts ripples radiating. But as the distance from where the stone fell increases, the ripples grow less and less distinct until they disappear. Not so with the Babe born in the manger at Bethlehem.

RIPPLES OF INTEREST

The event stirred only a small ripple of excitement at the time. But as the centuries have lengthened since that time, the ripples of interest have grown into mighty waves until millions hail the birthday of Jesus as "the day of all the year the best."

Why the perennial and growing appeal of Christmas. Its beauty, its tenderness, its joy! Yes, all these are there. But a greater feature is at the center.

In Matthew's gospel, the announcement to Joseph is that the child to be born shall be named Jesus--"For he shall save his people from their sins." And, in Luke, the angelic message to the shepherds is:

"Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord."

HARD FACTS OF LIFE

The Bethlehem scene was realistic in its setting. The hard facts of life were there. Joseph and Mary were going up to be taxed. Taxes then were just as unpleasant then as now.

The inequalities of life were there. The inn was crowded with those who could pay for it; the poor carpenter and Mary were forced to seek shelter in a stable.

The shadow of the hostile Herod was there. Danger lurked around the Babe in the manger.

Yet with all these dark features, the general impression of Bethlehem is that of goodness. Our attention is held by the mother, the loving Joseph, the humble and adoring shepherds, the reverent wise men. The scene turns our minds to the things that are simple, genuine and lovely; the things that heal and build.

REVELATION OF GOD

Christmas is not only the revelation of God, but also of man. It brings to view the divine spark of goodness in the human heart. It is the time when truth takes on its loveliest forms and speaks its simplest language: when love becomes articulate in accents which little children understand.

Christmas not only brings the world around to the day when Christ was born, but it brings to birth the Christ-spirit in man. It reminds us that the universe is friendly and therefore restores our faith in God. It reveals that man is better than he often seems and thereby revives our faith in man.

The Babe of Bethlehem has outlived Herod and Caesar Augustus. Some day the spirit of Bethlehem will outlaw the barbed wire and the bayonet which were there last Christmas.

DEFENDS AMERICANS

LONDON (AP) — Home Secretary Sir David Maxwell Fyfe Thursday said the presence of American airmen in Britain has not contributed to any increase in sex crimes. He was replying in the House of Commons to Labor member Emrys Hughes, who wanted to know what steps were being taken to counteract a reported increase of sex crimes near United States Air Force camps.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

A CHRISTMAS PRESENT

"Has Mum showed you the book Mr. Smith lent us?" David asked as he stood in the doorway, still covered with snow.

School books were hastily tossed aside, and before the visitor could get out an answer a large volume was opened on her lap, and the pages being eagerly turned by the boy at her side.

"It's the latest edition of 'Birds of America'. Have you ever seen a Whip-poor-will? Look here!"

This splendid book, full of beautiful little pictures of birds, is a fit Christmas present for a naturs-loving family. All members can enjoy it. But there are smaller, perhaps less impressive, but equally interesting and informative books suitable for various ages and various interests too.

PAMPHLETS ON BIRDS

David, a Boy Scout, would be particularly glad to have a pamphlet issued by the Canadian government on how to build bird houses. His mother might prefer the pamphlet on how to attract the birds into the garden by offering them food and water. This also can be obtained from Ottawa.

As the dad's hobby is photography, Arthur A. Allen's "Stalking Birds with Color Camera" is just the thing, while his older, air-minded son would be deeply interested in finding out all about the mechanics of flying in Gordon Aymar's "Bird Flight."

The musical member of the family would like to own a book on bird songs. F. Shyler Mathews' is the perfect gift for somebody familiar with classical music and able to read music. Less difficult to follow is A. A. Saunders' "A Guide to Bird Songs", a very helpful book in identifying a species by its song.

BIRD ART

The artist daughter is sure greatly to appreciate "How I Draw Birds," by Roland Green. The author is said to be one of the most eminent of British bird artist. Mr. Green's paintings are astonny, plumage, beaks and heads, and he believes in sketching in the field.

For someone attracted to the feathered people, nothing could be better than Peugh's "Audubon Water Bird Guide". In both land and water. The seasoned bird-watcher is never parted from his "Peterson".

Though always referred to by the name of its author, the book is actually called "A Field Guide to Birds", and includes all our birds with coloured pictures and simple explanations. Yet the new edition of the old, popular "Bird Guide" by Chester A Reed is recommended as inexpensive, concise, and poetic also.

So do not pick at random. Choose to suit a particular taste.

SALVATION ARMY AFFEAL

This editorial is, we hope, a "pot boiler."
The pots we want to see boil are kettles—Salvation Army kettles.
They are making their annual appearance on Belleville's streets on Saturday. If you miss them that day, there will be other opportunities in the days that follow to throw another log on the fire. Among the best logs are deposits but even a dime will help to generate that warmth which the Salvation Army will spread into Belleville homes this Christmas season.
Everybody knows that the Salvation Army's interest is not confined to the Christmas season. The unfortunate is not confined to the Christmas season. Even for the Salvation Army officer there must be an end to the heart-strings when sights of present-day need meet the eyes as Christmas nears. Many of these sights will be invited to telephone requests for help. Others will have to be sought out by the Salvation Army workers—and to send donations to finance the task of making Christmas a merry one for needy families.
The Salvation Army Citadel on Pinnacle Street is once more in full swing in activity. Salvation Army workers are checking lists and arranging hampers containing food and toys, for young and old. Plumcake bags are being filled with treats for the aged and for the sick in hospital and homes throughout the district. Parties are being planned for children. Hundreds of visits will be made to homes for children because of sickness.
The Salvation Army is a religious organization. It never forgets that fact. But its distribution of Christmas cheer is not limited to those of like faith. . . It strives to be a comfort to all the needy. That is why it receives financial support from people of every shade of religious belief.

THE NEW HORIZON

On December 17th, 1903, mankind acquired the wings by which it had dreamed from the days of Icarus. For on that day two Dayton bicycle repair men—Orville and Wilbur Wright—on a lonely beach at Kitty Hawk, North Carolina, took to the air in a powered machine in the first recorded controlled free flight.
This climax to a century old dream lasted exactly 12 seconds. In spanning the vast abyss of time from mythological legends to the twentieth century, their flight covered only 120 feet at a speed slightly less than seven miles per hour.
Today, descendants of this original ugly duckling skip gracefully and powerfully through the sky at speeds above the speed of sound itself. Planes capable of carrying 160 persons think nothing of thousands of miles in a matter of hours are now commonplace. Only this year a Canberra jet spanned the 12,000 miles from London to Christ Church, New Zealand, in 23 hours 31 minutes.
The 12 horsepower motor that lifted the Wrights and the world into the air has given way to turbojet and rocket power that hurtles several tons of aircraft through the stratosphere at fantastic speeds.
Perhaps no other invention has undergone such rapid development within such a short time. Many now living can recall the time when there were not only no airplanes, but when the very thought of flying was considered a violation of many proper Victorian codes of decorum.
Today many serious men are contemplating the conquest of space itself. . . No longer is man's ambition limited by the realities of gravity. The conquest of air that the Wrights and our globe is a void that beckons to those who, looking backwards upon the magnificent advance of flying in the last 50 years, see in space the horizons that still lie ahead.

TWO-PERSONALITY BABY?

A two-headed, four-armed baby born at Indianapolis is now reported to have good chances of survival.
If the boy lives, a whole host of legal, moral and scientific problems may be raised.
Is the baby really one person, or two?
The fact that there has given a name to each of the two heads. At first that may sound ridiculous. But, if each head encloses a normal brain, then the child may develop two distinct personalities. If each head thinks independently, there may differ in politics, religion, morals and tastes.
Not only scientists, but philosophers, too, will be presented with a host of puzzles to solve.

SOMETHING TO CHEER ABOUT

The Federal party has won a sweeping victory in the first general election in the new Central African Federation.
The party campaigned on a platform advocating the partnership of Africans and whites and opposing segregation.
Yet overwhelming majority of the voters were white.
They opposed apartheid.
This is the best possible answer to Dr. Malan's oft-repeated assertion that those who criticize his race segregation policies just do not understand the facts of life in Africa.

SIX DAYS

Six days to wait! And long they'll seem
To little girls and boys
Who go to bed at night to dream
Of all the Christmas joys.

Ask any child of three or four
Or six or seven or eight
And you'll be told that six days more
The old insist they can't believe
That Christmas is so near.
But five days more to Christmas Eve,
To childhood seem a year.

Oh, children dear, your grandpa says
They're not
That old as he you'll grow
And then from many Christmas Days,
Time's pace will seem to slow.

Santa Claus Knew a Trick

(Brantford Expositor)

The spoiled kid got himself into the saddle of a rocking horse in a Toronto department store and, despite the pleas, orders and threats of his mother and diligent mother, store clerks, department manager and hysterical mother, him, equallingly refused to budge.
Closing hour drew nigh —and passed. Still the young demon clung on, flying into a blue-faced tantrum at every effort to unseat him. In desperation an enlisted Canadian specialist in the most modern brand of child psychology was sent for. He tried all his tricks without avail. Just then a man dressed as Santa Claus, who had been watching proceedings all the while, stepped over and whispered into the little boy's ear. With a wide-eyed glance the child scrambled down from the horse, grasped his mother's hand and dashed for the "down" elevator.
The man, who proved to be a psychologist in particular, was naturally curious to know what had gone on. "Will you please say to him?" the psychologist asked the store Santa. The latter replied, "I just said, 'You little show-off, if you don't get down off this horse this minutes, I'll paddle your backside until you couldn't be able to sit on another horse this side of next Christmas'."

Letter to the Editor

Many Bicycle Riders Are Breaking Law

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:
I am writing on the subject bicycles. Lately I have noticed if it is legal for a bicycle to have no visible lights. Quite often I see more than one person and to be ridden on the wrong side of the road. I daily see bicycles without lights after dark, little boys riding with other boys on the handlebars or cross bar, and coming home from the Bakelite I see children riding their bicycles on the left-hand side of the left lane. All the above mentioned practices are very unsafe, so having the Highway Traffic Act handy I checked to see if they are legal. This is what I found:
Sec. 10 (10) reads that bicycles shall carry a white or amber colour lamp or approved reflector. (Hope the department hasn't approved any of the frail and besides the 3" by 10" white mudguard strips.) Sec. 11 (2) specified right or approved reflector. It also stated that bicycle reflectors shall be clearly visible to operators of other vehicles. Sec. 11 (3) prohibits applying after dark and before dawn.
Sec. 41 (2) and 42 (1) deal with which side of the road a bicycle or vehicle should use. Sec. 42 (2) says that all vehicles including those operated by motive power shall keep to the right hand side or in the right hand lane of the highway or road.
And so for two on one "biker" law. 14 (14) No person riding on a bicycle designed for carrying only one person thereon.
I don't know if the police are supposed to be familiar with the rules of the road but if they are I wish they would say. Lots of schools, the parents and the police must endeavor to see that the kids have some accidents, involving bicyclists.
Also bicycles in bicyclists will some day become operators of motor vehicles. They are being taught to respect rules of the road today there may be fewer accidents involved in auto accidents tomorrow.
Let us hope the parents pay a little attention to their children's bicycles and behavior on the road and I do not feel sorry for any boy who has to drive over $5, $10, $15 or even $50 for violation of the Highway Traffic Act.

New Railway Line In Africa

(Winnipeg Free Press)

A railway scheme of strategic importance to the British Empire in the heart of Africa is being planned by financial interests in London. The cost is estimated at about $70,000,000. The line would connect Southern Rhodesia, Bechuanaland, and South-west Africa. The governments concerned are all said to be favorably inclined to-wards the scheme. There is also believed to be few land purchase problems, as most of the route would be through land owned by the Crown.
Commenting on the purpose of the railway the Manchester Guardian says: "The new line will be to ship high-grade coal on what might be done.

Scoth Pine Yule Favorite

(Oshawa Times-Gazette)

The tremendous rise in the Christmas tree industry in Ontario over the past decade, accompanied by an awakened interest in good Christmas trees for domestic and export markets, has led to a significant change in the treatment and handling supplied by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.
The public's reaction to Scotch pine, establishing it among the favorite Christmas tree species in this part of Canada and many parts of the United States, has decided influence on what the department must produce to meet the demand, according to officials of the Division of Reforestation. Scotch pine is outgrowing strongly with other species on the market largely because it retains its needles for a longer time, a desirable tree feature. The nature has not only made it more desirable from a purely practical standpoint, but has also made it highly attractive as an export item since it remains in good condition even after extended journeys to distant countries, such as the Southern States.
The resulting expansion of the export market has done a great deal to stimulate interest in the establishment of Christmas tree plantations in Ontario, and many farmers are now particularly interested in reforestation—before undertaking the work they would like to know the "long-term" reforestation, it is felt.
The 3-year-old Scotch pine, planting in 1953. This is the generation of the tremendous comeback of a species which only a few years ago was considered a complete failure.

and mining concentrates to the sea. But there are two other possible solutions.
One is strategic Britain's chrome supplies from Africa at present have only a route which proved highly vulnerable in the last war. Not only does the ore have to cross non-British territory (Portuguese East Africa) to reach the sea, but once on shipboard it is liable to be sunk by the relatively few convenient naval vessels which the Axis powers could spare for protective escorts. There were extremely heavy losses in the Mozambique Straits through enemy action in the last war, which the Allies had no means of preventing.
The other Allied war effort at the time.
The other future consideration is the agricultural potential of the line. The only part of which contrary to the general impression of Africa is not arable is the Bechuanaland area, which is anything but a desert. A spokesman for the Colonial Office in Government in London said that Northern Bechuanaland, although at present uninhabited, is highly fertile and virtually waterless. Southern Bechuanaland has adequate water supplies and ample vegetation. The Department of Agriculture in Southern Rhodesia made a survey two years ago of the area and shares, has no need of Jacobite.
With its plateau climate, it has a great appearance in pure stands in the forest but does not grow well as an ornamental tree in suitable rocky and rugged soil, around rocky outcrops and ledges. The most attractive grotesqueries and comes as near the pines in habit and Chinese art as any tree we have.
The fir or tamarack is the only so-called evergreen of the lot that loses a year of foliage. It has lost its needles before November.

WHICH DO YOU PREFER, CLEAN OR SOUND?

To my way of thinking $100, more or less, paid to a good dentist for an inlay or a root canal job is a good investment that keeps a tooth functioning for a year or so longer, is a good investment in health and happiness. By the same standard I regard brushing the teeth with dissolved soap as a sinful waste of money and time.

Dr. Brady

But it seems that dentists do not like me very well. No matter how earnestly I teach and preach proper care of the teeth and the importance of good dentistry, the typical child or adult who wants to maintain good health, good looks, good disposition and longevity, some dentists still delight in lampooning me as a "syndicated" column in their professional publications.
Now I am not against by my discovery of Tristan da Cunha, or, I should say the incomparable the first teeth of the people there, the dentists had a devastating answer for their patients' lack of proper teachings. Of course, they contended, if civilized people could revert to the unrefined food on which our primitive forefathers throve, toothbrushing would not be necessary. Just gnawing bones and chewing coarse foods would keep the teeth as clean as the traditional savage's teeth. This generally silenced the customers who might have asked for one good

Saddlers Disbanding

(Chicago News)

Something sad is happening to the nation's saddlers, whose trade organization, the Saddlery Manufacturers Association of America, is disbanding after spending most of its 65 years in a losing battle against mechanization.
Ironically, the saddlers have gotten on board only at a time when more people are riding horseback than ever before in the history of the business.
That is not so strange as it seems, we learned upon talking with the A. Seidlitz & Son Saddlery, which has been making saddles in Chicago for more than half a century. The hitch is that saddles were only a small part of the saddlery industry, which its heyday also provided harness, whips, robes and blankets for work horses, heavy harness horses and road horses.
Time was, for instance, when the Seidlitzs supplied equipment for the whole flourishing 200 or more dairy-wagon horses each. It was then that almost vanished from sight in mechanization.
Saddlery reached its peak in the prosperous 20's with a $50,-000,000 business, but this year the industry expects to do no more than $3,000,000.
Even the army has let the saddlery down by abandoning its horse cavalry.
Actually all this, there remains a hardy breed of riders who believe that the auto isn't anything as good for the inside of a man as the outside of a horse. They were keen interest in horses alive through stock and horse shows and polo at colleges and universities, and features that feature classes in equitation.

ART FOR THE HEART

It is an inspiration for any of us to look upon great works of art, as in painting or sculpture. We enjoy the stirring emotions created within us at the reading of a great poem or other literary creation. Or, to be thrilled by the beautiful harmony of music through the means of some instrument, or the human voice. Or, to revel in painting must always be interpretive. We do not mean that we must be explained. We want it to live anew as the artist saw it and felt its colors in his heart. We want to see the artist as well as the thing which he has painted. We also want to look upon any "Washington, where there are several beautiful examples of this favorite's art of mine. I always take time to see them in the National Gallery.
I read and re-read the exquisite lines of prose by Logan Pearsall Smith in his famous little book "Trivia." Literary gems of art if ever they have been composed. Christopher Morley called these bits "unruffled prose" and little paragraphs of gilded whim—rainbow nuggets of wistful inquiry—profound

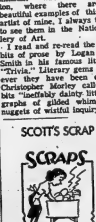
By GREGORY CLARK



Now that we are all busy selecting Christmas trees, the relative popularity of the different kinds of evergreen becomes of interest. From coast to coast the country is blessed rich in evergreens, yet in very large areas of Canada the Scotch pine has jumped to Number One position on the Christmas tree hit parade.
Plantations of this beautiful European tree are now to be found in every province, and planted solely for the Christmas tree trade. In one or two of the provinces, such plantations are huge, some farmers going into business as forest companies established their own plots for the Christmas trade both home and export.
Apart from its beauty when a young tree, the Scotch pine has the virtue of not shedding its needles during the festive fortnight when its use is usually indoors. Its needles are very short, and its branches are a little more gimp ly bend, but the whole spruce's habit with a more open look about it. Hemlock is too wispy, and a cedar, though fragrant and bright, is generally too solid a mass of foliage. Yet the most beautiful Christmas tree I ever saw was a cedar in a Toronto apartment.
Rarely is jackpine used. This native tree has been looked down upon in the past. It is found right across Canada in the edges of British Columbia: but that province, richest of all in evergreens, also has the finest of the twenty-one species of evergreens that no other province can claim. Spruces, firs, pines and shares, has no need of Jackpine.
With its slender needles and a gawky appearance in pure stands in the forest but does not grow well as an ornamental tree in suitable rocky and rugged soil, around rocky outcrops and ledges. The most attractive grotesqueries and comes as near the pines in habit and Chinese art as any tree we have.
The fir or tamarack is the only so-called evergreen of the lot that loses a year of foliage. It has lost its needles before November.

To Caesar You Shall Go

CHAPTER 25.

Paul was started on his way to Rome in A.D. 60 for trial before Nero's judges. He was given into the custody of one harassed centurion, named Julius, a tough but fair-minded officer who was to show Paul genuine kindness.

Two of his friends were given permission to travel with Paul: Luke the physician, and Aristarchus, who had once been nearly lynched in Paul's stead by the tumultuous silversmiths of Ephesus, and had clung faithfully to the apostle ever since. Though a free man, Aristarchus was posing as Paul's slave. Only in that guise could the centurion Julius in propriety allow him passage. Paul's other friends, even Timothy, must find their own way to Rome.

Paul, and Luke, and Aristarchus—they did not make an imposing group as they marched quietly along between the rows of soldiers. They looked like ordinary prisoners; but in their hearts they marched as conquerors against the citadel of Rome.

At Caesarea Julius led them aboard a ship bound for Asia Minor. But at the port of Myra, Julius decided to change vessels. This particular season of the year was a treacherous one on the Mediterranean; the dread Euroaquilo, an east-north-east gale, prowled the waters and made the sea lanes dangerous. But Julius had found a new ship, a large merchant vessel, which he was sure could weather the storms, and bring his prisoner to Rome, safely and quickly.

But Paul, a knowing traveler in all kinds of weather, had his doubts. He would have counselled an overland journey, or a delay till after winter. Still, diplomatically, he held his peace as this second ship plowed doggedly westward against powerful headwinds as far as the island of Crete.

Winter had come down with wicked suddenness, and the optimistic plans of Julius and the shipmaster were blown away. They faced the immediate problem of getting the ship safely into some harbor where they could lie up, protected, until the worst of the season was over. With not an hour to waste, the captain decided to take a hazardous chance.

"We will push westward along the coast of Crete to a safe harbor at Phoenix," he announced.

The decision was the folly of panic. As by the grace of the Holy Spirit, Paul, having just observed the autumnal fast of the Day of Atonement, suddenly braced himself, his arms around a stanchion as he shouted to officers and crew, his voice clear above the noisy winds.

"Ye men! I see that the voyage will be with injury and much damage, not only of the lading and ship, but also of your lives."

What further advice Paul had to offer can never to be made known. The shipmaster declined to hear any more from a prisoner—and a landsman—on how to run his ship. Even Julius, the centurion, brushed aside Paul's dire prediction.

But presently they were in real trouble.

A tempest seized the ship, and the captain and sailors, all 276 souls aboard, were helpless. For days they saw neither sun nor stars and they neither ate nor slept as they battled the wind and sea.

Then Paul stood up and shouted over the storm: "I exhort you to be of good cheer: for there shall be no loss of any man's life among you, but of the ship. For there stood by me this night the angel of God, whose I am, and whom I serve, saying: Fear not, Paul; thou must be brought before Caesar: and, lo, God hath given thee all them that sail with thee.

"Wherefore, sirs, be of good cheer: for I believe God, that it shall be even as it was told me."

The quiet force and strong conviction with which Paul spoke in that seemingly hopeless hour eased men's terrors in the clamor of the unceasing storm.

For fourteen days and nights the storm continued, without sight of stars or sun; had a month of unabated tempest, in which men had not time to eat, no inclination to sleep, fearing that they might never wake in this life; if almost hourly expectation of foundering or breaking apart. All aboard were hungry, drenched, aching with fatigue.

Then suddenly: "We have come close to land!" The word sped through the crew to the passengers.

Hoarse shouts of sailors leaning over the rails at midnight informed the deck officer by the wheel house.

"Twenty fathoms!" they shouted.

And again a little later:

"Fifteen fathoms!"

The shipmaster was alarmed, and with good cause, at these reports. Most likely the old sailors were right; they were close to some unknown shore, full of danger from rough places, rocks, or sudden shallows in the floor of the sea. They must not drift any further in any direction. They must try to stand still and wait for the daylight. Then if the fogs were gone, they could see where they would be lying.

The captain bellowed his orders: "Anchor number one astern . . ."

"Anchor number two astern . . ."

Four anchors to hold the battered ship against the violent yanking of the winds. And every soul on board, as Luke wrote in his book, "wished for the day."

For some, the waiting brought only panic; the waiting time through darkness to daylight seemed too long to be endured. These hotheads were not the passengers but the sailors. They decided to deceive the captain, who stood on deck bellowing new orders to them.

"Anchor number three forward . . ."

"Anchor number four forward . . ."

The sawvering yells of the forward hands encouraged the master of the vessel to believe that his orders were being obeyed. Under color of the confusion, however, they had actually rushed the lifeboats, resolved to take them for themselves alone, in order to abandon ship and take their chances of getting ashore.

In the midst of all the hurly-burly of raging elements and human treachery, one mind alone of all the ship's company realized what was happening in the dark. Suddenly above the rattle of the lines, the whistling of the winds, and the thunder of the waves came the ringing voice of Paul:

"Except these men stay in the ship we cannot be saved.

The prisoner's guards did not hesitate a moment to act upon his warning. Such was the profound trust Paul had roused in them that they did not wait to find out what Julius, the centurion, wanted them to do. They asked no permission of the ship's commander. Lunging forward they fell upon the deserting seamen. With their short-swords they cut the ropes, severing the empty lifeboat from the mother ship. Almost instantly it was lost in the night

The ship was broken in two by the violence of the waves. "Let those who can swim cast themselves into sea . . ."

er emptied into the sea, a terrific jolt hurled every man to the dock; a shriek of splitting timbers, a clash of falling spars and cross-trees, and a violent shuddering of the stricken ship. They were aground.

The bow of the ship was unshakably imbedded in the sands and mud of the shallows; aft all was wreckage and collapsing lumber. The ship was broken in two by the violence of the waves.

Shrieks of fright and despair presaged dangerous hysteria. But the discipline of the Roman guards remained perfect. Two of these made their way instantly to Julius.

"Sir," they reported, "all hope is gone." We must abandon ship, and it will be every man for himself. Is it not our duty to kill our prisoners at once, so they may not escape?"

"Kill Paul!" There was sheer horror in the centurion's voice.

"Paul and Luke — Aristarchus — all the prisoners; yes, sir. Do I have your order?"

"No!"

"But if they swim out, they may escape."

"Hold your peace!" Julius must have astonished himself at the vehemence of his decision. The soldiers had worked powerfully on the officer's inner spirit. He not only admired Paul deeply; he had in some oblique fashion, come to believe and trust in his prophecies. Hadn't Paul promised that everyone would be saved?

"I forbid you to destroy the prisoners," said Julius firmly. "Let those who can swim cast themselves first into the sea, and save themselves and get to land."

This order was instantly obeyed. As for the others who could not swim, Luke reported:

"Some were carried on boards, and some on those things that belonged to the ship. And so it came to pass that every soul got safe to land."

They were on the island of Malta.

Chapter 55 O.E.S. Enjoys Christmas Party

Mrs. Walter Elliott, Worthy Matron of Belleville Chapter 55, entertained her officers and their escorts to the Grand, D.D.G.M., and her husband at a Christmas dinner on Wednesday evening at her spacious home in Stirling.

The guests numbering 36 sat down to a bountiful repast at 7:30 p.m. Following dinner, court whist was the entertainment for the evening. The lucky winners were, ladies, Miss Isabel Orne; Mrs. Jewell Morrow and Mrs. Stella Doucett; men, Garn Dobbs, John Good and Bill Vaughn.

Mrs. Elliott gave a small gift to each guest as a memento of the occasion.

Mrs. Grace Wilson, Messrs. Morley Davidson and John Good each in turn, on behalf of the ladies, husbands and friends, expressed sincere thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Elliott for the lovely dinner and social evening spent with them and extended season's greetings.

During the course of the evening Mrs. Marlene Vaughn took flash pictures of the picturesque table setting and the beautiful festive decorations.

Trinity Church W.G. Sponsors Bazaar, Tea

Mrs. John Kent opened her home recently for a bazaar and tea, sponsored by the Women's Guild of Trinity Church, Shannonville.

Mrs. Johnston was in charge of selling tickets at the door. The guests were welcomed by Mrs. Fitzgerald, president of the Women's Guild.

The living room was tastefully decorated with colored lights, while large baskets of red flowers gave a Christmassy effect.

Mrs. Page was in charge of the fancy work table, including dolls, painted dishes, aprons, crocheted pot holders, foot stools, cushions, and many other articles were on display.

Mrs. Whittle was in charge of the baking: and the pies, cakes, tarts were quickly sold.

Mrs. Topping was not long selling the candy; while Miss McFarlane sold all kinds of vegetables.

Tea was served in the sunroom in charge of Mrs. Kent and Mrs. Kilburn. Mrs. Wilson as usual made the tea. Mrs. Goodfellow, Miss Cox, Mrs. Vesterfelt and Mrs. Stewart were kept busy filling the plates with goodies for the tea tables.

One hundred and thirty-five dollars was realized.

A vote of thanks was rendered Mrs. Kent for her hospitality and her generosity.

A thank-you to the helpers who made the bazaar and tea a success.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

Do you remember the fancy smoking jackets your grandfather wore? They were like a cut-off dressing gown — perhaps maroon quilted silk with contrasting collar and cuffs of black velvet. In this jacket, the man-of-the-house was supposed to sit around and enjoy life with his cheerchaun and a good book. Probably he wore a smoking cap too, a colorful pill-box of a hat with a long silken tassel swinging around his ears. There was one in the Gilbert and Sullivan movie, remember?

Now, sartorial history is repeating itself. Among the gift suggestions for father, we see a "television jacket." For our money, it is nothing more than the smoking jacket of 40 or 50 years ago appearing under another name. It costs more than it did years ago of course, way more.

SMOKING CAP

What about the smoking cap? Maybe the next thing will be a TV cap with a remote control knob hanging from a length of electric cord. Then father, in complete stationary comfort, can fumble around his left ear and switch over from the fashion show on channel 9 to the fight on channel 4.

Anyway, perhaps "home life" is coming back in its own again. And if it is, we can put up with a few absurdities, including even a TV jacket and cap.

PLAIN RED

It seems impossible anymore to buy just plain red or white tissue paper for gift wrapping and often a hunt to get hold of some honest-to-goodness red ribbon. Merchants are feasting so-called gift-wrap sets. These are usually next to useless because they contain the kind of seals, tags and ribbons you just don't want. What a pity the older, simpler merchandise is disappearing.

SANTA CLAUS OR CHRIST?

We have just looked over last year's Christmas cards. Of nearly 50 cards we looked at, less than 10 had a religious theme. A few choir boys stared open-mouthed over sheet music. But as for indications that Christmas is first of all, concerned with the birth of Christ, they were few.

There was one card which showed the angels bringing the glad tidings to the shepherds. Another "Wedgwood silhouette" in highly conventional form. Showed the Natal Star and three shepherds looking heavenards.

Not a manger to be found in the lot. Not even a scene with the Three Wise Men. We are all for Santa Claus as a good fairy. But when his presence almost completely shuts Christ out of Christmas, we wonder if we haven't gone too far in the wrong direction.

Uncle Frontenac says some christmas presents people give are just about as useless as a hearing-aid to a person who is not deaf.

Women's Activities

CARMEL W.M.S.

The Carmel W.M.S. Christmas meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Earl Dafoe with 18 members, three visitors and two children present, in the absence of the president, Mrs. Rose, the vice-president, Mrs. Percy Percival, opened the meeting with a Christmas hymn "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear."

The officers reported: Mrs. Patterson on the "Temperance" the treasurer, Mrs. Moorman, reported most of the allocation sent in and proceeds of quilting and dinner at Mrs. Hicks' Rickley, $11.75. A letter of thanks was read from Mrs. Harold Howes.

In the business part, it was decided to send a layette to Korea in January.

Mrs. Clarence Harlow read an address to Mrs. Herb Howes for her faithful work in the Auxiliary for so many years as corresponding secretary and presented her with a gift from the W.M.S.

Mrs. Howes thanked the members for the gift and would always remember her days and meetings with the Society.

Mrs. J. Pearson gave the Christmas program: a Christmas not gave a reading on "Christmas Glory," was sung; Mrs. W. Dafoe, Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. H. Dafoe and Mrs. H. Howes assisted by Mrs. E. Dafoe, sang "Silent Night, Holy Night."

After "O Come all ye Faithful," Mrs. H. Dafoe read "The Simplicity of Christmas." Mrs. S. Holman reading a story of "The First Christmas Tree." Mrs. C. Brentnam, "Angels from the Realms of Music." Rev. Mr. Throop closed the meeting.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Margaret Hicks and Mrs. C. Barlow, and a social half hour enjoyed.

ZION UNITED CHURCH W.A.

The Women's Association of Zion United Church, North Marmora, held its December meeting recently at the home of Mrs. Murness Johnston with a polluck dinner. The retiring president, Mrs. George Fox opened the meeting.

The devotional period was in charge of Mesdames R. Johnston, G. Moffatt and G. Fox. A reading "The Christmas Story" was followed by a contest conducted by Mrs. Ed. Post.

Mrs. Arthur Tompkins and Mrs. Ed. Robinson led in the study period which was closed with prayer by Mrs. K. J. Crawford.

The roll call was answered by twelve members and six visitors.

Mrs. Garner McCann read the minutes of the November meeting which were approved. This was followed by a short business period.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

The 1953 officers were re-elected for the coming year as follows: president, Mrs. George Fox; vice-president, Mrs. Gordon Moffatt; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Garnet McCann.

Mrs. Fox thanked the ladies for their help in the past year and hoped the same would be forthcoming in the year ahead.

On behalf of the W.A. Mrs. Albert Nickle then presented Mrs. K. J. Crawford with a purse for which she gratefully extended thanks.

The usual Christmas exchange of gifts was then carried out.

The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George Fox.

The president closed the meeting with the benediction.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE LIVES WITH ONE MAN, CRIES FOR ANOTHER

Sometimes I wonder how some people really understand just what love is anyhow.

The sort of people I mean are those who are certain life will come to an end if they can't marry the heart interest of the moment, and then, a few months later, are just as certain of the same thing in connection with somebody entirely different. I mean, also, those who have themselves in a state of high emotion and confusion because they "love" two people at once. And I mean those who "love" their wife up to the point where that someone happens to do something they don't like, when the whole thing is off; and those who "love" wife or husband, but won't take the trouble to prove it by doing their part to make a happy home.

Well, those are some of the people who, as I see it, have no idea what real love means, and the following letter, from a divorcee of 37, shows up still another kind of person who falls into the same category.

Opening her letter with the information that she has had a marital status and the fact that she is the mother of two small children, this thoughtful woman gets down to her problem.—or perhaps I should say problems.

"I am very much in love with a man of 32. I was first going with him for about six months. I never really knew what love was until I met Jerry. Every time I'm with him, I feel like I am out of this world.

"But my real problem is that there is not a day that goes by but out with taking care of the children, so I met another fellow. This fellow is the father of me and the children, providing a nice place for them, and always making sure there is food in the house, I've never had anyone treat me as wonderful as he does. I've had a rough deal all my life and now I'm starting to live, but I still can't get over Johnny, and I just sit around most of the time alone because I can't live without him. I'm so unhappy, and would thank you from the bottom of my heart if you could help me."

INMATURE MIND

How is that young woman hadn't said in the beginning of her letter that she was 37 years old. I would think it had been written by a girl in her early teens. For 37 or not, her conception of "love" is certainly no more mature. In fact, I never heard such nonsense in all this.

She says she never knew what love was until she met Johnny, but I find no indication in anything she says that she knows what it is now. If she had really been in love with this chap, she would have found some other way to solve the problem of taking care of the children besides going off with another man. What was the matter with her going to work and earning money for the support of the children herself? So what if she has two small children? Other women have had more than that, and yet have managed to have them cared for in some way, perhaps in a day nursery, while working to support them. What it looks like to me is that this young woman simply chose the easy way to get her responsibilities taken off her hands.

So now she is accepting support for herself and her children from—and presumably living with, a man to whom she is not married, merely using him as a convenience, while sitting around "crying most of the time" because she can't with Johnny. What kind of life is that, and what is the matter with this young woman that she can't with one approaching 30, or the mino of a child? Has she any principles at all, or is she completely without the power of self-respecting independent action? She talks about having had "a rough deal" all her life. What kind of deal is she giving this man, to accept everything from him and give him, in return, tears and sobs for somebody else?

What help she expects me to give her, I cannot imagine, unless she hopes I can figure out some way by which she can go back to Johnny with the children provided for otherwise. If that is what she wants, I'm afraid she's going to be vastly disappointed, because the advice I have for her is in an entirely different direction.

What I suggest she should do, is to stop sniffling pull up her socks, marry this man who is so "wonderful" to her and set about making him the best home she possibly can. It may be, of course, that he is not free to marry her, and if that is the case, then she should get out of his house, go to a social welfare organization and start learning how to shoulder responsibility for herself and her children.

If with I could feel sorry for this young woman, but I can't. Though dealt one rough deal, she throws in the sponge and refuses to work out their own problems, deserve sympathy from anybody.

QUESTION:

. . . I wrote you a while ago for recipe for Ginger Wine, but did not see it. Happy Landings.—B. McG.

QUESTION:

. . . I would like to get the recipe for fruit loaf out Christmas Cake and if you can tell me how to make Ginger Wine. . . . Adine call it cordial.—Mrs. J. McG.

QUESTION:

I would like very much if you could give me a recipe for Mango and Carrot Wine.—Mrs. C. H.

ANSWER:

I'm bewildered by all of these requests for wine recipes for I have never made wine in my life. What I have given you are the tested, favorite ones about the whole business than I do.

GINGER WINE

Three gallons cold water, 3 lbs. loaf sugar, 1-4 lb. whole bruised ginger, 1-4 lb. seeded Muscatel raisins, strained juice and finely grated yellow rind of 3 large lemons, 2 tablespoons brewers' yeast. Put cloved raisins in large enamel preserving kettle with the water, sugar and bruised ginger. Boil for hour, skimming frequently. Turn into large earthenware crock or wooden tub, let stand until milk-warm, then stir in yeast. Next day turn into dry clean cask, add lemon juice and rind, and bung lightly. Stir the wine every day for a fortnight, then tighten the bung. After it remain undisturbed for three or four months, then bottle.

Mrs. C. E.: I do not have a recipe for Mangel Wine. Would you care to try

MARIMSKY (PARSNIP) WINE

Grate 4 lbs. clean and pared parsnips, and over them pour 1 gallon boiling water. Cover, and when cold strain and press out liquid. Add 1-2 oz. cream of tartar, 3 lbs sugar, and allow to ferment until fermentation subsides. (The recipe says to add from 3 per cent to 5 per cent of sugar, but we "crack". I'm completely puzzled.)

QUESTION:

. . . I have a problem which I really am ashamed to ask . . . but what are the foods that ward off cold and the flu? We've spent more money in 18 years of marriage on hospital and doctor bills than we have spent for food, in fact. Mostly me. Since last month I've had two cases of strep throat, my doctor gave me as much penicillin as he dared. I have a deep sore throat but I still have a bad cold. . . . I'm always tired, constipated, never hungry, never hate to eat. I weigh 98 to 100 lbs.—5' 4". When you put that diet for thin people in the paper I was so happy. I thought at last I'll really try but it lasted one day —couldn't push the food down. . . . I'm always on a tonic of some sort so I thought maybe we don't eat at least . . . my three boys are all like me underweight. We get three quarts home every day—make lots of puddings and cocktards, fresh fruits. My boys even take the lettuce out that I put in their sandwiches. I make lots of soups and stews with vegetables, but it has to be strained for boys. I have to really stretch my food dollars . . . friend thinks I'm overweight and he loves to eat so he's no problem . . . we have fresh vegetable salad every day but they just pick at it. I'll insist they eat every germ in a batch of cooked cereal for five. Use the whole-grain cereals for cooked breakfast cereal. Whole grains contain minerals and vitamins in quantities not available in other common foods, which the body must have to make it function efficiently. Keep up your fresh fruit and fresh salad routine, but do not prepare salads or vegetables ahead or serving or cooking time. Vitamins are lost by ahead-of-time preparation. For your chronic ailment eat your oranges peeled and sectioned, not juiced, and eat figs and prunes and apricots. Do not let the boys satisfy their hunger with sweets. When they're hungry from play feed them a well-balanced meal —no cookies or candies. Do not put milk on the table (by water) until after they've eaten their main course—and no dessert until their plates are clean but don't let their servings be big if they are discouraged to start with. Keep your boys' diet balanced, have one hour outdoor exercise every day, if it is only walking.

Fashion Flashes

Did you ever seen such pretty evening costumes as we have this season? Pretty and practical is a bolt-less sheath dress, in blue, with a deep sequin neckline, the bodice encrusted with pearly sequins and crystal beads in velvet ribbon. With it is a cardigan-jacket, deep-cuffed coat of matching blue fleece, taffeta lined.

Very good for luncheon wear and for on through the evening is a sheath of dull navy blue wool broadcloth with a wide, tucked cummerband of matching satin. A satin frame collar marks the deep oval neckline.

It's fun to see the transformation worked by a smidgin of fur plus a wealth of imagination. A rich rose pink silk and velvet dress is simply wrapped stem that makes it a beautiful accessory for any simple dress. For the same purpose a three's a ranch mink collar with a large velvet bow and pink velvet rose. Then there are fur-covered rosettes and jeweled for head bands.

Going forward is the word on the new sleeves. The forward pose considered a change after all that back-of-the-head stuff. Worn well down over the forehead is a tiny black velvet platter pillbox trimmed at back with a tiny bird-sized lace red roses, with velvet ribbon bow and streamers down the back.

Small felt dress-up hats is the favorite line just now. It appears to good effect in a street-length dress of white nylon net. The top, with a high, rounded neckline, is sleeveless, and is heavily embroidered from neck to hips in beads and rhinestones. The skirt is Pale but pretty is a coat of clipped Norwegian fur in a shade called "moonlight beige." Good for day or evening, and perfect for cruise or Southern resort wear.

Beauty

SMILING LIPS

Lips speak two languages—one that is consciously directed to the ear, and another, unconscious, but—which, nevertheless, can be read by the eye of the observer. Lips can be friendly or austere. Those entitled to the first beauty prize have uplifted corners, appear kindly and sweet.

Whether or not the mouth is lovely depends upon facial habits as well as contour. The expression can change with a thought. The heavy woman clicks her teeth together, flexes the line—makes you think of a bear trap. Chagrin pulls the lips inward, pushing out the soft tissues of the upper part of the chin. Women who are easily complain develop soft, sagging lips that seem ready to quiver. Discontent draws down the lips' ends, causing up and down lines that are not easily erased. Habit furrows once dig into underlying tissues they have a ninety-nine per cent lease.

When a woman looks into her mirror she only sees her face in repose. She may have no idea that she has developed the habit of giving emphasis to conversation by drawing her eyebrows together or lifting them or heightening her color into ugly lines.

Smiles highlight the countenance but there are a variety of smiles—some nicer than others. There is the cold, glittering meaningless smile of the woman who is never responsive. It lacks charm and sincerity, can laps into a frozen smirk. The top-lipful, grade A smile is the one that comes with smiling ease. Then the entire countenance has radiance.

The lips require more attention other than a mere application of lipstick. They should be smooth of surface, with no little raggedy ends of cuticle that come from the habit of lip-biting. If the lips are chapped-paste the circulation needs to be speeded up. This can be accomplished by vigorous exercise out of doors and by deep breathing exercises.

When a complexion makeup-up with a cleansing oil or cream, be sure to remove all lipstick coloring, too. After the bedtime face washing, apply a white lipstick to keep the lips from being chapped.

Women have a favorite movement for treatment of the lips. You can do it yourself. Place the first finger in the center of the upper lip, thumb at one end, second finger at the other. Keep the first finger stationary, draw the lip to each side. Should's bow. . . When A Woman Gazes Into Her Mirror She Only Sees Her Face In Repose.

MANNERS GOOD

By MRS. BEECKMAN

SHOULD BRIDE USE HER OWN LINENS IN MOTHER-IN-LAW'S HOUSE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. As my bridal attendants, I would like to have my sister as my maid of honor, and my fiance's sister as my bridesmaid. No other attendants. Would this be a balanced arrangement?

2. We plan to live with the grooms parents for a while. I'd like to know if I am supposed to use my own linens or theirs?

T.

1. This is a proper arrangement, and you can plan so that the processions will be well balanced. First, the ushers, walking two by two. Then your bridesmaid, alone. Next, your sister, maid of honor, alone. Last, you and your father or whoever is to escort you. Your two attendants might wear dresses of the same design, but of different color. And your maid of honor should carry a bouquet of more important design than the bouquet carried by the bridesmaid.

2. Usually, with this temporary arrangement, the bride is not expected to use her linens, though she may prefer to use her own bed linens. However, it would be a courteous idea, also too, for you to consult with your mother-in-law about her wishes concerning this.

WHEN PASSING PLATE FOR SECOND HELPING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We were married last March, have just started housekeeping, and my husband does the carving and serving from his place at table. He says I have placed a small bet as to the correct way I should pass my plate to him for a second helping. That is, should I keep my knife and fork at my place (on the bread-and-butter perhaps?) until he serves my second helping? Or should I leave the knife and fork on my plate? We've decided to ask you to settle the bet.)

Betty F.

You're a very fair lady . . . not to tell me who bet which way! The proper way is to leave your knife and fork on your plate when you pass it for a second helping . . . handles parallel and close together, turned slightly to the right, important point. Don't leave the knife resting on the rim of the plate . . . only the handle, not the blade, rests on the rim of the plate.

WRITE YOUR FORMAL NAME ON SELF-ADDRESSED ENVELOPE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am sure that when you enclose a self-addressed envelope, you address the envelope in your formal manner; that is, with title before it. For example: Mrs. Thomas Davis, or Miss Elizabeth Forbes. It is true that it should be your informal name, Mary Davis or Elizabeth Forbes. Who is correct?

XYZ.

The name on a self-addressed or any other envelope sent to you, is for public-information-and-identification, and therefore it should be your formal name; Mrs. Thomas Davis; Miss Elizabeth Forbes.

WHEN THE SHOWER BUDGET IS SMALL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A friend of mine and I would like to give a small shower at my home for a dear mutual friend of ours. But our budget is, alas, desperately small! However, we include in our invitation, and what inexpensive menu could we properly serve?

S.

Two Friends

I think the most enjoyable kind of bridal shower is the one to which the guests bring gifts for the bride-to-be are invited. Why don't you two hostesses invite such a "most intimate friends" group, and with an understanding how to your budget, serve tea and or coffee, simple sandwiches; small cakes or cookies. Or, if you wish omit the sandwiches and provide a variety of "for-nibbling" items.

SHOULD HOSTESS WEAR GLOVES WHILE RECEIVING?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. While attending the dancing class my son attends, I noted that the hostess was receiving guests, with her crepe afternoon dress and matching hat. Although she was in the receiving-line, she did not remove her gloves, nor were they turned back at the wrist. Is this correct? I thought gloves when shaking hands.

2. Would one address a Christmas card to an unmarried couple living in the same home together? When the man introduced the young lady he married to me, he introduced her by her former husband's last name, not by his own last name. I feel this seems so pointed to send two cards.

C.

1. The dancing class hostess was correct . . . to wear her gloves while she was in the receiving-line is the Christmas card question! If you particularly want to send a Christmas card, I suggest you send only one card, to the one you know better.

CHRISTMAS . . . AND THESE "VERY OWN" CHRISMAS CARDS

A child's Christmas cards can have a particularly sweet and endearing quality. And the wise way to achieve this personality-quality is to have the child have a real part in the selection of card designs to print the first name or initials of the child, if desired, or to add an "X" to the name which the child writes. And the plan, if at all possible, to have a child choose, with perhaps some help from the sales person from you, his or her own Christmas cards.

ne Exhibition of Collegiate Night chool Art Displayed at McCarthy

Aesthetic art is that which ntifies the cultivated taste, or ses of beauty, as in painting, sic, sculpture, or architecture." says the book of many subjects the realm of painting, this definiis well demonstrated by the eptionally fine display of oil both teacher and pupils of stleville Collegiate night school t class, now on view at the Mocarthy Theatre.

ILL LIFE

Among the exhibits are those in depicting still life, landscapes, d seascapes. The still life picshowed a number having a ills, partially burned candle in ted holder, apple and book, ened at various angles. Others icted an upturned basket, from which tumbled red emperor grapes, y orange and apples, while holdg the interest, was a not unpleasshocking pineapple in upright osition.

Other still life drawings showed ack trays with border of daisy- ke flowers in varying colors, tchers, and jugs. One especially ttractive still life work was that f a double-leaf Grecian window, turn in pale green with a spray f graceful, trailing ivy, the whole ighlighted by a glowing ruby-red owl.

NCIL PICTURES

A group of pictures was done pencil and crayon in black and hite, portraying a landscape with ees and countryside, while one, n the surrealistic side, depicted e component parts of a railway ngine. This was quite outstanding both in conception and in the finer ses of craftsmanship.

A picture of a massive old church amid a setting of green trees and widespread lawn, showed appreciation of structure, while another was that of a sketch of water and autumn-tinted trees. Also here in ollw with colour sensitivity.

DELIGHTFUL COLORING

Mouit had an attractive collection of still life including a delightful bit of coloring, depicting a blue vase, a violin in natural shade, and orange-colored Japanese lantern flowers, the whole backed by soft, greenish-grey drapery.

Her drawing of the bust, the open book and the ornate, delicate stein was also quite pleasing.

W. Doig's red lacm, green apple and blue designed Chinese slipper on a table with rumpled green runner, was clear cut, well drawn, and nicely colored, a splendid bit of work.

Coral had a pretty picture of autumn waters, showing white-capped, choppy waves and a thunderhead cloud brewing, with rich, dark foreground, which merited attention.

In the alcove there were some charming scenes, as well as a few "spasiters," which were still as attractive after some months, as when first viewed. These included Moorman's "Farm Building" and "Silage Corner", with its distant church spires, and Helen Keeler's, "Purple Cabbage", with its attendant yellow squash, green apples, and yellow dandelin.

NEW COMERS

Among the new comers were two by Charles R. Boon; one of the lower bridge showing the home of the Bell Shirt, portion of a nearby building, with a bit of greenface Moira water, augmented by a touch of golden autumn foliage against red brick, which made for a charming bit of color.

The other was that of a "Mexican Market" rich in color, and animated in movement in the Mexican tempo.

Two colorful scenes showed "Going to Market", one of a heavily-laden donkey, led by its master, who carried a big basket of produce on his head, and another showing the "Ox Cart", driven by two Negro-skinned Southerners. Colorful green palms lined the roadway along which the "slowly" ambled their way.

An intriguing bit of color depicted a flock of chickens—or want of a better name—"His Harem". The lordly rooster with proud mien was watching over his 'harem'.

WIDE VERSATILITY

This exhibition was unique, so far, in that it not only displayed the students' work, but also that of the teacher, Mrs. M. E. Robbins, whose three large pictures, two portraits, one of her daughter in evening dress, the shoulders draped in shiny satin, and that of her son-in-law, in sport shirt with open collar, centred by one of "Sprite", depicting colorful tulips, and fragrant lilac blooms, showed her wide versatility.

In the portraits Mrs. Robbins has been most fortunate in catching the spirit of the occasion, the daughter's look of anticipation, and the son-in-law's questioning expression. Both portraits were most realistic and eye-holding.

Also a praiseworthy exhibition, bringing much acclaim to both teacher and pupils.

For Parents Only
Christmas—His Birthday

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Mummy, haven't we forgotten something?" five year old Joyce asked eagerly. Christmas dinner was over. Vast quantities of delicious turkey, vegetables and pudding had been consumed. The crackers had been pulled, and the gay paper hats, tilted at various angles, adorned the heads of everyone from Granny to Baby Mac. For the life of her, Mother could not guess what had been overlooked! When she did not reply, Joyce explained, "We've not sung "Happy Birthday to You". It's the Baby Jesus' Birthday, isn't it? So we should sing the Birthday Song for Him, shouldn't we?"

This is a little scene from a Canadian farm home last Christmas Day. After the rush of preparing for this greatest of all festival of the year, they paused to remember the real reason for it all.

In your home does your child know that the important thing about December 25th is that it is Christ's natal day? Children as well as adults find it easy to think of Christmas as the time of the entrance to the cave at Bethlehem with the Holy Family there, or the Wise Men in Botticilli's "The Adoration of the Magi" all make the Christmas story very real.

There are fine prints of sacred paintings in many Sunday School lesson helps. Religious Book Stores and Publishing Houses supply them. Quite a few small pictures can be found on Christmas cards. A school age child might like to make a scrap book of Christmas scenes, both sacred and secular.

The modern View Master has taken the place of the old-fashioned Pleckscope. Two small lens exceptionally effective colored Christmas reels, on Joseph and Mary, the Shepherds, and the Wise Men. This is a useful gift for the whole family.

The story of the first Christmas is told with great beauty and simplicity in the New Testament. Boys and girls hear about the Nativity at Sunday School. But every little child should learn about Christmas at Christ's Birthday from his own parents.

It is confusing if children get the impression at home that Christmas has mainly to do with Santa Claus and the excitement of receiving gifts. How much children miss if they do not hear of the true origin of Christmas when they are still quite small!

One of the loveliest glimpses of a Mother telling her boy and girl this story is found in "Nativity" by Louise Dickson Rich. This recent book published by Longmans is remarkable for its insight into what goes on in the minds and hearts of children.

The author writes: "When Dinah was four and trotted to Christmas time I told them again the story of the Christ child—of the long hard trip to Bethlehem, of the inn that had no room and of the manger—Dinah listened, her eyes big as tears—"But Mummy, He'd be cold, and the oxen and donkeys would look so big to Him, He'd be afraid!" I had forgotten that it was possible to feel concern, real concern for the little Lord Jesus, asleep on the straw."

This Christmas time in our homes, through pictures and by telling the story of the First Christmas may we help our children see in their imaginations the baby Jesus in the manger at Bethlehem. "Love came down at Christmas"—and may our own hearts be filled with love for Him and gratitude for His coming!

"Once again His Birthday Christtide celebrate;
Steadfastly believing
Love will conquer hate."

Britons Derived New Hope During Coronation Year

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Britons entered perilously the coronation year, deriving new hope for the future in renewed awareness of the nation's proud history.

The big moment for Britain and the Commonwealth came on a drizzling June morning. Elizabeth II, a young and radiant Queen wearing a gown adorned with the emblems of all the Commonwealth countries, was crowned in ancient Westminster Abbey as thrilled millions watched or listened.

This symbolic act, centrepiece in a ritual which for weeks made London the carnival capital of the world, rolled back the centuries in a flashback to the days of chivalry. Britain lies heavily under the spell of the past and the Coronation is probably the oldest state ceremonial in Christendom with rites little changed since St. Dunstan the Peaceful was crowned in 973.

More than 400 Canadians were in the abbey. Prime Minister St. Laurent stood in a choir stall only a few yards from the throne chair in which the Queen received homage after her crowning.

It was among the happiest Coronations in Britain's history. The crowning of the young Queen brought memories of past greatness with a woman on the throne and set British hearts beating with hope for a new Elizabethan age.

In the weeks of preparation for the year's great event and in the royal tours of the British Isles that followed, the frugal post-war years were relegated to the past. Austerity, symbol of privation, became a forgotten word.

In keeping with the new mood, life seemed more cheerful. A prewar gaiety returned to shopping centres as slowly but surely the shelves filled up. Chocolates and other candies came off the ration list February. In March, eggs were "liberated" and almost for the first time since 1939 housewives could think in terms of eight whites to a lb.

BIGGER MEAT SUPPLY

Meat, once rationed to a weekly family share small enough to slip through a letter-box, increased. Hygiene came out from "under the counter" and the "export only" label was removed from all but a few luxury items. Customers who ordered a fancy whisky often got what they wanted instead of a wry smile.

Yet the year started inauspiciously. Flood on Britain's east coast more than 300 lives, left 32,000 homeless, flooded more than 160,000 acres and caused farm losses estimated at £10,000,000.

The January-February floods, driven by high gales, also lashed Holland and Belgium.

In May, Britain's attention was roused by Prime Minister Churchill's call for a "parley at the summit" among the Big Four powers. The speech sent a thrill through the country which felt some peaceful initiative was needed to break the cold war deadlock. The Big Three met at Bermuda in December and possibilities loomed of an early Big Four foreign ministers' conference in Berlin in 1954, but some of the original impetus seemed missing.

On the economic front Britain appeared to be holding her own. It was the first break in a cycle marked by crises in 1947, 1949 and 1951. But though the gold and dollar reserves built up month by month, there were official warnings that the smallest adverse influence might plunge the country into financial difficulties.

Coronation festivities were given an added fillip by the announcement of the conquest of Everest, the world's highest mountain. Later in the summer sportsmad Britons welcomed England's success over Australian cricketers by a close test time in 26 years. But their enthusiasm was dampened late in November when Hungary outplayed an English team in an international soccer match in London.

In a widely publicized murder case, John Christie, self-confessed strangler of seven women, was hanged July 15. Christie was a central figure in perhaps the grimmest story in Britain's modern criminal history. The mild-mannered, 55-year-old trucking clerk admitted killing his victims over a period of 12 years, and storing the bodies in a grimy house in Notting Hill, London.

Headlines resulted in September after the disappearance of Mrs. Melinda Maclean, wife of British diplomat Donald Maclean who vanished in similar fashion in 1951 with Guy Burgess, another diplomat. Police of six countries vainly sought Mrs. Maclean, generally believed to have gone behind the Iron Curtain where reports indicated her husband was working.

OLD MEMENTOES

CARMANGAY, Alta. (CP)—Curios and heirlooms exhibited by the hospital auxiliary here included a 200-year-old snuff box, and a hand-loomed plaid shawl at least 130 years old.

LUMBER MAN DIES

TORONTO (CP)—William Harold Leak, 57, past president of the Ontario Wholesale Lumber Dealers' Association, died here Thursday. A lifelong resident of Toronto, Mr. Leak was also past president of the Wholesale and Export Bureau and a director of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association.

Detroit Red Wings Take Over Top Spot With 3-1 Defeat Of Black Hawks

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

PROPHET!

Coach Johnny Carr-Harris, who can, if necessary, don the harness, buckle and skates and turn in a right nifty job of puck-chasing, smiled outside the Goodyears' dressing room before the Kingston-Memos fray last night.

"They smelled the affable Johnny, flicking an imaginary speck of dust from a smart overcoat, "is where we take over the lead of this Senior "B" group." Art Casterton, manager of the team, sometimes peculiarly referred to as the "Iron King of Princess Street," promptly seconded the motion which was carried after a vote was taken of the principals and two gents personably associated with the Goodies in some capacity or another.

Carr-Harris adjusted an impeccable fedora to a jaunty angle and said: "And you can quote me as saying that." Again Manager Casterton rushed to his assistance. "Me, too," he mumbled, after chewing an inch or two from the end of an Ontario Intelligencer pencil which he was using to inscribe the Goodyears' payroll — pardon—line-up, on the official document!

Having arranged his sartorial elegance to his satisfaction, Coach Carr-Harris noticed a finger at this reporter and said sternly, "and we will be in there for keeps." Manager Casterton gulped another helping of the O-1 graphite and muttered, "that goes for me, too." Thank heaven, Maxie Jackson was rehearsing a between-period radio script up in the press box and was not on hand to borrow our last pencil and add his agreement.

Johnny lowered his left hand and raised the right flipper. It was neatly pointed in our general direction. "And, alas, you can quote me as saying that the Goodyears will win the championship." Just before the last inch of the O-1 pencil disappeared, Manager Casterton gurgled, "that goes for me, too."

Gad, if that is not co-operation then Berlin will be forgiven. Besides, after what happened, Carr-Harris now rates some sort of standing as a prophet since his first prognostication proved correct on the first count in our general direction. "And, alas, you can quote me as saying that the Goodyears will have to take a lesson or two in public oratory, before he outs Winnie as an after-dinner speaker.

Seriously, and to get back to the game, both Goodyears and the Memos have played better hockey than they did in it is just as well for both teams that they collectively got a rame off their chests that was dull at times and with only flashes of the brilliant hockey both are capable of.

Maybe it was the traditional jinx of new uniforms that gremlined the Memos. They appeared in neat, nifty, colorful new outfits of red and white which, according to a public address announcement, were the gifts of Morley Smith of the Smith Carbide Company of this city. The sweaters have a body background of solid red with white slashes down the shoulders, red pants and red stockings with white circles. The name of the donor's company appears on the backs of the jerseys.

However, the Doran crew apparently could not settle down to the hockey they are capable of playing. Their passing plays were not clicking, and while they checked well going both ways, their offensive plays were not productive. Even so, they were a Mr. Johnson in the Goodyears' nets, who at times rose to dizzy heights in tossing back pucks that appeared labelled for goals. The man was almost uncanny and on not a few occasions he stood alone between the Memos and goals.

YOU FIGURE IT OUT!

The Goodyears can extend their lead tonight, or drop back into a share-all role with the Oshawa Trucknen. The Peterborough Petes are in Kingston while the fast-traveling Belleville Combines will be the guests of the Oshawa Truckmen at Bowmanville. The pulsating Pontics can grab second place if they win, and in so doing can assist the Goodies to cling to the top spot regardless of the outcome in Kingston.

GOOD CAUSE!

Over in Picton tonight the Rotary Club of the Prince Edward County seat is holding its third annual radio auction. The airwaves function has proven popular and in its past two performances has netted a tidy sum for the crippled kiddie proteges of the service club. The show goes on the air at eight o'clock and will continue as long as the local "Hello Gals" have strength to plug in connections. It is a good show with plenty of fine entertainment and not a little hilarious comedy. CJBQ is airwaving the "Auction" with friend Devine in the role of fun-raiser. Good show for, a good cause.

Another Team Sows Out

MONTREAL (CP) —St. Hyacinthe Lions Friday night bowed out of the Provincial Hockey league, reduced the circuit to three teams.

It was the second withdrawal from the league this week. Lachine Rapides announced on Wednesday because of lack of support at home games.

It was understood that the St. Lyacinthe club's finances were nearly exhausted and that there was some disagreement over assignment of Lachine players to other teams in the league.

League officials said they will hope to be able to declare the Lions to return to the circuit, but a week-end home-and-home series against Cornwall Colts has been cancelled.

The three teams left in the loop are St. Jerome, Ste. Therese and Cornwall.

Chicago Boss Arthur Wirtz Confers With Conny Smythe, Subject? What Do You Think

By The Canadian Press

Everybody is selling Chicago Black Hawks but Hawks. They're only looking for hockey players.

Rumors that the Hawks, who have lost games all season, were to be sold out of the National Hockey League have been around for weeks. They've been denied on all sides.

Even the fact that the Hawks this season are playing some of their games in Indianapolis, to revive interest in the former American league stronghold, has been used by the finger-pointers as indicative that they want to get out of Chicago Stadium.

But Friday night, while the Hawks were taking a 3-1 beating from Detroit Red Wings in Indianapolis, 90 miles south of Chicago, there was an inkling they may get player help from other clubs in the league.

Arthur Wirtz, boss of the Chicago organization who has repeatedly denied any sale suggestions, met with league president Clarence Campbell and Conn Smythe, managing director of the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

The subject, naturally, players. "We didn't discuss selling our concrete," Wirtz said after the Chicago huddle. "We had much more optimistic than I was before the meeting. Money isn't the problem."

WANTS TOP PLAYERS

Wirtz has made no bones about his views that top hockey players, such as Gordie Howe of Detroit, Montreal, Toronto, Detroit and Boston.

He suggests "some sort of equitable draft arrangement."

Smythe, who left earlier this week that he didn't care if Chicago pulled out of the league, commented after Friday night's meeting:

"It was a cloak-and-dagger affair. It's kind of a two-way business. If they'll help me I feel probably do something."

But Smythe had a big "if" attached.

"I was down there looking for players, too," he added.

The talks didn't fizz on the list-place Hawks. They disappointed 8,388 Indianapolis fans, more than they've drawn in Chicago lately, with their showing against the Wings. It was their 24th defeat in 31 games. They had a big "if" attached.

Leftwingers Tony Leswick and Ted Lindsay and defenseman Gord Howe scored for Detroit. Right-winger Jimmy Peters tallied the only Chicago goal.

The Wings took a 2-0 lead in the first period on Howe's goal off brief Black Hawk drives in the second and third minutes for their 18th win in 31 games.

SUSPENSION LIFTED

NEW YORK (AP)—The indefinite suspension of Randy Turpin, former middleweight champion of the world, imposed Friday by the New York athletic commission. The suspension was invoked for "actions detrimental to the best interests of boxing" following his title bout with Terry Rowbo Cisco of San Francisco.

Billy Graham Gets Decision Over Young

NEW YORK (CP)—Clever Billy Graham, still a boxing master at the age of 33, showed into the middleweight scramble Friday night with a unanimous 10-round decision over a wild, inept Paddy Young. Graham weighed 150½, Young 151.

This battle of two New York boxers turned out to be a lopsided contest. Referee Al Berl had it 9-1, judge Art Aidala 8-2 and judge Bert Grant 7-3. The AP card had Graham on top 8-1.

Graham outfloxed his man and cut him around both eyes as he blocked and picked off most of Young's left hooks.

There were no knockdowns. Anything close to it as Graham opened a wide lead and held it all the way. In the seventh and ninth Billy went on his bike to backpedal away from the wild-swinging Young.

Timing his attack neatly, Graham stung Young repeatedly with his left, startled him with a right to the meeting. Money isn't the problem."

Maroons Edge Dutchies 3-2; Falls Nips Tribe

By The Canadian Press

Chatham Maroons Friday night broke a jinx that has been hanging over their heads since they entered the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series—they defeated Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

The Maroons 3-2 decision in Chatham was their first victory over Kitchener in 11 meetings since the Maroons entered the group last season.

Niagara Falls Cataracts pulled another upset when they tagged Stratford Indians with a 4-3 defeat in Niagara Falls.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Yucker Flynn scored in overtime to give Sudbury Wolves a 4-3 victory over North Bay Trappers in Sudbury.

DICK SCORES WINNER

Ernie Dick scored the winning goal for the Dutchmen early in the third period. Al Plouffe and Joe Carveth notched the others for Chatham. Don Oberholtzer and Jerry Theberge were the Kitchener markers.

Billy Young notched the winner for the Senior Cataracts against the Indians. Norvel Olsen scored a pair for Niagara Falls with the remaining counter going to playing coach Ken Campbell. Fred Pletsch George Aitken and Mike Delisle tallied for Stratford.

Sudbury victory over North Bay moved the "Wolves to within one point of the front-running Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds in the NOHA.

Reed Heale scored two and Andy Milne a single before Flynn won it for Lorne Kennedy, Gord Dwyer and Chasie tallied for North Bay.

Windsor is at Owen Sound, Chatham at Stratford and Hamilton at Kitchener tonight. Niagara Falls is at Windsor Sunday.

In the NOHA Sudbury clashes with the Greyhounds and North Bay plays the Lumber Kings in Pembroke tonight. The Wolves meet the Indians in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Sunday.

Richmond Gets Nine Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Orioles helped Richmond, Va., in the International League by selling it nine baseball players.

The Orioles, now in the American League as replacements for the Browns, said they are selling for an undisclosed sum pitchers Ken Holcombe, Angelo Nardella, Dick Starr and Joe Ayers; infielders Buzz Kerns and Ed Kaske, outfielders Marv Rackley and Roy Weatherly and catcher Marty Tabacheck.

They'll Do It Every Time

Cleveland Browns Slim Favorites To Beat Lions

DETROIT (CP) — Cleveland Browns, by virtue of their slightly better season's record and a "jinx" on repeat winners, are slim favorites to defeat Detroit Lions in the United States pro football final before an expected 50,000 fans here Sunday.

Detroit will be seeking to down the Browns for the second straight year and retain the title. But if past records are any indication they will have a tough time.

The Chicago Bears still have the jinx working for the 29-year history of the pro playoffs have teams won the championship two years in a row. The Chicago Bears did it in 1940-41 and Philadelphia Eagles in 1948-49. Six other teams reached the playoff the year after winning the title but lost the second time.

Sunday's games in Briggs Stadium will be televised with the Michigan-Toledo area blacked out.

The game may develop into a test of defence.

Cleveland yielded only an average of two touchdowns a game during the season, allowing its opponents 182 points in 12 games, as it won the eastern conference title. Forty-two of these came in the final game, Detroit's Thanksgiving Eagles rolled up a 42-27 margin and handed the Browns their only setback.

Detroit gave up 205 points—best mark in the western division—during its air defence, the vital part of any defence, was second to none.

On the offence, Cleveland outscored the Lions, 348 points to 271. The Cleveland record was a shade better than Detroit's 10-2 but many felt the Lions had a rougher schedule.

Teeps Hand Galt Hawks 10-0 Pasting, Bilks Edge Marlies and Flyers Win

By The Canadian Press

St. Catharines Guelph and Barrie advertised junior hockey Friday night. Fans watched a three-ring circus.

Ontario Hockey Association Junior A action in those three communities produced a forward line that scored 18 points, 13 major penalties, two misconduct penalties and one match-misconduct.

Meanwhile St. Catharines Teepees, the team that was lucky enough to have the 18-point forward line, climbed into a first-place tie in the standings by shellacking Galt Black Hawks 10-0.

In Guelph, where 11 major penalties were assessed during one shot, the last-place Biltmores edged the third-place Toronto Marlboros 5-4 in overtime.

Barrie Flyers dropped Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts 5-1 in the other attraction. This one featured the two misconducts, the match-misconduct and the two majors.

LINE GETS TEN

The Barry Cullen-Hugh Barlow-Brian Cullen line was the irresistible force against the Hawks. Barry Cullen fired four goals and assisted on two others, Barlow scored three and assisted on the same number and Brian Cullen notched two goals and four assists. Cec Hoekstra added the remaining TeePee goal.

At Guelph, captain Wally Maxwell notched his second goal of the night for the Marlboros two seconds before the end of the game to send the game into overtime.

But Ron Howell tallied at 5:33 of the extra session—just after 11 men had received majors for staging a donnybrook—to win it for the Biltmores. Guelph, incidentally, received six of the 11 five-minute sentences.

At Larose and Mike Nykoluk were the stars of Toronto goal-getters. Howell preceded his winner with a counter in the first period, other gials going to Bob Forhan, Billy McCreary and Hillary Menard.

In Barrie, Jim Robertson of the Flyers and Howie Glover, just acquired by Kitchener from the Marlboros, were the penalty box when they started a rhubarb in the second period. It cost each of them a misconduct penalty with Glover also drawing a match-misconduct.

Arnie White of the Flyers and Greig Hicks of Kitchener had a mix-up in the third to account for another two majors.

George Ranalli, Johnny Martan Don Cherry, Bob White and Danny Polisiani counted for the Flyers. The lone Kitchener marker went to Topoli.

Toronto St. Michael's College is at Galt tonight. In a Sunday, doubleheader at Toronto Kitchener meets Marlboros while St. Michael's and St. Catharines try to decide first place.

Remember When

By The Canadian Press

Ernie Schaaf pounded out a 10-round decision over Max Baer in his first big fight in New York 25 years ago tonight. Three years later Schaaf took a terrible beating from Primo Carnera, then on his way to the heavyweight championship. Schaaf was carried to his corner and died in hospital four days later.

Richmond Will Build Park

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Mayor Ed Haddock said Friday night a new baseball park probably will be built to accommodate Richmond's projected club in the International League.

The mayor said he will confer with "small syndicate" of Richmond business men today to lay plans for construction of such a park.

Haddock tentatively was awarded a spot in the International League on the condition it obtain a suitable park.

Kingston Goodyears Assume Group Lead With 4-2 Victory Over Memos

Bud White Celebrates Return To Hockey Wars With 2 Goals; Kingston Goalie Star of Game

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Okanefs faltering Truckmen relinquished their share of top spot in the district Senior "B" group after the Kingston Goodyears handed the Belleville Memos a 4-2 defeat here last night. The 1953 Senior "B" champions occupy the top rung of the group ladder for the first time this season.

The Goodyears now have 20 points to their credit with the Truckmen in second spot with 18. Ottilia is crowding the Motor City crew with 17 points with Peterborough in fourth spot with 13 and the Memos in the cellar with 10.

Neither team can take any bows for the brand of hockey they displayed. At times it was lethargic with generous touches of skinny. The shining light of the pastime was Goodies goalie Ken Johnson, who came up with a sensational effort and fully realized all three of the mythical stars.

JOHNSON HERO

The Kingston goalie kicked out three shots in quick succession at the start of the game and from then on he was practically invincible. He turned back the goal hungry Memos gagging attacks and on not a few occasions thwarted solo attackers who raced in to his doorstep.

The Memos came up with one of their poorer efforts of the season. Their passes were not clicking and they appeared over-anxious to score goals. Ten penalties did not aid their efforts although credit for the goals were scored when they were a man short.

The Goodies showed flashes of the hockey they are capable of displaying with their defence standing out in packed order in front of the stymied Memos.

Bob Taylor of the Memos and Bud White of the Goodyears, celebrated their return to hockey wars after serving a four-game suspension, while Lionel Jones served two of his teams goals while Taylor in reverse style sat in the sin bin five times.

The hockey was rugged at times with the Goodies being labbed for six of the sixteen sentences. Tommy Schneider and Olinski, who came to the Goodyears via Sarnia, disfigured briefly with no damage done and both drawing majors.

The Memos gave Johnson a busy few minutes at the outset of the game and swarmed around the Kingston nets. The Duncan twins and Doug Hall, who substituted for Duke Doran on the line ripped rubber in rapid succession at the Kingston goalie but he coolly kicked out everything they slung at him.

Bud White opened the scoring at 3:24 when he picked up a loose puck following a Kingston power play and fired a screened shot between Sarrault's pads from 30 feet out.

The Memos roared back to the attack but could not poke the rubber past Johnson in a flurry of shots until mid-period when Ed Duncan finally drove it home with brother Erwin and Doug Hall assisting.

WHITE GETS TWO

Four minutes later Londry drew a clipping penalty and on a breakaway from a Memos power play, Bud White scored the prettiest goal seen here in some time. He took the puck from Nicholson, swung to Ed right, who partially checked by Goyer as he crossed the goal-mouth, and fell to the ice. He swung at the puck while prostrated at full length and drove it in a corner to give the Goodyears a 2-1 lead.

There was no score in the second period although both goals had numerous escapes. The Memos drew five penalties to the Goodyears two but came up with a flop job of penalty-killing.

Ed Duncan and Ted DeGray both roared through alone to Johnson's unwelcome mat but both times the Goodyear netminder was up.

Johnny Myke put the Goodyears two goals up on a passing play with Stewart after five minutes and seven minutes later Bud Olkie fired home the insurance unassisted.

Schreider and Olinski staged their scoring fray and both went off. No damage was done. Playing coach "Red" Doran fired a sizzling corner shot past Johnson with a little more than two minutes to go as the Memos drove back hard in an effort to whittle the margin. A minute later he drew a slashing penalty and time ran out for the Memos.

Rudy Sarrault in the Memos nets came up with another fine performance bringing many a Good years drive for goals.

The teams:

Kingston: Goal, Johnson; defence, Londry, Watts, Nicholson, Stewart; forwards, Parks, MacGregor, Mc-Keown, Murray, Bellringer, Myke, Collis, Olinski, White.

Belleville: Goal, Sarrault; defence, Wade, Schreider, Taylor, Bastien; forwards, Erwin Duncan, Ed. Duncan, P. Jones, DeGray, Wardlaw, MacDonald, Hull, Goyer, L. Doran.

Ezzard 'The Gizzard' Is Nearly Ready To Take Crack at Marciano's Crown

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The word is that Ezzard Charles has just about fought his way back as the No. 1 contender for the heavyweight title he once held.

As it is told to us, Jim Norris, the head of the International Boxing Club, feels obligated to give Ez another chance, since Ez used to fight for the IBC on virtually a set schedule when he held the title and so deserves better treatment that he has been getting.

Al Weill, Marciano's manager, also is said to feel that he should get the next shot, providing he scores a couple of good victories before a pretty large audience.

The battering Ez gave young Coley Wallace the other night was supposed to have got him over with first hurdle. Now he needs to do is win a return engagement with Nino Valdez, the big Cuban who unexpectedly beat him last summer.

WALLACE HAS PROMISE

Our thought was that Charles fought a consistently smart and sound fight against young Wallace. Also that Coley didn't look anything like Joe Louis, whom he portrays in the movies, except a little like the real guy.

In a case where he knew he had to go the limit and do something drastic or say a final good-bye to the big money, Ez was reluctant at all. He still is a very good heavyweight when the spirit moves him.

Mrs. Wallace was far from displeased with the bunch is that he will be fighting for the championship within a few years. After all, his career is before him and a skilled veteran as Charles should not injure his confidence.

The only question we have heard expressed about Coley is whether he has a real determination to go all the way. Some say he lacks the burning zeal that drives Louis to the title, and that he is part playboy. If so, that will come out later.

Inverse Conservation

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT.
(Noted Sportsman, Author And Creator Of Selmar Tables.)

We have a stranger paradox here in Ontario. Theoretically we have our various departments, with their main offices in our state capital, are dedicated to the exertion of their efforts toward the best interests of the taxpayers. Yet two of these departments are working in opposite directions.

One of them—the Fish Commission—is doing all it can to give us good fishing. The other— the department of Forests and Waters —is sponsoring a program of planned destruction which, if it keeps on going as it has been going, soon will reduce our streams to little more than inefficient drainage ditches.

The program referred to is called "The Stream Clearance Program." The work is being carried out under the all-inclusive heading "Flood Control. Magic words those! Without question, they have strong public appeal. Folks hear those words and are comforted. They fail to examine the methods of the expenditure of public funds.

LOVELY STREAM

We used to have a lovely trout stream here in central Pennsylvania is called Little Pine Creek. In its original state it was called a beautiful stream—a flage setting by Belasco. Annually the trout migrations came into these pleasant waters and the stream gave us excellent fishing.

Then the stream-clearance boys moved in. They brought their powerful saws and their bulldozers and they went to work. From the stream bottom they removed rocks and rubble and this material was piled along the shores in "disposal banks."

In effect these disposal banks act as dykes to keep the stream confined to its channel in times of high water. Flood control.

In the course of these operations the stream bed was leveled off. Its flow longer and less graceful riffles. Bottom life was ground to pulp. Cover for the fish was removed. The stream became a drainage ditch to facilitate "fast run-off." (The words are those of one of the contractors.)

The program was and, eventually came the high water. With the abnormal rush of water the unstabilized stream bed was dislodged. Small stones and pebbles were picked up and carried downstream.

DAMAGE WAS DONE

In addition, the disposal banks shore were picked up by the rushing waters and carried along, to be deposited below in the deeper waters. Trees and "winter holes" were filled in. The damage was done. Each year or two more of these disposal banks to disappear completely.

It costs money to hire power shovels and bulldozers. They are expensive toys. And the results of the results of this work and money are lost after a few years. Then, to afford riparian owners the desired protection against floods, the work needs to be done all over again, the steam, as a trout stream, has been ruined.

And this waste and vandalism is authorized, mind you, by the very men whose job it is to see to it that our forests and waters, during again.

United States Ousts Belgium In Davis Cup Challenge Play

By WILL GRIMSLEY

BRISBANE, Australia (AP)—The United States Davis Cup team on Saturday swept into the challenge round for the 11th straight year when Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas methodically ground out straight-set triumphs over the Belgian team.

Trabert, the Cincinnati youngster who has developed into the ace of the team, polished off Jacques Brichant 6-4, 6-3, 6- and Seixas came off the bench to whip Philippe Washer 6-2, 7-5, 6-4, for a clean American margin.

So just as it's been every year since the competition was resumed after the war, the finalists will be the U.S. and Australia. In 1939, the last year before the war interrupted, Australia also played host and fair at Dagmar, Flesherton-Markdale, Grav e nhurst, Haileybury, North Bay and Sundridge.

The challenge round this year is scheduled for Melbourne Dec. 28, 29 and 30, and there's no denying that the Aussies will be heavy favorites over the Yanks for the fourth year in a row.

Trabert, on his present performance, might defeat any amateur in the world, but Seixas still is a question mark. He has a tricky backhand chant all over the court. This was the department that it was hoped the Americans had to win, for no one knew if Seixas would improve over th miserable performance he put up in losing to Brichant two day before.

The University of Cincinnati student took just 33 minutes to dispose of Brichant. In the nine games he served in the first set, he lost only three points and had four aces. In the three matches he won, 6 sets, he lost his service; no one.

Three games were played in the Belleville minor hockey league last night. Rangers edging the Canadians 4-3, the Maple Leafs scoring a 3-1 victory over the Red Wings and the first place Black Hawks settling for a 2-2 tie with the Bruins.

Gary Hull and Bill Latimer each had a goal and assist for the Rangers, Larry Dins and Bob Fotheringham notched the other markers while B. Pringle had one assist.

Ron Whitehead and Larry Rowe, bottom teamed up for one and one, each assisting on the others goal. Doug Dafoe scored the other, Jim Lloyd had a helper.

The Bruins had a 2-0 lead in their game on goals by Mike Hamilton from L. Moreau and L. Westfall on a power play. In the third period the Hawks pressed the action until Gary Duggan finally tied it on a goal from Tobich after Ethier had scored early.

No T. V. Views Of Varsity Blues

TORONTO (CP) — The athletic board of the University of Toronto has decided Varsity football games will not be televised next year unless some sponsor comes forward with more money.

The move came following a decreased attendance in 1953, first year of televised Canadian college football. The Varsity Blues played foyer in Europe.

to a total of 63,700 fans, a decrease of 27,500 from last year, representing a loss of $41,300, calculated at $1.50 a ticket. Television revenue amounted to $3,125.

Warren Stevens, Varsity athletic director, said "Unless a sponsor is prepared to pay more to offset our loss in attendance, I feel certain University of Toronto games won't be televised in 1954."

GREAT ENTRANCE

The Royal Festival Hall in London is believed to have the largest foyer in Europe.

Battle of Slacks For School Wear Again Flares Up

WARRINGTON, England (Reuters)—A father's battle for he right to send his 14-year-old daughter to school in slacks flared up again here Friday when he was fined £1 for not sending her to school regularly.

Ernest Spiers, 56, already is paying off a similar 10-shilling fine at five pence a week.

His battle began last winter when Eva was sent to school wearing slacks—to safeguard her from a third bout or rheumatic fever, her parents said.

The principal sent her home and told her: "Never come to school again wearing slacks."

Spiers withdrew Eva from school and was fined 10 shillings.

He appealed, won, but then lost his fight again when the High Court ruled in favor of the school because it feared "chaotic" school conditions would result if every parent was able to decide the appropriate dress for his child.

Eva went back to school, wearing slacks, and again was sent home.

Friday, the prosecution said the rule banning slacks could be waived if a medical certificate were produced.

"But," he added, "no such note has been received from Mr. and Mrs. Spiers concerning Eva."

Mrs. Spiers said later: "Eva will attend school wearing her slacks in cold weather for the sake of her health."

12-Page Letter Is Final Appeal To Pro-Red PoW

By STAN CARTER

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Twenty-two United States war prisoners today planned a festive Christmas behind barbed wire as the United Nations command made a last-minute appeal that they weigh carefully their decision to stay with the Reds.

A 12-page letter addressed today to each prisoner urged them to be certain that their refusal to return home was not an "irrevocable" mistake.

Copies of the letter were sent to Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the neutral nations repatriation commission, with a vote asking that they be delivered to the 22 Americans in neutral custody.

A spokesman for Thimayya indicated that the "come home" letter would have to be approved by the five-country NNRC Monday, just two days before expiration of the 90-day period for trying to woo home unrepatriated war prisoners.

There appeared little chance that face-to-face interviews with the lucky Americans would be arranged before the deadline.

The letter actually is a statement Allied explainers planned to use during interviews with the prisoners.

Today's command also is reported planning loudspeaker broadcasts to the prisoners before the Wednesday deadline.

CHRISTMAS CELEBRATIONS

Both pro-Communist and anti-Communist prisoners in neutral custody are making preparations for celebrating Christmas in their compounds.

The Reds today delivered a truckload of athletic equipment to the pro-Communist camp, along with decorations and colored tissue paper. Holiday food and sporting goods also has been supplied for the Americans, the one Briton and 327 South Koreans in the camp.

Some 22,000 Chinese and North Koreans in the anti-Red camp will get Christmas delicacies from the UN command. The Indian command said it will distribute gifts from outside organizations, including several planeloads of food from Formosa.

Matches Ignite, Churchill Has Hand Burned

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill is nursing a burned left hand, aides announced today.

They said a box of matches he was holding burst into flame during a luncheon party Friday at Trinity House, headquarters of Britain's ancient maritime pilotage organization.

Lord Moran, Churchill's personal physician, said on the 79-year-old prime minister at his official 10 Downing street residence today.

Later Churchill drove off to his country home at Chartwell, Kent, his left hand was bandaged and his arm was in a sling.

Despite the injury, Churchill smiled and waved his good arm at a of sight-seers who saw him drive off.

Churchill is due to spend only one day at Chartwell. Then he will go to Chequers, his official country home, to spend Christmas.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A wry and unpredictable fellow is Robert Mitchum.

Mitchum is the despair of his bosses because of the way he chats open-mindedly to the press and all others who will listen. One hush hush subject in Hollywood is the matter of retakes. The word "retakes" has acquired a sinister connotation here, indicating that a picture wasn't done correctly the first time and has to be patched up.

To get away from the distasteful word, the phrase "added scenes" is used in official announcements. Actually, there is often nothing to be ashamed of when retakes are required. Sometimes no one notices what is lacking in a picture until it's all put together.

If found Marilyn Monroe and Mitchum doing retakes—oops, I mean added scenes—on "River of No Return," which was finished weeks ago. It was a forest attack sequence and the way I gave it all the Johnston office will allow.

SOMETHING LACKING

Panting between scenes, Mitchum gave his version of how it all came about: "I came back from a hunting trip with..an idea for a movie called Mrs. I made the mistake of telling it to a script writer friend of mine, Frank Fenton. So what happens? He whips up the story and sells it to 20th Century-Fox. He even gives it all the Johnston office will allow.

"So I read the script and I notice something is lacking. They put together Mickey Rooney and Marilyn Monroe or anybody who Marilyn Monroe and what do you expect? Sex. They tell me they don't need sex, that it's implied in the scenes. Okay, so we make the picture.

"Now you will notice we are doing retakes to put what into the picture? Sex."

House Members Pack Their Bags For Long Recess

LONDON (Reuters) — Members of Parliament put their political squabbles into cold storage Friday night, packed their bags and went home for a month-long Christmas recess.

Many still were feeling the effects of a week of whirlwind Tory-of Commons activity which involved attacks of the government by both the Labor opposition and sections of the government Conservative party.

Prime Minister Churchill held a tidying-up cabinet meeting in the afternoon. After the hours of work with his ministers, he went to Chartwell, his private country house in Kent, to relax.

Now in his 80th year, he has had no chance to size up since he returned a week ago from the Bermuda Big Three conference.

His Christmas celebrations also will be brief, for ahead lies the Big Four foreign ministers' conference in Berlin, which the Western powers have proposed should open Jan. 4.

Before then there will be much ministerial coming and going between London and Chequers as Churchill's official out-of-town retreat in Buckinghamshire. He will move there Tuesday for Christmas week.

DIFFERENT MEANING

Ancient Europeans considered the mistletoe—magic medicine, carrying it with them for health and luck.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The course or your bridge life may depend on the bids employ jump responses. Because each type of jump has its own particular meaning; depending on when and where it is used.

When your partner is the opening one bidder, your high jump asks him to stop right there. If, however, your jump is only one higher than a normal bid it asks for confinuance to game.

Such one-jump response, promises some of sure tricks. In other words, the only promise it makes is tricks enough to help make a game.

South opened with a club when you have this north hand:

♠ None
♥ K 7 6
♦ A Q 5 3
♣ Q 10 5 4 3

With a count of seven tricks in your hand you now see enough to make and comfortable game. But you do not one-jump at once. Why? You lack a total of two sure tricks or more, among your values.

Would you high jump at once? No. Not even if your high jump was directed to game or contract. Why? Because you surely would not insist that partner stop right there. You may have a slam.

You would neither high jump nor one-jump. Instead, you would first make a simple response. Your partner would raise to the modest bid of one diamond. Nothing more than that immediately.

Your takeout to a new suit is forcing for one round. Partner will give you another chance to bid. You will then jump.

Don't jump to conclusions.

TV NEWS

by Gene Hitchon

If there is still the odd person about some days who thinks that TV is not living entertainment then they just haven't been keeping up with the latest studies of the statisticians.

According to recent surveys the average viewer gives television entertainment worth $1,250 during the course of a year if the same entertainment was sold by the ticket office. Then add on the number of viewers in your family and you can see how much it is worth. It's simple to see how it pays for itself in ONE DAY TWO MONTHS. If that's not money in the bank we'll eat our hat.

It's no wonder that TV is proving popular as any of you regular viewers will testify. Getting better all the time, it's expanding and expanding, so that the average viewer can't remember like a plump lady in a candy shop. If you're planning on purchasing a set for Christmas you can be sure that TV will be in the industry. You'll find too, that "Service after the sale" is no idle catch phrase with us . . . it's an integral part of our organization. Let us demonstrate the complete set of television WHEN IT COMES TO TV COME TO US.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY, DEC. 20, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Today is full of stimulating vibrations from Mars and Saturn, and while rays from the Moon. It can be a day of noble deeds, fulfillment of wholesome desires. It's up to you. Proceed.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — A good time to get better acquainted with your true self, with family and with God from Whom all blessings come. Eccentric tasks are favored.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Stimulating rays prevail—especially for righteous causes. Important and urgent tasks are favored but don't hunt up work that could be done during the week. Aid charities.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — This can be a cheery, constructive and, maybe, restful day for you. Your Moon in benefic aspect is supported by vivacious Mars influences which favors difficult duties, courage and endurance.

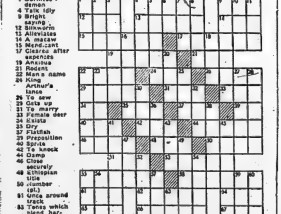
July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Good day which to indulge in healthy sports, activities to aid children and the underprivileged. Leo excels in entertaining, doing good for others. Offer what you do to God as prayer—you will benefit.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Doing little tasks, planning little surprises for the family, church affairs, social interests—all will contribute to your happiness this pleasant Sunday. Remember, healthy fun is also pleasing to God.

September 24 to October 22 (Libra)—Heed advice to Aries and Taurus now. Use your best judgment in all situations. Start the day with church services and you'll be happier. Fine aspects for essentials.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Human behavior is often strange and irritating but don't forget that you and I both are humans and others may sometimes find us annoying, "impossible," too. Sunday rises as good time for prayer, reflection.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Read Scorpio. You have the same friendly rays, favoring the strenuous activities you both enjoy. But today is also fine for reflection. The spiritual side is important.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Helpful, stimulating rays. Accomplishment in all wholesome endeavors favored. It should be a happy day for family relations, romance.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Life has many treasures which we often overlook or undervalue. Children's laughter and pranks, old folks' philosophies, good friends and religion. Think of these now.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Many interests and activities which you enjoy and appreciate are favored this festival-filled Sunday. Your church should come first, then essential duties. Have a pleasant time with loved ones.

YOU BORN TODAY are versatile, outgoing in personality, generous, usually jovial; have unlimited talents and capability for success and contentment. If you study these efficiently you will attain true achievement. Two of your fine traits are sympathy for fellow-men and willingness to aid others. You may have unusual mechanical ability, also literary and artistic talent; are intuitive but should guard against making hasty decisions. Birthdate: Leo-pold von Ranke, German historian.

British Exports High in November

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's total exports for November were the highest for 20 months but sales to North America showed a drop in the official figures published today.

However exports to America for the first 11 months of the year rose 18 per cent over exports for the first 11 months of 1952.

This represented an increase of 10 per cent in sales to the United States and 23 per cent to Canada.

Total exports for November, in which there were only 25 working days, were worth £260,000,000. The average for the first 11 months of the year was £269,000,000.

But November imports at £362,000,000 were considerably higher than exports and revealed a trade deficit for the month of £94,000,000.

British Exports Remain Key To Recovery, Major Problem

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Britain labored on the treadmill of economic recovery in 1953, making slow but visible progress towards the blessed goal of convertibility of the pound sterling.

In a year of increasing economic freedoms, exports remained the key to recovery for many major problems.

R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, could say in mid-October that the country was steering a "fairly even course between the primrose path and the waste land." One hopeful sign was the breaking of the two-year cycle of crisis, marked by slumps in 1947, 1949 and 1951.

There was no "crisis" as such in 1953, but there were grounds for caution.

BOLSTER RESERVES

The good news toward year's end of record production and mounting gold and dollar reserves —the latter indicating an easier trend in the battle of the dollar gap—was tempered by tougher foreign export competition.

Production exceeded the peak post-war year of 1951. But exports was expressed whether the export drive fagged. Secondly, Britain's Building absorbed a large portion and home consumption, up due to high wages, might have been blunted the export punch.

On an old theme, Butler warned anew in November that British exporters must become more competitive in meeting price reductions. Britain had, in fact, been losing ground steadily for years, though Butler paid tribute to British salesmanship and enterprise in the Canadian and United States markets.

LABOR UNREST

Employment remained high and wages fairly stable. But there were disquieting signs on the labor front. Between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 man-days were lost in Dec. 2 in the biggest walkout since the 1926 general strike. The one-day stoppage, called by the Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions to stress a demand for a 15-per-cent wage increase, struck shipyard, aviation and engineering plants, key units in the export industry.

Despite improvement in the gold and dollar situation, Britain's adverse balance of trade totalled £500,000,000 ($1,400,000,000) by Oct. 31, although import prices dropped more than her export rates.

However, the internal economic position showed "remarkable improvement," Butler said.

BUDGET RESTRICTIVE

After 1952's restrictive adjustments at home and abroad, the chancellor set his budget for an "incentive" budget last April with income and purchase tax cuts totalling £322,000,000 ($901,600,000) and £70,000,000 ($196,000,000) for the 1953-54 fiscal year. Concessions to industry included restoration of the initial tax allowance on capital outlay for new industrial plant and new buildings. He abolished the 30-per-cent excess profits tax.

The list of restored economic freedoms was long.

The government quit the grain buying business Sept. 12 as part of its package deal. It might have left it ultimately ending rationing. Fridays grain trading began to take the earnest Dec. 1 when the Liverpool cereal futures market re-opened after 16 years.

Steel allocation ended. Copper, sugar, rice, cereals, tea, coffee and bananas were freed. Private building, softwood timber, petroleum products and most metals, although dollar restrictions still applied.

REDUCE U.S. AID

The treasury schedule was for a 36-per-cent reduction in dollar U.S. aid during 1953-54—during which period direct aid would total about $200,000,000.

Convertibility plans remained unpublished, but there was more wealth plan to that end moved a step forward in discussions with principal European countries. Britain gave a cool reception to the International Monetary Fund for the plan—in which sterling would be convertible at last—but there was no draw from the European Payments Union while dollar restrictions continued.

Liberalized trade would be pursued on a European scale through the organization for European Economic Co-operation.

The final step would be freeing of trade through the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade and removal of dollar restrictions. Fulfilment depended on a series of U.S. decisions on international economic policy, expected in mid-1954.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was reading his paper and Ma was sewing when Little Benny was laying on the floor thinking of different things to get Pop mad at pop, which end of a hair does it grow at?

What'll it grows at the end where it's planted, of course, pop said.

Meenie is the end where it grows head, and petty soon I said, Hay pop, would a cow get mad if its tile on its head and you pull electric its milk?

No, I suppose so, for Peet sake I'm trying to reed my paper, pop said, and you bother me. Please remember what Dr. Kronkheim says in his book on Modern Child Rearing. He says he has found spontaneous questions are discouraging, that they at least destroy the sense of curiosity, which is the foundation of erly education, ma said.

Tell the doctor I'm sorry, pop said, and tell him I'll stop asking it would feel to be a firecracker setting in your pocket, but only dinsly disappear forever, and yelled, Bang, and ma gave a small jump, saying, Sh, pop, please, in the mist of a merder mistery. Pop laid down the last line and made my hair stand on end with one of those horrible things notices I warned you it was the last one I would warn you.

Easy does it my dear, pop said. Somewhere in his book Dr. Kronkheim says that if a boy's vocal explosions are p— — boy's nose as buds berating into flower, he said, ma — — well, I wont actually punish you, Benny, but I want you to go to bed very quietly this minute.

Aw G, must I go to bed so early, so if you're not spunishing me, what's the difference? I said, and he said, Now you're getting me, and if you start an argewment I'll finish it.

The result being I used up the 20 minutes reading in bed, against the law, just for the sake of free dom of speech.

The W.M.S. has completed another successful year and Mrs. Kenneth McMullen, who headed all who had helped during her term of office, can be justly proud of the evident every success in the year ahead.

The W.A. also held its meeting. Mrs. Embury Clough read the treasurer's report which showed that the society had enjoyed a most successful year. The president, Mrs. Harry McMullen, thanked the officers and all who had helped so willingly to make this year a success and asked again for co-operation during the coming year.

OFFICERS RETURNED

The officers for 1954 are the same as last year and are as follows:

President, Mrs. Harry McMullen; first vice-president, Mrs. Coleman Townsend; secretary, Mrs. Gordon Rothwell; treasurer, Mrs. Embury Hough.

Business was dealt with in the usual way by the ladies, after which the meeting closed and a small basket was held for the flower fund for the W.A. and W.M.S. Mrs. Snider served dainty refreshments.

The ladies held their own Christmas party in the basement of the church on Friday afternoon of last week with a large attendance. A pot luck supper started off the party after which all enjoyed four films and Mastertalk. Mrs. Townsend was in charge.

Santa Claus came later in the evening and with some helpers had a gift for everyone and also sandwiches for the lunch. Everyone there had a happy time together.

Sorry to report Mr. A. Stanley Townsend is in Trenton hospital. His friends all wish for him a complete recovery.

U.S. to Hand Back Islands to Japan On Christmas Day

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese government announced Friday that the United States will hand the Amami Oshima islands to Japan Christmas Day.

The move touched off wild celebrations among the island people. Japanese flags were stayed, bunger strikes and demonstrations against U.S. rule ended after nine years.

The islands, lying midway between the southernmost Japanese island of Kyushu and Okinawa, have been under jurisdiction of the U. S. trusteeship administration that rules Okinawa and Marianas.

Kyodo news service said arrangements for the Amami Oshima were held up since last August because of a dispute over the islands' postal savings. The military payment certificates circulating on the islands.

The islands, never a battleground during the war, had been Japanese territory for hundreds of years.

THIEF SPOILS PARTY

SPARROWBUSH, N.Y. (AP)—Yesterday police said a thief apparently arrived at the local firemen's hall to trim their eight-foot Christmas tree before the party for 50 children. But a thief had been there before them and made off with the tree and its decorations.

Christmas Plants and Cut Flowers

By FLORA SAVILLE

Plant material ordered months ago is now being delivered to local florists. They have on hand a good supply of cut flowers and pot plants. Florists have also stocked china figures, baskets, flower receptacles, and many have plant or lamps. Table centers, garlands, wreaths and sprays are made up and waiting to add the festive touch to the home for holiday festivities.

In cut flowers mums, both the large type and the smaller pompom varieties are a good choice. Carnations in white, red and pink are in demand. Both chrysanthemums and carnations will last well and serve for several occasions. Roses, especially red roses are always in favor so place your order early. In fact it is a good idea to place all orders for plant material early. If you have a special occasion in mind talk it over with your florist. He will be glad to help you with your choice of flower arrangement, and make it up to suit you, or plan one that you may assemble yourself.

Ground pine, evergreen sprays, cones, dried everlastings and grass are made up into attractive table centres with the added sparkle of silver candelabra and perhaps with a group of candles. These will stay fresh and attractive for several days or even three weeks of holiday festivities. Other table centres include artificial vines and foliage plants in handsome collections of variegated ivies, philodendron and other foliage plants.

CERAMIC PLANTERS

Ceramic planters with well chosen plants will serve always as attractive and make welcome gifts also. The plants stay in good condition for a minimum amount of care. Months later they may be

Color TV Can Be Received On Ordinary Sets

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal communications commission has formally approved a color television system which can be received in black-and-white by ordinary TV sets.

The action announced Thursday made the system official and ended the commission earlier this year to adopt the color telecasting standards proposed by the National Television System Committee.

The committee is an industry group in which virtually all major manufacturers co-operated in contributing the best of their color devices for combination use.

The NTSC color system will become available for commercial use 30 days after publication of the order in the Federal Register, the government's bulletin, probably sometime next week.

The new color system standards will then be in effect indefinitely for the Columbia Broadcasting system, the only one which the commission approved for general use in 1950.

CBS color was eventually folded up. It failed to get general acceptance because it required the use of a mechanical revolving color wheel inside a receiver.

The NTSC system is all-electronic—that is, without moving equipment.

Canadian Dollar Continues Climb

NEW YORK (CP)—The Canadian dollar, continuing its upward climb, Friday reached a premium of more than three per cent over the U.S. dollar for the second time this week.

It was well above the 2-16 of a per cent premium at the close. It is below the 4 5-16 cents of August, 1950, when the post since the Canadian dollar was freed in December, 1951.

To Lay Atlantic Cable

The Monarch, 8,000-ton cable ship, will lay the first trans-Atlantic telephone cable in 1953. The largest ship of its kind in the world, it is named after another British cable ship, destroyed in a wartime accident. (CP Photo.)

First Cable Ship Damaged By Friendly U.S. Destroyer

The Monarch, a cable ship, in 1955 will lay the first telephone cable across the North Atlantic Ocean. Until nine years ago there was another Monarch. She was beached in England seven days after D-Day in the Second World War under circumstances that can only happen in war. She was severely damaged by gunfire from a friendly United States destroyer. This is the story, never before told publicly of the old Monarch and her British crew, and of her last friend, a Canadian corvette.

HIGH-PRIORITY JOB

It was about 2:10 a.m., June 13, 1944. Monarch was laying 120 miles of cable between England and British headquarters on the Normandy beachhead, a "high-priority" operation.

Tugging at her cable, strung astern like a heavy leash, Monarch was making about 10 knots, escorted by the Canadian corvette Trentonian, a little more than half her size.

As Trentonian's navigator, I was on the bridge.

About 10 miles of the cable had been laid within 24 hours.

Suddenly two star shells burst above the darkened ships. Ahead was a destroyer, presumably friendly since no German ship of that type had ventured into the landing zone since D-Day.

To play safe, Trentonian's captain, Lt.-Cmdr. William Harrison of Lunenburg, N.S., switched on recognition lights.

(These are groups of three colored lights in pre-arranged combinations for stipulated periods, to ensure recognition between friendly warships.)

Then, in a noisy flash, rapid salvos screamed toward Monarch and her escort.

There was no return fire from Trentonian. The destroyer had been identified as a United States ship.

Trentonian's recognition lights were turned on again and left on. A Canadian signalman flashed the normal recognition signal for the day, but the firing continued.

The range between the destroyer and her ships was about 1,000 yards. Trentonian's radio operators tried to radio-telephone to tell the American ship to cease fire.

Finally, the shooting stopped.

The official report, prepared aboard the Trentonian, said that from 3:15 a.m. to 2:30 a.m. the destroyer had fired 80 rounds of five-inch ammunition.

Trentonian, lower in the water than Monarch, escaped with a minor graze as most of the shells screamed overhead. Monarch was not so lucky.

THREE MEN KILLED

When the shooting stopped, I was ordered to take one of Trentonian's sea-boats to pick up survivors and investigate damage aboard the cable ship. We found three men had been killed and more than a score badly injured.

Trentonian took aboard about 35 survivors, including the wounded. One of them, Monarch's captain, died in Cmdr. Harrison's cabin.

The cable ship, although not technically a naval vessel, was operated by the British Admiralty. Her crew consisted in large part of retired Royal Navy men, some of senior rank, who had insisted on doing their bit in the war.

Aboard Monarch, now listing crazily, the bridge had been ripped to shreds. Other parts of her superstructure, her skinny funnel and her hull looked as though a huge bomb had burst above the upper deck.

Meanwhile, the destroyer sent a stunned boarding party to Trentonian. They united their watching as saying he had challenged the two British ships with a signal lamp before opening fire, and that he had received no reply.

HEAVY CHARGES LAID

On Trentonian's bridge, two officers, a signalman and two lookouts had seen no challenge, though, with 10 miles of the French coast, they had been watching closely for invasion traffic or anything of unexpected nature.

Trentonian was ordered to submit a report to naval authorities but the incident never was made public. All appeared to write it off as one of the tragic accidents of war.

An RCN official commented recently: "This is the type of thing that crops up in every war, in many cases without blame to anyone."

Trentonian was ordered back to Portsmouth with the survivors. A British tug took Monarch in tow and dragged her to England.

Now, a new Monarch is setting out on a new career.

Western European Countries Worried About Foreign Trade

By REYMOUR TOPPING

LONDON (AP)—Western European continental countries generally enjoyed good business at home during 1953, but they faced the new year worried about foreign trade.

Industrial production reached record peaks in West Germany and Italy. Farm yields were good except in drought - stricken Spain. Stock markets reflected confidence.

West Europeans bought more food and consumer goods. Despite bigger business volumes, inflation was held in check.

The economic clouds that hung over Western Europe were mainly due to the sluggish and lopsided movement of international trade on the Continent and the seemingly endless shortage of dollars.

Most governments tended to take off controls and encourage freer enterprise. A notable exception was France where socialists pushed through a permanent price control law.

Associated Press correspondents reported general optimism that internal business will be as healthy in 1954.

However, western Europe warily eyed the United States, fearful of anything that might cut earnings in American markets. Western Europe still cannot pay its way in world trade. Many countries need dollar aid to help carry their heavy defence burdens, complete reconstruction, buy foods from North America and adjust their trade lines.

WEST GERMANY PROSPER

A recent spate of small Russian orders, evidently to improve homefront living standards, attracted considerable interest in western Europe. But the small number of contracts allowed to dribble through the Iron Curtain failed to convince western statesmen that the Kremlin was ready to unlock the gates of a big consumer goods market.

Booming West Germany made the year's biggest business news. Industrial output was up and business expanded steadily in all categories. Aggressive West Germans exported output of Britain in South America and cut deep into her traditional India and Middle East markets. Lining coats went down and industrial workers' income rose.

The French economic picture was also especially bright. Industrial production slipped slightly but stayed at a high level. Farm output was good to excellent. The volume of business apparently increased.

Although wage levels and consumer price indices remained fairly steady, workers grumbled because of undesirable partial or short - term unemployment and slight increases in the prices of food which takes 70 per cent of the little man's budget. The foreign trade position remained precarious.

Italy boasted an expanding internal economy with record high agricultural and industrial production. However, the chronic unemployment problem worsened. In June, the official figure was 2,132,000, up 100,000 over June 1951.

NORWAY UNEASY

In Scandinavia, Sweden enjoyed a steady boom with stable prices and wage levels and an improved international trade balance. In Norway, industrial production increased, people had more money to spend and business sales expanded. But the country was uneasy because of her steadily decreasing trade balance.

Austria had a good year at home and abroad. Foreign exchange reserves climbed.

Spain's economy largely marked time through 1953 hoping that the arrival of U.S. dollar aid next year will give the country a shot in the arm.

Prosperous Belgium had another good year. Despite the February flood disaster, The Netherlands fared well in both its national economy and in world markets. Dollar reserves improved appreciably to allow the government to promise an easing in restrictions on imports from North America.

Superannuation Benefits Can Be Transferred

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal civil servants transferred to crown corporations will be able to take their civil service superannuation benefits with them, under new legislation introduced by the government.

Finance Minister Abbott announced Friday the measure will be introduced after the Christmas recess. It will permit civil service pension benefits to be transferred to the pension plans of the crown companies, whenever employment transfers occur.

The legislation, which will be made retroactive to Jan. 1, 1954, also applies to employees of government boards, commissions and other corporations covered by the new Public Service Superannuation Act should they become employees of crown companies which are not covered by the Superannuation Act.

The employees transferring to crown companies would be entitled to superannuation benefits related to their service up to that time, and then would become members of the company pension plan. At the present time they simply continue paying into the civil service superannuation fund.

A quintet of boys, who called themselves the "Melodaires," made a big hit with the crowd and came back for an encore.

The climax of the evening was a play entitled "What Shall We Give Father," which brought enthusiastic applause.

Twenty girls in C.G.I.T. uniform gave leadership in the Vesper Service in the Albury Church Sunday. The girls were led by Mrs. T. F. Townsend, and the president, Diane Bonter, with June Bowerman at the piano. The Christmas carol "Gentle Mary" was sung by Glenys Dickey, Jeanette Keary, Joan Horsbeck, Myrna Wannamaker, Jean Fraser and Audrey Bedford. The beautiful solo "All My Heart Believes" was given as a solo, by Diane Bonter, who also acted as candle lighter for an impressive ceremony. The special offerings were received by Beverley Bion, Shirley Parsons and Carol Bonter.

The C.G.I.T. Group are holding a Christmas Party on December 22.

Mrs. J. F. Hutchinson and Miss Audrey Robertson were weekend guests of the Rev. and Mrs. T. F. Townsend.

The boys and girls of the Mission Band enjoyed a Christmas party on Saturday. The Junior members sang "Christmas Lullaby", and piano solos were played by Gail Ward, Elizabeth Dempsey and Daryl Ward.

After concluding the Christmas Card selling project and several games the members were treated to a dainty supper. Mrs. Arthur Simms and her assistant, Mrs. G. Dawson, were in charge of this pleasant event.

First Cable Ship Damaged By Friendly U.S. Destroyer

The Monarch, a cable ship, in 1955 will lay the first telephone cable across the North Atlantic Ocean. Until nine years ago there was another Monarch. She was beached in England seven days after D-Day in the Second World War under circumstances that can only happen in war. She was severely damaged by gunfire from a friendly United States destroyer. This is the story, never before told publicly of the old Monarch and her British crew, and of her last friend, a Canadian corvette.

HIGH-PRIORITY JOB

It was about 2:10 a.m., June 13, 1944. Monarch was laying 120 miles of cable between England and British headquarters on the Normandy beachhead, a "high-priority" operation.

Tugging at her cable, strung astern like a heavy leash, Monarch was making about 10 knots, escorted by the Canadian corvette Trentonian, a little more than half her size.

As Trentonian's navigator, I was on the bridge.

About 10 miles of the cable had been laid within 24 hours.

Suddenly two star shells burst above the darkened ships. Ahead was a destroyer, presumably friendly since no German ship of that type had ventured into the landing zone since D-Day.

To play safe, Trentonian's captain, Lt.-Cmdr. William Harrison of Lunenburg, N.S., switched on recognition lights.

(These are groups of three colored lights, in pre-arranged combinations for stipulated periods, to ensure recognition between friendly warships.)

Then, in a noisy flash, rapid salvos screamed toward Monarch and her escort.

There was no return fire from Trentonian. The destroyer had been identified as a United States ship.

Trentonian's recognition lights were turned on again and left on. A Canadian signalman flashed the normal recognition signal for the day, but the firing continued.

The range between the destroyer and her ships was about 1,000 yards. Trentonian's radio operators tried to radio-telephone to tell the American ship to cease fire.

Finally, the shooting stopped.

The official report, prepared aboard the Trentonian, said that from 3:15 a.m. to 2:30 a.m. the destroyer had fired 80 rounds of five-inch ammunition.

Trentonian, lower in the water than Monarch, escaped with a minor graze as most of the shells screamed overhead. Monarch was not so lucky.

THREE MEN KILLED

When the shooting stopped, I was ordered to take one of Trentonian's sea-boats to pick up survivors and investigate damage aboard the cable ship. We found three men had been killed and more than a score badly injured.

Trentonian took aboard about 35 survivors, including the wounded. One of them, Monarch's captain, died in Cmdr. Harrison's cabin.

The cable ship, although not technically a naval vessel, was operated by the British Admiralty. Her crew consisted in large part of retired Royal Navy men, some of senior rank, who had insisted on doing their bit in the war.

3 DISTRICT YOUTHS DROWN IN OAK LAKE

Last Five Of 13 Escapees Believed In Detroit Area

Two Women Hostages Are Released Unharmed

Hastings Boy Drowned Near Tannery Raceway

HASTINGS — One boy was drowned and another narrowly escaped the same fate here Saturday when a ten-and brothers broke through treacherously thin ice on the tannery raceway, the younger brother being rescued by his death in 15 feet of water.

Drowned was Jimmy Dugan, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Dugan of Hastings. His 15-year-old brother, Billy, was saved by Bruce Walker, 17, who managed to shove a Christmas tree out to the lad as he clung to the thin ice.

The two brothers had been sliding on a narrow ledge of ice in the raceway when Jimmy who was in the lead slid too near the edge and broke through. Billy was unable to stop and also plunged into the water.

Jimmy's body was recovered in 15 feet of water about 20 minutes later but artificial respiration applied for over half an hour failed to revive the young boy.

ATTENTION ATTRACTED.

The calls of Billy as he clung desperately to the ice attracted the attention of Bruce Walker, who on his Saturday off from his job in Peterborough, heard the lad while delivering mail for the Hastings dairy.

"I was almost directly across the raceway from the boys and saw them sliding on the ice, then I heard one call and saw them and both gone into the water," Bruce said.

"I ran back around the bridge to the other side of the raceway and running down an alley spotted a Christmas tree, which I shoved out to Billy. The boy grabbed the tree and I was able to pull him to safety," he said.

LIVE IN APARTMENT.

The Dugan family lives in a third floor apartment almost directly above the spot where the boys slided on the ice.

The Dugan's youngest son, Dexald, aged 3, was looking out the window watching the boys slide on the ice. He saw them go into the water and told his sister Leona, 12, who ran to the street to give the alarm.

Bill Bromley, Howard Fairman and Lynn Hill, all of Hastings, went out in a boat and rescued Billy and an hour found Jimmy's body in 15 feet of water about 50 feet below where the boys had broken the ice.

Tough luck has dogged the Dugan family for the past year. Less than a year ago while living at Norwood, Jimmy's father was a garage mechanic, the Dugan family built their home by fire. All they saved was two stoves. The father is now in ill health and is in Kingston General Hospital taking treatments. The couple have three children, seven of whom are at home. One girl works in Peterborough and the eldest son, Allan, in Toronto.

Saturday was Leona Dugan's 12th birthday. Friday night Jimmy had gone to the local baker's and had ordered her birthday cake with a special request that Leona's name be written on it. The cake was to call for the cake Saturday afternoon.

The writer gave her address as "Springfield, Kings Co., N.B., Canada".

Then, because they wanted to "get in touch with girl pen pals", Margaret Christmas, the Westhoffs organized a publicity campaign among the neighbors. Mrs. Westhoff bought the red angora hat and mittens.

But then the manager of the Springfield Better Business Bureau, Verner Gaggin, heard about the hats and mittens and the Westhoffs that it might all be a hoax.

Repeated checks of similar letters in past years had been made, and none had ever proved legitimate, Gaggin said.

Gaggin's chief investigator, George Conner, said such a "racket" has been going on for more than 20 years.

"Already 30 or 30 letters have been mailed over to the bureau this year," he said, "and the worst is yet to come. Usually they are attached to large, more expensive trees in hopes someone of means or an organization will receive them and respond.

The Westhoffs were bewildered.

"We've got six or seven gifts now with another 10 or 15 coming," Westhoff explained. "How I wish I know what to do."

Conner Westhoff said "the whole thing has just about spoiled our Christmas."

Meanwhile, a neighbor of the Westhoffs, Thomas Waters, a contributor to the gift collection himself, decided to check. He called the RCMP at a New Brunswick post. Officials there said the notes had been written by mischievous children who live many miles from towns and rarely get an opportunity to see Santa. But they promised to investigate this particular case.

Bulletin

DETROIT (AP) — Police today captured 3 in Detroit; three of the five fugitives remaining at large Saturday after a jail mass breakout at Southern Michigan prison. The three apprehended were identified as Edward J. Frankel, Virgil Lane, and Richard Lee Bonnell.

DETROIT (AP)—The last five of 13 southern Michigan prison fugitives, two murderers, a kidnapper, a robber and a burglar, are believed hiding somewhere in the Detroit area today, waiting for an intensive manhunt to slacken.

The 13 broke out Saturday noon out of the world's largest walled prison with them Saturday night are back behind bars. Seven were captured within hours after the spectacular break. Five in the penitentiary at Jackson, Mich. Another, cold and hungry, gave up there Sunday night. Jackson is 80 miles west of Detroit.

A complete lack of leads for some 24 hours after they last were seen at Detroit's Negro section has convinced police the five are staying low for the time being.

To rout them, several hundred city and state police Sunday night and today combed the residential area where the fugitives abandoned their car and escaped. An unharmed two women hostages taken on a wild, all-night ride, 11 was one of Michigan's biggest manhunts.

Among the five are Edward J. Emrick, 43, and Roman Ucieckek, 37, both convicted murderers; David B. Bouska, 29, doing from 10 to 15 years for kidnap and three to six years for a previous escape; Virgil Lane, 27, serving 20 to 30 years for armed robbery, and Robert Downing, 33, serving from 15 years for breaking and entering.

The eight captured prisoners were confined in southern Michigan's notorious cell block 15, which contains condemned murderers and lawless fortress during an April, 1952, riot and breakout. Guard Lee was killed in that uprising and Downing was shot by guards. Two other smaller riot was staged later that year.

Since those incidents, the Jackson institution has been a storm-center of controversy as to whether 5,000 prisoners should be housed in one place.

The latest fugitive returned to safe-keeping was Harold Ross, 25, serving four to 15 years for breaking and entering. He was found Friday in a vacant house and shot at a hole in Jackson Sunday night. "Come and get me," Ross told police. "I'm hungry and cold and sick of it all."

Mounties Are Asked to Ascertain If Little Eva Is Orphan or Fraud

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A Philadelphia couple hope that a message from Canada soon will help them out of an unhappy Christmas dilemma.

It began Friday when Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Westhoff of suburban Westbrook Park bought a Christmas tree. Attached to it was a note in a childish scrawl:

"Dear Santa—I am a poor little orphan girl, age 12. All I would like to have for Christmas as an orphan is hat and rabbit set. Color best if possible. Thank you, Santa. Love and kisses, Eva Rogers."

The writer gave her address as "Springfield, Kings Co., N.B., Canada".

Then, because they wanted to "get in touch with girl pen pals", Margaret Christmas, the Westhoffs organized a publicity campaign among the neighbors. Mrs. Westhoff bought the red angora hat and mittens.

But then the manager of the Springfield Better Business Bureau, Verner Gaggin, heard about the hats and mittens and the Westhoffs that it might all be a hoax.

Children Taken From Maternity Ward Safely

Nurses form Rescue Chain Along Corridor

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Twenty-one babies and 24 mothers were rescued when fire flashed through the maternity ward at Victoria hospital here Sunday night.

Nurses formed a human chain to pass the babies from the smoke-filled, fourth-floor ward. Some of the women refused to be moved until assured their babies were safe. Twenty-one others moved quietly in emergency quarters in the basement of the nurses' residence across the street from the hospital.

The mothers and babies were taken by elevator to the ground floor, then through a tunnel under South street to the nurses' residence.

ALL REMAINED CALM

Lenora Higgins, head supervisor of the obstetrical department, said the calmness of the women made the evacuation much more simple.

"They remained under perfect control quickly. Patients on other floors were being evacuated when I saw Miss Higgins," she said.

A woman in labor turned in the fire alarm when she was carried out in the sterilization room and spread to linen rooms before being checked.

Because of the intense heat, firefighters were unable to enter the sterilization room for several minutes. Then they rushed in, a pair at a time, with water.

"Everybody was wonderful last night—every single person were fairly quiet," Miss Higgins said.

FIRE CAUSE UNKNOWN

Hospital authorities and the fire department can not yet say what caused the fire. Inspectors Bert Hessel and James Fitzgerald are investigating.

Meanwhile, hospital staff and workmen are working overtime to restore the two delivery rooms damaged by the heat and smoke. Even before firemen left Sunday night they were washing the walls.

Fire at the hospital under William McBride, assistant housekeeper, toiled right through the night.

Galt Robbers Get $10,000

GALT (CP)—One of the biggest safe robberies here in years occurred sometime between Saturday night or early today when robbers smashed the safe in Walker Stores Ltd. and escaped with between $8,000 and $10,000.

Police Chief Hall not discovered until 8 a. m. when clerks reported for duty. The safe contained two days' receipts. Using ladders, the safecrackers climbed to the roof of the three-storey building and gained entrance via a skylight.

Arab States Oppose Talks With Israel

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters) — Premier Fawzi el Mulki said today that Jordan's government is categorically opposed to talks with Israel aimed at mediting or suspending the present armistice agreement between the two countries.

In an interview, he said the seven other Arab states have informed Jordan that they agree with her rejection of such talks. A formal reply to this effect will be made, to the United Nations after the Arab League politics committee meets to draft a unanimous note on the subject.

Indians Oppose U.S. Arms Accord With Pakistan

NEW DELHI (AP) — Supporters of Prime Minister Nehru's governing Congress party paraded through New Delhi's main streets Sunday, shouting slogans and carrying placards saying, "We do not want Pakistan to become another Korea."

The processions and a mass meeting were arranged by the Delhi state congress committee in accordance with a directive issued by the party's high command last week to all branches throughout India.

The directive called on the party to "mobilize public opinion on the far-reaching consequences of the proposed military alliance between Pakistan and the United States."

Given 13 Years For Plot to Lure G.I.'s to East

BERLIN (AP)—U. S. Army Pfc Robert D. Blevens was convicted today of conspiring to lure American soldiers behind the Iron Curtain and of cooperating with Red recret police. He was sentenced to 13 years in prison.

The 23-year-old soldier from Omaha, Neb., also was convicted by a seven-member general court martial of deserting twice to the Russian zone and breaking out of the U. S. military stockade in West Berlin.

Discover Letter 1,900 Years Old

LONDON (AP)—A letter believed to be about 1,900 years old, from a business man of Roman Britain to his wife in Gaul, was turned up recently in an antique shop.

Written in Latin, it was scratched with a stylus on a wax-covered piece of wood, and the letter-ing penetrated to the wood itself. The letter was found by Miss Prof. I. A. Richmond of Durham University in Britain.

"Rufus, son of Callinurus, greeting to Sulpicia and to all your lows. I believe you know I am very well. If you have made the bed, please send it. Though for after everything carefully, see that you harvest the slave girl into cash."

Somebody later used the wood as the backing for a writing tablet, which found its way to the antique shop.

Snow for Christmas Cheers Europeans

LONDON (AP) — Fog closed down London airport for several hour's today and reduced road traffic to a crawl, while most fairs brought beaming smiles to winter resort owners in western Europe.

Snow fell in mountainous sections, worried by a long spell of unseasonably warm weather, heaved sighs of relief because there will be some snow for Christmas skiiers.

Britain, however, is still wondering if there will be Christmas. Temperatures are still above normal, but with a minimum of 32 degrees, London today had its coldest day since last March.

2 Bandits Rob Messenger Boy Of $27,000

Winnipeg Paper Victim Of Bold Robbery

WINNIPEG (CP)—Two bandits, one armed with a revolver, today held up two Winnipeg Free Press employees in a garage on the newspaper building's main floor and stole two satchels containing about $26,000 in cash. They fled out the front door.

Roger Senecal, 21, cashier, and Raymond Maquin, 17, were preparing to take week-end receipts to a bank at the time.

They were carrying four satchels from the mezzanine floor business office, but they managed to take the garage through a lobby door, the bandits forced their way in behind them.

"This is a hold-up," said one bandit and jabbed a gun at the pair.

The employees were forced to face the wall in a tiny alcove of the garage while the bandits grabbed two satchels. They left behind the other bags containing silver.

British Envoys Reach Tehran

TEHRAN (Reuters) — The first British diplomats in Iran since the oil dispute ruptured relations between the two countries 14 months ago landed today at Tehran airport, closely guarded by armed police.

Watched by mobile infantry, the diplomats drove through the streets to the Grand Hotel in heavy convoy, guarded by three truckloads of army guards.

Iran and Britain resumed diplomatic relations Dec. 5 after a 13-month break.

A senior government official said the British envoys had had early progress in the oil talks in a spirit of fairness and honor.

Ice Wall Blocks Iceland Rescue Of U.S. Airmen

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (Reuters) — A blizzard howling over an Icelandic glacier today stilled hopes that even some of nine American fliers who crashed there five days ago may yet live to see Christmas.

But weary Icelandic rescue workers again battled against a wall of ice in their bid to reach the wreck on Myrdals-Jokull glacier.

Officials have little hope for the fate of the crew of the Air Force Navy Neptune bomber crashed Thursday night in the south coast, 110 miles from Reykjavik.

One rescue team this morning stood only a mile from the wreckage of the bomber—but the exhausted and chilled Icelanders still had to master the wall of ice blocking their path.

Plans of U. S. Air Rescue group dodged in through the overcast Sunday to drop emergency supplies, but reported no sign of life aboard the wreck.

Plan to Resume Hunt For Plane in Alberta

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — Searching weather today is expected to allow aircraft to join the search for a small civilian plane which disappeared Saturday in the Cypress mood area in southwestern Alberta on a practice flight.

Steady snowfall Sunday prevented aircraft from hunting for the plane carrying pilot John MacPhee, 28, and Ray Heggie, 22.

Search planes, equipped with field radio units hunted until darkness. They were assisted by a large number of private individuals using cars and trucks.

Gilbert Brenton, Layton And Keith Aide Break Through Ice While Skating

Three young Sidney township boys were drowned in Oak Lake, 12 miles north of here Sunday evening when they broke through treacherously thin ice while skating.

Drowned are Layton Aide, 17, his brother, Keith Aide, 13, and Gilbert V. Brenton, 18. All three bodies were recovered from the lake this morning.

"I thought the two boys had gone to the neighbors to watch television and was not worried when they failed to come home," the distraught mother of the two brothers cried. "I did not know anything was wrong until this morning when I found they were still not home."

There were no witnesses of the tragic accident which saw three young lives snuffed out and the two families knew nothing about the boys being missing until this morning. The two brothers were sons of Mrs. Keitha Aide, 7th concession of Sidney, while Gilbert Brenton was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brenton, also 7th concession of Sidney.

THOUGHT SON IN CITY

Mr. Brenton thought his son had gone in to Belleville where he boarded while working in the city and was not told about the drowning until today. The same was true of the Aide family.

George Hoods, resident of Oak Lake, was the first to suspect that something was amiss on the lake. While going to decorate the family Christmas tree about 4:30 he and his wife heard what they thought were screams coming from the lake.

Mr. Hoods said: "Then I came back to the house and called the provincial police in Belleville.

FUTILE SEARCH

Police went to the scene but search parties could find nothing. It was only when the search was resumed this morning that three pairs of boots were found beneath a shallow cliff where the boys had changed into their skates.

Oliver Aide, 18, sister of two of the drowned boys, said that her brother and Gilbert Brenton had asked her to go skating about three o'clock in the afternoon.

REFUSED TO GO

"I refused and asked them if they were crazy", the girl said. "The ice looked thin and unsafe on the lake."

The boys said they had given up the idea and went to the neighbor's to watch television."

The bodies of the three boys were found within a relatively small radius in about 12 feet of water. Apparently one of the boys had gotten into trouble and the other two lost their lives in a vain rescue effort. The bodies were found about 25 yards off shore near the edge of the lake.

It was also a narrow strip of ice around the shore of the lake.

Mrs. F. Clare, operator of a summer refreshment concession on the west side of the lake, said she had heard no shouts or calls from the lake. She checked with the Woods family, but Mr. Woods had already called the police.

We looked around the shore of the lake but could see or hear nothing", Mrs. Clare said.

Mrs. Keitha Aide, mother of two of the three boys, is a widow. Her husband died only a few years ago.

Britons Say Anyone Can Make Cobalt Bomb

LONDON (AP) — Britons intrigued off a roundabout report that Russia hopes to explode a cobalt bomb in 1955.

They vague and unconfirmed report, appearing in The Recorder, Toronto weekly magazine, now striving to gain daily circulation, provoked only mild interest. There was no official comment.

The Recorder, giving the source of its story as "observers," said the Russians believe they are two years ahead of the United States in preparing for a test of the weapon described as more powerful than the hydrogen bomb.

One British scientist dismissed the report with: "Nonsense."

"Anyone who can make an atom bomb can make a cobalt bomb. It's as easy as that. The formula is simple enough. You just place an atom bomb in a cobalt casing."

The so-called cobalt bomb is not to be confused with Canadian-built cobalt therapy bomb for treatment. The Canadian "bombs" are equipped with powerful cobalt 60 pellets. The bomb, valued at about $30,000 each, contain the equivalent of 1,000 grams, worth of radium.

Dr. Ian Bush, radio-active element in the "bomb," is just one of many radio-isotopes under production at the Chalk River atomic plant.

Cheating 'Bride' Proves To Be Man Angering Spouse

HONG KONG (AP)—A bride who turned out to be a man, Ma Kwangchai, was remanded today by a Hong Kong court after the bridegroom, Leong Chih-hung, 28, accused his "wife" of cheating him out of 26 Hong Kong dollars (about $3.25 U. S.).

Witnesses said Ma, small and tiny-featured, worked as a maid, was courted by Leong, and finally said "yes" when he proposed.

THOUGHT SON IN CITY

Leong discovered Dec. 19 that he had married a man, he said, "despite six sets of underclothing" and 10 days of delaying shyness.

The bridegroom was uncertain whether any law had been violated by the "marriage," as Chinese in Hong Kong are privileged to observe their own laws and customs in matters of marriage. He adjourned the case for three days to consider the point.

Fakir Smashes Way Out After Living in Huge Bottle for Year

LINZ, Austria (Reuters)—Rayo, the 33-year-old fakir who has lived for one year and one week in a huge bottle, Sunday smashed his way out of his glass house with a hammer.

Watched by a crowd of thousands, Rayo tottered out of the bottle in which he has toured more than 100 European towns in the last year, and was taken in an ambulance to the home near here.

A medical checkup showed that Rayo, whose real name is Rudolph Hofbauer, is in good health though his sight had deteriorated through partial atrophy of the visual nerve.

He lived on fruit juices, vitamin tablets and fruit. His only contact with the outside was a pipe through which he fed.

He also ate and slept standing, and slept only a few hours each day sleeping six hours on an air-filled mattress with his head on a side and staying awake for six hours alternately.

He said his object was purely scientific; to experiment in living on vitamin tablets, to try feeding himself through the skin by massage, to carry out yoga to increase his physical endurance and keep fit under these conditions by yoga and by physical exercises.

Rayo lost about 66 pounds during his year in the bottle.

Arrest Three Men In Connection With Robbery

Three men were arrested by Belleville police in connection with the robbery of $2,000 from the Belleville Fish Co. on Front street on Saturday night.

Police said the men were arrested in Toronto and were being held there pending the arrival of Belleville police.

No Witnesses of Tragic Accident Occurring Sunday

Three young Sidney township boys were drowned in Oak Lake, 12 miles north of here Sunday evening when they broke through treacherously thin ice while skating.

Drowned are Layton Aide, 17, his brother, Keith Aide, 13, and Gilbert V. Brenton, 18. All three bodies were recovered from the lake this morning.

"I thought the two boys had gone to the neighbors to watch television and was not worried when they failed to come home," the distraught mother of the two brothers cried. "I did not know anything was wrong until this morning when I found they were still not home."

There were no witnesses of the tragic accident which saw three young lives snuffed out and the two families knew nothing about the boys being missing until this morning. The two brothers were sons of Mrs. Keitha Aide, 7th concession of Sidney, while Gilbert Brenton was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brenton, also 7th concession of Sidney.

ENGINE HOUSE AT GILMOUR BURNS

A Canadian National Railways engine house from which water was pumped to the railway water tank at Gilmour was destroyed by fire Friday evening. The engine house was across the track from the water tank, which was not damaged by the blaze.

Railway section foreman Bruce Dafoe discovered the blaze, when he happened to look out through the window of his home after the supper hour. The fire had gained a good start and nothing could be done to save the structure.

Another fire at 88 Station street, which started in a clothes closet destroyed a number of Christmas presents and all the clothing that was hung in the room.

Christmas Party Much Enjoyed By Children

Under the sponsorship of the Recreation committee of the Brewers' Warehousing Company Limited and with Richard "Dick" Fitzpatrick as chairman and a very energetic and capable team of workers, the children of the employees from the outlets at Brighton, Trenton, Tweed, Picton, Port Hope and Belleville were entertained at the Masonic Temple on Sunday afternoon at their annual Christmas party.

There have been many fine functions instituted by the Brewers' Warehousing Lipsitzed in the years past but Ted Jones manager of the Belleville district and Norman Garbutt, assistant manager, assisting the committee, put on one of the finest parties of many that have gone before. Lorn Carson, was in charge of decorations and the toys that were given to the children and a fine job was done. A large and lighted Christmas tree was the centre of attraction, while nearby was the chimney from which Santa came to visit the children. The parcels were all neatly arranged under the tree and William Purtelle, who so successfully operated out his functions, quickly disposed of the precious bundles and then joining the large group his first picture taken.

Frank Hogg, as master of ceremonies, kept the party moving at a brisk tempo. Len Jones who is always entertains wherever he appears, kept the attention of the children as he performed many tricks or magic. Two beautiful films, emphasizing the spirit of Christmas, were heartily applauded by the children, which grown-ups. At the completion of the showing, the tinkle of sleigh bells heard outward and Santa crawled through the chimney and after a few words to cheer started to distribute the presents from the tree.

At the conclusion of the party, the officials and others gathered at a nearby restaurant where refreshments were served and a social hour spent. It was an enjoyable party and will always bear repeating.

'Turkey Roll' At Shrine Club Huge Success

Fifty succulent turkeys occupied refrigerators or deep freezes in various city and district homes on Saturday following the annual "turkey roll" sponsored by the Belleville Shrine Club for members and guests.

Upwards of 100 Shriners and friends attended the slag affair which, is a regular Christmas function in the social life of the club. The proceeds of the "roll" are devoted exclusively to the club's crippled children fund.

On Wednesday afternoon, the Shriners will assemble their crippled children proteges at a mammoth Christmas party in the club rooms on Bridge Avenue. There will be Christmas trees, gifts, candy, food and other goodies for the youngsters who will be transported to and from the party by members.

The festivities get under way at 2.30 and all active members are requested to be on hand "to give a hand."

Police Chief Warns Motorists Against Drinking

An appeal to city householders to refrain from offering delivery-men a drink as a goodwill gesture prior to Christmas was made today by Police Chief Walter Prentice.

He sincerely "ask householders not to give delivery-men more than a drink, to intoxicating nature," the police chief stated. "Granted that one drink may not cause harm but a deliveryman making many calls may become dizzy on top of another can easily lead to trouble."

"A drunken driver is quite apt to be involved in an accident resulting in serious injury to himself or some innocent party, and a charge of drunken driving could ruin the man to lose his driving license — and his job."

At the same time Chief Probert warned all motorists against drinking and driving.

"If you must have a drink, don't drive," warned the chief. "Or if you must have a drink for the road—make it coffee."

C. N. R. Athletic Assoc. Members Enjoy Party

Members of the Canadian National Railways Athletic Association, upwards of 400, of them, let their Christmas "hair down" at Tobe's Country Gardens, Friday night, when they held the association's annual turkey draw.

The party, which climaxed a highly successful social season for 1953, was easily one of the most enjoyable events in the year's calendar of the CNRAA.

The "railroaders", their wives and sweethearts, enjoyed round and square dancing, in a sparkling floor show, with of course, the "draw" being the feature of the evening.

During intermission, the party was entertained with the rhythmic dancing of Gail Hendricks and Sondra Randall with Mrs. Doug Barlow (Barbara Diment) presiding at the piano.

Old and young "tamaracked it down" in the square dances, including such favorites as Men Secret, Nelson and Nell Robb.

Many a jobsitter and turkey hen changed ownership after the draw was made by Ted Jones and other officials. Officiating were Assistant Divisional Superintendent W. A. Carson, and master S. McKay, who with their charming ladies drew the lucky tickets.

Mr. Easton in a brief address expressed the good wishes of the executive for a very happy season while master-of-ceremonies Al. G. Meagher brought seasonal greetings to the party from the executive. Mr. Meagher thanked them who acted as flower bearers, and for the floral tributes and cards.

CARDS OF THANKS
McGee with to thank relatives and friends who sent cards, flowers or their many acts of kindness during the illness and bereavement in the loss of their husband and father. Also those who acted as flower bearers, and for the floral tributes and cards.

Senior Citizens' Club Holds Inaugural Party

The presentation was made by Mr. R. C. Andrews and was received by the president, A. H. Field.

He expressed the warm appreciation of the club's members for the fine gesture.

Euchre, cribbage, checkers and Chinese checkers were enjoyed by the members, with prizes awarded the euchre winners.

Mr. Workaman, recreational director of Provincial Exhibition, a number of young people from that town, introduced musical marches on roller skates, and also demonstrated the intricacies of square-dancing.

Some new members were registered.

Refreshments were provided by the executive committee and served to members and guests by their wives and lady members including Mesdames Andrews, Cook, Drummond, Field and Gardiner.

The next meeting of the club is scheduled for Kiwanis Centre on Wednesday, January 6 at eight o'clock.

Stratocruiser Guides 2 Planes To Wake Island

HONOLULU (AP) — A four-engined Tokyo-bound Pan American stratocruiser escorted two disabled planes to safe landings at Wake Island today in a double "rescue," a Pan American spokesman announced.

One of the disabled planes was an Overseas National Airways DC-4 flying under military charter from Honolulu to Wake. It feathered its No. 3 propeller 700 miles east of Wake and radioed for help.

The other was a United States Navy PBM amphibious search plane which left Wake in answer to the distress messages from the DC-4.

The PBM began losing oil from its starboard engine 200 miles out of Wake. It radioed that it might be forced to make an emergency landing in the Pacific.

The Pan American clipper Night Ingale was refuelling at Wake when the distress signals came, and left immediately to provide assistance. It shepherded the two planes to Wake.

DESPICABLE THEFTS

It takes all kinds of people to make a world, they say. But look at the kind of world some people make!

There are, for instance, the kind of people who have been built-snatching from other people's Christmas trees.

There are two possible motives for such actions—those reported to police here by two East Hill residents. Perhaps the persons who raided the trees outside their homes and removed colored lights were just petty thieves, seeking colored lights for their own use. Or perhaps, for some reason, they considered the raids humorous or daring pranks. There would seem to be little to choose between either class.

If anything, we think we would prefer the thief to the prankster with such a perverted sense of humor. We do, however, though, how any person who would stoop so low as to steal lights from a tree set to gladden the eyes of passers-by could at the same time possess a feeling for beauty which would make him want to brighten en his own neighborhood. But perhaps the lights were not stolen for the beauty that they would bring, but to be exchanged for cash.

Built-snatching of this kind, deplorable as it may be, is not the worst kind of Christmas-time crime. There are those who steal trees—not trees already in town from their life-giving roots, not trees in their isolated wood-lot, but living trees in front of a house, trees which represent months of seven years of care.

The monetary value of such a tree may be small. But those who do not recognize that there are values which cannot be translated into dollars and cents have mentalities as warped as those of the thieves.

TIME BY THE CALENDAR

Today is the first day of winter.

This will certainly little surprise among the select circle of initiates who tell time by the calendar, because winter always officially starts on December 21st.

Yet realizations of this somewhat unpleasant fact of winter reralities in past years nevertheless have come as a surprise to most Canadians that the season started in mid-November. Autumn, the disappearing season, was mentally sandwiched into the time between 21st and 21st—the first shorefull of coal.

This left the Canadian autumn out in the cold, literally and figuratively, in the imagination of most people, giving rise to the six-month Canadian winter.

This year's has been few years that we in the banana belt of southern Ontario have come to realize that autumn, as a season, really does extend well into December. That autumn can be the most delightful time of the year has been learned only because lately it has been with us long enough to be appreciated. This year we have had ample opportunity to savor autumn's abundant beauty before its glory air filled with flying snow and its beauty slumbered beneath inches of snow and ice.

This year autumn lingered for almost its allotted span and thereby caused a furore.

Accompanying the onset of winter is another phenomenon that might not be coincidental—December 21st is the darkest day of the year. From now on sunshine today than any other day this year. From now until next December 21st, the days are mathematically, scientifically, astronomically guaranteed to be brighter, longer. It is possibly this thought alone that cheers those of us who cannot, for various reasons, follow the sun to the tropics.

However, while there is some consolation in realizing that for once autumn enjoyed its due span in the seasonal calendar, there is equal realization that winter, officially due to end on March 21st, will likely make amends for a tardy start by lingering into May.

WHOOPING CRANES ON A SPREE

Three whooping cranes absented themselves without leave from the Arkansas wildlife refuge this week.

Unlike soldiers, wildlife service officials criss-crossed the refuge in a plane three times to verify the fact that there were now 24 cranes in winter residence. Previous counts had been 27.

The question now arises as to where the three latecoming cranes had been whooping it up and as to the reason of the absence—and what day or night—they sneaked into the reservation.

The whooping cranes, like other spree-takers, are trying to maintain silence. Man, being obsessed of an insatiable curiosity, is not going to take kindly to this attitude. It is doubtful, however, if there is anything he can do about it. Except, perhaps, to publish a woman's list of the fish and wildlife service. It is a device which is sure to work one way or another. Either man will find his curiosity about the cranes satisfied or else he will have the satisfaction of seeing a woman foiled in her effort to discover the details of whoopee.

A recent news story from Toronto stated that 124 men had been arrested in a raid on a common gaming house. The common gaming house was described as having special lighting, an eight-foot high wire fence around the grounds and steel shutters on the windows. If this is a common gaming house an uncommon one could prove to be an interesting exhibit for a sight seeing tour.

NOW THE WRAPPING

With the shopping almost done
And the children safely napping,
Start the labor and the fun
Of the merry Christmas wrapping.

"Uncle John this necktie gets.
(Meal time he should put a bib on.)
Trim the box with gay rosettes.
Tie it with a pretty ribbon,"

Love of friends each gift reveals.
"Hope this year we do not miss one.
Don't forget the Christmas seals.
Where's the card that goes with this one?"

Sprig of holly, mistletoe
Every present gayly capping.
Happiest task that women know
Is the merry Christmas wrapping.

Letter to the Editor

Where Can He Buy Belleville Cheese?

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.
"CHEESE"

Your editorial of December the 17th headed "Belleville Cheese Abroad" prompts me to get a chip off my shoulder regarding Belleville cheese and the lack of information about it.

I was born in England not far from Cheddar, and am partial to a bite of cheese.

When the cheese manufacturers' exhibition was on the other day my wife and I made a beeline to the city hall, thinking we should learn all about the various Belleville cheese we are always hearing about. But no one there seemed to know much about it, or could tell us where to buy it, in small enough quantities for home consumption.

We have since found some fine cheeses, and the aroma (though some who mixed with that from the pile of kegs at the north end of the hall) made us drool at the mouth for days.

Getting back home I decided I must have cheese for supper—glancing at the rind I hope it would read, from the contented looks of it, Belleville. But when I guessed it it read, "made in Holland." It was very good somewhat of an anti-climax.

Wouldn't it be a good thing to advertise Belleville cheese for local consumption as well as abroad,

"Cheesed-off."

London's Bus Drivers

(By PETER LYNE
In The London Times)

Among London's 45,000 bus drivers and conductors there is still a good sprinkling of old-style cockney humorists. They were the sort who helped keep up the morale of this city during the blitz. They could crack a joke even when a bomb was whistling overhead.

Today as I take a twopenny ride from the Strand to Westminster I still sometimes hear that old cheerful sound as we stop outside the Houses of Parliament—"Anybody for the Westminster gas works?"

Yes, it's very corny when you've heard it for 25 years—Yet in a way it would be sad not to hear it any more. It is no characteristic of traditional cockney good humour.

But it's no use shedding tears because things aren't the same. London's bus drivers and conductors are changing like the traffic they handle. They are a disciplined race of the buses themselves which seems rather sad.

Some of the older conductors of today were born and reared in the hansom cab era when travel was a far more personal and leisurely affair. Many of them have had occasion for jokes and small talk. Nowadays there is a great deal more to become much more of a streamlined factory process.

Recently the London service considering London's public transport system, issued a booklet for passengers a day and does it with amazing efficiency.

Even young conductors of today seem an entirely different type. They are more serious, pre-occupied faces. Mostly one can tell that they are ex-servicemen. They are not unfriendly, yet without being friendly they don't push you. But they don't have so much patience with chatty elderly ladies. They have not time for preoccupation as men on a factory assembly line.

They are in fact doing a job of work which is exacting for the driver, at all times over-taxing in traffic density. And for conductors to speak rudely—periods it's ordered. They get paid a weekly wage of around $24 which is a living wage but not a very high living.

And that brings me to the more serious side of this story. There is considerable Communist influence in the London section of the Transport and General Workers Union. This doesn't mean there are a large number of open Communists among London's bus drivers and conductors. But it does mean they are leftists and open to Communist influence.

That is one reason why there was such a snidety over the recent strike of London's motor fuel truck drivers. That strike was called by Communist backing. It was against the advice of the union. It was characteristic of the new type of Communist disruption which is reportedly being inspired by the Cominform and the Communist world Federation of Trade Unions.

This new policy is thought here to be a combination of the Communist political propaganda and more on guerilla strikes to test out how much control men like the 2,000 or 3,000 motor fuel drivers could bring to bear on the huge community like London to a standstill.

At first the strike really did look as if it might bring life in a stand-still. Then the government brought in the Army to distribute motor oil. Would the bus drivers listen to the strikers' call not to use "lack" oil?

Drivers at one of the more important London bus depots, Victoria, did in fact join the strike. But at that stage the novelty of driving had changed their tune. They became alarmed at the prospect of their pay envelopes not being there when they came back to work. And the strike ended.

What were the lessons of this strike? It showed how a relatively small group can bring the city to a standstill. But there was also a more encouraging lesson—namely, that in the sympathy of the ordinary British people whenever they are threatened by Communist inspired or Communist backed.

Storm Petrel Once Feared

(Halifax Chronicle-Herald)

According to an old tradition, the sight of the stormy petrel (or, more correctly, the storm petrel) is a harbinger of bad weather to come, and many seafaring men are said to have used to dread the appearance of this sooty-black bird. So much so, indeed, that the very name has become a synonym for the troublemaker.

In which connection memory goes back to the story of a Dalhousie student who; in a Scottish university—I forget which—apparently was asked to write an essay on Mahatma Gandhi. In the course of his composition, he ventured the remark that Mr. Gandhi, was a veritable stormy petrel in politics, to which the examiner appended a caustic comment: "Petrels eats scraps (like the gull) thrown overboard, but because the passage of the ship churns up plankton on which the petrel feeds."

And the other point under which the storm petrel goes are its remarkable powers of flight; its most familiar name is that of "Mother Carey's chicken." Mother Carey is simply an anglicized form of the Latin name for "kindly mother" who aids the storm-tossed far out at sea, and her children are the petrels, or some of hope that of despair, for the petrel's presence is sometimes referred to as "Little Peter." The name derived from the Latin is like Saint Peter, it were trying to walk on the waters.

Petrels, with their sooty-black plumage, their long narrow wings and their webbed feet also in front of their tails, are a familiar sight to travelers on the high seas.

They are the smallest of the web-footed birds, measuring no more than six inches in length, but they have remarkable powers of flight, and they are most exclusively sea-birds; they return to land only to breed, and then only under cover of darkness.

Another other fact is of interest about the storm petrel. Like all seabirds, its physical composition is notable for the amount of oil which it carries, as it has to skim the waves behind ships in order to pick up the fish and waste which are thrown may leave on the surface. Whether or not this is true, it is certainly on record that the small body of the petrel carries such a considerable oil that a wick can be inserted in it and used as a make-shift lamp. A strange fate, that the traditional harbinger of storms should ever have to provide a flame to keep the darkness at bay.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In a fashionable jewelry store in Montreal I was purchasing a three dollar pair of cufflinks so as to have the store's pretty box to wrap them in (thus making an impressive gift for a friend) when there was a collision.

A lady customer had been handing a fine blue glass dish to the proprietor for his inspection, and dropped it on the parquet floor.

When the excitement died, I asked the lady with the unsatisfied and indignant floor manager who had handled the situation.

"She had on one of those mink coats," he told me. "She was wearing gloves. Off her arm dangled a purse. She picked up the dish and it caught on her cape, or bumped the purse . . ."

"If she had a mink cape," I suggested," she could probably pay for it."

"Oho, no," said the manager." The first thing she said was, 'I will walk up' was—" I presume you are insured against this sort of thing."

"Are you?"

"Yes, but that's not the point," said the manager. "It's the Christmas rush. That bowl was a beauty. We have no more of them. It was worth $35. I will have to have it made to match. Why don't they just look at them?"

We stood and watched the customers. It was astonishing. Every lovely object was being examined. Every article that was on open display on top of the counters was picked up and put down. Big, stout men would pick up a comb-and-brush set, look at it and set it down again. Ladies would edge a counter, and examine in turn practically every article touchable.

"Don't blame the manager. "They don't really look at the articles. They just like to feel and touch them They pick them up and set them right down . . . it's the part of the prices!" I supposed.

The prices are on the show cards," snorted the manager.

"Well, then, they're like children," I suggested. "Children love to touch everything." "When I was a boy," declared the manager sternly, "I was taught to keep my hands in my pockets."

That is where the good fellow usually keeps them to this day.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

SCIENTIFIC HOOEY STRA IGHT FROM THE A.D.A.

Dr. Brady

In propaganda copy distributed to the country's newspapers the American Dental Association

I find these statements:

"The . . . notion that, . . . fancy causes tooth decay . . . Dental scientists repeatedly have pointed out that prosperity is not a cause of tooth decay and that any increase in dental decay during pregnancy may be attributed to frequency of consumption of sweets and poor mouth hygiene . . . The best dietary method for preventing decay, dentists report, is to reduce sugar consumption . . . there are no fads . . . that will prevent tooth decay."

The notion that sugar causes tooth decay is one of the favorite "scientific" notions which subsidized research investigators work up from time to time and present to the profession as established facts. The evidence on which the assumption is based is generally thin when examined in daylight away from the laboratory.

In the twenties, some dentifrice huckster conceived and presented to the dentists the slogan "A clean tooth never decays."

In accepting the silly idea as "scientific" the dentists confirmed what some of us had long suspected, namely, that the average American has—well, not clean teeth, for nearly all Americans who brush their teeth most thoroughly and regularly have decayed teeth.

Indeed it is a newsworthy phenomenon when an American adult with all teeth intact has no tooth decay and no fillings. When such a man was found by a draft board in World War II the press bureau dispatches reported the young man had never brushed his teeth.

When I jumped from the prow of the boat to that narrow black volcanic beach between two breakers and, thanks to the treacherous stuff, went sprawling as the wave rolled me ashore, wet and dirty, but happy to have arrived at last at Tristan da Cunha to see for myself the condition of the people of the Lonely Isle, I found approximately 200 men, women and children, all with fine teeth (not a cavity discovered by our ship's dentist), and these people had no use for tooth brushes or dentifrices. That was in 1950.

It is my own belief that the prevention of tooth decay depends on two factors, namely, heredity and good dentistry. It makes no difference whether you brush your teeth or which dentifrice you prefer or which brand of tooth brush to use in brushing, your teeth are bound to decay if you don't have hereditary good teeth and proper nutrition and arrange with your dentist to remind you when it is time for periodic inspection, scaling, polishing or treatment if any treatment is necessary.

Wedding Bells For Teachers

(Windsor Star)

If a young woman wishes to find herself a husband, becoming a rural school teacher is apparently the way to matrimony. Few such teachers now long lack the opportunity of marriage.

There is a constant exodus of young women from the country-side into the urban centres. They become stenographers, nurses, or enter other vocations available in urban communities. Thus a rural area often lacks a sufficient number of eligible young women.

In earlier days life on the often was unattractive to girls reared in a city or town. The farm home lacked many of the facilities available in city homes, and a good farm wife, of course, besides looking after her household duties, helped outside work as well, such as with the poultry.

Now, however, there is nothing to choose in conveniences between most rural areas and city. The automobile has brought the farm within a few minutes' drive of a town or less from the nearest city.

School teachers marry and settle down in a rural area frequently provide leadership in feminine endeavors in the community, as the Women's Institute and branches of the Ontario Department of Agriculture says. They have education and usually have more than one place prior to marriage. They are natural born leaders.

A TRIBUTE TO WIVES

Little do we realize the silent, solemn and rare advice during trying times. How often we have heard the remark: "How fortunate that he had such a wife."

A few years ago Harnett Kane wrote a beautiful novel entitled "Bride of Fortune" based upon the wife of Jefferson Davis, and his book received recognition by the wife of Robert E. Lee, which he has called "The Lady of Arlington." In the list of inspiring books and demonstrate the courage and fortitude of two women who did so much to shape the lives of two Americans.

Every day, however, in the humblest of homes, there are wives and mothers who have proved an inspiration and blessing to their families and communities, their influence endless, and impossible to fully and adequately appraise.

Paul Arrives in Rome

CHAPTER 34.

Sailing from Malta in a fresh ship, they came swiftly and safely to the Italian port of Puteoli — only a few miles from Rome.

With a full guard, Julius led Paul on foot out of Puteoli, and onto the most famous road ever built, the Appian Way. At stops along the road Christians from Rome awaited Paul, and fell in step with him on his journey to the capital. Except for his chains, Paul looked more like a king than a prisoner, a ruler in a royal progress. Some fifty Christians of all ages trooped along beside the soldiers, singing and laughing and praying.

They camped one night in the Alben Hills, overlooking the site of the ancient town that mothered Rome, Alba Longa, birthplace of Romulus and Remus. Morning led them down again to more malarial swamps, the Pontine Campagna.

Aguila came up beside Paul and gripped his elbow. There! That rust and gold city on the horizon with low white temples and palaces shimmering in the sun — Rome!

Paul's steps quickened like a boy's. Almost he was leading the strange procession. The soldiers swung along faster to keep pace.

The Appian Way broadened proudly before them. On either side the arches of three majestic aqueducts spanned the marshy Campagna, carrying fresh, pure water from the mountains to the city. One of these had been built three hundred years before Christ was born. Yet modern visitors to Rome can stand as Paul did, marveling at the strength and sweep of these same arches.

Down through a valley plunged the Appian Way, into the very shadow of Rome.

There! said Linus, a Christian from Rome. "That is the graveyard or catacomb of Callistus. And on this side are Jewish catacombs. All these ahead of us are tombs of the very richest people in Rome."

Julius hardly glanced at the catacombs. The Christians stared at them with silent premonition.

Around them now the air was shrill with the shouts of peddlers and the bargaining of the bazaars, as they entered the main Jewish quarter of Rome.

The Jews have come to Rome as prisoners of war, but they did not make profitable slaves. No punishment, no threat, could force them to abandon the practice of their religion. On Sabbath days they would not work. They would not bow to the gods of Rome, and they insisted on worshipping regularly in their own synagogues.

Romans soon learned that such slaves were more trouble than they were worth, so they let the Jews buy their freedom. In a few years these "Liberti" had built their own city within a city, in the section called Trastevere, across the river from Rome, and spread into many districts of the city proper. They were self-sufficient taxpayers, hotly proud of their seven synagogues and their freedom.

Paul studied the faces of his fellow Jews carefully, as he strode in chains through the Trastevere. Were they the enemies of Christians or friends? Did they side with their brothers in Jerusalem? The sound of his native tongue stirred Paul's heart with nostalgia. He yearned toward these men. But not one turned a head to look at him.

Julius led Paul through the Trastevere into the heart of Rome. Down the city streets they marched, bearing left to the Forum and the barracks of the Praetorian Guard.

How different everything now! The stamp of a capital city was on the pressured haste of the crowds, so out of heart in clothes and posture, so alert and studied in every gesture. The men about this prison bespoke Caesar!

The prison-camp attendant commander met them with a sharp salute.

"Bring the prisoner in!" shouted the commander.

Six men, taller than any Paul had seen, surrounded him. Two grabbed his shoulders and hustled him into the barracks.

The supreme commander here was Burrus, who with Seneca had long served as Nero's adviser. Burrus must hear all-cases before sending them on to Caesar for judgment, and it was before him that Paul found himself.

Julius presented the letter from Governor Festus, rumpled and water-stained after the months of voyage and shipwreck. Burrus read it without comment.

He listened gravely as Julius recited the adventures of their trip and praised the prisoner's goodness, integrity, and honor. Then Burrus cleared his throat and smiled.

"Paul, your accusers from the Temple have not yet come to Rome. No trial can be held till they appear. Governor Festus speaks well of you, and you seem to have made a good friend out of Julius, your jailer."

In Burrus' splendid office, and outside the windows where the crowd of Christians listened, every breath was stilled to catch the next words.

"I remand you to custodia militaris pending such time as your trial may be held."

Custodia militaris! The same lenient treatment given to high-ranking soldiers awaiting a civil trial. The prisoner could live where he pleased, as he pleased, with a Praetorian Guard at his side. True, he must still wear chains, but Paul was free, free to teach and preach, and to serve God and the church in Rome.

Clearly Burrus did not consider Paul a dangerous man. What Nero would think was something else again!

Before Burrus had even dismissed Paul, three of the eavesdropping Christians scuttled away to Aquila and Priscilla, the old friends, Priscilla and Aquila. They were off to prepare lodgings for Paul.

Rome was a city of apartment houses, called insulae, or islands of one to twelve rooms. These were the first flats of modern times, housing all sorts of the very richest. The luxury of the insulae varied with a man's purse, and the only place they could afford for Paul was a noisy, airless room, five flights up.

The next morning Paul moved in with Luke and Aristarchus and the first shift of his constantly changing guards. He hung his cloak on a peg, and it disappeared into a woman's thimbled hand. On a table stood a steaming bowl of lamb broth, fresh rye bread, and a dish of plums. Paul looked at the bare walls, the spotless floors, the heavy sacking drapes over the long window, the bookrowed cots, desks, and chairs — the first home he had known in the twenty-three years that he had served Christ!

Priscilla and her helpers disappeared before he could stop looking and marveling long enough to thank them.

Luke and Aristarchus would have enough to rest after the months of voyage and shipwreck and forced marches. But Paul could not rest in God's labor. He sent Aristarchus immediately to the city synagogues, to ask the leaders to meet with him. On a practical level, Paul hoped to social out the Jewish leaders on the charges of the outcome of his trial. But on a more urgent level, he longed to preach to them of Jesus Christ.

The presidents of the synagogues knew nothing of his trial; no word had come from their colleagues in Jerusalem. But they were interested in hearing this new Gospel, and nearly a hundred good Hebrews came to listen. To avoid disturbing the peace, Paul led them into the inner courtyard of the insulae, where he, with his guard beside him, began to preach. In the shade of the cypress trees Paul stood and talked to the Jews, explaining the kingdom of God, and persuading them about Jesus, quoting the Old Testament writers to them to prove what he said. And as Luke himself recorded, Paul talked to them "from morning until evening."

From morning until evening In Rome men rose at dawn, rich and poor alike. All business stopped at noon. The rest of the day was given to siesta, followed by the long family meal.

Three shifts of Paul's guards turned and changed their heads at the sight of seemingly sane men forgetting not only work, but lunch and the nap in the heat of the afternoon. And for what? To talk about Yahweh and Jesus Christ.

Daily Paul was doing.

Immediately, squabbling filled the yard. A few of the Jews believed Paul's message. Many turned it down. As always, the world did not know what to believe talked the loudest.

Those who scoffed at Christ rose to leave, spitting on the ground in disgust. The middle men weighed their chances, and decided to go too.

Once more Paul stood and faced them. Rejected again, he flung his last challenge to the wise-hearted world he was leaving.

Paul looked straight at the unbelievers, and said with a catch in his throat:

"Be it known therefore to you, that this salvation of God is sent to the Gentiles — and they will hear it!"

The unbelievers walked out of the courtyard, nudging the undecided before them. Those who believed scurried along arguing with the others all the way down the street.

Paul watched them go; a prisoner, rejected by His own people, chained to a wall with his blood brothers the treasure that was his.

He squared his shoulders, raised his head, and marched back upstairs.

The tiny walk-up had never been kept so clean, or so busy. In the sweltering heat of summer it had become a workshop, a powerhouse of mission activity for the Empire over, a combination of executive offices, information bureau, and monastery.

Every morning except Sunday women in the somber stolas of Roman matrons visited cooking, washing, mending. Messengers, travelers, men of all races and cities perched on the window sills, sat cross-legged in the corners of the cramped room. Nobles from the Palatine came unattended like Nicodemus at night, to ask about the new God. Slaves crept in the door, hope in their eyes, fear of capture on their sweating brows. And every eight hours there was the changing of the guards, some of whom wore a bored, blasted look, some the smile of secret converts.

In the midst of this bubble-bubble, Luke sat at a desk by the window, oblivious equally to dispute, sermon, or an eager widow's feathey duster. From dawn to late afternoon he sat with pen and papyrus, pumice and sand, writing the new Gospel.

Luke had set out from the beginning to do an objective, factual history of Jesus. He was a born reporter, a scientific research man, who responded to case histories and orderly facts. His gift of God, had come to him in Antioch. But facts, inconvertible, shining with truth, he had gathered everywhere he went, and gift to a dubious world. He had interviewed everyone who ever knew Jesus, from Peter to His mother.

From the pen of a medical man to whom deceit was a stranger, the world would hear the truth about Mary and her Son. From Luke, the first scientific Christian, the first Christian reporter, came the fullest story of the woman who spoke to an angel, and conceived a child by the Holy Ghost, the story of the virgin birth.

Directly across from Luke sat Paul, the prisoner.

He had every reason to be unhappy. A kind of claustrophobia filled him, a horror of confinement, and longing for freedom, and aloneness.

The adventurer for Christ, world traveller with restless feet and tireless heart, could not help fretting at a desk job. And like all men in love with Christ, he yearned to be alone with Him, and with his own soul. In his hired room Paul could never be alone, even in the quiet of night, nor ever escape the demands men made on his time, his energy, his attention, and the sword of the Spirit (which is the word of God.)"

A fly buzzed over the sleeping man.

Paul stirred and rippled his lip as Paul finished up the letter. Gasping and snorting, he flung himself sideways to escape the attentions of the fly.

An instant later he was fully awake, sitting on the floor rubbing a bruised head. His helmet wobbled in protest beside him.

No one laughed. Aristarchus helped him to his feet. Luke went over to examine his skull.

And Paul said, and, Timothy wrote:

Grace be with all of them that love our Lord Jesus Christ in incorruption.

Weddings

LANSKAIL—BROWNLIE

White chrysanthemums and holly formed a lovely setting in Christ Church Cathedral, Vancouver, B.C., on Saturday, December 19th, at 2:30 p.m., for the marriage of Marjorie Anne Brownlie, of Vancouver, B.C., daughter of the Rev. Canon and Mrs. J. M. Brownlie, to Donald Alexander Lanskail, also of Vancouver, B.C. The bride's father, the Rev. Canon Brownlie, assisted by the Very Rev. W. R. Burke, dean of the Cathedral, officiated.

Organ music was rendered during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Gordon Cooper, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of white velvet and lace, with traditional veil of tulle illusion.

Quintena Rebekah Lodge Gives Dramatization of Yuletide Carols

At the close of the regular meeting of Quintena Rebekah Lodge an enjoyable Christmas party was held.

The hall was appropriately decorated with bunches of evergreen and a beautifully lighted Christmas tree.

The first part of the evening was spent singing Christmas songs and musical numbers, led by Mrs. Mary Plumpton.

The feature of the evening was the fine dramatization of a number of Christmas carols: "Silent Night", "Away in a Manger," "The Three Kings of Orient Are," "Good Christian Men, Rejoice", "Angels from Realms of Glory" and "Joy to the World" as they were being rendered by a choir chosen for the occasion.

DRAMATIZED CAROLS

As the scene opened the shepherds passed through the guard-house of the city to watch their flocks by night. But the Angel of the Lord came down and polished to the bright new star in the heavens and the men-folk left their sheep and made their way to Bethlehem.

The next scene opened in Bethlehem with Mary and Joseph and the Babe in the manger where the shepherds and wise men paid homage and the three kings of Orient came, bearing their gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh.

The last scene was one of the great rejoicing that took place in the streets and on the earth.

Those in the choir were: Mesdames Jean Ellis, Florence Pollitt, Georgina Charlton, Eva Judge, Laura MacMillan, Ruby Dansberry, Marion Parks and Mary Plumpton. Those taking the dramatization were: Mesdames Oress Adams, Ila Addy, Margaret Cooper, Alice Adams, Mary Summers, June Carruthers, Verna Oliphant, Joanne Merry, Jessie Bushell and Grace Alley, Misses Helen Miller and Margaret Novinski and Messrs. Gordon Miller, Larry Pollitt, Douglas Simpson and Clayton Gilroy.

The program came to close with a lovely reading by Mrs. Georgina Charlton, entitled "A Voice From Far Country."

The story of a young girl who left home to become a great opera singer, and as she was unable to return home to visit her aged parents, she sent as a Christmas gift a phonograph with records on which was recorded her voice singing, "Home Sweet Home," bringing the message to her parents that her love and thoughts were still with them and that she longed for her home.

Mrs. Mary Plumpton took the part of the "Voice."

Of course no Christmas party is complete without St. Nicholas, so Larry Pollitt ably acted the part of the jolly old elf, and distributed gifts amid much fun and merriment.

The scene of the party then changed and everyone retired to the banquet hall where refreshments were served, which included ice cream and Christmas cake.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS

Those on the committee responsible for this most enjoyable evening were Mesdames Alice Carruthers, Ila Addy, Alice Adams, Verna Summers and Misses Helen Miller and Bessie Boldrick, and in charge of the refreshments were: Mesdames Ethel Mitchell, Dorothy Webber, Lena MacMillan, Lena Belnap, Edith Rushworth and Myrtle Andrews.

Mrs. Mary Plumpton was soloist for the evening. Mrs. Clara Ironside, pianist, and in charge of the lights, Miss Dorothy Harwood.

Fashion Flashes

One of the prettiest black dresses for smart afternoon wear is of silk crepe, the draped bodice worked into a wide V neckline. Short sleeves have huge black fox cuffs with a band of beading above. The smooth 10-gore skirt is mounted over a built-in taffeta slip.

Registering with a big bang is the fur-trimmed suit. Perhaps the most handsome suit is of fine dark gray woolen, the jacket lined with blue fox. Bands of the fur are loose in front so that they may be draped around the shoulders, forming a big collar and tuxedo front.

A tiny cloud of feathers or embroidered tulle is the best description of some of the new theater hats. Worn well down on the forehead is a tiny hat that is a pouf of miniature pink ostrich plumes held at the back with a black velvet bow.

Imagination marks the latest edition of resort clothes. Linen in brown or navy with white—in a broken dash pattern—makes a handsome dress cut on smooth princess lines. It has a deep, wide portrait neckline effectively framed by a dramatic wide grosgrain ruff, with narrow grosgrain edging the sheer-sleeve sleeves.

It takes a special handbag to do righ by holiday clothes. Black antelope is used for a handsome bag with a novel panel of organza, all over panel bordered in jet. This panel lets down to disclose matched, beaded fittings that include open glasses, compact and lipstick. Double handles and big Rhinestone clasp.

Captain Brightwell Shows Interesting European Slides

The Christmas spirit was rampant in the board room of the Y.M.C.A. when about 40 members and guests gathered for the December meeting of Prince Edward, Belleville Lodge.

Christmas lighting, candles and evergreens decorated the wide mantel over the fire place; carols were sung with Miss Anderson at the piano.

The president, Mrs. Wannamaker, presided for the usual opening and welcomed all.

Cards are to be sent to shut-in members and a donation of $25 given for the Salvation Christmas Cheer.

Several donations of clothing, toys, canning goods and useful articles were brought to be picked up by the Salvation Army at close of meeting.

Mrs. Fred Burley was in charge of the program and delightful readings were given by Mrs. Clegg, Mrs. T. A. Tucker and Mrs. J. Carbutt.

Miss Helen Solman presented a letter from Mission Society, calling attention to the neglect and poverty existing out in dumb animals, especially horses used in lumber camps. A letter will be sent in reply, assuring the society that as an organization the club goes on record as recommending greater care and kindness to all animals.

GUEST SPEAKER.

The club was pleased to have as guest speaker Captain Brightwell, of the S.A. who gave an interesting travelogue of his trip to England and Scotland, showing pictures in color of different views taken while crossing the ocean, interesting places, of the training college where army personnel and delegates were assembled in convention from so many different countries. Those at Buckingham Palace and Windsor Castle were especially good.

At the close Captain Brightwell gave piano renditions of several carols.

Both Mrs. Burley and Mrs. Wannamaker extended thanks to all assisting in program.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Burley's group.

Thanks go to Mrs. W. Barber for her generous donation of mums, which later were divided and sent to the shut-ins.

BELLEVILLE ONTARIO

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IS THERE "ANY ANSWER" TO THE PROBLEM OF AN UNFAITHFUL HUSBAND?

"I just can't stand the heartbreak much longer, and I don't know what to do about it. Would you know any answer?"

What is that woman talking about? An unfaithful husband, perhaps you guessed it.

And when she asks me if I know any answer, I am quite sure she means, can I suggest any way she can prevent him from going out and to his extra-marital wandering and be a good husband again.

It's hardly necessary to say that no matter what attitude one advises a betrayed wife to adopt, no guarantee can be had that it will bring about the result she so urgently desires. About the best anyone can do is to tell her the approach to the problem that might lead to effective handling of others, and I'll get to that in a minute.

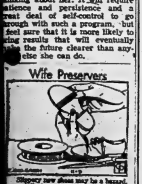
First, let's listen to her story:

"Until she came into my life and I have always got along fine together, but lately I was told that he has been out with other girls. At first I didn't believe what people said but as months have told me the same tale that it must be true. I've been a good wife as much and it almost kills me to hear such things. I have tried so hard to be a good wife, but I guess I must have failed somewhere.

"I have no friends because my husband doesn't make much money, and we just couldn't get along on his pay check as you can see I don't know where he goes while I am working. But the other night, while I was at work, someone came in and told me he saw him at a dance. I got off from work and went to the dance to see for myself, and there he was. He did not see me because I just stepped inside the door to look, and then left immediately. When he came home I asked him about it and he denied everything.

"I have thought of leaving him, and even started once, but found I just couldn't do it. I love him too much, and besides it just doesn't seem fair to our son who loves his father more than anything."

Now to take up the question of whether or not there is "any answer" to such a problem.



CAREFUL ACTION EFFECTIVE

Perhaps I should begin by saying that the tactics used by most wives who find themselves in this kind of situation are definitely not the answer. As a rule, wives react to the discovery of a husband's infidelity with tears, self-pity, a few furious angry, and both are equally futile. Out of the experience of many years' listening to stories told me by women whose husbands have been unfaithful I have evolved the conviction that a carefully planned, and quietly carried out, course of action is far more effective than emotional outbursts any wife can ever be.

If this woman is prepared to take my advice, then I would urge her to make up her mind never to resort to crying, pleading, reproaching or threatening. Her husband now knows that she is aware of what is going on. If she hopes silent about it, it is almost certain to make more impression than if she continually harps on it, for obvious, is very likely to start him wondering just what she is thinking about, which is all to the good. I advise her to make no changes for the present at least, in her way of living, except, if possible, to go out more in her leisure hours and find interests that will give her something else to think about besides her unhappiness. It will not be easy, I realize, to take part in very much activity outside the home when she works at night, perhaps she can find some time now and then during the week when she might see more of her friends. On weekends, moreover, perhaps she could manage to get away from home occasionally. If she has relatives near by whom she and her little boy could visit.

In other words, I believe she should try the experiment of being away from her husband rather than trying to keep an eye on him. If she will make this experiment over a reasonable period of time, signs may begin to spear that her husband is doing some thinking.

He may even show that he begins to realize he had better start thinking about her. It will require patience and persistence and a great deal of self-control to go through with such a program, but I feel sure that it is more likely to bring results that will eventually put the future clearer than anything else she can do.

CHRISTMAS CANDLES . . . TO "GIVE A LOVELY LIGHT"

Christas-time, a time for shining thoughts, should be given the radiance and charm of candlelight . . . Light candles! "Light a candle," the Bible tells us, "put it on a candlestick, and it giveth light unto all that are in the house."

BIBLE AS CHRISTMAS GIFT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. As my Christmas present to my daughter and her husband I have bought a Bible. On the first page I want to write something, something just right, something they can be proud of me for writing, something they will remember when I have passed on.

2. Also I am planning to give my only grandchild "The Bible in Pictures," as a gift from her grandfather and me. Would you also be so kind as to suggest something I could write in this?

1. I am sure that the most precious dedication-message you could write in front of the Bible would be a verse from the Bible that your daughter and her husband would know was your favorite, or one of your favorites. Or perhaps a verse that carries the message of the blessing of the Bible. For example: the inspirational words, "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." (Psalms, 119:105). Or "Holy is the Lord endureth forever.", (New Testament, 1 Peter, 1:25). Or, the Twenty—third Psalm, "The Lord is my shepherd."

Or perhaps some memorable words about the Bible:

"Holy Bible, book divine, Precious treasure."

Or:

The Book of Books, the storehouse of life and comfort,
The Holy Bible.

2. Your dedication to this wonderful book might be: "With deep and high and abiding love to our Ruth. We thank God for such a dear and endearing grandchild. Where you are, light is! Your grandfather and grandmother."

THIS PAN IS NOT FAIR

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Do you think it would be proper for our church society to honor our minister at Christmas by using the money we usually give him as a gift towards buying some article for our church?

A.N.

I certainly couldn't think that this would be fair. If it has been the custom of your church society to give your minister a gift of money, I should think it would be the right and fair and proper plan to continue this kind and thoughtful gesture, if you ask him first to be sure he has no use for the money you usually give him toward the buying of an article for the church, this amount to be given "in honor" of him, although there would be no alternative for him to accept this "gift." If you do this without asking him, he might very well think he may have done something that made it advisable to change the customary plan. Personally I think you should give him his Christmas gift as always. Then, if necessary, make some other plan (a church fair, a bazaar, for example) to make money to buy the article you have in mind for the church.

As I type this I am filled with nostalgia.

I years to fly with even one little reindeer so I might peek in your kitchen windows to see you putting the last finishing touches to your Christmas banquet.

Be assured that I am there with you in spirit. . . and that when we say grace at our table and come to ". . . bless us all" I will know just how many that "all" embraces.

In working over this menu I have discarded many lovely dishes that I so much want to include but we can't hold all the good things at one meal, but I do hope I have chosen dishes that will appeal to a maximum number of my readers and their precious ones, whom I hope are all right there by your sides.

You will see I have given a few alternatives because we are a sentimental family we will have for our first course the fruit cup cocktail because that would have been father's choice. The fruit cup, if you choose it, would be delicious made of seedless green grapes, honeydew melon balls the sections of canned mandarin oranges, all thoroughly chilled. The broiled grapefruit lids appeals to you, and is a tempting way to serve something that is not fruity, halve section and remove membrane and core the grapefruit, and sprinkle each half with 1 teaspoon white and 2 teaspoons brown sugar, then dot each with 1-1-2 teaspoons butter, and broil for 10 minutes or until the sugar is gold and heat them, or bake for 30 minutes at 450 deg. Fahr.

On Christmas Day at the stroke of three, Marianne can break away from her hospital leash, and you may be sure Pete will be waiting outside Nurses' Residence with a racing motor, to rush her to us.

The Christmas salad is Marianne's choice. Use one large head Iceberg lettuce shredded, tomatoes cut in 1-inch pieces, cut limes celery stalks, wafer thin slices of radishes, a very little chopped green onion, slivers of green pepper, and finely shredded raw cabbage and French Dressing. Garnish top with slices of tomatoes and green pepper and crosswise. Very Christmassy to look at, and crisp and welcome to taste after a heavy main course.

If your choice of vegetables is a green beans and mushrooms cook the shredded beans until barely tender, add 1-2 lb. sliced mushrooms which have been gently sauteed in butter for about 6 or 7 minutes.

Last week I did not give you the recipe for the Foamy Sauce. Beat 1-2 cup butter until light and creamy, then gradually beat in 1 cup sifted icing sugar until fluffy. Then beat in 1 beaten egg and 1 teaspoon vanilla, and then beat this in double boiler, while stirring constantly, for about two minutes—no more.

Hard Sauce helped to make your Christmas preparations easier and that peace and love pervade your home all through The Day.

Fashion Flashes

Ever so striking is a skirt of leopard-print cotton pile cut wide at the hem. With it a blouse of black jersey with a flanged, asymmetric neckline that is finished with a bow. Linking the two a black satin belt.

Fascinating is the variety of suit detail that marks the latest offerings. From Dior comes a suit of floo black and white check tweed, the jacket of which is paced with braid that edges the open collar and deeply slit neckline. Three buttons punctuate the open neckline, and there continue down to a staight-brassed four-button closing.

Tiny, but big with glitter, that's the story on the new rhinestone dress-ups hats. A tiny profile beret has its entire surface paved with iridescent paillettes, rhinestones and nailheads, and is selling like hotcakes.

Much nicer than formerly are the new fur-trimmed hats. Black velours is used for a diminutive pillbox, trimmed in front with a full band that ends in curve detail.

CARE OF THE HAIR

Do you arrange your locks the same way, day after day? Do you go to bed with the arrangement practically the same, but with the curls pinned up? Maybe your silky tresses get sick and tired of all that. Maybe they would like release from the same old pattern. Why not put and pamper them, give them the air? Throw your head forward, brush the hair from nape line to crown. Brush the side-growth forward. Brush from crown to forehead. Scalp and hair will respond magnificently to such treatment.

Do not take it for granted that your hair will always remain abundant and healthy. It is subject to depressive influences, the same as any part of the body. It may come about that the growth is thinning at the temples. As in the case of the complexion, protective measures for scalp and hair are easier than cures once problems have arisen.

The frequent shampoo, accomplished with thoroughness and plenty of friction, is one weapon against scalp troubles. The daily brushing is another. Hair should be lustrous but it will not be unless it is groomed faithfully and often. The brush removes dead cells and atmospheric dust, loosens dead skin scales and stimulates circulation, which is necessary if one would have a healthy head of hair.

Get the best brush that money can buy. It is given proper care it will last for years. A narrow brush does more effective work than a wide one. The bristles should be of different lengths, set in groups.

If the budget permits, have two brushes, so there is always a

BLIND SCULPTOR — George Cohen, 39-year-old blind sculptor of Montreal, works on a bust of Dr. Allen B. DuMont, United States television pioneer and scientist, after he became blind in 1944 and in the next four years his sight returned partially about 60 times but then his eyes failed completely. (CP Photo.)

Blindness Not 'Handicap' Just An 'Inconvenience'

LONDON, Ont. (cp) — "Blindness," says George Cohen, 39-year-old Montreal salesman-sculptor, "is not a handicap. It is just an inconvenience."

He recently supported this contention by making a bust of Dr. Allen B. DuMont, United States television pioneer and scientist, after a sitting by Dr. DuMont that lasted little more than a minute.

Mr. Cohen worked here before newsreel and television cameras and newspaper and magazine reporters and photographers.

He started modelling the bust after a "look" with his hands. An hour later, to refresh his mind about detail, he took a second and final look which lasted only a few seconds. From this brief sitting and a small amount of direction from a friend, he completed the bust.

He first became blind in 1944. For the next four years his sight returned partially about 60 times but then his eyes failed completely.

While in hospital and sightless, he began modelling with plasticine. After leaving hospital he tried to join an art school but was always refused admission until Dr. Arthur Lismer, head of the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts and a famous artist asked him to model a head as an example of his work.

Mr. Cohen did the head in 30 minutes and was promptly accepted as a student. The first model he ever completed was entered in a students' competition, his blindness being kept a secret. He won the competition—a scholarship to further study.

But modelling from clay is only a hobby. He has a full-time job with a printing firm in Montreal as a salesman.

In his spare time, he has won diving competitions and a fencing competition and he and his attractive wife, Vera, have toured "about every school in Quebec" lecturing on the importance of eyesight.

Rotarians, Zellers Hold Party For C. A. S. Children

The Christmas spirit is in the air and is taking tangible form in many festivities and parties. Two of these took place recently where the guests were children, under the care of the Children's Aid Society, and the hosts were Zellers and the Rotarians of Stirling, respectively.

The first party was held in Zeller's store, where the children received gifts and refreshments, and a keen interest was displayed on the part of the members of the staff.

The second gathering was a turkey dinner given by the Stirling Rotarians. Each child, no matter where he lived in the surrounding country, was called for and taken home by his special Rotarian host.

MONTHLY REPORT.

Miss B. Corbet, giving the monthly report of the C.A.S., spoke of these happy occasions. She also stated that six adoptions had been finalized this month, and one child had been placed for adoption. There are 246 children under the care of the C.A.S., 204 of which are in pay care and 144 in free homes. In addition to these, 143 children are being supervised under the preventive work.

Miss Corbet spoke of the helpful co-operation of other Children's Aid Societies and of the gratifying experience when parents of children under supervision defer to the staff of the C.A.S. for advice and thus signify their confidence. She concluded her remarks by stating that all the children under the society's care are provided, through some organization, for Christmas.

Mr. J. Fred Wilson, chairman of the board, announced the resignation of Mr. Melrosheer as superintendent of the C.A.S. Arrangements are being made to fill the post.

Donations were reported from Stewart Warner Corp., Professional Business Women's Club, and St. Michael's Benevolent Society. Special mention was made of the generosity of Dixon's Store to boys are wards of the C.A.S.

ANNUAL GRANT.

A letter was read from Mr. W. H. Burry, director of the Dept. of Child Welfare, containing the department's annual grant of $1,000 toward the local society, and a favorable report commenting on the work of this society during the last five years.

Mr. J. Sprackett of the county council, expressed his appreciation for the welcome he had been given at board meetings, and for the understanding he had received of the work and the consequent necessary expenditures of the organization.

Mr. R. Park added his praise of the work being done in Trenton.

Mr. C. L. Hyde said he had been much interested in the activities of the C.A.S. as the representative of the city council for 13 years.

Mr. Wilson, in extending wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, said he was sure it would be all the happier knowing that the children of the society were all taken care of for Christmas.

Mrs. H. McCabe complimented Mr. Wilson on the work he had accomplished.

Two New Cheese Factories Are Being Erected

Although the number of cheese factories operating in the district has been drastically cut during recent years, construction of two new factories and plans for a third, indicate that farmers still have faith in the industry.

At the annual meeting of the Hastings County Cheese Producers' Association at Stirling it was noted that a new factory is now being built to replace the present Central plant west of Stirling, while cheesemaker Douglas Rowe was reported to be building a private plant at Warkworth.

Also it was reported that patrons of Kimberly and Empire factories in Seymour township are planning a new amalgamated plant.

Indo-China War Enters 8th Year With No Decision

Larry Allen, who contributes the survey of world affairs to this column, is the fighting editor's eighth year, has been reporting the struggle between the French and nationalists of that Asian territory for more than two years.

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—The French Union's struggle against the Communist-led Vietminh rebels in Indo-China rounded out its seventh year today with no end in sight. But the French are hopeful that another two years will bring victory.

Throughout the war which started Dec. 19, 1946, French Union forces have kept a strong grip on the Red river delta in northern Indo-China as the key bulwark against a possible Communist sweep through southeastern Asia.

But the French and their main ally, the Indo-Chinese republic of Viet Nam, have not yet scored a decisive victory. Neither, however, has the Vietminh, led by Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh.

On this anniversary day, rebel forces control most of Viet Nam, one of the three French-associated Indo-Chinese states which also include Laos and Cambodia. French sources say Ho Chi Minh's army, trained and equipped by China, is stronger than ever.

One big fear French divisions is threatening to gain more territory by overrunning the pro-French Thai principality of Laos in northwestern Indo-China.

French forces expect the Vietminh to assault the fortress of Dien Bien Phu near the frontier of Laos and Viet Nam. It is the last big barrier to the Vietminh in all of the Thai country.

As the conflict goes into its eighth year:

The French and Indo-Chinese governments have already spent about $10,000,000,000 to fight it.

Some 2,000,000 Viet Namese have been uprooted from their homes and forced to flee into French-controlled territory.

The Vietminh by French estimates, have suffered 240,000 killed, 400,000 wounded and 238,000 captured. French Union losses have been estimated at 48,000 French and Vietnamese killed, 80,000 wounded and 12,000 missing.

Two-Headed Boy Will Remain in Hospital

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Physicians at Riley Hospital kept the two-headed baby born a week ago under observation Friday and said its condition was about the same—"satisfactory."

Dr. John D. van Nuys, dean of the Indiana University medical centre, said the baby would remain at hospital until it no longer requires medical care.

Van Nuys said it was a misunderstanding that led to the announcement that the baby was ready to be taken by the home of its parents in Washington, Ind.

LAST OF FIVE

The 13 found freedom by cutting through three steel grates of an underground sewer with an acetylene torch. Where they got the torch and the oxygen to operate it is the subject of an investigation, by warden William H. Banman, Governor G. Mennen Williams ordered Banman and the acting corrections director, Lou Harrison, to "get to the bottom of this." He said this report will be made public.

Deputy warden Charles Cahill said he believes the torch was obtained from one of the prison industries. The oxygen, he said, could have come from a construction company's supply stored inside the prison walls.

Out of the filthy drain tunnel, the 13 were 20 feet outside the high prison walls.

Their first move was to converge on the home of Glenn Milliman, 26-year-old auto salesman and former army medic. Threatening Milliman and his wife with knives and clubs, the fleeing felons ransacked the house, stole clothing, food money and a gun and fled in the man's car.

A short time later the 13 split up. Six of them stayed in the car, only to crash in it while attempting to run a police blockade 10 miles southeast of the prison.

Five were captured immediately. These were: Melvin (Bud) Childers, 50, a life-term murderer from Detroit; Albert Lee, 27, and Robert's brother, Delbert, 34, both serving life for the same razor crime; William (Bill) Wayne, 38, serving 15 to 30 years for armed robbery in Detroit; and Robert Brown, 30, serving 15 to 30 years for manslaughter.

Dan Beardsley, 37, another murder-killer from Detroit, also was in the car but eluded police for a short time before he was captured. He told police officials he planned the getaway, but almost backed out when he saw 13 others were set to get in.

Herbert Guiembe, 29, doing 20 to 35 years for armed robbery in Detroit, was picked up Saturday night in a Jackson hotel.

The other five burst into the home of Joseph Watts in Jackson. Holding him at gunpoint, they stole most of his clothes. Then they drove off in a stolen car and abandoned it.

Sticking mainly to side roads, they got to suburban Northville before they were spotted. They shook off a pursuing police car.

Once inside northwest Detroit, the five convicts got out of the car. The women ran out of gasoline a short time later, then walked to a filling station and called police.

Believe John L. Lewis Plans Bid to Become Labor Chief Of New York's Waterfront

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mine union president John L. Lewis may be preparing a bid to become the new labor chief of the turbulent New York waterfront.

It was reliably reported today that Capt. William Bradley, newly-chosen president of the allegedly crime-ridden International Longshoremen's Association is due here from New York to visit Lewis.

Bradley's visit appears obviously timed for its effect on the balloting Tuesday in a national labor relations board election between the ILA and a new AFL Longshoremen's Union.

It's a crucial election showdown between the old ILA, ousted by the AFL, and the new union which the AFL formed only a few months ago, saying its efforts to force a clean-up had failed. Crime probers have accused the old ILA of racketeering criminals, and a number of its officials have been indicted.

There seems little doubt that Lewis has been working quietly but persistently in behalf of the old ILA. Last week an official of the AFL-arrested ILA reported Lewis supplied a $50,000 loan to help fight the new AFL union.

BROTHER-IN-LAW

The 73-year-old Lewis has declined comment, but it is reported that his brother, a top organizer in labor sectors outside the coal industry, A. D. (Denny) Lewis, had met frequently with officials of the old ILA.

The reported loan has led to speculation that the old ILA is destined to become part of district 50 of the United Mine Workers (Ind.). Lewis is the long-time president of the UMW, now unaffiliated with any national labor federation. Brother Denny heads the UMW's district 50, the branch of Lewis-organized workers outside the coal industry.

Lewis has been trying for some time to get a foothold in New York City. Brother Denny launched a campaign a few years ago to try to organize the city's taxi drivers, but the plan flopped.

Audrey Hepburn And Jose Ferrer Called Top Stars

NEW YORK (AP)—Audrey Hepburn and Jose Ferrer were named top movie stars of the year in the annual poll of critics by the trade publication Film Daily.

Miss Hepburn, a screen newcomer, was also labelled top "draw" of the year because of her performance in "Roman Holiday." Ferrer was cited for his acting in "Moulin Rouge."

Citations for best supporting performances went to Crooner Frank Sinatra for his straight dramatic role in "From Here to Eternity" and to Gloria Grahame for her portrayal in "The Bad and the Beautiful."

Fred Zinnerman won the nod for the ablest directing and Daniel Taradash for the best screen writing, both for "From Here to Eternity."

Police Obtain Full Confessions In Bank Slaying

MONTREAL (CP) — Provincial police said Sunday they have obtained "full confessions" in connection with the gun-slaying Friday of Ovila Courville, 53-year-old bank manager at Notre Dame de Stanbridge, Que.

Det.-Capt. Leopold Trottier, head of detectives here, also said police are holding Marcel Bouchard, 37, and Adrien Lebeau, as material witnesses in the shooting which followed an abortive holdup at the Quebec village bank.

Police said the two Granby, Que., men, arrested earlier Sunday, have not yet been charged.

The arrests climax a 48-hour manhunt through the eastern townships district. The search began after Courville blurted out a description of a gunman to a friend who shot him as he reached for his gun. The bank manager died 30 minutes after the shooting.

Police said both Bouchard and Lebeau, described as a jewelry salesman, have made statements on the attempted bank robbery. The murder weapon was discovered.

Given Five Years For Manslaughter

NANAIMO, B. C. (CP)—Cecil Christopher Sampson was sentenced Saturday to five years in penitentiary on a charge of manslaughter in the slaying of Chew Deb, a Vancouver island Chinese.

Sampson, 30, was found not guilty of murder but guilty on a reduced charge of manslaughter. His 20-year-old wife, Edna, also faces a murder charge. Her case was transferred to the spring assizes.

Chew Deb, 51, was beaten to death in his shack in Duncan, B. C., in 1950.

POULTRY DESTROYED

Father Bonin Tells of Life In Prison Camp

MONTREAL (CP)—Rev. Antonio Bonin, former Roman Catholic vicar-general of Manchuria, told Sunday of 10 months in a Communist prison camp and five years in a guarded residence.

Father Bonin, 55-year-old native of Joliette, Que., spent 25 years in China. He was ordered out Nov. 15, along with Rev. Alphonse Carouzie, 41, of Matane, Que. Both were told never to return.

The banishment was the last in a long series of insults and torture heaped on Father Bonin since the Communists took control of China.

His ordeal started in 1947 when he was imprisoned on a charge of spying for Nationalist China and the United States.

"There were 28 of us housed in a cell 20 feet long and 10 feet wide," the priest told a reporter. "We had to sleep on our sides because there wasn't even enough room for us to stretch out on our backs.

"We were given only two meals a day. They were made up of a single bowl of sorghum without water. We had to ask our guards for water and were usually given to blow our noses. I spent three months without any water to wash in.

BRAIN WASHING

"There was no forced labor but we were forced to submit to long hours of Communist brain-washing tactics. I was often questioned every day for a month, from two to four hours at a time.

"When I refused to answer their questions, I was suspended by the thumbs from a wooden beam. Or, on other occasions, they tied my thumbs behind me under my knees and left me in this uncomfortable position all day.

"They also beat us with leather straps. I saw one of my companions beaten to death in this manner by seven or eight torturers working in relays."

The people of China have never ceased to accept the Communist regime, despite all the promises made by their leaders, the missionary said.

"However, it is useless to hope for an armed revolt," he added. "First of all the rebels lack arms, and the Chinese peasant is fearful by nature. He likes to conspire, hoping all the time that someone else will show the first bench."

DIABETES EXPERT DIES

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Dr. Rolin Woodyatt, 74, internationally known specialist in the treatment of diabetes, died Thursday night after a long illness. Woodyatt was one of the few doctors who worked with insulin, a specific treatment of diabetes, immediately after its discovery at the University of Toronto in the 1920s.

Royal Couple Settles Back To Life of Ease on Liner

ABOARD S. S. GOTHIC (CP)—The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh settled back again today into the easy-going routine of shipboard life after a long weekend of welcomes from the South Sea Islanders of the Fiji and Tonga groups.

Next stop for the Royal couple on their six-month Commonwealth tour is New Zealand, where they are due Dec. 23. They will spend the Christmas holiday in Auckland.

The Queen and the duke left behind Sunday a cheering throng of Tonga natives, headed by six-foot-three Queen Salote, who followed that royal liner in an open launch to the harbor mouth to wave farewell. In return, the Queen and the duke threw floral garlands into the blue Pacific in the traditional South Sea gesture of farewell.

Before sailing, the royal couple attended services with Salote in the Free Wesleyan (Methodist) church at Nukualofa, Queen Elizabeth turned out in a white frock with a flower design and an emerald green hat. Salote had on a cream-colored creation. All the island women wore their Sunday best, covered by an apron of fine flax which Tongans wear as a mark of respect for important persons.

LUNCH WITH SALOTE

After the service, the royal party lunched at Salote's country estate, then drove to the lagoon where they boarded the Gothic.

On departure, the Queen lacked an honor's list commemorating her stay in the Fijis. Two Fijian natives appear with Sir Ronald Garvey, the governor, and other senior officials.

The two Fijians will receive the Royal Victorian Medal for services to the Royal Family. They are Usaia Tiko, royal chauffeur during the tour and Ratu Ruisate Tauviwai, who helped make arrangements (spokesman) at Fijian ceremonies.

CARS DERAILED

NORWOOD, N.Y. (CP) — Two cars of a southbound New York Central Railroad freight bound from Massena, N.Y., to Syracuse derailed Friday night, blocking traffic on the single - track St. Lawrence division. No one was hurt.

Sports Editor, Calgary Herald For 14 Years, Dies

CALGARY (CP) — Robert Manmi, sports editor of the Calgary Herald for 14 years until his retirement a year ago, died Saturday. He was 47.

Mr. Mannil, son of an Italian naval officer, joined the Herald staff as an office boy in 1923. Three years later he began his writing career in the dual capacity of sports reporter and police court reporter. He was appointed sports editor in 1939.

His last story was written Oct. 25, 1952, when he reported the Western Conference football semi-final game between Edmonton Eskimos and Calgary Stampeders.

He was admitted to an Edmonton hospital soon after the game, and underwent surgery there before returning to Calgary.

Prince Makes Christmas Cards

LONDON (AP)—While Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh are away on their Commonwealth tour, five-year-old Prince Charles is busy at home making his own Christmas cards.

They are multi-colored, paint-daubed drawings which Charles is mailing to his friends.

He has also personally assumed the job of watching out for three-year-old Princess Anne.

Charles special gift to Anne is a set of toy saucepans. She is also due to get a toy cooking stove, a dolls' tea set and new wardrobes for some of her favorite dolls.

Charles and Anne will spend Christmas Day at the royal estate of Sandringham with Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret.

Election-Year Headache Brought Home by Nixon

By RUSSELL BRINES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice-President Richard Nixon came back from Asia with a fat-to-fat election-year headache for President Eisenhower.

Nixon found, on his 45,000-mile world tour, that the United States may have to spend more money and take a stronger hand in Asian affairs to prevent further Communist gains.

This is sad news for an administration trying to pare expenditures before next November's important congressional elections.

But Nixon brought word, for example, that a fare-reducing decision may have to be made in order to save Indo-China, gateway to rich southeast Asia—the really important goal of Communist military aggression in Asia.

The choice, which may have to be made before next November, is this: Whether or not to get in backing the French, with more arms and possibly even military forces, in order to keep them in their helter, seven-year war or whether to support growing Paris demands for a Korean-style negotiated truce. This would risk losing the peninsula politically to the Communists.

A second basic decision may have to be made next year. The question is whether to add vital Pakistan to the armed powers linked to the United States, through a new military aid program, of to hew to violent objections raised by India's Prime Minister Nehru. Either choice means a change of policy.

The administration probably believes military aid is what it does on these problems, and particularly if it does nothing.

Nixon further says the need for a complete review and strengthening of American Asiatic policy.

The truth is that after thousands of lives and billions of dollars, the Allied powers have erected, in many parts of Asia, only a house of cards that a Communist can blow down almost at will.

Although there is no over-all leadership, Free Asia is in danger of splitting into quarrelling fragments, ripe for Communist plucking.

Allies Meet Snarl of Delays While Reds Make Best Score As Talks Deadline Nears

By FORREST EDWARDS

PANMUNJOM (AP)—A snarl of last-minute delays today all but snuffed out Allied hopes for interviews with 22 Americans and one Briton who stayed with the Communists — as Red explainers chalked up their best score to date.

Gen. John E. Hull, United States Far East commander, indicated that the Allies have given up hope that any of the 23 will return.

Hull said they have had both time and opportunity to change their minds since they were turned over to Indian custody Sept. 25.

The Allies' only chance of making contact with the prisoners before the midnight Wednesday deadline appeared to be through delivery of a 12-page letter addressed to each man.

The neutral nations repatriation commission ruled that the PoWs must agree to accept the letter from an Allied explanation team. Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the commission, said he will try to get the answers Tuesday.

But while prospects dimmed for the Allied campaign to change the minds of balky war prisoners, the Reds won back 23 of 250 Chinese captives as interviews were resumed today after a 34-day stalemate.

RECORD RETURN

This was the greatest number of prisoners the Communists had won back in a single day, and was almost triple their best previous record by percentage.

Previous records were set Oct. 31 when 21 of 459 North Koreans, 4.6 per cent, elected to return to Communist rule. The best previous record with Chinese prisoners was 10 won back out of 430 interviewed Oct. 17, a percentage of 2.4.

In eight days of interviews the Communists have talked to 2,581 prisoners and have won back 104, or 3.9 per cent.

Compound 78, from which today's prisoners were drawn, appeared unusually docile. The explainers agreed readily to permit interviews with just half each day, something the Communists had done. The second 250 prisoners go before Red explainers Tuesday.

Savings Bond Sales Will End on Dec. 31

OTTAWA (CP)—Sales of eighth series Canada savings bonds will be terminated Dec. 31, Finance Minister Abbott announced Sunday.

Applications made prior to Dec. 31 under deferred payment plans are not affected.

"The record sale of the eighth series—now in excess of $800,000,000—is highly gratifying," Mr. Abbott said in a statement.

"While it has been the case in past series that bonds have remained on sale until Aug. 31 of the following year, experience has shown that approximately 90 per cent of the sales have been made by Dec. 31."

Y.O.N.

The monthly Board meeting of the Trenton branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses took place on Tuesday, December 15th, at 8 p.m., Mr. Sam Mowbrey presiding. During the meeting it was decided to hold the annual meeting and banquet on Wednesday, January 13, at 6.30 p.m. at the Queensway Hotel in Trenton. The Honorable Doctor Paul Martinon Phillips, the Ontario Minister of Health, is to be the guest speaker.

BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WOMEN'S CLUB.

The regular monthly dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club met on Wednesday, December 16th, at 6.30 p.m. in the Queensway Hotel. Miss Ann Johnson presided and about 40 members were present. The guest speaker was Miss Norma Arkles, the Aegional Advisor of the Business and Professional Women's Association, who comes from Belleville. Miss Arkles gave an interesting talk on the United Nations. The guest speaker had visited the U.N. headquarters in New York earlier this year and supplemented her talk with slides of the U.N. building and Assembly, and film strips on the work of the United Nations in other lands.

Each year every branch of the Business and Professional Women's Club tries to send at least one delegate to the U.N. in New York.

It is interesting to note that though the Trenton branch of this club was formed only in October, 1953, and has some 80 members, it is not the youngest branch in this area, a more recent branch having been established at Tweed, Ontario.

Montreal Sailing Season Closes

MONTREAL (CP)—The Israeli freighter Yaffo steamed out of Montreal Monday to close the longest ocean traffic season in the port's history, surpassing the latest departure on record.

The 16,000-ton vessel sailed for Quebec where she will pick up a cargo of grain for Europe. Her departure was two days later than the previous record date Dec. 18, 1946, and repeated last year.

When the port closed officially Sunday after the Yaffo left it had been open six months and 17 days from April 3.

To be known as the Former Naval Personnel Badge, it may be worn by all former naval officers, men and women who have been honorably released from the service. The badge is to be reproduced only in metal, suitable for wear in the left lapel button hole, or embroidered for wear on the left breast pocket of blazers and jackets.

Reproduction of the badge for any other purposes must have the approval of Naval headquarters.

The Former Naval Personnel Badge features a gold anchor set in a circle of navy blue. Two gold maple leaves surround the circle, atop of which rests the naval crown. The crown "jewels", left to right, are red, green, blue, green and red.

MAD SCRAMBLE!

The Kingston Goodyears lived up to Coach Johnny Carr-Harris' Friday night prediction and emerged on top of the Senior "B" group heap after the week-end festivities. Had they're not there hanging on by the skin of their ice-laces makers for the best they could do was grab a five-all overtime tie with the Peterborough Petes Saturday night after defeating the Memos here Friday.

In the meantime the Oshawa Truckmen, probably stung at their top-spot dethronement, made a determined bid to make up for lost ground when they handed the surging Orillia Postiaes at 8-3 defeat in Bowmanville, on beans, brown bread and both nights.

The Oshawa victory halted a lengthy losing streak at six games with the Truckmen coming up with a display that carried them to the top during the first part of the season. The Postiers were stopped with 17 points, three behind the Truckmen, who nudge the Goodies foot one point in arrears. The Pries claim 14 points with the Memos having ten.

Tomorrow night the Memos stack up against the Petes in Memorial Arena and the result of the game will either tighten up the scramble at the bottom of the heap or give the Petes a six-point advantage over our side.

F ALL THINGS!

Just when the dew-worms and crocuses discovered that that loving sunlins wish on unexpected and green-growing effects at a time. Ice age was another false alarm, and that winter was here for its regular vacation, a couple of guys who knew try to rush the powder and ice back to the warmish weather with—of all things—talk of baseball.

Perhaps it is just as good a subject as any. It takes one's mind off the Christmas budget, the 47th. payment on the television set, possibilities of exchanging those wallpaper cravats that leering sunlins wish on unsuspecting males at this festive season, and whether one can still call the finance company for another month.

However, the baseball-minded buckaroos may have something at that. Interest in the game is not a bad item to plan for the coming things-to-come. Much better than May 24th.

Speaking with Frexy Jack Devine, of the defunct Central Ontario Baseball League, we learned some of the inside "dope" on the baseball conversation. It appears Master Devine would like to see a revival of the league that wound up on a disappointing note a couple of years ago. We'll go along with the joint idea of Devine and Master Perdue, of Peterborough, that the old loop format be resurrected and that includes Kingston, Peterborough, Oshawa and Belleville.

President Devine plans to call a meeting sometime in January with representatives of the aforementioned cities invited. He says he has heard from Oshawa officials and a lot of people there (including some business men who helped finance in a year's team) and would like to get into less expensive baseball "closer to home."

The scribe of Perdonville is of the opinion that Petes could get going again using a half dozen of their veterans, the pick of the ex-juniors and several of the Senior "B" hockey imports. (We thought they were allowed only four), who have also played senior ball. As Master Perdue puts it, "It is worth thinking over during the next several weeks."

Belleville could probably field several veterans, but would need battery assistance. A district pitching prospect has probably been lost to this city in the person of Keith Woese, who gets his winter mail in Centreville, north of Napanee. According to a Canadian Press dispatch of a few weeks ago, the Kingston Intermediate A representative of the Intercounty Baseball League, placed the young mound star on their negotiation list. Woese pulled the Lisowel intermediates up by their bootstraps last season and won the provincial championship for them.

A HOT RACE!

According to official statistics released over the week-end, Erwin Duncan of the Memos, took over top slot in the Senior "B" scoring race, displacing Don Murray of the Kingston Goodyears, who held the lead by a single point. The statistics do not include points compiled in the games played Saturday night between the Goodyears and Peterborough and the Tecumseh and Pontiacs.

Duncan has 13 goals and 17 assists for 29 points, with Murray and George MacGregor, erstwhile leaders, tied for second place with 28. Brother Ed Duncan, of the Memos, is in third place with 27 while Orillia's Bowen follows closely with 26 points. Only ten points separate Kenny Partis of the Goodyears and the leader.

Geoffrion; Murphy Take Over From 'Terrible Ivan', Rocket In Habs' 'Bloody' Loss to Blues

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There's nothing like the prospect of blood and thunder to send New York hockey fans flocking to Madison Square Garden.

Many of the 13,630 fans who bought up nearly every seat in the garden Sunday night were obviously lured by publicity heralding the return of the Rangers' Ivan (the Terrible) Irwin and quick-tempered Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens.

They didn't see much rough stuff from Ivan and Maurice. But they got plenty of blood from New York's Ron Murphy and Montreal's Bernie Geoffrion in a game that saw the Rangers beat Canadiens 3-1 and bounce the Montrealers out of first place in the National Hockey League.

Murphy, a 22-year-old leftwinger, and Geoffrion met with sticks high in the second period.

Both received match misconduct penalties and $100 fines. Murphy was taken to hospital and Geoffrion, furred jaw and other injuries and Geoffrion was nursing a cut on the right side of his head.

AWAIT NEXT CLASH

The fans were expecting Irwin and Richard to clash again. When the Rangers and Canadiens last met in New York, Nov. 29, Irwin, touted as the new Ching Johnson, drew a personal duel with the Rocket by dumping him hard on several occasions. Richard replying him to the ice with his knee.

Sunday night's Montreal - New York battle was the wildest of five games during the week-end. In the others, Detroit Rangers were beaten 3-2 by third-place Toronto Maple Leafs, while Boston and Canadiens defeated fourth-place Boston Bruins 7-3 and Sunday night, in a last-place Chicago Black Hawks whipped the Leafs 4-1 and the league-leading Detroit Red Wings edged Boston 4-2.

The fuss started at New York at 15:20 of the second period with some minor skirmishing. Murphy and Geoffrion mixed their sticks. After they were separated by linesman Dooley Davies, Geoffrion cracked Murphy across the face with his stick and Murphy fell.

Geoffrion and several other Montreal players swung their sticks at a fallen foe tried to get into the act. The game was delayed 15 minutes before the melee was broken up.

RANGER PUNCH

Wally Hergesheimer provided the scoring punch as Rangers won their ninth game in 32 starts. The 26-year-old rightwinger tallied the last two goals. Defenceman Harry Howell scored the other while Richard Leduc notched the lone Montreal goal.

At Toronto Saturday, young Camille Henry scored twice in the Rangers' losing performance. Tornado scorers were rightwinger Eric Nesterenko, centre Ted Kennedy and rightwinger Ron Stewart.

Canadiens, now two points behind the Red Wings, were led by Geoffrion's two goals Saturday as they racked up their 16th win in 31 home starts before 14,027 fans. That gave Geoffrion a total of 18 goals for the season.

Richard contributed a single to retain the goal-scoring leadership. Other Montreal goals were scored by defenceman Dollard St. Laurent, Calum MacKay, Paul Masnick and Bert Olmstead.

Milt Schmidt, veteran Bruin centre who moved over to left wing for the game, accounted for two Boston goals. Centre Cal Gardner got the other.

ROUGH GAME

That game was a bit rough, too. Johnny Peirson of the Bruins and Bert Olmstead of Canadiens came to blows in the third period and were given majors.

Third-period goals by rookie centre Earl Reibel, leftwinger Marty Pavelich and defenceman Red Kelly gave the Red Wings two and their 18th win in 32 outings.

Tony Leswick scored for Detroit in the first period, Jack Bionda and Gardner tallied early in the third period to give the Bruins a brief lead.

Veteran Bill Moolenko was the leading scorer for Chicago. He scored two goals and an assist as 5,038 fans sat in at Chicago Stadium. That raised his Hawks' scoring total to 501 points on 240 goals and 261 assists in 13 NHL seasons.

Pete Conacher counted Chicago's third goal in the second period. The Hawks' fourth tally came at 19:54 of the final period when Ike Coubura scored on George Gee's pass.

Stewart fired the Leafs lone goal in the first period.

No games are scheduled until Wednesday night, when the Red Wings travel to New York.

Sporting News Names All-Star Baseball Team

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Sporting News, a weekly sports newspaper, Saturday announced its 1953 major league all-star baseball team—a predominately National League squad that failed to behold a member of the world champion New York Yankees.

Members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, polled by the newspaper to select its 29th annual team, named eight National Leaguers to the 16-man squad which includes three pitchers.

Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox slugger, was made an honorary member in recognition of his play after return from 15 months as a marine pilot in Korea.

Players selected on the team: Mickey Vernon, Washington Senators, first baseman; Red Schoendienst, St. Louis Cardinals, second base; Al Rosen, Cleveland Indians, third baseman; Pee Wee Reese, Brooklyn Dodgers, shortstop; Stan Musial, Cardinals outfielder; Snider and Carl Furillo, Dodgers, outfielders; Roy Campanella, Dodgers, catcher; and Robin Roberts, Philadelphia Phillies, Warren Spahn, Milwaukee Braves and Bob Porterfield, Senators, pitchers.

Ranger Boss Blasts NHL Official, 'Handling of Game Was Outrageous'

NEW YORK (CP) — Another brawl involving Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion held the National Hockey League spotlight today following Saturday night's hectic New York-Montreal game which sent the Rangers' Ron Murphy to hospital.

Geoffrion, Canadiens' right winger, who was fined $250 for charging referee Frank Udari last Nov. 18, swapped sticks with Murphy in a wild second period and resulted in the latter suffering a fractured jaw bone and a concussion. Each received match penalties from referee Red Storey, which calls for an automatic $100 fine. The Rangers, with Wally Hergesheimer scoring twice, triumphed 3-1, while knocked Canadiens into second place behind Detroit.

"Storey's handling of the affair was outrageous," said president John Reed Kilpatrick, of Madison Square Garden, afterwards. "I'm going to protest his decisions to Clarence Campbell (NHL president)."

REFEREE SILENT

Storey declined to comment, except to say he would make his report in person to Campbell at Montreal.

The fight, which started with some minor scuffling in the Montreal zone between players of both clubs, suddenly erupted into a duel of sticks between Murphy and Geoffrion. The latter subsequently struck Murphy across the face, and the Ranger fell in a heap.

Boom Boom also received a gash on the right side of the head and New York defenceman Ivan Irwin came away with a cut requiring four stitches to close.

Dutchies Cling to Senior Loop Lead, Cataracts Win Two; 'Dogs' Drop Pair

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It has come to the point in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A group when a top-rung team can't even depend on beating the last-place Niagara Falls Cataracts —even with the advantage of home ice.

Windsor Bulldogs, idolized at home less once this season, suffered their second consecutive defeat in Windsor Sunday.

The Cataracts beat them 5-3 and it was the first time Niagara Falls had won two in a row.

The Bulldogs' defeat, coming on top of their 4-1 loss to the Marcurys in Owen Sound Saturday, prevented them from getting nearer to the first-place Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen. But the Dutchmen didn't make any progress either. Hamilton Tigers scored three third-period goals in Kitchener Saturday to defeat them 4-2.

Stratford Indians knocked over Chatham Maroons 6-3 in Stratford in the other Saturday game.

SUDBURY SPLITS

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds defeated Sudbury Wolves 5-0 and Pembroke Lumber Kings downed Sudbury Tigers 4-2 in Saturday games. Sudbury bounced back Sunday to drop Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians 5-1.

Elmer Skow and Jerry Reid notched two goals each for Owen Sound. Ross Forward and Doug Gillespie added the others. Gord Hamilton got Sudbury's lone shot-out.

Jack Taylor bagged three of Hamiltons four goals in the Tigers' win over the Dutchmen. Murray Comfort got the other one. Harry Prutka and Howie Lee fired the Kitchener goals—both in the first period.

Stratford, outshooting the Maroons 39-14, were in command all the way. Lou Bendo, Johnny Murdoch, Billy Carter, Pete Hastings and Mike Delich each had a hand in the Indians' scoring. Bob Palmer got a breakaway after stepping from the penalty box in the third period to score Chatham's only goal.

Red Olsen tallied the winning goal for Niagara Falls Sunday after the Bulldogs had come from behind a 2-1 deficit to tie the score in the third period.

Bill Young, Bill Hartsburg, Nick Dubick and Eric Unger scored singles for the Cataracts. Wally Pawlyshyn, Wally Kullman and Gary Gordon netted the Windsor goals.

Petes, Goodyears Play 5-5 Tie; Oshawa Wins

Peterborough Petes and Kingston Goodyears battled to a five-all overtime tie in a Senior O.H.A. hockey game in Kingston Saturday night. George MacGregor, Goodyear winger, broke over the group scoring lead with four goals, two unassisted. The game ended for-all in regular play with both teams scoring in overtime.

A Saturday night game in Oshawa Truckmen showed their old form, defeating the Orillia Terriers 5-3 for their first victory in their last seven starts.

Kingston which took over the group lead Friday night, now top the field with 31 points, one in front of Oshawa.

Minor Hockey

The 1953 half of the bantam hockey schedule came to an end on Saturday morning with a 3-1 win for the Canadians over the Rangers, a 4-0 shutout handed to the Red Wings by the undefeated Maple Leafs, and a high scoring victory for the Black Hawks over the Bruins with the final count 7-4.

Ron Keller was the marksman on the winning goal for the Canadians on a pass from Gerow after he had assisted on the first goal scored by Hull. Dave Coe took a swing at a loose puck after a shot by Kerzulin to score the lone Rangers marker.

Earle MacDonald picked up a couple goals in the Leaf victory, both in a matter of two minutes when Ralph Plane was sitting out a slashing penalty. The first goal, MacDonald took the puck away from the Wing defenseman and with in sit alone beat the goal tender on a shoulder-high shot to the left hand corner. The second goal he took a pass out from the corner from Bob Garrison and flipped an easy shot over the goalie at close range. Brennan and Rosepink were the other goal-getters with Boulter helping on one.

Gary Rowbotham had two goals, and two assists for the Hawks, Sprague had a pair of markers while James, Murphy and Vaughan got the others. Morris, Davidson and Culligan had assists also. Gord Pulley was great for the Bruins as he scored three goals and set up Moreau for the other.

There will be no more bantam or pee wee hockey played until January 3, 1954.

Aussie Pro To Help USA Tennis Stars

MELBOURNE (AP)—Australian professional Dinny Falls has been hired to help tune the American Davis Cup tennis team for the challenge round against Australia here next week.

Bill Talbert, captain of the United States contingent, said Falls will join the Americans Tuesday and work out twice a day with the team through Saturday.

The Americans will also have a chance to work out with Ted Schroeder, one of the members of the U.S. team two years ago. He is here on a writing and radio assignment for an Australian newspaper, and has offered his services.

The challenge round draw is scheduled for 11 a.m. Friday. Remarkable will be Dec. 28 through Dec. 30.

Sport in Brief

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball commissioner Ford Frick Saturday named a nine-man committee of major and minor league executives to review the basic structure of the game.

Frick said the time has come for us to make, a survey to see if we are on the proper ground," said Frick. "And if we are not, it is time to get on it."

The committee will discuss such problems as high bonus payments to untried youngsters and unreasonable concentration of player talent. It will try to give incentive to lower classification clubs to develop players and set up rules to permit the "reasonable" advancement of players as their abilities justify.

Three minor leaguers, four major leaguers and two farm executives were appointed by Frick to meet Jan. 7. The members were asked to come prepared for a two-day session.

Earl Mann of Atlanta, Frank Lawrence of Portsmouth, Va., and Eddie Mulligan of Sacramento will represent the minors. Preacher Thompson, Brooklyn vice-president and Johnny Murphy of Boston Red Sox are the farm club directors. Frank Lane of Chicago and George Weiss of New York are the American League members and Branch Rickey of Pittsburgh and Bob Carpenter of Philadelphia the National Leaguers.

PRESTWICK, Scotland (Reuters) A fish merchant flew from Montreal to Scotland to watch a soccer game Saturday. The 4,000-mile round trip cost him $400. "It was worth every penny, said Scotsborn Tom McLeod, 58.

McLeod has been a dyed-in-the-wool hockey fan for years in Montreal, but his heart always has been with Scotlands national game—soccer.

So he put on a tartan tie and flew to Scotland.

He arrived here a few hours before East Fife and Hearts—top Scottish League teams—were due to meet at Methil, his hometown.

A few hours after the game he rushed back to Prestwick and caught the plane home for Montreal before most people had read of the game in the evening newspapers.

Royals, Braves Victors Over Indians, Ottawa

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Royals and Valleyfield Braves made the biggest moves in the Quebec Hockey League during the week-end, the once unlar-dwelling Braves moving into a second-place tie with Montreal by licking top-place Ottawa Senators 5-2 and 6-2.

Royals tied Springfield Indians 5-5 in the United States and beat them 8-2 Sunday in Montreal to move into second place. The Saints edged Quebec Aces 5-4 Sunday.

In Valleyfield Sunday, Al Knott scored in the first and second periods for Ottawa but the Braves came through with three goals in each of the last two frames to win 5-2. Gordie Myles, Gord Haworth, Jean-Paul Bissillon, Bruce Cline, Jacques Deslauriers, and Jim Farrell were the Braves' sharp-shooters. Saturday at Ottawa, Andre Corriveau, Rollie Leclerc, and Bissillon counted for the Braves while rookie goalie Andy Payette ran up his first shut-out.

SHUTOUTS

In Sherbrooke, Gerry Ehman counted for Saints and Cabana for Aces in the first period before the Sherbrook Saints scored the winning, four-goal flurry in the second frame.

Ehman, Bob McLean, Earl Johnson and Moe Irving tallied before Quebec's Aces scored again. Roy Kelly and Larry Regan added two more for the Saints before the final frame.

Rick Wray and Bobby Frampton were the standouts in Montreal Sunday, scoring twice each. Lulu Delisle, Gerry Davis, Paul Meger and Sidney Burchell counted single Royal goals. Gord Perry scored for the Indians.

Saturday, Vogue, Ken Schinkel, Hal Tarala, Graham Hasting, Bus Gagnon and Doug McCurdy sank home markers each as the Indians lost an early lead, then came from behind to tie Royals 5-5. Royals' goals were scored by Orval Tessier, Frampton, Davis, Meger, Burchell, Ernie Roche.

MARMORA

Trent Valley Hockey Results

MARMORA—Two fast and evenly fought games of hockey were played in Marmora Arena and Marmora arena on Friday evening when Campbellford accounted for Stirling and Wellington subdued Havelock by the same score namely 5-4.

In the first game Eady was in fine form for Campbellford scoring two of his team's goals. Cole, Simpson and Payne were other scorers, with Cole assisting Simpson on his tally. Kane got a pair for Hastings as well as an assist on Eakins' goal. Bastino was the other scorer for the losers. There were eight penalties in the game.

The fast-stepping Wellington team found Havelock stiff opposition and had to play six minutes overtime to secure the victory. Twice Havelock led 1-0 after being a goal in arrears. Scott played a stellar game for the winners getting four goals. Two on assists from Graham and the other two on assists from Hurst and Garrison. Hatfield registered on an assist from Graham.

Havelock's scorers were A. Floyd, D. Floyd, Dooley and Dorie the latter having an assist from Goodyear, Bastino and Simpson respectively.

Suspended are the Moose midgets and coach Ken Neeb and the Lions midgets and coach Lou Desmarais.

"These kids must have been reading the Toronto papers," said district convenor W. J. McTaggart, apparently referring to the recent National Hockey League game between Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs when a record 37 penalties were handed out.

Richmond After Municipal Field

RICHMOND, Ma. (AP)—Municipally owned Parker Field is the only feasible playing site for the integrated Negro baseball team Richmond hopes to have next year Mayor Bill Godfrey said, a syndicate of local business men decided Saturday.

Backing away from a previously announced intention to build a new ball park from the ground up, the mayor and the syndicate of some 20 others said they could find no other site nearly as suitable as the field while now us used for high school games.

Enlargement of the field to make it big enough for International League crowds will present "no problem," Riddick said. The big if is whether Richmond's nine-man city council can be persuaded to lease the field and its stands to Harry C. Seibold, who would operate an IL team here, and the syndicate.

Seibold, who was granted a tentative franchise in the international last Thursday, must find a suitable park by mid-March, or the franchise will revert to Eddie Mooers, owner of the city's previous entry in the class B Piedmont League.

Tri-Bells Win Over Cataracts

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Northtown Tri-Bells overcame the handicap of 39 personal fouls caused by overexcited fans and defeated Niagara Falls Jolleys 80-66 in an International Triple A Basketball game Saturday night.

Two Toronto players and one of the Niagara Falls were ejected when they tied 11 up after being a pair in arrears. Scott played a stellar game for the winners getting four goals. Two on assists from Graham and the other two on assists from Hurst and Garrison. Hatfield registered on an assist from Graham.

Havelock's scorers were A. Floyd, D. Floyd, Dooley and Dorie the latter having an assist from Goodyear, Bastino and Simpson respectively.

TwoMidget Teams And Coaches Draw Suspensions

NORANDA, Que. (CP) — The Northern Ontario Hockey Association announced Saturday night that two midget teams and both coaches have received indefinite suspensions following a brawl and gang-fight that broke out Friday night between the two outfits in the last 30 seconds of a game in the Rouyn-Noranda Minor Hockey League.

Suspended are the Moose midgets and coach Ken Neeb and the Lions midgets and coach Lou Desmarais.

Fighting broke out in the last minute of play between Dave Keon and Paul Lapointe which developed into a stick swinging duel. Both teams jumped to the ice and engaged in a free for all that lasted more than 20 minutes.

"These kids must have been reading the Toronto papers," said district convenor W. J. McTaggart, apparently referring to the recent National Hockey League game between Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs when a record 37 penalties were handed out.

Junior A Race Is Closest in Years, Hawks Nip Irish' 9-Game Win String

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series is shaping up to one of the closest races in years. Most of the teams are nearing the halfway mark in the schedule, yet only 11 points separate the top six clubs in the eight-team loop. The others aren't far behind.

However, plenty of fans are giving Toronto St. Michael's College Majors a good chance of taking the league title.

The Majors, who had a nine-game winning streak broken when they were defeated 6-4 by the Black Hawks in Galt Saturday, returned to form in Toronto Sunday to trounce St. Catharines TeePees 9-4. The victory gave the Collegians undisputed possession of first place—two points in front of the TeePees.

In the other half of the Sunday doubleheader Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts tied Toronto Marlboros 2-2 to remain a point behind the third-place Dukes. Marlboros are four points behind St. Michael's.

KNOX SPARKLES

Paul Knox was the sparkplug for St. Michael's during the week-end. His scored two goals and added an assist during the Irish loss to the Hawks and fired three more markers against the TeePees Sunday. John Slesser and Ron Halstead scored two each in the Galt. Neil McDonald and Bob Wilson rounded out the total for the Hawks.

Jack Caffery scored St. Michael's other goal.

Knox's three-goal effort was matched by Bery Dick Duff against St. Catharines Sunday. Duff counted once in the first period and then scored two more within 34 seconds in the third to quash a TeePee comeback. Jim Logan notched the winner.

Les Duff and Ken Gribbons scored the other goals for St. Michael's. Brian Cullen, Ernie Vasin, Hank Cleala and Barry Cullen tallied for St. Catharines.

Defenceman Berie Kilak gave Kitchener the tie when he scored midway through the third period. Gary Collins scored the other Kitchener goal. Gerry James and Wally Maxwell notched the Marlboro goals.

Hamilton Tigers are at Galt and the last-place Guelph Biltmores play in Kitchener Tuesday.

Langlois Draws With Basilio

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (CP) — Pierre Langlois of France and Carmen Basilio of Canastota, N.Y., fought to a ten-round-10-round draw in a nationally televised boxing bout Saturday night.

Basilio absorbed most of the heavy punishment but won the weathering them. Langlois suffered a cut eye in the seventh round and then opened a cut over Basilio's eye in the ninth. Both fighters were bleeding from the nose at the end.

Judge Ted Shields scored the fight 5-4-1 in favor of Langlois; judge Jack Kimball had it 4-4-3 and even on points and Referee Artie Goldstein had it 5-4-1 for Basilio.

Langlois weighed 133½, Basilio 146.

Barons, Bisons Maintain Pace In American Loop

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cleveland Barons drew within one point of the league-leading Buffalo Bisons Saturday night in the American Hockey League but a Buffalo victory Sunday restored Bisons' lead to three points.

Buffalo edged out Syracuse Warriors 4-3 Sunday while the Barons were idle. In the only other Sunday game Providence Reds beat third-place Hershey Bears 3-2.

At Buffalo, Pete Babando scored twice for the Bisons. Don Marshall and Gord Pennell were the other Buffalo marksmen. Two goals by Harry Pidhirny and a singleton by Barney Boutin accounted for the Warriors' scoring.

Bert Hirschfeld scored two goals at Providence to pace the Reds. Other Providence scorers were Ken Davis, Pat Egan and Al Baccari while Odie O'Brien, Dunc Fisher and Les Costello counted for the losers.

Saturday night scores were: Cleveland 3, Syracuse 2; Providence 3, Pittsburgh 1; Hershey 5, Buffalo 3.

how Morenz could score!

TOMMY SHIELDS—Played amateur and professional ice hockey and lacrosse. Member of Cobourg Rowboat Club for many years. Sports editor of Ottawa Citizen.

"It was a National Hockey League game played in Ottawa during the 1929-30 season, when Montreal Canadiens and Ottawa Senators were locked in a two-all tie at full time. In the sudden-death overtime period, the great Howie Morenz circled his own net, streaked up right wing, crossed over as he neared the Ottawa defence and scored with a blazing twenty-foot shot without having an opposition stick laid on him. It was a typical 'Morenz Special'."

3 Level Crossing Crashes Take Seven Lives

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Seven persons died in three level-crossing crashes in scattered Canada during the last week-end before Christmas.

Worst of the smashups was at St.-Jean Port Joli, Que., where police said a taxi plowed broadside into a moving freight train at a crossing in the village early Sunday, killing five young men and leaving two others in serious condition in hospital.

Level-crossing mishaps near Toronto and at Grassby, Que., each took one life.

A Canadian Press compilation today listed 16 fatalities—one in Quebec, four in Ontario and two in New Brunswick—and one in Nova Scotia.

There were 11 traffic deaths, two in a fire and two drownings.

Killed in the St.-Jean Port Joli crash were taxi driver Raymond Chalmard, 24, and his brother, Lionel, 21, of Morrisset, 24, and Jean-guy Belanger, 18, all of that community, and Jean-Guy Caron, 18, of Trois Saumons. Injured were Roger Caron, 18, brother of Jean-Guy Caron, and Jean Desmarais, 24, both of St. Jean.

CHILD KILLED

The level-crossing accident in the Toronto suburb of Scarboro's eastend killed Paul Derry, 3, and seriously injured his father, Constable Norman Derry, 32, of Leaside, another suburb, and his sister, Diane, 5. Their mother was cut and bruised.

Angus Hall, 36, of Cardinal, was killed and Thomas Philmore, 42, and William Colligan, 34, injured when the car in which they were riding left the road and crashed into a tree near Morrisburg.

A similar accident at Whitby killed Harold F. Jenkins, 38, Oshawa theatre projectionist.

Hit by a near Toronto, Ruth Eleanor Nutting, 31, was killed and her mother, Mrs. Ethel Nutting, injured.

Falling through thin ice led to the drowning of James Dugan, 13, at Hastings.

Customs Official Said Offered $15,000 Bribe

MANILA (AP)—A Filipino customs official testified today that he was offered a $15,000 bribe by William Ernest Jolliffe, 37, Chinchen Canadian on trial in Manila to attempt to smuggle gold bullion out of the Philippines.

Eliezer Jamisola, a deputy customs collector, took the stand at the opening of Jolliffe's trial. The former assistant Canadian government trade commissioner in Shanghai pleaded not guilty at his arraignment last Friday.

He was arrested Dec. 7 as he was about to board a plane for Hong Kong. Police said at that time they seized 22 gold bars valued at about $17,500 which were strapped around his waist.

Manilan told the court Jolliffe offered the bribe to "forget and patch up the matter."

280 LEFT HOMELESS

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—A fire which destroyed four buildings in Santiago Saturday night left 280 persons homeless. Twelve were injured including five children.

Family of Five Living in House Where Five Slain

LONDON (Reuters)—A family of five has moved into the six-room house in Notting Hill Gate where John Christie murdered five women and hacked their bodies under the floor and behind closet wallboards there. Two babies were born since March.

Now happily settling into the former home are George Lawrence, 29; his blonde wife, Rita; their daughter, Barbara, and two of her cousins aged seven and eight.

U.S. Novelist, British Savant Get Red Prizes

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda announced today the award of 10 international Stalin Peace Prizes including one to American novelist Howard Fast.

The announcement came on the 74th anniversary of the birthday of Stalin who established the award in 1950.

An editorial in the official Communist newspaper lauded this year's recipients as "outstanding fighters for peace." The pictures of all 10 including Fast, French parliamentarian Pierre Cot and Professor John Bernal of the University of London appeared on Pravda's front page.

Bernal was described as "a famous progressive scientist who wants the achievements of science to serve human progress and peace." He has criticized the British government for spending vast sums on scientific weapons he said would be turned against the Soviet Union.

Cot was called "a patriot serving France."

Another recipient described as Andrea Caggero, an Italian priest, who was defrocked last May for his Communist activities, was hailed as "a selfless and active defender of the interests of the simple people of Italy." He allegedly defied a Vatican ban to attend a Warsaw conference of the Partisans of Peace and "is now suffering persecution for it," Pravda said.

Shah Makes Plea Court Show Mercy To Mossadegh

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi Sunday threw his royal influence into the scales for mercy for former premier Mossadegh as the court martial trying the former dictator prepared ready to hand down a verdict.

In a letter to the court chairman, the monarch said the court before reaching a verdict should take into account Mossadegh's early services to the country.

The letter, which has been trying Mossadegh for 35 days on charges of treason in connection with his attempt last August to stay in power despite a royal decree dismissing him, is expected to hand down its decision today or Tuesday.

An authoritative source said the Shah's letter was not intended as an interference with the court, but indicated he will step in if the court finds the aged politician guilty and Mossadegh fails to appeal the sentence.

"The intention was to indicate that the Shah had forgiven Mossadegh for things he has said against the sovereign," said the informant.

The aged and ailing former dictator closed his own court Saturday night with a tearful plea that Iran stay as neutral as possible in the East-West struggle and develop an economy independent of oil and the "inevitable" big-nation exploitation."

Mossadegh is accused of treason for attempting to overthrow the Shah and illegally dissolving parliament.

Widow Faces CCF Candidate In By-Election

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)—Mrs. John Lyle Robinson attempted in a by-election today to fill the Alberta legislature's Medicine Hat seat, vacated by the death of her husband. Her only opponent was CCF candidate Edwin W. Horne, defeated by her husband in the 1944 provincial general election.

A singular decision of the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties to decline contest of the election produced more pre-election activity than the usually quiet campaigns for the two candidates.

Dr. Robinson, before his Oct. 29 heart attack, had represented the southern Alberta constituency for Social Credit. He came to power in Alberta in 1935, the strongest opposition during his term, during which he became labor minister, was from Liberals and independents.

The two opposition parties pledged to by-pass the fight in the by-election and named as Social Credit candidate.

The CCF campaign hinged on compulsory automobile insurance, driver-testing programs and advocated hospital insurance at cost. Alberta CCF leader Ernest Roger Gosling said he was contested because it would be "a better thing for the province if the government did not hold such preponderant power."

Standing in the 61-seat legislature: Social Credit 51, Liberals 4, CCF 2, Progressive Conservatives 2, Independent Social Credit 1, vacant 1.

Uranium Boom Is Producing 'Uraniumaires'

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Uranium industry Association says people in its business are raking in money so fast the stodgy old word, millionaire, doesn't quite fit any more.

The uranium boom, it says, is producing uraniumaires.

The association gives the case of Charlie Steen, a Dallas prospector so poor he couldn't afford a good geiger counter. Yet he kept backing away until he hit a $60,000,000 jackpot—and then promptly hit another worth twice that.

"Charlie Steen is not alone," the association says. "Others have graduated from hamburgers to sirloin—their wives from kitchen sink to ranch mink and their children from a paper route to a Cadillac gradebeck."

Before anyone could say, "Multiuraniumaire," one prospector had grabbed his prospector's lamp, jumped into a fast gadabout and was off for a talk with the association's president, Maurice B. Mumford.

Mumford is no uraniumaire.

"Prospects all over the place," he said moodily, "and all I ever found was automobiles." The Atomic Energy Commission lists as a tertiary ore, I disagree with him, of course, but that's another story.

ODDS GREAT

"Yes, there are an awful lot of heartbreaks in the business."

But there's the other side, too. Mumford guesses some 500 uranium mines have been produced. He figures another 500 have come up with somewhat useful stakes. Next there are 11,000 claimholders and 30,000 prospectors.

But before buying your own geiger counter and setting out for the Colorado hills, where 90 per cent of U.S. uranium has been found, a couple of cautions.

"The geiger counter isn't very good," Mumford said. "It catches only 20 per cent of the rays and only one per cent of the gamma rays. What you need is a scintillation type equipment."

Which costs money.

"If you came to me and said, 'Mumford, I have a thousand dollars, I've got certain stuff and prospecting,' I'd turn you down because the odds are 500 to 1 against you. But if you had $50,000, so you could get all the best equipment, I'd say you had a pretty fair chance of cashing in."

BOUNTY PUT ON 'CATS'

DURHAM (CP)—Clenelg town ship council Thursday night put a $25 bounty on wildcats. Council hopes to get only one—an animal that has carried off several sheep and eaten a calf recently. It rallied again after unloading.

AT THE BELLE—Sally Forrest, as Gilmet as she is beautiful, is one of Hollywood's most promising young stars. Miss Forrest will make her second appearance on the screen in M-G-M's "Cruisin' Down The River" (Eva Gabor, Dorothy Malone, Barbara Hale and Billy Gray) which opens at the Belle Theatre on Wednesday, December 23rd.

The bidding cards are ample for exchanging information about hands. What they do not say often can be said by signals that are stuck in at the right time in the right way.

A player has easy ways of saying he has nothing more. Partner can find ways of insisting that they probe for a slam. All of which becomes a part of a system of bidding.

There was this pair of partnership hands:

SOUTH
♠8 6 4 2
♥A 3
♦6 4 3
♣A J 10 9

The bidding goes like this:

South	North
1 C	1 D
1 NT	3 C
3 NT	4 C
4 NT	5 D
6 C	Pass

Lacking two sure tricks, north delays his jump until the next (second) round. Meantime South's takeout to a new suit is forcing for one round. This assures the bidding will get back to him.

Being forced to keep the bidding alive by the north takeout, the south's first no-trump bid merely denied anything more in his own hand. His second no-trump bid made the same denial. What could north mean by his four club bid? It must be a bid that asks south to investigate a slam if he has enough aces for it. Four clubs is a bid following the jump could mean only this.

The three no-trump bid by south was a game contract that north could have passed. But it was only four no-trump contract, north could have bid five clubs. So, four clubs signaled for the slam probe.

Four no-trump is aces and kings asked for. Five hearts in reply shows one ace and one king. But what if opponents interfere?

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This story might be entitled "Hits and Misses below the Yokin' or, "They Pulled a Wango in the Congo."

It concerns George Michaels, a rowdy, fun-loving native son of South Africa, whose forebears hailed from Lebanon. This chap is actually a white hunter, and he has a merry way of talking about the beasts pulled by Hollywood epics about Africa.

"For instance," he said, "in 'Mogambo' Clark Gable shoots a black leopard and a few cats.

"In 'Hatari' Red Buttons kills a black leopards in Africa! . . . .

"The picture also shows . . . a cheetah walking quietly through Ava Gardner's tent at night. That would never happen. At the slightest sound, the cheetah would be racing away."

NOT THAT FANCY

"I have been watching some of the African shows on TV, too. The other night I saw a chapter of 'Ramar of the Jungle' in which Ramar battle between a tiger and a water buffalo. Neither is found in Africa."

Another thing Michaels finds lacking is the elaborate safaris in most African films.

"They usually show dozens of native bearers, a vast number of tents with mosquito netting and natives in white jackets to serve dinner," he observed. "I have been taking hunters on safari for 15 years and I never see anything as fancy as that. Once I took out a couple of people from Hollywood and they were terribly disappointed because we took along only the essentials. They expected a big production.

Michaels are also amused by the portrayals of the colored people in African films. They are often mixed up, with one kind of people shown as living in a typical village and another tribe used. And they are generally shown all decked out in feathers and other attire. That is only for ceremonies. The rest of the time they wear only a loin cloth.

NOT HOSTILE

"Many pictures show the colored people as fierce and menacing. Nonsense! There are no hostile natives, except in the remote and inaccessible areas of Africa. Even those natives have been taught that we are curious about them. They'll gather around you in the street, but soon spread as you.

"Another common scene shows the animals charging the hunters. African animals are so wary of humans that they will run from all the sound. Only those who are maddened by disease or the weak weapons of natives would charge."

Michaels has made a lucrative business of combining hunting and movie-making. He long acted as a guide for Darryl F. Zanuck in Victoria. Now he has made a full-length picture of his own, "Hatari" which Allied Artists will release early next year. It, too, can bet that it will be authentic.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, DEC. 22, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — The difference in results now will depend on how you plan, for the whole possibilities. Success usually follows a careful formula, but comes unexpectedly at times. Gain through intelligent consistency.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Step out and do things; make some mistakes if you must, but find out what makes things click, what makes success, failure. You will be better informed than those who wait or are over-conservative.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Today's rays are generous in outlook. Forge ahead to earn your share; it's there for you. Romance, family, personal affairs have high rating now.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Some unfriendly aspects. Especially aim to avoid that which borders on the risky or uncertain. However there must be action to expect results; so have faith, make your start and trust in God.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — A slightly static outlook. Those of you who study, plan and deserve, can advance. You who are easily led, or drift, look out for things that can happen that you won't like. Help yourself, be responsible.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Mixed vibrations for most endeavors. You will have to take and make the best of it. Remember my advice: "Stars may tell but do not compel." Take certain chances, sensibly.

September 24 to October 22 (Libra)—God gave each one of us a free will, but how we use it is our own responsibility. Scrutinize self as well as others, and don't rush. Better to be slow but sure.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Steer clear of the "clock" schemes and don't give up without really hard and sufficient effort. Reward always worth it.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—A fairly good outlook for well-handled and well-planned programs, business, trading, banking. Sound investments could bring returns eventually. Avoid speculative ventures.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—First things today; seek to learn, analyze and reilluminate all situations. Remain in your own environment. You can make more progress there than far afield.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—A "faint heart" will not accomplish much today. It will take masterful hands and sterling efforts to match some of the exacting, exciting conditions facing us. You can win if you will.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—You may have to hustle harder than usual, time for correction, but reward will be well worth while. Most day's demands frantic, keep pace with events and don't take first rejections as final.

YOU BORN TODAY are jovial, friendly, self-confident, interesting characters. You have philosophical and dramatic temperaments; are steadfast, hold friends through your magnetism, though you may have a tendency to brusqueness, blunt speech. Curb these traits carefully; they can drive away those you really want to like you. You're inherently loyal, and detest dishonesty, bickering. Seek higher education, follow your religion always.

Eleven Escape Fire

TILLSONBURG (CP)— Chester Imason and his 10 children escaped a fire that destroyed their farm home near here early Sunday by racing 30 feet through burning rooms in their bare feet.

Mr. Imason, awakened by the noise of the fire, roused the children and led them through the burning downstairs rooms to stand in the snow outside. Their clothing was scorched.

Mrs. Imason and a daughter were away visiting relatives at the time.

Value of the loss was estimated at more than $7,000 and included Christmas presents that the children had put under a Christmas tree Saturday night.

SENTENCES SUSPENDED

SUDBURY (CP)—Three youths who stole more than $900 worth of merchandise from a drug store here were given two years' suspended sentence Friday. Douglas Fleming, 23, of Timiskaming, Bobby Reed, 21, of North Bay, and Gilbert Rockbrush, 19, of North Bay, pleaded guilty.

British Business Takes Licking In World Markets

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

LONDON (AP)—British business men are taking a licking in a fierce scramble for world markets. And the slowdown in the country's crucial export drive is seriously threatening government.

New orders are not coming in fast enough to insure that trade ledgers will stay out of the red next year.

American, German and Japanese exporters are outpacing the British.

If the trend continues it could unhinge the British economy.

British fears all its exports. Foreign sales pay for 40 per cent of what Britons eat. Much of that must be imported. Exports pay for the imported materials without which industry would grind to a halt.

Today British industry is humming. But too much of the record output is going to meet the booming demand in Britain itself. This homefront spending spree is diverting industry's attention from exports and inflating their prices.

KEEN COMPETITION

Britain's efforts are doing fairly well in North America. But they are getting beaten elsewhere, especially in Latin America and the Middle East.

British exporters today are faced with foreign competition to the extent unknown for the past 14 years" says the Federation of British Industries.

Some British export industries, such as aircraft, electronics, steel, are not shown themselves to be highly adaptable and competitive.

But on the whole, British exporters don't appear to be hustling as hard as their competitors.

Sales terms vary in each industry and market. But generally, complaints against British industry are: High prices, uncertain deliveries, reluctance to take credit risks, failing it harder to collect from difficult customers abroad and slower paying buyers at home.

REPLICA IN HEAVIER FIGURE — A plane, copied from Louis Bleriot's famous aircraft, which in 1909 was the first to fly across the English Channel, soars above Calgary airport at 45 miles an hour. Pilot Franz McTavish cruises at 400 feet in the glass bubble in the nacelle. Instructor S. N. Green and his students at Calgary's Provincial Institute of Technology and Art. It weighs 854 pounds and can stay aloft 45 minutes at speeds of 38 to 45 miles an hour. (CP Photo.)

Calgary Technology Students Build Model of Bleriot Plane

CALGARY (CP)—In 1909 Louis Bleriot, famous French airman, made history by flying across the English channel. His 600-pound monoplane made the 31-mile trip in 37 minutes.

Late in November a model along the lines of the Frenchman's light plane, built by students at the Provincial Institute of Technology and Art, circled Calgary airport for 25 minutes in a test flight.

Weighing 524 pounds, the fragile craft carries enough fuel to keep it aloft 45 minutes with a cruising range from 38 to 45 miles an hour.

The Calgary plane is the brain child of S. N. Green, engineer in charge of aeronautics at the institute, and of Franz McTavish, commercial pilot, and owner of Cook Flying Service here, who supplied the materials.

WIDE SEARCH

Once Mr. Green decided to go ahead with the project, it took two years to acquire sufficient information to complete it. A manual in second-hand bookstore in Charlottetown, Mass., finally provided actual plans of the pioneer plane.

Work began in November, 1952. The builders were aided by pictures and other information supplied by L. A. Jackson of Biggleswade, England, owner of the only Bleriot in existence other than the original which now is in a Paris museum.

When the plane was completed early in November, some 20 students at the institute had had a hand in its construction. Only the 40-horsepower engine, the nuts and bolts and the assembly and the propeller were not hand-made. The original had a 22-horsepower engine.

The test flights were made by Mr. McTavish, veteran of 7,000 flying hours who had no previous experience with so puny a plane. He began flying in 1927 at London, Ont., served six years with the RCAF and then came to Calgary in 1945.

WOODEN FUSELAGE

Glossy-finished hickory, sitka spruce and ash make up the main body of the plane. It has wooden wheels, each measuring 26-inch diameter and being 2½ inches across while the rear wheel is 6 by 2.

Mr. Green's initiation into aircraft building came in the 1930's at the RCAF's old forestry patrol station at Ya Ha Tinda in southern Alberta. There he helped build now obsolete DHSs.

"But the idea of building the Bleriot years ago," he said, "now has become a hobby his own pilot's licence and hopes to reconstruct another of the old-time planes, an early bi-plane.

Little Benny's Note Book

I walked downtown with Pods Simkins to see the Christmas stuff in the department stores, and we were walking around trying different things and making them work till somebody told us to stop touching them.

Which we did trying. something else instead, and Pods said, How's bout we all have kids still so innocent.

Meaning a long line of little kids all waiting to talk to a dressed up Santa Claws and tell him what to bring them, and I said, Oh boy, I remember the time when I was young enough to do that.

Me too, my mother used to take me downtown special, just so I could get in line and say what I wanted for Christmas, and Pods said, I used to be excited, Pods said, and I said, Me too, it didn't matter how many times I saw the old shape Santa Clawses I saw I believed in all of them, on Boy those days are gone forever, I said.

Let's go over and watch them a while, Pods said.

Which we did, going over where the Santa Claws was and standing there feeling sorry for our olden times while the little kids told him all the things they wanted and he kept saying Ho Ho Ho and Hers at them, meaning okay, and I said to Pods I bet you I can get the tun of asking without the disappointed look.

And we kept on going, both feeling better instead of worse.

Proposed Span May Be Moved To New Site

OGDENSBURG, N.Y. (AP)—The Canadian government has notified the Ogdensburg bridge authority here that plans for a proposed span across the St. Lawrence river must be changed, moving the bridge to a new site.

Bridge authority members said the Canadian order will delay the construction project a year.

The authority said Lionel Chevrier, Canadian transport minister, had informed them that the bridge must be moved to a Canadian terminus outside of Prescott, Ont., because of strenuous objections from residents of that community.

The joint New York state-Canadian authority had planned to erect the span between the city and Prescott. Test borings have been completed.

Chevrier was quoted as saying that Prescott residents had received the bridge plan but changed their attitude after they learned that approaches would have to be extended an extra block into the village.

At Ottawa, transport department officials said a letter has been sent by the minister suggesting the bridge construction be undertaken by a committee by Prescott residents.

Officials said that in his letter, Chevrier pointed out that the bridge plans had to be approved by the Canadian government, indicating that approval might not be granted if the protest went unheeded.

Says Russia Sends Aid to Ceylon Reds

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—Prime Minister Sir John Kotelawala said Russia has sent money through Switzerland to Ceylon Communist party, and "I've ordered the bank to stop payment until we find out more about it."

Kotelawala, addressing a meeting Wednesday in the south Ceylon town of Kalutara, said he wasn't sure of the amount of the alleged payment, but it was either 7,000 rupees ($1,470) or 47,000 ($19,600).

Communist party secretary S. A. Wickremasinghe, challenged the government to prove his party had received money from Russia or from any other country. He called the charge a "poor attempt to prove the Communist party is an imported thing."

O.K. for Americans to Smash Atoms But Not English Language Is View

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON (AP)—The scholars of these erudite isles are provided with the authors of the United States Atomic Energy Act.

A general view seems to be that it's all right for the Americans to smash atoms, but there's doubt whether it's permissible for them to smash the English language.

Discussion was started by a scholar who asked in a letter to The Times late last week:

"Is the new word of the scientists, 'fissionable,' admissionable?"

Research thus far has established that the first use of "fissionable" in a conspicuous official document was by writers of the American Atomic Energy Act of 1946.

Edmund Dews of Jesus College, Oxford, in a letter to the Times today said that the whole situation is lamentable because the atomic energy agencies already "have so much to answer for."

Britain also has an Atomic Energy Act of 1946. But British legislative draftsmen, but changed their attitude after they learned that opposites would have to be extended an extra block into the village.

"It is unacceptable that "fissionable" is objectionable to the impressionable. But to the knowledgeable it is unexceptionable."

Another writer said:

"Fissionable is fashionable, and therefore reasonably admissible. Fissible is risible."

Getting to the heart of matters Dews commented:

"The real problem is the terminology of fissibility or fluidness: is to distinguish between materials with natural or artificial nuclear radio activity? Should the former might be called 'fissive,'"

Three Terrorize 15-Year-Old Girl Ransack House

HAMILTON (CP) — Suburban east Flamboro township police said three men Sunday night terrorized a 15-year-old girl and ransacked the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bojeckko.

They said three men called at the Bojeckko home early in the evening to ask for gasoline. A daughter, Annie, who opened the door, said she was alone and they should have to go to a neighbor for gasoline.

About 10 minutes later two masked men entered the house by the front door and a third by a rear door. The girl screamed and one of them took her out to the barn in the house, while the others ransacked the house. A few minutes later, the girl was brought into the house and left tied hand-and-foot on the chesterfield.

She was able to release herself shortly before her parents arrived home. She was unharmed, the thieves stole only a few dollars.

South Korean Denies Luxury Hotel Planned

SEOUL (AP) — South Korea's prime minister today denied the accusation of a United States congressman that his government is spending 42,000,000 on a luxury hotel while 25,000 are homeless in Pusan.

Prime Minister Paik Too Chin said plans are being drafted to repair the Bando Hotel at a cost of about $90,000, but not to erect a new structure. The Bando is one of two Western-type hotels built here by the Japanese.

Average Male Getting Conscious Of Own Beauty

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—The average male in the United States is getting as conscious of his own beauty as he's affecting the natural economy.

The American male waistline has shrunk by from two to four inches in the last few years, according to clothing manufacturers who have revised their standard sizes for men's suits. F. Eugene Ackerman, executive of one of the largest woollen companies, says: "There's no doubt that today's men are figure-conscious. This is due to several factors, such as the repeated warnings of life insurance companies, and the insistence of large corporations that their executives submit to regular medical check-ups."

The once standard sizes 42 to 52 in men's suits are finding fewer and fewer customers these days, and in many instances are relegated to shops specializing in outsizes.

In addition, men are buying more cosmetics. Jacqueline Cochran, the well-known aviatrix and cosmetician, bought a men's cosmetics company after she discovered that men buy 38 per cent of all bottled toiletries.

SALES TREBLED

Men's beauty salons are booming, with a brisk trade in permanent waves, hair dye and toupees among business men, who have decided it's good business to look young.

Sales of men's clothing has trebled in recent years, due to the capitulation of the once-conservative male to such things as fancy vests, sports coats and specialized clothing for leisure wear.

The new male beauty-consciousness delights not only clothing manufacturers and cosmetics makers, but the life insurance companies, who see an upcurve in the lifeline for every reduction in the waistline.

The only fly in all this ointment is that if the boys keep getting handsomer, it's going to take a lot of hard work and dieting for the gals to keep up with them.

Dolls and Trains Preferred By Canada's Young Consumers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If children's choice of toys were indicative of Canada's future, it would be a country of engineers and mothers.

The Canadian Press survey shows that this Christmas from the Maritimes to B. C., boys want electric trains and girls want dolls.

The $40,000,000 worth of toys, gadgets and gimmicks that Canadian manufacturers turned out in 1963 proves they like other things, too. But trains and dolls come first.

Toronto, Edmonton and Calgary were the only centres reporting large demands for space-travel gear. In Montreal toy rocket ships, space suits and the like were moving slowly. Children in Regina, Quebec City and Saint John, N. B., showed little inclination to visit the planets.

Vancouver youngsters were staying in the saddle with cowboy guns and holsters selling "way ahead" of space toys.

GOOD DOLLS SELL WELL

The popular price for a "good doll" was $5, but West and East reported high-priced dolls selling faster than last year.

One Vancouver store declared it "the biggest year ever for high-priced dolls" and expected a sell-out on those priced at $25 to $49. In Toronto prices ranged from a few cents to $20 for huge imported Italian dolls.

Popular were walking dolls and those with certain features that all but the most devoted mother would find a bit of a nuisance—such as tears and hair to be curled.

There was nation-wide concern over inroads made by imported toys.

PROTEST JAP IMPORTS

W. J. Cannon of Canadian Playthings Manufacturers, Inc., Toronto, said: "The Japanese, especially, have been dumping merchandise on the Canadian market. We plan a formal protest to the federal government."

Mr. Cannon said he cannot obtain import figures from Ottawa concerning foreign toys.

A Calgary store said prices were down on some types of toys because of imports from Britain, Germany and Japan. A toyland spokesman in Vancouver said Japanese toys were "expertly made compared with cheap pre-war items."

Better plastic items were lauded by salesmen in many areas. The new plastics have more stamina to withstand Junior's onslaughts.

Toy soldiers have lost popularity but Toronto, Edmonton and Calgary reported lead regiments available.

"HERO" CLIMBS WALLS

A new type of toy bird with a wheel of suction cups on its underside is on the market for the first time in Canada. The bird climbs up walls and ceilings—if they are coated with a non-porous material.

Scrabble, a combination of crossword puzzle and anagram, is enjoying a vogue. Hobby toys and educational toys were also in demand.

In retail sales of any toys, domestic or foreign, Toronto ranks first with "a healthy lead over Montreal" but volume figures were not available.

'This Is Hopeful' Dulles' Comment On Moscow's Note

Russia Is Ready to Talk About U.S. Atomic Pool Plan

By JOHN SCALI

WASHINGTON (AP). — Diplomatic officials today said the United States will move cautiously in meeting Russia's professed readiness to talk about the Eisenhower proposal for a pool of atomic materials for peace.

State Secretary Dulles who said Monday of Moscow's reply, "this is hopeful," was cautiously further in a foreign policy speech today before a National Press Club luncheon.

President Eisenhower, who broached the peaceful atomic pool plan in a United Nations speech Dec. 8 had no comment on Russia's reply.

But the president had opportunity to discuss it with some of his top foreign policy, military and atomic advisers at a White House conference. The conference was scheduled before Moscow made public its note Monday.

In Washington, the consensus was hopeful but cautious. Some legislators who commented said the Kremlin's reply was word-engaging, but that the U.S. should move with great care.

Dulles struck the shadowed in a formal statement Monday a move by the U.S. to "explore" the "necessary explanation" Russia requested about Eisenhower's proposal.

ACT ON PROPOSAL

"The United States will, through the new channels which the Soviet Union now accepts, explore every possibility of reaching agreement and bringing President Eisenhower's historic proposal into the realm of creative action," Dulles said.

At the same time, he emphasized Russia "seems not to have caught the spirit of the president's proposal," as shown by outspoken criticism in the Soviet note of some of Eisenhower's speech.

The critical comments, actually some 80 per cent of Russia's 3,000-word reply, were the factor cautioning the state department to move slowly in deciding on the next step.

After careful study of Russia's response, some ranking diplomats noted the Russians admit "that at times vigorously restated their long-standing demand for the prohibition of an outright ban of atomic and hydrogen weapons as part of Eisenhower's plan.

The U.S. and Russia have been at loggerheads for years on the mechanics of banning atomic weapons.

The U.S. position has been that any ban must be preceded by creation of an international inspection system to enforce the agreement. Russia has said that only outright prohibition of atomic weapons at the outset would do, but has resisted the inspection proposal.

President Eisenhower, in his UN speech, proposed Russia start a new approach to the problem.

NEW APPROACH

"It is necessary that not some part but the whole mass of atomic material be finally consumed in a peaceful aims," the Soviet note said, at one point.

And also it said:

"As for the Soviet Union, its position is clear. It is directed only in turning the great discovery of man's reason, science and production, but for civilization's all-sided progress, not for mass destruction of peoples. It is ready peacefully for the unbounded rise in the welfare of the peoples."
